Farm Tips

from your

Extension Director

By Henderson

Scrapie is one of the infectious sheep diseases which are not yet a serious threat in Iowa but which could become so if they are not promptly reported and placed under official regulatory control when they occur, says Extension Veterinarian John B. Herrick of Iowa State College. Scrapie can be indicated by restlessness, grinding of the teeth and rubbing against fixed objects. Weakness, staggering and death of the sheep follow. There is no effective treatment. Slaughter of all animals and disinfection of the lots is the most effective way to eradicate it. Indemnities are available for partial payment for slaughtered flocks.

An annual problem - what farm account book should I use. Farm Economist Howell answers: The tests of a good farm account book are: "Does it give me all the information I need for tax purposes?" and "Does it tell me what I need to know about my farm business in order to increase my net income?" You can buy farm account books that will help you develop this information. Your county extension director can probably name one or more that will meet your requirements.

The following are lactation rations for sows, suggested by Animal Husbandman E L Quaife of Iowa State College: 1. Corn and balanced supplement self-fed free choice. 2. Complete ration for self-feeding: 1,200 pounds ground shelled corn, 300 pounds ground oats or middlings, 200 pounds alfalfa, 300 pounds balanced supplement. The same supplement fed during gestation may be used. Two gallons of skim milk daily per sow may replace other protein supplements.

Soil sampling when the ground is frozen - Extension Agronomist Joe Stritzel, Iowa State College, reports, is possible, but very difficult. You would have to use a brace and bit instead of a soil auger to bore 6 inches into the frozen ground. You would pick up the shavings from these borings to make your sample. As in any soil sampling, you would need to take 15 to 20 random borings in each 10-acre area of one soil type and mix them thoroughly. Ordinarily it would be better to take soil samples when the soil is in condition to work.

Animal Husbandman Tom Wickersham, Iowa State College, informs 4-H members they can probably afford to pay a cent or two per pound above the market price for a choice to fancy feeder calf. That means 28 cents is about your limit. If baby beeves are too high, any project, in livestock or other fields, that adds to your experience is always a good substitute. In livestock, a band of 20 to 30 ewes, bred to lamb early, should have a good prospect. The junior feeder cattle project should be considered by a boy who wants to stay in a cattle program. It gives different experience from that in baby beef, and these cattle can be bought cheaper. And the market litter project is an old standby that still looks good.

Mr Wilson said that forms with which to make the report will be available at all Post Offices and offices of the Immigration and Naturalization Service during the month of January.

Mr Wilson urges all aliens to comply with the reporting requirements, as willful failure to do so may lead to serious consequences.

THE HIGHWAY STORY

By Bob Hullihan

Little Louie is four years old. He is the son of Mr and Mrs Louis Van Drie of Ocheyedan. The youngster has a viivd interest in traffic safety - and considerable imagination. We learned about him because his parents sent in a drawing of the boy's called: "The Man Who Fell Asleep at the Wheel of His Car."

His parents say that little Louie is fascinated by safety programs on television. They report that the child cannot understand why people have traffic accidents.

It's this question that made us think you might do well to consider this problem for Little Louie. Here, at the beginning of a new year that may hold death for another 700 Iowans on the highways, how would you explan the problem to a four year old boy?

The safety department could answer, of course, with stacks of statistics, charts and research. But I doubt if Little Louie would be convinced or much impressed.

Perhaps you could fashion an answer by beginning: "Once upon a time there was a good driver and a bad driver..." But that would be a fairy tale and I doubt if Little Lohie would take you seriously.

Perhaps, after you consider the problem for a while, you might come to the same conclusion we have - that Little Louie is too innocently young to be told the truth. He's too young to believe that many of us adults, have little respect for traffic laws; that many of us do not really care about the death and accident toll, as long as we ourselves are not involved.

New Pamphlet on Pork Producing Available

A new Iowa State College pamphlet applying the findings of recent research and on-the-farm experience to pork production is available at the county extension office in Garner, County Extension Director Paul Henderson says.

This publication — listed as pamphlet 243 of the Cooperatvie Extension Service — is titled "Management and Feeding of the Brood Sow and Litter." Extension Director Henderson says it will be of special interest to anyone who wants to make practical use of the most modern techniques to improve income from his present swine program. It was prepared by Animal Husbandman E L Quaife with the help of veterinary and animal husbandry staff.

The pamphlet tells how to select gilts that will prodcue meaty, fast-growing pigs, advises cross-breeding for larger litters and greater livability, discusses time for breeding, use of pen breeding, early weaning, feeding and sheltering the sow throughout the production cycle, and feeds for the pigs from pre-starter through the growing ration.

Henderson says this pamphlet also advises on farrowing equipment, farrowing house temperature and sanitation. This 8-page pamphlet, he adds, is simply and briefly written, contains complete formulas for four pig starter rations and three pig growing rations, and includes 12 photographs illustrating important elements of hog production.

Enrollment in the 12 largest districts was reported as 34,368 or about one-fourth of all high school students in the state.

The 484 smallest school districts have a reported enrollment of 33,496 students, the state department of public instruction reports.

Farmers who plan to market hogs during 1958 might do well to consider selling their animals at lighter weights, what with consumers demanding meatier hogs, says Tom Rackham, Iowa State College farm economist Rackham notes that top-grade Canadian pork is coming from hogs marketed at 190 to 230 lbs. About half a million pounds of these products are entering this country every week.

But Rackham warns farmers that final decisions about marketing weights shouldn't be made until marketing time nears.

The price gap between hogs in the 160 to 200 pound weight class and those in the 240 to 300 pound class has narrowed, Rackham says. He believes this is a significant trend, since such a narrowing occurred in 1955, when light hogs sold well above heavy weights during the fall price sag.

Rackham expects hog raisers will be encouraged to step up production if favorable prices continue. The 1957 price trend has run a lot higher than last year. The fall low came early in November this year, with $15.93 per hundredweight the average weekly price for 200 to 240 lb. barrows and gilts at the Des Moines market. This was $2 more than the fall low of 1956.

The smallest difference between this year's 200-240 pound hog prices and the 1956 price for the same weight range at the Des Moines market was 38 cents per cwt., with the 1957 market running higher. This came near the end of October. Since then the 1957 price has run as much as $2.31 higher than a year before.

Rackham notes that 1957 hogs have outweighed those of a year ago, and he observes that recently sold hogs have had three advantages over last year: They've brought better prices, they've weighed heavier, and they've been fed on corn of less potential value than last year.

Eye

Leo Heckroth, Dysart mechanic, recently received a severe injury to his eye while repairing a car in his shop. The brearing race broke as he was attempting to get a steel bearing off the axle and a piece of steel about half an inch wide and one and one-half inches long struck him in the left eye.

Gun

Twelve-year old Tommy Trenary of Armstrong recently suffered a minor bullet wound in his right thigh. Tommy was using his gun to club a mink caught in a trap when the gun went off.

Tree

Anna Garwood of Norway displayed a 46-year old artificial German Christmas tree this year. The tree stands on a revolving musical base and some of the original ornaments are still being used to decorate the tree. Every Christmas the tree is brought out of storage and erected in the Garwood living room. Mrs Garwood acquired the tree in 1925 after the death of her mother.

If you are one who has a pet theory about the cause of most traffic deaths, take a minute to consider the results of a safety department study completed recently.

The study found that there was a traffic violation at fault in 86 percent of the accidents that took 28 lives in Iowa in a two-week period.

In 86 percent of the accidents one or both drivers were in the act of breaking a traffic law when the fatal crash happened.

The worth of these statistics is that they leave one sad question to consider: How many lives would have been saved if we had reached the stage where committing a traffic violation was an unthinkable, immoral thing?

And another question: How many of these lives were lost, not because the driver was committing a deliberate violation, but because he was breaking the law without knowing it?

Recent experimental tests by the safety department showed that 75 percent of new drivers didn't know enough about basic safety laws to pass a drivers license test.

An educated guess by the department is that perhaps 50 percent of present drivers could not pass that test today. These uneasy findings take on a grim outline against the fact that 86 percent of fatal accidents were caused by a law violation in that two-week period.

It's one of the reasons the safety department is thinking in terms of a written test on renewal of licenses.

Cattle

Forty-three feeder cattle averaging about 1,000 pounds in weight, belonging to Gerhardt Kramer, of Steamboat Rock, were killed or injured recently when they were struck by an M & St L freight train. The engineer said he saw the cattle on the tracks and applied the brakes, but he was unable to stop.

Check Permit Laws Before Selling Seed

Farmers around the Hancock County area who are planning to sell seed for 1958 should be sure they have purchased a permit, County Extension Director Paul Henderson says.

There are exceptions to this rule, however, that apply directly to Hancock County farmers. Henderson has word from LeRoy Everson, head of the Iowa State College Seed Testing Lab, that some farmers in this locality will not need a permit.

Henderson says that farmers who actually grow seed and are selling it on or from their farms are exempt from the requriement. This also applies to the situation where someone buys and hauls the seed from the seller's farm. People who sell seed acting as an agent for a company that has a permit are also not required to have one.

All other farmers and townspeople who desire to sell seed in the state, Henderson adds, must obtain a permit. This permit number must be attached to every bag of seed they sell.

Many farmers in Hancock County have heard about the permits, but many do not realize that a permit is required to sell at an auction barn, a downtown central distribution point or any place other than their own farm.

The primary reason for this state law is to protect farmers all over the state from a "hit and run" seed dealer. Through the law, the Department of Agriculture is able to curb "shady" seed deals and also have a list of all of the state's seedsmen.

Permits may be obtained by writing to the Iowa Department of Agriculture, Des Moines, Iowa. The charge for a permit is $5.

A permit expires on July 1 following the date of issue.

Farmers who neglect to get a permit risk embarrassment, loss of future sales or legal penalties.

Henderson advises all farmers who have questions to contact him or write either to the Iowa Department of Agriculture or the Iowa State College Seed Laboratory in Ames.

CAPITOL LETTER

(Weekly news release of the Iowa Press Association. The material contained herein does not necessarily conform to the editorial policy of this newspaper.)

Part Payment

Recently it was discovered that an Iowa state purchasing agent had purchased $9,233 worth of supplies without approval of the state executive council.

Reports of irregularities prompted a state audit which revealed the unauthorized action by the agent who has severed his relations as a state employee.

In action the other day, and upon recommendation of auditors, the executive council decided against payment of $2,809 worth of supplies. Of the total, $2,356 was represented in bills more than 90 days old and could not be paid by state warrants, and about $452 covered goods that there is no indication the state ever received.

May Shakeup Unit

The state car dispatcher's office is being investigated at the recommendation of Governor Loveless. A personnel shakeup in the office may result.

State Comptroller Glenn Sarsfield said the probe involves handling of inventory records at the state garage when inventories have not been kept since 1954.

Under the law the car dispatcher is named by the governor. The state garage is under the jurisdiction of the dispatcher. It processes new cars purchased for delivery to state departments, prepares old cars for resale, and distributes thousands of dollars worth of auto supplies annually.

Even Politicos Happy

Now that Forest Evashevski has formally announced he'll remain as head football coach at the University of Iowa for another year, and perhaps longer, not only football fans in Hawkeye State are happy but so are some of the politicians.

There had been reports popping up here and there, and not without reason apparently, that Evashevski might be considering a political race. One rumor had it that the head coach was thinking about running for Congress in the first Iowa district.

Evy who has Democratic leanings, has been reported as a contributor to Demo campaigners in past elections.

Action Unlikely

Terrace Hill, an ancient mansion in Des Moines owned by the Hubbell family, is not likely to be taken over by the state of of Iowa. Historians have suggested this possibility for either using the picturesque old home (built in 1868) as a governor's home, or for some sort of a historical museum.

A legislative committee, after a tour of the home recently, said it wouldn't be ecohomically feasible to convert the structure into a governor's mansion, nor is the state planning to go into a program of preserving local historical structures.

No one is living in Terrace Hill now except a caretaker.

Asks County Tests

Fayette has become the first Iowa county to request a county-wide testing program to help eradicate brucellosis or Bang's disease.

Under the plan dairy and beef cattle would be tested. Some 1,845 farmers in the county signed petitions requesting the testing. Petitions are being circulated for similar tests in 11 other northeast Iowa counties.

The Fayette county action caused this comment by Dr John B Herrick, extension veterinarian of Iowa State College: "We are making history in brucellosis eradication today in Iowa."

Safety Check Cities

Award certificates have been made to 15 Iowa cities for motor vehicle safety check projects held last May. The awards were made by the state department of public safety.

Not A Rose Bed

Being governor of Iowa is not a bed of roses. That's what Gov Herschel Loveless is finding out these days, as others before him discovered in previous terms.

His biggest disappointments in his first year is "the lack of administrative savings from the standpoint of eliminating overlapping governmental functions."

Loveless often has pleaded for departmental consolidation not only for increased efficiency but economy. The so-called Little Hoover report of 1950 got quite a kicking around in the last legislative session but drew little action. That report suggested savings up to $5 million if its recommendations were carried out.

The governor says his big objective in 1958 will be to bring about "more coordination between state departments so all can have a better working knowledge of other departments."

Honor Hoegh

A former Iowa governor, Leo A Hoegh, now U S civil defense administrator, was honored at a reception in Des Moines during the holidays. The Hoegh family had come to Iowa for Christmas.

Quite a turnout of friends and political followers of Hoegh came for the reception at the Kirkwood hotel. One of the sponsors was Russell Lundy, a member of the Iowa highway commission, and a former campaign manager for Hoegh.

Obituary of Mrs. Mary Waterman

MRS. MARY WATERMAN, was born on a farm near Elkport, Clayton County, Iowa, on August 16th, 1875. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Boehm, were natives of Germany, and were the parents of four children. Mary was the youngest of this group.

MARY BOEHM, attended the rural schools, and grew to womanhood in the Elkport community. After her confirmation, she became a member of the German Lutheran Church at Elkport. Later when they moved to Klemme, they became members of the Reformed church.

On May 27th, 1896, Mary Boehm, 21, and John W. Waterman, 27, were married at the parental Boehm farm home. They commenced housekeeping on a farm near Elkport, Iowa. Here their daughter, Mabel, was born, they then moved to a farm in Benton County, Iowa, where their son, Clarence, was born (1897).

In 1902, the Waterman family moved to Klemme, Iowa and shortly thereafter, bought a General Store and the building from Chris Lau, which they operated for 11 years. Mrs. Mary Waterman often helped in the store during rush hours. The public liked the Waterman Store and they enjoyed a brisk trade.

The Watermans sold out to John N. Day, and in 1914 built the double brick store now occupied by the Kluckhohn Brothers. They also built the brick store now occupied by Josten Hardware and Appliance.

The Waterman family continued to live in Klemme for another nine years, while John W. Waterman was our Postmaster.

In April, 1924, the Watermans moved to Clarion, Iowa, and operated a 'Cash Store.' After a few months, Mr. Waterman's health failed, they sold out and moved to Belmond, Iowa, where John Waterman died in October of that same year.

Mrs. Mary Waterman then moved to Klemme, and after several years, discontinued housekeeping, and has since made her home with her daughter, Mabel.

She had lived in Klemme for a total of nearly 30 years, was a kind mother and homemaker, and had many friends in this community.

Mrs. Mary Waterman died in Evanston, Illinois, December 26, 1957, the cause of her passing was a stroke. Her age, 82 years, 4 months and 10 days.

She leaves to mourn her passing: a daughter, Mabel, Mrs. Alex Hoffgren, Evanston, Illinois; a son, Clarence Waterman, Klemme, Iowa; A grand daughter, Marian, Mrs. Lyle Wilcox, Council Bluffs, Iowa; a sister, Mrs Fred Musfeld, Clarion, Iowa; a brother, Fred Boehm, Elkport, Iowa. Basic Wardrobe Selection Selecting clothes that give that smart appearance for a limited budget seems to be one of the problems of homemakers in Hancock County, according to Elsie Mae Van Wert, County Extension Home Economist.

The January extension training schools for the homemakers of the county will be on "Selecting a Basic Wardrobe." All clubs already taking the extension lessons will be notified of the training school in their area. Any club groups or organizations who are not already in the extension program may contact the agent at the Extension Office in Garner for an assignment to a training school.

Selection of clothes for various types of figures, selection of fabrics and colors for most versatile use are to be a part of the lesson. Illustrative material will be used to point up good buys for limited budgets. This should be information that all homemakers can use to good advantage.

Consider All Factors Before Buying Land

Iowa land prices pushed up an average of $6 an acre during the past year. County Extension Director Paul Henderson says that in the North Central Grain Area, which includes Hancock County the change was estimated at a decrease of $1 per acre.

Henderson suggests that it will pay farmers to calculate carefully before buying land to add to their operations. Established farmers and those interested in investment are competing for a small supply of land.

He says Economist John F Timmons of Iowa State College advises farmers to consider possible future yields, prices and added costs on land they would like to buy.

As an illustration, Timmons says, suppose a farmer is trying to decide whether or not to buy an exrta 40 acres adjoining his farm. He might use a rotation of corn, corn, oats and meadow, spread $9 worth of fertilizer per acre each year, and count on yields of 75 bushels of corn, 50 bushels of oats and 3 tons of hay per acre.

He might figure his corn worth $1.20 per bushel average in coming years, his oats at 55c per bushel and his hay at $6 a ton. Thus, harvesting 1,500 bushels of corn, 500 bushels of oats and 30 tons of hay, he would gross about $2,255 from the extra acreage. To estimate his added expenses, our Iowa farmer might figure his feed, seed, fertilizer and interest to total around $860.

Subtracting costs from gross income, the return above cash costs looks good - $1,395. But here the farmer must decide how much his extra work would be worth, Timmons pointed out. Suppose he called $500 as the return for his added labor. Subtracting the $500 from $1,395, he has $895 remaining, the approximate amount he might expect the added land and other input to bring him.

Now, how about paying for the land - and other costs - out of this $895 per year from the added 40 acres? To find how much he can afford to pay for the land, figuring a 5 percent capitalization rate, he could divide 5 percent into $895, giving $17,900. This is the most he could pay and come out even - $448 per acre. If he paid more, he'd have to expect less on his labor and other inputs, Timmons pointed out.

He said this method allows no profit on the $860 for seed, fertilizer and other costs. Since they help earn the gross income, the farmer may want to figure that some of the additional income should be rewarded to this $860 for doing part of the job. If he thought 10 percent was a fair reward. he would subtract another $86 from the $860, leaving $805. Now, he could pay only $1,618 for the added acres-or $404 per acre and still come out even with the board.

Timmons said the established farmer has an advantage over a beginning farmer in buying land. The established farmer can spread his fixed costs over more acres ,and he also has more credit backing when he buys the added acres.

He concluded by pointing out that farmers can look over their particular situation and decide whether expected returns are great enough to justify extra land.

OFFICIAL COUNTY PAPER | KLEMME, IOWA, JANUARY 8, 1958 | VOLUME 63 | NUMBER 8

Variety Trial Reports can Help You Choose Crop Seed, Says Henderson

Hancock County farm operators often improve their grain crop returns by choosing crop varieties that are best adapted to their needs, County Exetnsion Director Paul Henderson of Garner says.

Many new grain crop varieties are produced each year as the result of active crop-improvement programs in Iowa and other states. Henderson says that Dr Iver J Johnson, in charge of farm crops at Iowa State College, points out that the true merit of crop varieties can be determined only by years of careful testing in different areas.

Each year Iowa State College makes complete up to date reports of variety trails for different crops. These reports can be obtained each year at the county extension office in Garner or by writing to the Publications Distribution Room, Iowa State College, Ames.

Remember, Johnson warns, that in addition to selecting the correct varieties for your farming situation, it's important to use good certified seed of that variety. Follow the best crop and soil management practices to get the best results, he adds.

Highlights of the 1957 crop trials reached the local extension office this week in the January issue of the Iowa State College publication, "Iowa Farm Science."

This report lists the hybrid corn varieties which have developed at the Iowa Agricultural Experiment Station and which have proved desirable for the Hancock County area. They are Iowa 4417. 4483, 4558 and 4630.

The popcorn varieties recommended for the Hancock County area on the basis of these tests are Iopop5 and Iopop 7.

Rull reports on the performance of all corn varieties submitted for trials in 1957, both college developed and commercially developed varieties, will be available about February 13 in the 1957 Iowa Corn Yield Test Bulletin. You will be able to get this bulletin at the County Extension Office.

Johnson says it's important to choose a soybean variety that uses the full growing season but matures before killing frost. Here are the varieties he says fit best in the Hancock County area: Chippewa, Blackhawk and Hawkeye. Chippewa is a high yielder that matures about a week earlier than Blackhawk. Hawkeye is recommended most for the western and southernmost counties in northern Iowa.

When you need to plant beans late to replace a lost crop, Johnson suggests you ask for special recommendations from the agronomy department at Iowa State College.

The recommended early maturing oats are Bonham, Cherokee and Nemaha. Midseason recommendations are Burnett, Clarion, Clintland and Newton. Sauk is the recommneded late maturing oats.

The Board designated the Britt News Tribune, the Garner Leader and Signal, the Klemme Times, and Kanawha Reporter as official county papers. The latter two to serve jointly as the third official paper.

The Board also approved the quarterly report of W F Pavey, Ell Twp Justice of the Peace for the final quarter of 1957.

The Board will meet on January 9 to review and allow claims.

Label Your Seed Right, Henderson Cautions

Hancock County farmers who are planning to sell seed for 1958 should be familiar with the state seed labeling requirements to comply with state law, County Extension Director Henderson says.

After you have determined whether or not you need a permit, be sure all your seed is labeled. If you are planning to sell seed on your farr, the law requires you to give the buyer the following information on a written statement:

The name of each kind of secondary noxious weed seed present and how many of each are in your seed. The percentage germination and the calendar month and year the seed was tested. A guarantee that NO primary noxious weed seeds are present in the seed lot and that it does not contain over 1½ percent total weed seed.

A grower can obtain this information only by having a reputable seed laboratory make a purity analysis and noxious weed check on his seed. There is a complete list of these laboratories at the county extension office in Garner, says Henderson.

For seed that is to be sold off the farm (at the auction barn or downtown, for example) the law requires more detailed labeling.

Each individual container must have a label attached which indicates the kind and variety of seed, the percentage of weed and other crop seeds, the names of secondary noxious weed seeds, germination, origin (if alfalfa or clover) and the name and address of the person selling the seed.

Seed is exempt from the label requirement if it is sold or delivered to a seed cleaning plant, processing plant or dealer or if the seed is not intended for sowing purposes. Henderson says seed cannot legally be sold if it contains primary noxious weed seeds, over 1½ percent total weed seed or has not been tested for germination during the last nine months, or if it lacks a label required by law.

If you have seed that contains primary noxious weed seeds or more than 1½ percent total weed seeds, you have three choices: You might have the seed recleaned to reduce the percentage of weed seeds below 1½ percent and remove the primary noxious weed seeds.

You might sell the seed to a seedsman or seed processing firm. In this case you don't have to label it. You may sell or use the seed for feeding purposes. Of course you don't have to label grain sold for feeding purposes.

Henderson says you can bring your questions about seed labeling to him at the county extension office or write to the Iowa Department of Agriculture, Des Moines, Iowa for a copy of the "Seed Law," and other information concerning seed permit numbers.

They will be at the following locations during January: January 10 and 11 - Fire Station, Woden; January 13 and 14 - Township Hall, Orthel; January 15 - Stilson Store, Stilson; January 16 - Township Hall, Erin; January 17 and 18 - Legion Hall, Britt; January 20 and 21 - City Hall, Corwith; January 22 and 23 - I O O F Hall, Kanawha; January 24 and 25 - Town Hall, Goodell; January 27 and 28 - town Hall, Klemme; and January 29 to February 6 - Courthouse in Garner. In addition to listing property, applications will be accepted for Homestead Tax Credit, Military Service Exemption and dog licenses. Fees on dogs as fixed by the Board of Supervisors for 1958 are townships and towns having no license - male dogs, $1.50; females $4.00. A penalty of $1.00 will apply on May 1st.

Blanks are being mailed from the office of the County Assessor and it will aid Field Assessors considerably if these are completed ahead of assessment dates.

Under a new moneys and credits law, taxpayers are requested to list all non-interest bearing credits separately and itemize other moneys and credits and indebtedness for allowable deductions.

Merchants are requested by the State Tax Commission to separate inventories from furniture and fixtures and equipment.

The rural areas will be listed first and when completed the listing will be made in urban areas.

Fieldmen assisting with assesment duties this year are J B Haan, E H Ilsen, Lyle Myers and D J LaBounty.

Shamrocks Lose To Sheffield; Little Shamrocks Win

The Klemme Shamrocks were host to the Sheffield Claydiggers on the local floor Tuesday evening and came out second best by a score of 68-46. Sheffield jumped into a commanding lead early in the game and was out in front 33-20 at the half.

Bacon led the scoring for Klemme with 10 points, while Johnson and Anderson each had 8. Meints and Greimann each contributed 7 to the Shamrock total.

Rawson led the scoring for Sheffield with 26 points.

The Little Shamrocks fared better for the evening, though, and came through a slam-bang battle to win by a score of 46-44. Brager led the attack for the local reserves, pouring 25 points.

Friday night Rockwell will be here for a doubleheader and Monday night at 6 o'clock the Shamrocks take on Kanawha in the first round of the North Star Conference tournament at Kanawha.

GI Dividends

Iowa veterans of World Wars I and II will receive GI insurance dividends of about $53 per vet this year providing, of course, their insurance is still in force.

W B Nugent, Iowa Veterans Administration manager, said a total of $3,303,000 will be paid to 68,000 Iowans holding insurance from the two wars.

The money will be paid on the anniversary date the policy was issued.

Take Care Here

Patients from Iowa institutions may not be sent out of state for medical or surgical treatment the state attorney general has ruled.

Officials of the Glenwood state school had requested permission to obtain medical care at nearby Omaha rather than transport patients from the school to the University Hospitals in Iowa City some 250 miles away.

The Attorney General said Iowa law does not permit taking such patients out of state for medical treatment or hospitalization.

Hoegh Has Sandbags

Leo A Hoegh, former Iowa governor, came back to Iowa to report he has a supply of sandbags in his basement. Hoegh, now U S Civil defense administrator, said the sand bags are a precaution in the event of an atomic attack and a resultant "fall out." He urged all citizens to take the same precautions.

Hoegh and his family were in Iowa during the holidays. They were guests of honor at an open house in Des Moines where quite a turnout of old friends from around the state greeted the former Iowans.

Crackdown on Drivers

Incensed over the state's rising highway death toll, the governor and safety officials have launched a crackdown on motorists called the "toughest in Iowa hsitory." Highway partolmen are under orders to concentrate on and get tough on moving traffic violations.

Fluoridation

Renewed interest in water fluoridation in many Iowa communities has resulted from successful programs in 17 Iowa cities and another endorsement of the plan from the American Medical Association.

A L Bennett, chief of state health department's water supply section, said there is less opposition to fluoridation now than in the past.

Studies show a 60 percent reduction in tooth decay in children 7 years old and younger in four of the first Iowa communities to put fluorides in the water. This month the AMA reaffirmed earlier findings that fluoridation is a valuable and safe method to prevent tooth decay.

Tax Forms Out

Iowans are receiving their state income tax return forms this month. Some 800,000 have been mailed out. Tax commission officials estimate about $25-million will be collected this year on Iowans' 1957 earnings.

Deadine for payment of the state tax will be April 30th. However, persons owing more than $10 may pay in two equal installments with the second half payment due on or before October 31. In 1957 the Iowans had to pay $50 or more before splitting their payments.

A new law requires that payment must be made when returns are filed. In the past thousands of Iowans filed returns without sending any money with them even when it was due.

For Congress

Two Democrats have asked for nomniation papers to qualify as candidates for congress from their respective districts.

Dale Kramer, Sigourney, plans to seek the nomination in the fourth congressional district. Present congressman there is Karl LeCompte, Corydon, Republican.

The Rev Robert Yoak, 42, Anita Congregational church pastor, has asked for papers as a Democratic candidate for congress in the seventh district. Ben F Jensen, Exira, Republican, is the incumbent in that district.

Family Rate

Iowa Democrats are instituting a "family rate" for their annual $25-a-plate fund-raising dinner. The Jackson Day dinner will be in Des Moines March 22. Tickets will be $25 each but if the wife or husband buys one, a second may be purchased for $10. Thus a couple this year can eat for $35 instead of $50.

Gov George M Leader of Pennsylvania and Gov Herschel Loveless of Iowa will headline the speaking program.

Needs Auditors

The Iowa tax commission needs more auditors to work in southwest Iowa. The commission could use three more men in that part of the state, Don Cunningham, director of sales tax, reports.

GOP Claims

Iowa GOP Chairman L L Jurgemeyer has charged that Governor Loveless's crusade for reapportionment of the legislature has hurt the chances of achieving it. He criticized what he referred to as "name-calling and insulting references" and called for "understanding" on reapportionment.

Jurgemeyer asked local Republicans to "try to build good will" toward fairer representation for the cities.

Utility Unit Quits

The Iowa Utility Association, active in the state and particularly as a lobbying group during the legislative sessions, has been dissolved. Formed in 1942, it was composed of seven Iowa utility companies.

Ben Webster, for years executive secretary of the association, has retired. He is from Des Moines.

State's Output

For the second straight year, the value of manufactured products was double that of agricultural products produced in this state. That is the report for 1957 by Ed Storey, director of the Iowa Development Commission.

Value of Iowa agriculture products last year approximate $2,100,000,000 as compared with the value of manufactured products of $4,100,000,000.

Highway Story

By Bob Hullihan

The big laugh, the big slap on the back, the bone-crushing handshake, that was Jay. Big, everything about him, big, bluff and, sometimes, a little brutal when he was carried away with his own strength.

But Jay was liked, for the most part. People know there was a wild sort of kindness in that giant frame, an intense desire to be a well-loved man, and they responded to it.

Jay was a traveling salesman. The sight of him shoving through a door with his sample cases, the sound of his booming voice in the lobby, were familiar to a dozen clerks in small hotels in small Iowa towns.

The clerk in a northeast Iowa hotel was the last to talk to Jay. "That night was the first time I ever saw him look tired," the clerk remembers. "He was even a little nervous and Jay was never a jumpy sort. Told me he'd had a hard day and still had 200 miles to drive.

"I tried to get him to stay over. Not just for business. He needed rest."

A motorist saw another part of the story. "I followed his business coupe for about 10 miles. Twice it went off the road and a couple times clear to the wrong side. I was afraid to pass because I though he was drunk. I saw his head keep falling forward."

Twenty minutes later a highway patrolman looked at Jay and said: "A big man like that's hard to get out of a wreck. But I guess there's no hurry now," Fatigue is a quiet killer.

Never over estimate your ability to drive when you are tired, when you need sleep or when you've been through a nervous strain.

Con't Afford to Over Produce Hogs in 1958

Farm income in Iowa for 1958 hinges on hog numbers and hog prices, according to Iowa Farm Bureau President Howard Hill of Minburn. Hill says that a 10 percent increase in hog numbers could bring a drop of 25 to 30 percent in hog prices. He issued a serious warning to farmers to "hold the line" on hog output to "protect our currently good hog prices."

"In 1955, we increased hog slaughter numbers by 13 percent and took a 30 percent drop in prices. In 1957, we reduced hog numbers 5.6 percent, and received an increase of 16 percent in price," Hill noted.

"The late December pig crop crop survey estimated increases of 6 percent in U S spring pigs, with Iowa expected to be up 7 percent. My observations from talking with hog producers over the state would indicate this estimated increase is a little low. People who have boars for sale report a terrific demand.

"If these reports on the sale of bred sows and the demand for boars are true, I know we are headed for trouble - - - we just can't afford to ruin our hog business by increasing too much," Hill concluded.

Hi Lann Outlook

By Paul Henderson
County Extension Director

Hogs

First reports of farmers' intentions for winter and spring pigs point to a 7 percent boost in hog production for the 1958 spring crop and a 10 percent overall boost for the year.

Extension Economist Francis Kutish of Iowa State College reports that hog slaughter during the first 4 or 5 months of 1958 will be only slightly larger than a year ago. This means that hog prices should be nearly as high as last year at that time.

But with the expected large spring pig crop, hog slaughter during the summer and fall will increase. The changes then are for an earlier price peak than the August top of 1957.

Kutish warned that late summer and early fall will see the start of the fall price down-turn. This down-turn will probably be sharper than a year ago. It will pull hog prices down to the 12 to 14 cent arear IF the expected 10 percent or more boost in the 1958 spring pig crop is realized.

A large corn crop again in 1958 would lay the groundwork for another boost in hog production, Kutish says. It would give an average hog-corn feeding ration next fall, even with cheaper hogs. In this case, Kutish cautioned, there could be some really low hog prices by December, 1959.

Poultry

Kutish predicts that there should be better egg profits for 1958. This can be linked with a decrease of 5 percent from 1967 in the total number of layers and the availability of cheaper feed. This situation should encourage an increase in the number of chicks bought in the spring of 1958. But an increase is needed just to offset the larger number of old hens.

Fewer turkeys are likely to be raised this year, but a large storage stock of turkey will influence early 1958 prices, Kutish notes.

Sheep

The sheep outlook is for relatively good profits from a well-managed native ewe flock. The wool incentive payment program will support the returns from wool in 1958.

Cost is the only thing wrong with buying low-protein mash for your laying flock, says W R Whitfield, extension poultryman at Iowa State College. Iowa Demonstration Flock reports show low-protein mash increased average feed cost per hen about 50 cents last year. Where poultrymen bought a complete all-mash ration, the feed cost averaged $3.50 per hen. Where a 34 percent concentrate was bought and fed with home grown grains, the average was $3 per hen. There's no conclusive evidence that an all-mash ration will produce more eggs per hen.

It's possible to adapt an old farrowing house or barn for farrowing and nursery swine production systems without completely renovating the building, says Dale O Hull and John H Pederson, agricultural engineers at Iowa State College. The walls, doors, windows, etc, should be sealed to prevent drafts and heat losses beyond the capacity of the heating unit. It's desirable to provide foundation and floor insulation.

Over the past 4 years, drouth conditions in Iowa have caused heavy damage to conifer trees, reports Forester A L McComb, Iowa State College. In a survey of drouth damage to conifers planted in Monona County, Iowa Agricultural Experiment Station researchers found that damage was particularly heavy with red and white pine and Japanese larch. Several other species were affected to a lesser degree. Much of the damage in red pine has apparently occurred during winter months.

The age old questions should a young farmer buy a farm now when his down payment will be small and he will shouder a heavy debt? Extension Economist Carl Malone, Iowa State College, answers: To do this successfully, he would have to have either a large enough farm unit to make his work fully productive, or access to an off-farm job to supplement his farm income. He should be a fellow who "Knows how" to make a farm pay. He will have to be willing to limit his family living costs for quite a while in order to carry the debt. And he has to want quite badly to own a farm. This goal of farm ownership must be high among his family goals to induce him and his family to make the necessary sacrifices.

Minhafer oats are O K according to Agronomists Thompson and J L Robinson, Iowa State College if you can get the seed at reasonable price. This variety is not not listed for certification in Iowa in 1957. It has been officially approved for certification in 1958. Apparently there is a considerable amount of seed, but the price is high.

Hancock County Cooperative Oil Association

"A True Cooperative"

Owned and Controlled by the Members It Serves

Order Your 1958 Crop And Gorden Fungicides Now, Henderson Advises

Hancock County farmers and gardeners will have a better chance to get the modern fungicides they need to control plant diseases in 1958, if they order them now, says County Extension Director Paul Henderson of Garner.

In the past, many local people have waited until the last minute to order fungicides. When they do this, they usually do not give the supplier time to send away for the new products. The buyer winds up taking his "choice" among the out-dated products.

Henderson says Plant Pathologist Mal Shurtleff, Iowa State College, points out, for instance, that tremendous progress has been made in developing high quality seed protectants in recent years. A few years ago, there were six fungicides for treating small grain, for example. Now there are over 60, many of which have not been evaluated thoroughly. Seed Protectants are valuable in helping to produce better yields and stands.

Farmers, growers and gardeners in this area should order their 1958 fungicides now and avoid having to use "out-dated" models. Shurtleff says some dealers may be in the "horse and buggy" days of chemicals. They are still ordering chemicals that have been out-moded by new and better fungicides.

Some of the "old-timers" include copper-containing fungicides such as Bordeaux mixtures and sulphur materials. These fungicides have been surpassed by new chemicals like zineb and captan. To make sure you're getting the best and latest chemicals, read the labels carefully, Shurtleff advises.

Drug, hardware and garden supply stores selling fungicides, Shurtleff points out, may stock as many as 10,000 or more items, Since they have so many items to think about, owners can't learn and know about the different fungicides. Instead of ordering the new and better chemicals, they are inclined to look at last year's supply and order the same ones.

This is the main reason for thinking now about the fungicides you want for 1958. As soon as you decide, tell your supplier so he can order them for you.

Services Held for Mrs Rosendahl, 77

Services for Mrs Louise Rosendahl, 77, were held Tuesday afternoon from Immanuel Evangelical and Reformed Church with the Rev E H Lauer officiating.

Interment was in the Peace Reformed Cemetery north of Klemme, and the casket bearers were Dorance Rosendahl, Wayne Badker, Calvin Josten, John Smith, Leon Kropp and Carrol Priebe.

Comfort in music was by a quartet composed of Edwin Thiemann, Mrs A H Dulmes, Mrs Milvern Barz and Milvern Barz, accompanied at the organ by Ruth Ann Lauster.

Osman Funeral Service was in charge of the arrangements.

Mrs. Louise Rosendahl, daughter of Kenry Kropp and his wife Louise nee Hempelman, was born in Holstein, Warren County, Missouri, Feb. 10, 1879. Reared in a Christian home, she was baptized March 3, 1879, and united with the Evangelical Church as a communicant member by rite of confirmation March 26, 1893.

She was united in marriage with Frank Rosendahl in the Evangelical Church, Holstein, Missouri, February 16, 1899. They established their home on a farm about 20 miles from Holstein. By January of 1902 they had moved to the Garner community of Iowa. After a few years on rented farms they purchased their own farm home. Seven children were born to their union one of whom died as an infant and another, Franklin, at the age of 12.

Following the death of her husband, November 5, 1927, Mrs Rosendahl purchased a home in Klemme and resided there until her death January 11, 1958. She loved her family and her church and will also be missed by her many friends and neighbors.

Surviving are her children: Ervin, Ventura; Walter, Mabel (Mrs. Werner Schlawin); Della (Mrs. Ewald Josten) all of Klemme, Louise (Mrs. Verner Priebe) Garner; 15 grandchildren, 15 great-grandchildren; 2 brothers, Paul, Leonard, Minn., and Carl, Clintonville, Wisconsin; one sister, Mrs. Anna Kuck, St. Mary's, Ohio; one half-brother, Herman Hensken; and a great many other relatives and friends.

In the quietness of deep and abiding faith she lived confident in the word of her Lord - "Yet I will remember my covenant with you in the days of your youth, and I will establish with you an everlasting covenant." Ezekiel 16:60.

Shamrocks Lose Overtime Game to Rockwell; Lose in Tourney

The Klemme Shamrocks saw a 33-18 half-time lead dwindle away Friday night as the Rockwell quintet came from behind to tie things up at 57 all in a basketball game on the local court - and then go ahead to win in the overtime by one point 61-60.

The game was ragged and saw 29 fouls called on the visitors and 22 on the local team. Roger Meints contributed 17 points to the Shamrock's losing cause, while Gordie Johnson tossed in 16.

The Little Shamrocks also came out on the short end after a rugged battle. Final score was Rockwell 34, Klemme 32. Lowell Greimann dumped in 14 points to lead the offense for the local reserves.

Monday night the Shamrocks tangled with Kanawha in the first round of the North Star Conference Tourney and found Kanawha to be too much or them by a score of 55-30. The Shamrocks trailed 26-19 at the half, but saw the margin gradually widen throughout the remainder of the game.

Brager led the scoring for the Shamrocks with 8 points, while Langlitz had 7 and Johnson 6.

Next action for the Shamrocks will be on Tuesday, January 21, when Kanawha comes here.

Other basketball action during the past week saw the local Jr High team lose a one-point decision to Ventura Tuesday afternoon. Final score was 28-27, and this leaves the local Jr High team with a 3 and 2 record for the season. Both of their losses have been by only one point.

E A Gerardi Has Two Accordion Selections Published

E A Gerardi, proprietor of the Gerardi Cafe and Gift Shop and the North Iowa Accordion School, has the honor of having two of his compositions published. The publisher of these pieces, intended for students and soloists, is the Central Publishing Company of the Bronx, New York.

The pieces are "The Little Captain," a march; and "The Happy Robin." The tunes are printed in a handsome red and white folder and are on sale in music stores.

Mr Gerardi pioneered accordion in Iowa, training students that are now in the profession as entertainers and teachers. He is a charter member of the Accordion Teachers Guild and was one of the first to be accredited as a certified teacher by the American Accordionists Association.

Our congratulations to Ernie, and we wish him much success with these and future compositions.

Soil Bank Signup Begins Jan. 20

Work is progressing on the 1958 soil bank program at the ASC office in Garner, said Alfred V Josten, office manager.

Allotment notices and payment rates were mailed to farmers January 3rd. Letters were mailed to all producers inviting them to send or bring into the office the 1956-1957 cropping history on their farms. Information needed includes the number of acres devoted to each grain crop such as corn, beans, oats, etc., also hay and pasture on cropland for each of the two years of 1956 and 1957. From this information the county office force and the county committee will establish a soil bank base for each farm.

The farmer will be notiifed of his soil bank base Then with his allotment, his payment rate per acre, and his soil bank base in hand, he is in a position to plan his cropping program for 1958. Since the farm program is a voluntary one the choice is up to each individual farmer and naturally he will choose the one that seems to offer him the greatest opportunity for net income.

Should he wish to take advantage of the benefits of the soil bank, a producer may put PART or ALL of his allotment acres in the acreage reserve and receive cash rental per acre as shown on his payment rate notice. If he had an acreage reserve contract in 1957 and elects to put the identical acres in, in 1958, the rate of pay is 110 percent of the rate set for the farm. Corn acres would be reduced by whatever amount was put in the acreage reserve up to the full allotment, providing payments do not exceed $3,000 per produced, per farm. Any acres put in the acreage reserve would be deducted from the soil bank base set for the farm, the balance of which could be put into other grain crops.

For example: If his hoil bank base were 120 acres, his allotment 40 acres, his payment rate $50 per acre, he could put all 40 acres in the acreage reserve at $50 per acre or $2,000. He could not, then grow any corn, but by subtracting the 40 acres in acreage reserve from his soil bank base of 120 acres, he would have 80 acres to put in crops of his choice such as beans, oats, grain sorghum, flax, etc.

1958 agreements will be taken on a first come first served basis. A producer may contract any or all of his allotment at one time up to payment of $3,000 per producer per farm.

Manager Josten states that there is increasing interest in the soil bank program and the local office expects a heavy participation in 1958.

With the uncertainty of weather, the hazards of insect damage, and the mounting surplusses of corn in excess of need, many farmers are considering the soil bank benefits available as they plan their 1958 crop year. The local ASC office is prepared to explain the program to producers and welcome the opportunity to assist anyone interested in preparing the necessary work sheets and agreements.

While sign up of agreements will not begin until January 20 and extend thru March 7, anyone interested is urged to get his soil bank base established as soon as possible.

CAPITOL LETTER

(Weekly news release of the Iowa Press Association. The material contained herein does not necessarily conform to the editorial policy of this newspaper.)

Big Surprise

The most surprising political announcement of many days came with the statement that State Senator Jans T Dykhouse would seek the Republican nomination for governor.

Dykhouse, 68, has been a member of the state senate since 1951. He was chairman of the senate's road committee in the last session.

A Rock Rapids real estate man, Dykhouse says he wants to see the "state's business affairs put on a sound financial basis."

Dykhouse is the third Republican to announce plans he will seek the governorship. Others include John Knudson of Albion and William G Murray, an Iowa State College professor.

Teaching Science

An Iowa State College study reveals that 15 percent of Iowa's high school physics teachers have not had even one college course in physics. That 21 percent of the physics teachers do not meet state standards for teachers of science subjects.

YR'S Fill Posts

Ed Failer, Dubuque, chairman of the Iowa Young Republican state central committee, has annonced the appointment of six persons to that unit.

Included are Larry Carstensen, Clinton, and Richard Mitchell, Mason City, district chairmen; Charles Frazier, Keokuk, campaign chairman; Robert Wallace, Williamsburg, membership chairman; John Rehmann, Jr., Des Moines, publicity; Richard Adams, Des Moines, Midwest YR administrative committee.

Income Tax Help

If you want help in completing your federal income tax forms you can get it. Federal agents will be on duty on a Monday-through-Friday basis, through April 15, in Des Moines, Council Bluff, Davenport and Sioux City.

In 11 other Iowa cities they will be present on certain scheduled days. These cities include Burlington, Cedar Rapids, Clinton, Dubuque, Fort Dodge, Iowa City, Marshalltown, Mason City, Muscatine, Ottumwa, Waterloo.

More Firms

A total of 780 firms incorporated in Iowa in 1957, somewhat more than the 766 total registered in 1956.

There were 239 permits issued to out of state corporations to do business in Iowa, compared to 290 a year earlier.

Business dissolutions decreased from 206 in 1956 to 140 last year. Cooperatives that incorporated totaled 28 last year compared to 47 in 1956.

Elthon Plans?

There continues the report that Leo Elthon, Fertile Republican, and former lieutenant governor still may be interested in a governorship contest this year. There also are countering reports that the Dykhouse entry in the gubernatorial primary is really a move by Elthon forces to throw the race into a convention. This, insiders report, is a stop-Nicholas maneuver.

Lt Gov W H Nicholas, Mason City will announce shortly his candidacy for governor on the GOP ticket.

Elthon told reporters the other day in Des Moines "I may have an announcement soon."

Gets Award

Dr Grace Sawyer, head of the Woodward state hospital, has been given the national award as "Medical Woman of the Year."

Receives Aid

One of every 28 Iowans receives some form of financial aid or care through tax supported programs.

The Iowa Taxpayers Association, in making this report, says that a recent survey showed 94,282 Iowans receiving aid from programs which cost a total of more than $60 Millions a year.

More than 70 percent of those receiving public help get it from one of these three programs: old age assistance, aid to the blind and aid to dependent children.

War Landmark Lost

A World War I landmark, the headquarters building at Camp Dodge near Des Moines, has been destroyed by fire. The 50-year old building was a one-story, 100 ft square frame building. Loss was estimated at $50,000.

Camp Dodge was a training camp during the first World War. Lately it has been used by the Iowa National Guard and the Iowa highway patrol for training programs.

Face Tax Liens

A total of 3,500 Iowans face liens for failure to pay state income taxes in 1957. The tax commission will file the liens within the next two weeks.

The tardy taxpayers, the commission reports, owe the state an average of $35 each. About 1,500 of the total had failed to pay second half installments of their income tax.

If the tax is not paid within 90 days after the lien is filed, the commission can initiate action to permit garnishment of wages and disposal of personal belongings to collect the tax.

So They Bought

A Webster City man didn't pay his taxes so federal revenue officials seized his house under tax lien procedures. The house then was offered for sale a few weeks ago but no bidders showed up. A second date for sale of the property was set. Again no bidders.

Now the government has taken title to the property at the minimum bid price, but no amount was disclosed.

Mr and Mrs Leo Johnson, from whom the house was seized, are still occupying the place.

Still Crops Up

Governor Herschel Loveless says it "would be futile" to call a special session of the state legislature to deal with reapportionment. The latest request for a special session was made by St Sen Jack Miller, Sioux City Republican.

The governor told newsmen that the 1957 legislature had every opportunity "to pass a reapportionment bill, and failed to do so.

Seeks 10th Term

Congressman Paul Cunningham (R) of Des Moines has obtained nomination papers to run for re-election to Congress from Iowa's fifth district. Cunningham is now serving his 9th term in the U S Congress.

After No. 11

State Auditor Chet B Akers (R) of Ottumwa will seek renomination and reelection as state auditor in the elections this sum- Akers is now serving his 10th term as state auditor, hopes to make it 11.

Many Type of Wiring Devices are Available To Improve Your Wiring

The "outlets" in the wiring system correspond to the faucets in the plumbing system, except that the home requires more electrical outlets that it does water faucets.

Convenience outlets are available in several forms, most common of which is the standard "duplex convenience outlet." You can also obtain "triplex or quadruplex" outlets, as well as a number of outlets assembled together on a strip or molding. Lamps and plug in appliances should be plugged in directly into the convenience outlets.

Special purpose outlets are the openings through which certain major appliances are connected to their individual branch circuits. The only major appliance for which there is a specially-designed "plug-in" outlet is the electric range. Other major appliances are connected to their individual branch circuits through standard convenience outlets. Sometimes they are connected directly to the wiring system.

Lighting outlets are the openings for fixed lights. We seldom think of them as outlets because they are outlets for electricity, just like the special outlets which serve major appliances. In both cases, the outlet has a special job to do to provide access to electricity for one piece of equipment.

Switches cut off or restore the flow of electricity to lights and appliances, without disconnecting them from the outlets. They also contribute to safety. When there are enough switches, properly located, you can "light your way" through dark rooms, and up and down stairways. This reduces the possibility of stumbling in the dark. Multiple switch control is a term you should understand. It means "control of a single light source from two or more locations." Careful attention to this point may save your family from broken bones.

Auxiliary Cooperating in "Save The Children" Glothing Drive

One of the most recognized benevolent groups in the United States is the Save the Children Federation, Established in 1932, it is a non-profit organization serving without regard to race, creed or color. Foremost among organizations cooperating with the Federation in used clothing for these needy children is the American Legion Auxiliary.

Last year 600,000 pounds of clothing and more than $2500.00 to help defray shipping costs was collected from Auxiliary Units throughout the nation. Due to this tremendous success and the continued great need for clothing, a resolution that the Child Welfare committee continue the project this year was passed by the Auxiliary at their national convention in September.

The Save the Children Federation's program in the southern Appalachian mountain area helps to keep youngsters in school with distribution of clothing through Save the Children Clothing Centers in Tennessee, Kentucky and Virginia. Here clothing is available at a very low price to those poor but proud people struggling to maintain their self respect. or is free of charge to those who cannot afford to pay. A stockpile of clothing is also maintained to meet, upon request, emergencies both at home and abroad.

Mrs Robert Hartzell, president of the local American Legion Auxiliary Unit. urges residents desiring to assist withthis project to contribute serviceable used clothing. such as sweaters. low heeled shoes, pants, dungarees, mittens and other apparel for children. Articles no longer needed can become a new wardrobe to youngsters in underprivileged areas.

Hidden away in clothes closets packed in trunks, tucked away in bureau drawers, may be a treasure house for needy children. Mrs Irene Barz, Unit Child Welfare Chairman, states infant and adult garments are also acceptable. Your discarded but usable clothing may bring warmth to a child nipped by cold, comfort to a family homeless from flood or tornado or aid a mother shielding her baby from wind and rain. It will cost you nothing, but will mean so much! It is also a year-round project.

Mr and Mrs Bernard Pringnitz, Duane, Marion and Madalyn were Sunday evening visitors in the Ray Michelson home.

Tuesday evening visitors in the Leland Hummel home to help little Diane Hummel celebrate her 4th birthday were her grandparents, Mr and Mrs Paul Goll and Mr and Mrs Hugh Hummel and family and Marie Perkins.

"Teens Against Polio" Drive Underway

TEENS AGAINST POLIO
Carolyn Turnquist, East High School
Iowa TAP Chairmen, 1252 Pennsylvania, Des Moines 16, Iowa

Dear Fellow Students:

Our Public School System of Iowa is to be honored on January 25 when Superintendent Richard Schuchert, President of the Iowa Association of School Administrators, will be presented a plaque recognizing our part in the continuing battle against polio.

As the State Teenage Chairman of the March of Dimes, I urge you to be mindful of the Salk Vaccine shots which many of you have not completed yet. Crippling polio in Iowa will not be erased until we students have made every effort to protect ourselves and others from the disease. Our cheerleaders yell the hardest when we are on the 5-yard line with victory in sight.

Let me congratulate you on the wonderful work you have done in the past. Your support is still needed, not only to encourage vaccination, but to insure that your county polio patients will be given every opportunity to live a satisfying life. Please assist your county polio chapter in any way you can materially and educationally as we gather our strength for the final assault.

This is a golden opportunity for the youth of Iowa to finish strong in a program which has aways had a most generous public acceptance. I feel confident that you wil join the thousands of young people who are already assisting in the current Teens Against Polio program.

Sincererly,
Carolyn Turnquist
State Teenage MOD Chm.

SENIOR INTERVIEW

On November 10, 1938, a boy was born to Mr and Mrs Dwight Helps at Mercy Hospital in Mason City. The proud parents named him Raymond Henry Helps. He has brown hair, green eyes and is now five feet, eleven inches tall.

Now a senior at Klemme High School, Ray likes geomerty as his favorite subject. His favorite movie is "Strategic Air Command," although his actor and actress are Robert Mitchum and June Allyson. Ray would enjoy eating a roast beef dinner while listening to the music of "My Special Angel."

Ray's pet peeve is someone trying to tell him what to do. His future plans are to work this summer and go to California next fall.

A little boy taken to the ballet for the first time, watched curiously as the dancers cavorted about on their toes. "Mommy," whispered boldly. "Why don't they get taller girls?"

What can go down hill but not up hill? A pill.

First boy: What has three legs and eats marbles?

Second boy: What?

First boy: A three legged marble eater.

TEACHER INTERVIEW

We have chosen Miss Mavis Jean Whitmire for our Teacher Interview of the week.

Miss Whitmire graduated from I S T C at Cedar Falls. Before coming to Klemme in 1956, she taught in Dunkerton, Iowa. Here in Klemme, she teaches Home Ec 1 and II, geography and World History.

Miss Whitmire's favorite pastime is reading. She enjoys reading books written by Thomas Castain, her favorite author.

When asked what her favorite television programs were, she told us "Playhouse 90," "Climax," "Alfred Hitchcock Presents," and anything that has a mystery in it.

Lawrence Welk is Miss Whitmire's favorite band.

An enjoyable evening for Miss Whitmire would be to go to a movie with a historical background (her favorite kind), then on the way home she would be delighted to stop at a Dairy Queen stand and order her favorite food, a large Dairy Queen cone or perhaps a sundae.

During Christmas vacation Miss Whitmire and a couple of relatives went to Florida where they visited relatives and enjoyed themselves. She brought back many fruits from Florida. (Oh, yes, she stopped at many Dairy Queen stands on the way!)

Miss Whitmire's pet peeve is someone who spells her name incorrectly.

Her future plans are to continue teaching school for some time.

CLASS NEWS

As everyone knows we started back to school January 6, 1958. The first class the Seniors had to go to on Monday was Government. In Government we are studying the different departments of the United States government. We have already studied the Secretary of State, Treasurer and the Secretary of Defense.

We are now studying the Attorney General and the Department he takes care of which is the Department of Justice. We also have found out that William P Rogers is the Attorney General.

In this same chapter we have found out what an alien, or a person from another country, must go through to be a citizen.

As the semester is coming to an end we are all reviewing for the big test which Mr Neary is planning for us, so he will know how much we have learned during the past semester.

John: Three men applied for a job. the only way they could get the job was to walk a tightrope across the canyon. The men all fell off. Who got the job?

Joe: I don't know, who?

John: The undertaker.

Editor's Note

Getting an education by watching television in school, now isn't that a laugh! But wait a minute, stop and think, is it as much of a joke as you think it is? Why can't television be used to educate children as well as entertain thm? Have you ever realized how much time a child nowadays spends watching television, and don't they just sit there and watch it for hours at a time without leaving? Well, I believe that if a school, maybe in a city to begin with, would install television sets in the classrooms and conduct classes by that means, that it would take fewer teachers to explain or teach a certain subject. The students would be inclined to pay attention to the television program and therefore concentrate on his studies more.

Now, I'm not saying that every school should have television in them but, I do say that if educational methods of teaching are improved by employing the television medium, that in the future educational television will be the answer to the need for more teachers to teach the ever increasing amount of students every year.

I have given my ideas on this to you the reader who are parents and those who some day will be. The following news item is what started me out in writing this editorial. Read this article and see what you think.

MILWAUKEE TRIES EXPERIMENT WITH EDUCATIONAL TELEVISION

Milwaukee is one of the 15 fortunate cities which were chosen to take part in an experiment with educational television by the Ford Foundation. It is being sponsored by the Milwaukee Vocational Schools.

Channel 10, WMVS-TV, is the educational channel. It is in operation Monday thru Friday, every week.

Its purpose is not to entertain its audience, but to teach them something. Things can be more easily understood when they are seen and heard, rather than just read.

Children who aren't too enthusiastic about going to school and reading out of textbooks can watch TV and actually see and understand what is going on.

An example is the study of science. There are experiments to show why things happen the way they do. It helps you to have a better understanding because you see it happen. This is one of the things that many people cannot get from reading a book. Educational TV will help achieve a better understanding for many things besides science.

Practically everyone has heard of the Grand Canyon. They have, most likely, had it described to them. Still they cannot even begin to imagine the immensity and depth of it. Words written or spoken cannot leave a lasting impression unless one can view it oneself. Even seeing it on TV is not the same as seeing it in real life, but TV comes closest to it.

This example will hold true in many cases. Channel 10 will include many interesting subjects. Art. science and music are just a few.

Now that we can have educational TV. we should take advantage of it. for it will prove invaluable. It is here only on an experimental basis. and will continue after a year's trial only if it is considered useful and effective in the teaching area.

Even his closes friend would not tell him. so he flunked the exam.

GUESS. WHO

People say Seniors are pretty busy when in high school but I think I have found a pretty busy underclassmate in the Sophomore class. It seems that this person is in quite a few activities. This person is quite a singer because he takes part in Double Mixed Quartet, Mixed Chorus, and Boys Chorus, also he is in Band. Another field he likes is sports because you have seen him play basketball, baseball and participate in track. This year he is secretary of his class. He is about 5' 10½" tall has brown hair, green eyes and wears glasses.

I wonder who you are going to guess, is this busy boy. I'll tell you next week. Last week's Guess Who was Elaine Jurgemeyer.

Two small girls brought home a box full of dust the other day and warned their mother to be very careful with it. "All right," she promised, "But tell me, why is it so special?" "Instant Mud Pies," they answered.

Changes Made in Fishing Laws for 1958

Several changes in fishing regulations for the coming year have been announced by the Iowa Conservation Commission.

The daily bag limit on catfish is being increased from 8 to 16, but the possession limit will remain at 16.

In the area south of U S 30, there will be a year-round open season on large-mouth and small-mouth glack bass. North of 30, the bass season will extend from May 24 to November 30.

On walleye and sauger pike, the season will extend from May 10 to February 14 north of 30. The season will be from April 12 to February 15 south of 30.

The daily bag limit and possession limit on bullheads will be removed for all waters north of 30. The daily bag limit will be 15 and possession limit 30 for bullheads in waters south of 30.

The commission also is removing the aggregate possession limit of 50 fish. Anglers will be permitted to catch and keep their daily limit of every kind of fish.

Treat Exhaust Fumes As Deadly Poison

A number of Iowans will die again this winter because they let their cars or garages become lethal gas chambers filled with on of the most insidious killers of the Automobile Age—carbon monoxide.

Frank Ulish, state safety education director, issued the warning today and advised Iowans to consider the axhaust fumes of their cars "a deadly poison."

He said winter always brings a number of carbon monoxide deaths because cold weather often leads drivers to let cars run in closed garages, or to sit in closed cars with the engine running.

"If odorless, tasteless carbon monoxide seeps into the car, a driver may become unconscious literally without warning," Ulish said. Enough exposure in an atmosphere of carbon monoxide is fatal, he warned.

Ulish advised drivers never to let cars run in closed garages, to leave a window partially open if sitting in a car with the engine running and to have manifold and exhaust system checked for leaks.

Ulish warner drivers who may become stuck in deep snow to be sure the snow is cleared away from the exhaust pipe before allowing the engine to run.

Pity Poor Pop

Astounded teenager on telephone: "Of all the crazy things! It's for you, father."

During a bad electrical storm a mother in Virginia thought her young son would be worried and frightened so she tiptoed into his room to comfort him. The boy opened his eyes and murmured, "What is daddy doing to the TV set now?"

A student had been pestering his father for a newer model car. On visit to the campus, the father pointed out that most of the cars in the parking lot were of ancient vintage. "But Dad," protested the boy, "those cars belong to the faculty."

December Warmer than A Year Ago

December, 1957, went into the record as a comparatively warm month with the average temperature listed at 25.85 degrees, with the maximum average 34 and the minimum average 17.71. The average for December, 1956, was 23.29 degrees according to Earl Henschen, custodian at the Hancock County Courthouse.

The high temperature for the month was recorded on December 15 and 22 when the mercury climbed to 46 degrees and the coldest temperature for the month was recorded on the mornings of December 11 and 12 when the mercury dipped to a minus 1.

Precipitation for the month was .57 of an inch as compared with .39 a year earlier. A total of 4½ inches of snow fell. The highest amount recorded in a twenty-four hour period fell in the 24 hour period ending at 7 a.m. on December 19th when .24 inch of precipitation fell. The precipitation for the month brought the year's total to 28.55, as compared to 26.51 for the preceding year. The year's total was about 1.5 short of normal, but was 2.04 inches more than in 1956 and 6.53 inches more than the 22.02 inches recorded for the year 1955.

Precipitation for 1957 by months is as follows: January .36; February .29; March 1.39; April 1.20; May 6.20; June 4.77; July 2.36; August 4.77; September 2.19; October 1.45; November 3.00 and December .57.

The month of December had 12 days that were listed as cloudy or partly cloudy and 19 days listed as fair. The relatively warm weather melted much of the snow which fell in November and enabled farmers to harvest much of the corn left in the fields. However, high humidity kept the moisture of the crop in the field high and not much corn had been placed under government loan contracts as of January 1st because of the high moisture content and much was sold because of danger of spoilage. Many farmers are resorting to artificial drying to save the crop from spoiling.

Soil Bank Base Includes All Grains, Offers Farm Opportunity, Henderson

The broad base of the 1958 acreage reserve soil bank program offers many Hancock County farmers opportunities to improve and stabilize their incomes during 1958, says County Extension Director Paul Henderson of Garner.

It also provides a "hedge" against losses from bad weather, insects, poor markets and other unpredictable hazards. Henderson says basic payment rates per acre are higher this year than they were in 1957. The average is $51 an acre in Hancock County this year. Besides, you earn 10 percent premium payment if you put the same acres into the 1958 reserve that you had in the 1958 program.

Sign up for this program will begin January 20, next Monday, at the Agricultural Stabilization Committee Office in Garner. Each farm operator on the Hancock County ASC rolls last week received a notice of his corn acreage allotment and acreage reserve payment rate for his farm. If you do not have a soil bank base established for your farm, Extension Director Henderson suggests, you can establish one now at the ASC office. Bring your 1956 and 1957 records of acreages of corn and other grain crops on your farm. The ASC staff will use them in calculating your soil bank base.

If you want to, you can put the entire acreage of allotment crops into the acreage reserve for 1958. In that case you won't raise any corn or wheat on your farm. You'll keep livestock away from your idled crop land and won't harvest any hay from it during 1958.

Don't figure on an acreage reserve that will bring you more than $3,000 per farm, however. That's the limit for payment to any one operator for one farm. In case of tenant operated farms the tenant can earn $3,000 and the landlord $3,000.

If you want to put part of your allotment in the soil bank and raise grain on the rest you can do that. Suppose you have a 50-acre soil-bank base and a 30-acre corn acreage allotment. You might put 20 acres in the acreage reserve, 10 acres in corn and the other 20 acres in soybeans, grain sorghum or oats.

The acres you put in the soil bank acreage reserve are subtracted from your corn allotment to determine how much corn you can plant under this program, and from the soil bank base to determine how many acres of all grains you can plant.

The only cost you have on your acreage reserve is in prevention of wind and water erosion and in destruction of noxious weeds. Extension Director Henderson says probably you'll find the easiest way to do this is to seed it down. Even at custom rates that shouldn't cost you $10 an acre, including all the seed and fertilizer. If you do the seeding yourself, naturally the cost will be lower.

The soil bank sign up is to close March 7. However, County Extension Director Henderson there are advantages in getting in now. You have time to check over your contract carefully. If are one of those who doesn't have a soil bank base, there's time to get one set up. You still have time to figure carefully on the merits of the program and decide to your own satisfaction whether the soil bank will benefit you.

"Challenge to Iowa" Program Set; County Residents can take Part

NOTE: This is the first of a number of stories this Statewide program that we are pushing in every community of Hancock County.—Paul Henderson, County Extension Director.

A state-wide educational program "Challenge to Iowa," in which every citizen of Hancock County may participate, will begin in this area February 8, extension Director Paul Henderson of Garner has announced.

"'Challenge to Iowa' will present Hancock County residents with facts about our economic and social situations in the light of the growth and changes taking place in Iowa and the world" Henderson says. And he adds, "It will give every person who takes part a chance to express his views on action that may be necessary to adapt families, communities and Iowa to changes." The program will be presented over a 6-week period. It will be based on six discussion topics, Henderson says. They are "1858-1958—Century of Crange," "Growing with a Changing World," "Facing Change in Iowa," "Building Agriculture for Modern Needs," "Building Iowa Communities for Tomorrow," and "Fitting the Family to Changing Times."

Formation of volunteer discussion groups will be encouraged throughout the county, Henderson continues, with the goal of giving every interested person a chance to meet with friends and neighbors and discuss the issues presented in the program. Persons interested in forming or joining discussion groups should contact the extension office soon, Henderson advises. Discussion groups will be supplied with "Fact Sheets" containing background facts and data on each of the six topics. Individuals also will be able to obtain the Fact Sheets for their private study, Henderson says. The sheets are available free of charge.

At the conclusion of the 6-week program, printed 'opinion sheets' will be given to persons indiscussion groups so that they may register their views. These sheets will be collected and summarized, and results made public.

In oddition to Fact Sheet presentations, basic materials on the six "Challenge" topics will be presented n a series of television programs. Television shows will coincide with the week by week topics of discussion groups.

The television series will be presented in this area over station KGLO-TV in Mason City, Henderson says. The first program will be seen Saturday, February 8 at 12:30 and each Saturday at that time throughout the 6-week period. Some of you may want to watch this program over WOI-TV at Ames, starting Monday night, January 27 at 7:30 p.m.

Henderson says the "Challenge to Iowa" program is being sponsored by the Cooperative Extension Service of Iowa State College with the cooperation of newspapers and radio and television stations.

The extension director stresses that the program will not present answers or offer "cures" for the economic and social problems that are found in the state. He says the "Challenge" aim is to provide people in Hancock County with facts on which they may base their own conclusions or answers.

Make Sure Your Social Security Record Is Correct - Iske

Incorrect social security reports cause the loss of hundreds of dollars social security credit each year to residents in North Iowa according to Elmer L Iske, manager of the Mason City Social Security office.

Most workers and self-employed persons are aware of the social security tax, but many of these same people overlook the fact that if this tax is not reported correctly they do not receive proper credit for their earnings on their social security accounts. To avoid possible loss of credits, each worker should ask his social security disrtict office for a postal card form which can be used to check the amount of credits he has to his social security account. It is suggested that each worker check on his credits at least once every three years.

Squirrel

At LaPorte, a squirrel puts on an interesting "high wire" act at the John Bolte home nearly every day. Mr Bolte originally hung sacks of nuts on the wire, which is strung between two fruit trees, for the birds to feed on. Far from being defeated, the squirrel learned to come out on the wire for his daily morsel.

Price-Support Deadline Dates Announced

Farmers of Hancock County were reminded this week that they have only a few more days to obtain price support loans and purchase agreements on their 1957 oats and soybeans.

The final date for getting price support on these commodities is January 31, it was pointed out by Alfred V Josten, Office Manager, Hancock County ASC. All applications for loans should be submitted to the Hancock County ASC Office not later than January 24 in order that the applications may be processed and all applicable documents signed by January 31.

He emphasized that the January 31 deadline does not apply to corn produced in 1957. The final date for obtaining price support loans and purchase agreements on 1957 corn is May 31, he said.

The deadline date for taking out price support loans and purchase agreements on 1957 crop grain sorghums has been extended to February 28, 1958.

Animal Lab

The federal government will probably start construction of its $16 million animal disease laboratory at Iowa State College, in Ames, this spring.

Contract for the project are expected to be awarded in April. The laboratory will probably be ready for use in 1960. It will employ about 500 persons, including 100 scientists. It will be locate] three miles northeast of Ames.

Speed Detectors

The state executive council favors expanded use of scientific speed detectors on Iowa High ways by the Iowa Highway patrol.

State Safety Commissioner Russell Brown does too, but he wants to use radar units to keep a close check on speeding motorists.

A former Iowa attorney general, Dayton Countryman, representing a hometown concern (Nevada) wants the executive Council to purchase electrically operated machines which record speeds through tapes placed on the pavement.

Brown doesn't like these because tapes can be spotted by motorists; often are torn up by trucks slamming on brakes as they roll across them.

The executive council has asked further study of the matter.

Politics

State Sen J T Dykhouse, Rock Rapids Republican, who has announced his candidacy for the nomination for governor, reports to friends around the state he's in the race "for keeps" and hopes to cop the nomination. There had been reports his entry was an effort to throw the contest into convention for settlement by party regulars who would serve as delegates.

Another candidate who will definitely announce this month is W H Nicholas, Mason City, present lieutenant governor.

W M Mooty, Grundy Center, will announce for lieutenant governor on the Republican ticket. He will oppose Sen Alan Vest, Sac City, who already has tossed his hat into the ring for the GOP lieutenant governor spot.

Another well-known entry into the political arena will be Carroll Lane of Carroll who seeks the senate post being vacated by Alan Vest. Lane served as secretary of the senate for three terms and is a former representative from Carroll County.

Safety Sessions

A series of workshops on phases of traffic safety are scheduled for around the state in the next few weeks.

The Iowa safety department has invited officials of 52 Iowa cities to participate in the workshops on preparation and use of the annual inventory of traffic safety activities. The annual inventory is a detailed report on all phases of a communities safety program.

Meetings will be held at Marshalltown, January 28, Marion on January 29, Iowa City on January 30, Atlantic on February 5, and Storm Lake on February 6.

Oleo Sales OK

Iowa law does not bar the sale of oleomargarine containing butterfat. This is what the Iowa supreme court held in a recent opinion.

One manufacturer, who was selling a product which included oleo and a certain percentage of butter mixed in with it, had a ban placed on his sales by the state department of agriculture. While the question was in the courts, however, sale of the product has been permitted in Iowa.

Opponents of the sale of colored margarine in Iowa have tried to prevent use of milk fats in such products to reduce competition with butter.

Teamsters Out

The teamsters union, some 12,000 strong, is now out of the Iowa Federation of Labor, AFL-CIO.

Ray Mills, president of the state federation, and himself a member of the teamsters union, said the 12,000 union members have received notice of their expulsion. Mills also belongs to another union.

The teamsters organization a few weeks ago was expelled at a national level convention of the AFL-CIO.

Iowa Vets Elect

The Iowa Veterinary Medical Association has elected Dr R O Sander of Waukon, president; Dr L E Mossbach of Humboldt, president-elect, and Dr Dale Adams, of Web, a vice-president.

For Congress

Frank W McGowan, a Des Moines city councilman, will seek the nomination for congress from the fifth district on the Democratic ticket. This district is now represented by Paul Cunningham, Des Moines Republican, who will seek reelection.

McGowan is expected to have company in a party primary campaign from William Denman, Des Moines attorney, who sought the congressional seat in 1956 but was defeated in a close contest.

Woodward Plans

Gov and Mrs Herschel Loveless toured the Woodward state hospital-school for retarded children when a new set of buildings was dedicated a few days ago. The improvement program cost about $1,540,000. Capacity of the new buildings is about 256.

Overcrowded conditions, even considering the added space, still exist. This situation has caused a slow-down in admitting new patients to the hospital-school.

Retires From Post

Dan McEniry, 70, Des Moines federal probation offcier in the southern district of Iowa for the last four years, has retired.

McEniry, a Democrat, had since 1953 and was, for four years before that, been U S marshall in the southern district.

He will be succeded by an appointee to be named by Federal Judge Edwin R Hicklin, a Republican.

To State Job

John D Lindskoog, 46, of Udell, has been named director of the Iowa public safety department's drivers license division. He succeeds Alvin G Hudson who resigned several weeks ago.

Asks Bonus Action

William G Murray, Ames, a candidate for the Republican nomination for governor, has urged action on the Korean bonus bond sale.

Murray said the sale of Des Moines school bonds last week sold at a little more than 2½ percent which means, he said, the Korean bonus bonds could be sold "readily at that rate."

Retires

Tom Carlson completed 30 years as a section laborer for the Chicago Great Western on January first and has retired from his duties. It's nice, he says, not to have to take that cold 42 mile ride every day on the motor car.

"Paper Boy"

The paper boy at Blanchard, Iowa, received a lot of nice Christmas presents. Only he isn't as boy; she's a lady. Miss Elva Bean delivers the daily papers from four different cities, to her community.

58 Years

At Lyle, Roy Hobkirk has been a barber for 58 years. That's a lot of hair for the 75 year old barber, who has been on the job at Lyle for the last 48 of his 58 years.

THE FARM OUTLOOK

By Paul Henderson

County Extension Director

Iowa hog mrketings are likely to run heavier throughout 1958 than in 1957, says Francis A Kutish, Iowa State College farm economist. Kutish says Iowa produced 5 percent more hogs during the past fall than during the fall of 1956. Iowa farmers are planning about 7 percent more litters during the coming spring than a year ago.

Hog marketings for the nation as a whole should soon begin climbing to levels above those of last year, too, Kutish notes. Last fall's U S pig crop has been estimated at 2 percent larger than the year before, even though fall farrowings were slightly below autumn, 1956, levels. But, Kutish says, marketings during the spring shoud be back down to what they were during the same period in 1957. Summer hog sales will be about 10 percent above last year as a result of the 10 percent boost in winter litters.

The December 1 pig crop report estimates that U S farrowings from December, 1957, thru May, 1958, will top the first half of 1957 by about 6 percent. Kutish points out that 7.8 million sows are expected to farrow during these months, as compared with an average of 8.2 million for the first half of the years since 1946. More pigs are saved per litter nowadays, and this accounts for the greater number of animals from the fewer farrowings.

This spring's pig crop should hit 56 million head—a 6 percent jump over 1957, but only 3 percent more than the yearly spring average since 1946. This will mean heavier marketings next fall than in either fall, 1956, or fall, 1957.

Kutish notes that spring farrowings are moving ahead into the December-through-February period, causing the fall marketing peak to come earlier. But with farmers spreading breeding more evenly among the seasons, Kutish believes the size of the fall peak will tend to decrease. This should also help stabilize hog prices throughout the year, he says.

Doran Gast spent Friday night and Saturday with David Lange.

Rev Miller will attend a pastor's school at Indianola from January 27th through January 30th.

Aspirin Can Kill!

Asperins are dangerous in small hands! They can kill if taken in large doses.

A little Iowa girl died last winter after she swallowed a number of asperin tablets. Her mother left the room for a moment and the asperin bottle was handy—possibly the child was curious about the small, round discs. She gave herself an unknown number of them.

Adults mistakenly believe asperin is harmless because it is taken so frequently. Bottles of aspirin are often left in reach of small children. Alone—or in combination with another drug—aspirin is probably the most common drug found in the home. It is probably the most often used for self-medication.

With the development of attractively flavored infants' and children's aspirin, the temptation for young children to take this candy like medicine has increased.

To inform parents of the danger, the Federal Food and Drug Administration has recommended that all labels on bottles and packages of aspirin should bear the statement: "Warning: Keep out of the Reach of Chidren."

It has also been advised that aspirin not be given to children or infants, except when prescribed by a physician. The size of the dose and the time interval of repeated doses should be determined by the doctor.

The Federal Food and Drug Administration has further tried to avoid poisoning by suggesting that aspirin be packaged to make accidental access more difficult. But—the BEST prevention is careful supervision by parents.

Highway Story

By Bob Hullihan

If it were possible to know the last words spoken in all the cars that crashed into fatal accidents in Iowa last year, we wonder if the following might not appear more than once on the list:

"Now, see, she's sitting right on 70. Just feel how she jumps when I step down on it..."

"I know every curve and hill in this road. I could drive it with my eyes shut..."

"You know, the speeds posted on these curves don't mean a thing in a car like this. I can take 'em at least 20 miles faster than the signs say. . ."

"There's a trick to driving on gravel. If you're used to it, you can make just as good time as you can on cement . . ."

"Well, he's holding up traffic, isn't he? I can slip around him before anythings comes over that little hill . . ."

"Naw, I can drive. I'm perfectly O K really. Anyway, we'll stop for coffee first place we find open . . ."

"What's the matter, don't you trust me? Now, you just look at the scenery and let me do the driving . . ."

"Give that jerk your bright lights . . ."

"I figure we've got another two or three thousand miles left in these tires. We'll wait and get the brakes relined at the same time . . ."

"Yes, you can make it if you step on it . . ."

Maybe you can add some famous last words of your own to this list. Think about it.

Every once in a while, always at unexpected moments, the picture would appear brilliantly in his mind, as though someone has turned a bright light on a scene that was always there.

He would see again the bridge and the three bodies sprawled on the pavement among the bits of glass just beginning to catch a glitter from the rising sun. Beyond was the wrecked car, hanging half off the bridge and looking like some destroyed machine left behind in a retreat.

He always remembered the picture in color. One of the bodies wore a red coat. It was thrown open and bunched up around the neck of the dead girl. He remembered his urge to close the coat and pull it down to protect the girl from the cold of the dawn. But there wasn't any reason to do that - except respect for the dead.

He remembered waiting there alone with the dead for nearly half an hour before someone came by at that early hour and went on to call the highway patrol. While he waited he tried to dismiss the hope that these young people would suddenly sit up begin to talk, begin to laugh at having such a narrow escape. They didn't stir, of course. He knew they wouldn't.

And always, after he had painfully examined this picture, six years old now in his mind, he would remember that he had been driving in that darkness before dawn without tailights.

He would remember the car coming up behind him so quickly, swerving out to pass so suddenly that it seemed to be out of control as it headed into the bridge abutment. "They couldn't see me until too late," he would think, and look again at the picture in his mind.

DANGER!--Lunch Time

"Only mad dogs and Englishmen go out in the noonday sun" —or anywhere in the halls five seconds after the lunch bell rings.

One would think that food was going out of style tomorrow, the way the students stampede to dinner. In fact, the lockers on both sides of the hall are dented by richocheting students unable to stop their precipitous descent of the grand staircase.

Also, there are two grooves in the floor in front of the kitchen worn by students digging their heels into the floor to brake themselves to a screeching halt.

This conduct is unbecoming to ladies and gentlemen. The U S is a productive country and will not run out of food. Try to keep this in mind and slow down, the life you save may be eating dinner.

TWIN LAKE GO-GETTERS HOLD JANUARY MEETING

The January meeting of the Twin Lake Go-Getters 4-H club was held at the home of Kathleen Koerner with Karen Nuehring as co-hostess.

A panel discussion on "Why Do Girls Not Eat Breakfast and What to do About It?" was given with Theresa Lowenburg as moderator and Janet Lange, Julie Berhow and Marilyn Pals as the other panelists. During this discussion each girl in the club was asked what she had eaten for breakfast. Her breakfast was rated by a seven point system. Many of the girls need to eat better breakfasts.

Each girl brought a muffin and baking powder biscuits to be judged. The following talks were given: "Gifts of Nutrition," by Carol Zeigler; "Tend Those Teeth" by Linda Abele. Three demonstrations were given: "Cooking Eggs by Different Methods," by Dianne Hauge and Maxine Barlwell; "How to Prepare Cooked Cereals," by Judy Blank and Connie Kuelhers; "How to Make Breakfast Cocoa," by Kathleen Koerner and Karen Nuehring. Carol Eliason, music chairman, asked Rita Hansen to play piano and the girls sang "Were You There " and "Dreaming."

Patty Purk and Carol Zeigler taught the girls the singing "Gustafr School." Lunch was served by the hostesses with Diane Hauge and Maxine Bardwell assisting.—Linda Abele. reporter.

DAD'S NIGHT

The Avery Twin Lake Hustlers met at the home of Gary and Lynn Ruka's on January 13, 1958. There were 18 members, 7 dads, and 2 leaders present. Since this was dad's night our leaders showed us how to estimate our feed records and also illustrated this on a blackboard so the group would understand it better. We also voted on whether we wanted to have a purple ribbon class or a grand champion at our county fair next year. Gary and Lynn Ruka gave a demonstration on how to trap gophers. The meeting was adjourned and lunch was served.—Reporter, Eldon Nuehring.

Years

When the five Bowman Brothers held a reunion in Maquoketa recently, a total of 387 years was represented. Ages ranged from the youthful Dr Stuart Bowman, who is 64, up to the eldest brother, Ara who is 85.

Pike

Leo Davis, of near Jefferson, landed one of the "big ones" of the winter ice fishing season at Spirit Lake; an 8½ pound Walleye.

Joyce Lassahn Named 1958 Band Queen

Monday morning the members of the high schoo. band once again assembled in the "chicken coop" to continue their weekday rehearsals. They have just been playing different selections this week.

Tuesday morning the band members met in the gym. They elected the band queen to represent the band and town this year at the Mason City band festival. The new band queen is Joyce Lassahn, a senior. Joyce has been very active in band. This is her fifth year playing the baritone sax. "Jo" has played in the sax quartet, pep band. and also has gone to contest for three years.

The band and student body all wish Joyce the best of luck at the 1958 band festival.

SENIOR INTERVIEW

October 1, 1940, brought a new life into this world. The new life was named Harlan Lawrence Block. Harlan now has dark brown hair, brown eyes and stands to the height of 5 feet, 7½ inches.

As a senior this year Harlan is the class treasurer, sings in boys and mixed chorus. He is a member of the Lutheran church at Garner and sings in the choir. He is secretary of their Walther League there. He served on the student council at basketball games in his sophomore year.

Among some of Harlan's favorites you would find a Halibut Steak dinner. Afterward he might enjoy a movie starring either John Wayne or Sherre North. Harlan says that his favorite movie was "Blonde Savage," which he saw on TV.

Harlan likes to collect matchbooks as his hobby. He was asked what his pet peeve was and he said it was people who borrowed things and never returned them. His favorite saying is—"Gee!"

Harlan said that his future plans were indefinite.

Question of the Week

The queston for this week is: "What New Year's Resolutions have you made?"

Douglas Roul—Not to be tardy in Mr Neary's class because if I am, Oboy!

Gordon Johnson—I didn't make any New Year's resolutions, because I wouldn't keep them any way.

Larry Ulrich—It really wouldn't be fair for me to make any resolutions, because I wouldn't have kept them anyways, if I would have kept them, I wouldn't have any fun.

Marlin Stadtlander—I really didn't make any New Year's resolutions, but then, if I would have I don't know what they would have been.

Barbara Avery—I didn't make any resolutions as they only would have been broken.

Dorothy Kroehnke — I didn't make any because I knew I'd break them sooner or later.

Elaine Jurgemeyer — To try and write more letters, and answer those which I receive more promptly. So far—so good but I had better answer LaVohn Josten's soon or there goes my resolution.

Howard Anderson—I resolve to stay away from women because they are too dangerous.

A prospective guest from Erie, Pa, wrote the manager of New York's Hotel Taft.

"Dear Sir, I regret to inform you that due to an untimely murder in our family, I must cancel our reservations."

:—:

A neighbor who retired recently was heard to complain. "I wake up in the morning with nothing to do and go to bed with it only half done."

Tragedy

Tragedy marred a Christmas reunion, in Florida, of the John Kingreys of Batavia and their five children. Two of their sons, Merlin and Gene, were killed in an automobile accident while enroute to the reunion.

TEACHER INTERVIEW

The name of the program is "Person to Person." This week we are interviewing Mrs Wayne Whitney who now lives in Klemme, Iowa. As we were talking to her, we found that she was born in Warsaw, Poland. She is married and has two sons. Her husband is Principal of the Klemme High School. Mrs Whitney teaches vocal music and grade school music in the school and is also choir director of the Klemme Methodist Church. She received her musical education at Morningside College at Sioux City.

When asked her favorite food she replied that she liked most any kind of food. Watching TV is Mrs Whitney's pasttime and her spare time is filled by reading.

This concludes our Person to Person interview for this week.

GUESS WHO

Someone asked us to help look for a person who had lost a billfold. "Guess Who," said the person is a blonde, with blue-green eyes and is about five feet, seven inches tall. This person said, "You can find "Guess Who" in band every morning except Wednesday, when she will be in Mixed Chorus, also on Tuesday and Thursdays in Girls Glee Club.

This person wishes to find her soon or she will have to turn in the billfold.

Last week's "Guess Who" was Randall Langlitz.

JOKES

A mother who wanted to help her ten-year old with her reading was told flatly by the girl's teacher: "You'll only retard her progress if you teach her yourself."

'P'erhaps," replied the mother, "But will it be all right for me to read her diploma to her when she graduates."

The formula for success is putting the right people in the right job and then sitting on the sidelines and being a rousing good cheerleader.

:—:

An Air Force enlisted man stationed in Rhode Island had little difficulty hitching a ride when he stood at the side of the road with duffel bag in one hand and a huge banner tied across his chest reading: "To mother for Christmas."

Higher Soil Bank Pay May Mean More Income Security in County

Soil bank acreage reserve payments will average $51 an acre in Hancock County for 1958.

County Extension Director Paul Henderson of Garner says it may be an important security factor on many Hancock County farmers' plans this year. This payment on soil bank acres is assured regardless of weather, pests, changes in market prices and other risks.

It is especially attractive to farmers who were in the program last year, Henderson says. They will receive 10 percent more than the basic 1958 soil bank pay for keeping the same acres in the soil bank for 1958. You should have received your notice of your farms corn allotment and acreage reserve payment rate for 1958.

County Extension Director Henderson says you can get up a soil bank base for your farm now. Bring figures on your corn and other cropland for 1956 and 1957 to the ASC office in Garner. The staff will use these figures to set up your base.

There's no obligation involved in setting up the base. After it is set up you can decide whether you want to enter the soil bank program. You can put all or part of your corn acreage allotment into the acreage reserve. Here's how you can figure your net return from a soil bank contract. Suppose, for instance, your total average of grain crops for 1956 and 1957 was 75 acres and your corn allotment is 40 acres.

You consider putting 30 acres in the acreage reserve. If your payment rate is the average for Hancock County it's $51.00. Thirty times this local rate is $1,530.00. If you include your 1957 soil bank acres in the 1958 reserve program you get 10 percent more for these "repeat" acres. That'll be your assured income from those 30 acres. It's your "hedge" against risk. In this case you can still plant 10 acres of corn within your allotment. You can plant the rest of your soil bank base—probably about 35 acres—in soybeans, sorghum or oats.

If you decided to avoid almost all risk, you would put 40 acres into the soil bank for a total of $2,040.00. Your only limits are the size of your corn allotment and the fact that no farm operator may receive more than $3,000 per farm. In this case you'd still have about 35 acres to plant to oats, soybeans or sorghum. You couldn't plant corn, because 40 acres uses up your 40-acre corn allotment in this example.

Your soil bank acres return this assured income. Your only necessary expenses is whatever is needed to destroy noxious weeds and to prevent wind and water erosion on the reserve acres.

Extension Director Henderson says that Farm Economist H B Howell of Iowa State College points out that, in figuring the value of the acres you put in the soil pank, you can consider this fact: Using the support prices on compliance and noncompliance corn as the market prices. then in 1957 (last year) it would take 1.3 acres of noncompliance corn to give the same income as 1 acre of compliance corn.

'Multiple Farrowing' Doesn't Always Mean New Housing; Henderson

Hancock County farmers who want to modernize their swine enterprise for multiple farrowing don't necessarily have to invest in expensive farrowing facilities, says Extension Director Paul Henderson of Garner.

Starting with a barn that's structurally sound, or an unused building that's suitable for the purpose, remodeling for multiple farrowing usually costs no more than $2 per square foot of floor area. Completely new housing, however, will cost from $3 to $4 per square foot.

A multiple farrowing program (raising three or four crops of pigs each year instead of only two) requires several elements of specialization, Henderson points out. It means the building and equipment must be arranged to save labor and to take better care of pigs.

Temperature inside the house must be more accurately controlled. Installing a "foolproof" heating system is only part of this important phase. Insulation and ventilation, too, go a long way in insuring stable, low moisture heat. Henderson reports that Fred Roth, Extension agricultural engineer at Iowa State College, says a good remodeling job—one that will make multiple farrowing possible—is not a temporary proposition. He explains that "remodeling" is often interpreted to mean "the cheapest way out."

Here are some of the special housing problems Roth says are necessary to consider:

Walls, doors, windows and ceiling should be sealed to prevent drafts and heat losses. Use shiplap, plywood or hardboard about 4 feet high on the walls so the sows and pigs won't destroy are usually poor insulating materthe insulation. Straw or corncobs ials because they're ideal harbors for moisture, insects and rodents.

Ventilation is one of the most important but neglected environmental conditions. The moisture-carrying capacity of cold, relatively dry air entering the building increases as it is warmed. An adequate ventilating system will expell this moist air from the building. Much of the moisture removed by ventilation is from the pig's breathing. Moisture caused by body wastes and spilled water is best removed by drainage and cleaning.

Prevent drafts—especially between the farrowing units, Roth advises, as they may cause some losses on pigs. Besides many diseases of small pigs are caused by air-borne organisms. A barrier between farrowing units will help prevent drafts here.

Although heat lamps provide the most flexible creep heating installations, electrically heated foor panels, circulating steam heat or hot water in the floor or hot-air heating ducts might be considered. Space heating isn't always necessary in tight, insulated buildings.

Roth explains that environment control, whether in the winter or summer, is probably the most inportant housing consideration. Many Iowa farmers, he says, have demonstrated that when proper precautions are taken, remodeling can provide these controls nearly as well as totally new housing.

Mr and Mrs Homer Schoenwetter, Mrs George Schoenwetter and Mrs Herman Meyer left for Denver, Colorado, Friday to visit at the LeRoy Cook home, and also at the Tommy Farquhar home. Mr and Mrs Ray Yeager from Hugo, Colorado, were also guests over the weekend where all enjoyed visiting together. The Klemme folks returned home Tuesday.

Mr and Mrs George Blau of Alexander were Sunday afternoon and supper guests in the home of Mr and Mrs Bert Leiuwen.

Farm Tips

from your

Extension Director

By Henderson

A self-feeding wagon rack is the plan being featured this month by the Midwest Plan Service. Extension Agricultural Engineer Fred Roth of Iowa State College says the rack can be used in summer for green-chop feeding and in the winter for feed ing silage or chopped hoy. It's particularly handy if forage has to be hauled some distance to the feedlot. The rack fits on a low farm wagon running gear. It'll hold about 190 bushels. The plan, Midwest Plan No. 87118, incudes a bill of materials. You can order this plan from the Agricultural Engineering Extension Office, Iowa State College, Ames Iowa, for 25 cents.

It's the variety of fruit tree, not where it is produced, that determines its hardiness. Extensions Horticulurist Ed Cott, Iowa State College, says that all nurseries are satisfactory and ordering from a nursery north of Iowa will have no bearing on the hardiness of your fruit trees.

One method dairymen could use to increase profits is decreasing feed costs. This can be done by buying protein supplements on the basis of cost per pound of actual protein, says Extension Dairyman Floyd Arnold of Iowa State College. Tests at the college and at other experiment stations show that a single source protein such as soybean meal is just as efficient as a combination of several high-protein feeds. The protein equivalent provided by non-protein nitrogen materials such as urea is no better than the protein in oil meals. "Since the source makes no difference to the cow, let the savings in price show up in your feed bill."

Agronomist Joe L Robinson, secretary of the Iowa Crop Improvement Association says no law requires that seed tests be made by any certain laboratory However, the seed seller is responsible for what he puts in the seed tag. If state inspectors find the information on the tag is incorrect, it is the seed seller who is in trouble. Selection of a laboratory for the test is up to the seed seller and his personal confidence in the accuracy of the laboratory's work.

Advantage for a beef man being in an area brucellosis control plan. Extension Veterinarian John B Herrick, Iowa State College, says in the area plan the beef herds are subjected to the same tests and controls as the dairy herd. If the money is available, the herd will be tested and vaccinated as state and federal expense. The plan will help clean up the herd and rid the area of the disease. In general, peef producers are interested in getting rid of brucellosis and have been instrumental in developing area plans in their counties.

Miss Irene Balliet. Field Work Coordinator in the department of leadership education of the United Church of Christ (Evangelical and Reformed) with offices in Philadelphia. will be in Immanuel United Church of Christ (Evangelical and Reformed) of Klemme, February 5, 6, and 7. Her specific objective will be to give guidance in utilizing new facilities for Christian education. The total program of Christian education in Immanue lChurch—its organization, curriculum, leadership training, methods, use of facilities, etc. will be studied and evaluated by Miss Balliet at the request of local leadership within the church.

A meeting of all officers, leaders, teachers, parents and others interested will be held at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday. Another will be held at the same time on Friday evening. The first will point out the objectives of Christian Education and view the present program. Througout the day on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, meetings will be held with leaders, officers, and teachers. In the Friday evening meeting, Miss Balliet will evaluate the program of Immanuel congregation and offer suggestions for advancement.

Leaders in Immanuel Church feel that Miss Balliet's work in these few days will be very helpful in maintaining a sound Christian education program within the church as changes are initiated to utilize facilities now being made available by the erection of an educational wing to the present structure. It is anticipated that dedication of the building will be held sometime after Easter.

Miss Balliet will go from here to Omaha, to attend the annual meeting of the division of Christian education of the National Council of Churches.

Cub Scouts Hold Pack Meeting

The Cub Scout pack meeting was held Friday evening at 7:30 in the grade school basement. The topic for the month was motion pictures and television. The boys brought displays of movie cameras, microphones, etc.

The program for the evening was a pantomime of "Jack and the Beanstalk", with the following characters in order as they appeared: Jack, Harland Olson; Cow, Steven Nannenga; Traveler, John Lauer; Donkey, Billy Meyer; Mother of Jack, Milo Miller: Giant's Wife, Kenneth Rasmus; Giant, Terry Kaduce, and Hen, Joel Back.

The boys appeared in costumes which they themselves made, or their mothers had made. Between acts, 8 boys who called themselves the "Friday Night Eight" appeared doing cub yells and songs. They were David Lauer, Bill Arnold, Robert Hagen, Davie Barz, Jerry Linahon, Richard Hanson, Gary Schroeder and Barry Baker.

The business matters concerned the Scout Sunday to be observed February 9th. The Scouts and Cubs are to appear in one body. This also is open Scout week. The Blue and Gold Banquet will be held February 28th in the E and R church, at which the awards will be given.

Refreshments were served by the cub committee under supervision of the den mothers, Mrs Erwin Meyer, Mrs Dean Rasmus and Mrs E H Lauer and cubmaster Roy Arnold.

HOSPITAL

For Mrs J W Burnham, of Des Moines, hospitalization does not come very frequently. About a half-century ago, when she was in her fifties, she was hospitalized with a sinus infection. Now, at 100 years, she has been hospitalized a second time, as the result of flu.

Plans for "Challenge to Iowa" Program are Progressing - Henderson

Plans for the Hancock County "Challenge to Iowa" program are progressing, Paul Henderson, Hancock County extension director, reports.

The six-week educational program, sponsored by the Cooperative Extension Service of Iowa State College, will present for public discussion facts on economic and social problems faced by Iowans today. It will involve a large number of Hancock County persons, the extension director says.

He expresses appreciation for the help given in organizing the discussion group phase of the program by members of the Extension Program Pplanning Committees, the County Extension Council and Superintendents of the schools.

The list of persons who are forming discussion groups in their neighborhoods is growing, Henderson says. Are you included as an organizer of a local discussion group. Four or five couples can discuss these important topics.

A "sneak preview" of the Fact Sheets shows that they have fuel for lots of discussion, Henderson says. He suggests that interested persons not now in a discussion group contact the extension office in Garner right away.

Extension Director Henderson emphasizes that there are no boundaries in the "Challenge to Iowa" program. It's designed for participation by everyone—residents of country, towns and cities. If you can get WOI-TV perhaps you have already seen the first panel discussion. It was Monday night, January 27 at 7 p.m. and will be seen the next five Monday nights.

The KGLO program will start 12:30 Saturday noon, February 8 and continue each Saturday through March 15.

Sixty Sign for Acreage Reserve in Hancock County; Deadline Near

About 60 Hancock county farm operators had signed up to take part in the soil bank acreage reserve program at the close of business last Frday, County Extension Director Paul Henderson of Garner says.

This is more than were signed up in this county at the corresponding time last year. Henderson says the sign-up will close March 7. However, he says, it'll probably save time and possible confusion to get the contract in now. It takes time for the Agricultural Stabilization Committee staff to check the reserve acreages and complete each program properly.

You'll also want to read your contract carefully to be sure you understand it fully. Several farm operators have lost the benefits of the program in the past through failing to read and follow the program carefully. The operators who sign up now will have time to study the program and be sure they are doing all that is necessary to get the full benefits.

This program pays an average of $51 per acre for Hancock county crop land placed in the acreage reserve. You can put all or part of your acreage allotment into the program.

Individual operators have already been mailed official notices of their 1958 corn allotments and acreage reserve payment rates. Those who haven't had a soil bank base set up for their farms can still do so. Just bring your crop acreage figures for 1956 and 1957 to the ASC office in Garner. The staff there can then determine your soil bank base.

After you have your base you are in a position to decide whether to go into the program or not. If you decide to go in, you will then make your own decision as to how many acres you put in it.

Operators who were in the soil bank acreage reserve program last year will get 10 percent more than the regular payment for the same acres put back into the soil bank.

Lions Hear Speech Therapist from Garner

The Klemme Lions met Wednesday, January 22nd, at 6:30 p.m. for their regular supper meeting in the grade school basement. There were 22 members and 2 guests present.

The speaker for the evening, introduced by Superintendent Harlan Shafer, was Jim Steffens, speech therapist for Garner. Mr Steffens is one of three speech thereapists employed by the county boards of education from Hancock, Winnebago and Kossuth counties.

He gave a very interestng talk on his work with speech defects in children enrolled in the public schools of this area. He used tape recordings to better explain the problems involved in speech therapy. He explained that there are approximately 3,800 children in the nine schools he visits. He explained that he actually works with from 80 to 90 of these for speech defects.

Mr Steffens also helps in the hearing screenings held each year for the third, sixth and ninth grade pupils. The therapists do not attempt to correct hearing difficulties, but refer them to their doctor.

A board meeting was held after the regular meeting adjourned.

Shamrocks Beat Ventura Tuesday Night, 50-39

Tuesday night, January 28th, the Shamrocks journeyed to Ventura and won a double header from the Ventura fives.

The Shamrocks started slow. but came out of the slump to lead at halftime 22-19. When the final buzzer sounded, the boys had won their second game from Bentura this season. High scorer for the local team was Bacon, who dumped in 20 points. He was followed by Johnson, who had 16, and Langlitz and Greiman, who donated 0 apiece to the cause.

High man for Ventura was Molencamp with 11, followed closely by Anderson, who hit for 10.

In the second team game, the Little Shamrocks won handily. 38-24. Leading scorer for the reserves was Gaylon Bridges, who swished the nets for a total of 14 points. Kramer had 9, Stokesbary 8, and Thiemann 7.

DOWS 50-KLEMME 43

Friday night, January 24, the Shamrocks came out on the short end of a 50-43 score at Dows. High scorers for the locals were Johnson and Bacon, with 19 and 12 respectively.

The Little Shamrocks won their game with the Dows reserves. 23-20. The scoring was evenly divided with Meints getting 7, Bridges 6, Thiemann and Stokesbary apiece and Kramer 2.

OOPS! SORRY!

NUMBERS

Gerald Lundgren, Gowrie, has an interesting hobby; collecting license plates. He now has numbers running as far back as 1915. Car numbers were first issued in Iowa in 1910, Lundgren says, but the first year the state merely assigned numbers; it did not issue plates.

CAPITOL LETTER

(Weekly news release of the Iowa Press Association. The material contained herein does not necessarily conform to the editorial policy of this newspaper.)

GOP Spirits Buoyed

Republican candidates for state elective office, had their spirits buoyed by the larger-than-expected turnout at the annual fund-raising feast, are looking toward the upcoming campaigns with greater hopes.

It's no secret that Republicans have been concerned over prospects in the state elections this summer and fall. They're expecting a whopper of a fight in their effort to unseat Democratic Governor Loveless.

The $25 a plate party banquet, however, drew a crowd of 2,100 despite heavy snows and poor driving conditions.

Lt Gov W H Nicholas, who will toss his hat into the ring for governor, presented a new look in addressing the crowd. He mixed in a few stories while berating the Democrats.

At the dinner rumors of another possible candidate for governor popped up. Stanley Hart, Keokuk, former state senator, is reportedly eyeing the GOP primary. Dr William Murray, Iowa State College, who is already "in" the race, was getting a good share of attention from the party faithful.

Coffers Fuller

The Republican campaign chest should be a few thousand richer as a result of the Iowa fund-raising event. It was announced at the dinner that some 3,300 tickets had been sold. At $25 each that means the affair grossed $82,500. Dinner expenses would come off that, of course.

Sales Tax

Insiders are reporting that Lt Gov Nicholas will favor a two percent state sales tax—the present rate—as one of the planks in his platform when he announces for governor.

If that situation occurs, the GOP voters will have a choice. Candidate Murray has already announced himself in favor of a three percent state sales tax. Governor Loveless, of course, favors the two percent rate.

Many Changes

Coaching jobs aren't the only ones where changes occur in the Iowa school system, it appears. There are 148 new high school superintendents in the state this year.

Biggest turnover appears in the smaller high schools with attendance of 25 to 49 students. A 34 percent change in school chiefs took place in this group.

There are 745 high school districts in the state.

Iowa's Lead

A National Safety Council publication reports that Iowa is taking the lead nationally in a battle against "bobby trap" killing of motorists on local roads.

The Council refers to the innocent appearing rural roads off main highways as "booby traps" for drivers. It is here that an increase in fatal accidents is occurring while a decline has shown in fatal crashes on the main or primary roads.

The Iowa program incorporates these highlights: Greater participation and cooperation between county sheriffs and the highway patrol; greater concentration by lawmen on these high-accident areas; patrol squads working these accident areas thus bringing greater enforcement to bear; more publicity.

LeCompte to Quit

Cong Karl M LeCompte, a Republican member of congress for 20 years from the fourth Iowa district, reports he'll quit politics. He will retire after his present term runs out this year.

His retirement will throw the fourth district race wide open with all-out battles expected in both the Democrat and Republican primaries for a chance at the seat to be vacated by the Iowa weekly newspaper owner.

Announcement of his retirement was sudden. It took Republican party officials by surprise. Only a few days before his decision was announced, he took out nomination papers to qualify for another campaign.

Liquor Sales Up

The state liquor control commission reports a 4 percent increase in sales in the last half of 1957 as compared with the final half of 1956. Sales in some liquor stores in Iowa border cities rose twice that much.

Commission business for the six months period totaled $21,010,720. Sales in December alone, biggest business month of the year, totaled $5,643,901.

Plan Pay Hikes

Dr Hubert Carbone has been hired as clinic director at the mental health institute at Cherokee at a yearly salary of $18,300 plus maintenance. He has been chief of psychiatry at the Veterans Administration hospital Sepulveda, California.

In announcing the new staff addition, the Iowa board of control reported plans to pay salaries of up to $21,000 a year, plus room and board, to recruit doctors for its mental health institutes.

Dr J O Cromwell, state chief of mental health in Iowa, said the new program is an initial step toward making the mental health hospitals treatment centers rather than custodial homes.

Civil Defense Study

Already begun in Iowa is an $85,000 survey of civil defense and survival plans for major population centers and transportation facilities. Funds for the survey have been provided by the federal Civil Defense Administraton.

Col Lester F Orcutt, 59, Air Force Reserve, has been named to the fulltime post as executive director of the project.

Target areas to receive special attention include Davenport, Des Moines, Dubuque, Waterloo, Cedar Rapids, Sioux City, and Council Buffs.

Nugent Gets Award

William B Nugent, manager of the Veterans Administration Center in Des Moines, has been named "Iowa's federal civil servant of the year." Nugent has long been manager of the VA hospital in Des Moines and the VA installation downtown. He has been with the VA since the end of World War I. He is a native of Algona.

Seeks Election

At least one Iowa woman will seek election to the Iowa legislature which didn't have a single woman in its membership last year.

Mrs L A Falvey, Albia, widow of the late State Rep Lawrence Falvey of Albia has obtained nomination papers from the secretary of state. Mrs Falvey will seek the house of representatives seat held by her husband the last six years.

It's Still As "Good As Gold"

This United States Savings Bond has had a pretty rough life—short but hectic. The owner received it at the plant one pay day as a regular purchaser on the Payroll Savings Plan. Running a little behind schedule, he hurriedly stuffed the bond in his shirt pocket—and promptly forgot it until two days later. With great agitation, he called his wife who reported that the laundry was already hanging out on the line. The bond was found, still in the shirt pocket, but a little worse for wear. You are looking at a picture of it now because it is one of about a million Savings Bonds the Treasury has replaced for happy owners who lost theirs through carelessness, theft, or acts of nature.

You Can't Lose Savings Bonds

Since 1041, the United States Treasury has replaced almost one million savings bonds which were mutilated, stolen, burned or lost. And the bonds were re-issued with the original date of purchase, without loss of interest or cost to the owners.

Wierd stories about the fate of savings bonds have been repeated in almost every community throughout the nation. However it seems that owners seldom tell neighbors about losing or damaging bonds, prefering to relate their woes directly to the Treasury departments.

As far as is known, robbery has accounted for the greatest number of temporary losses of savings bonds among Iowans, but fires, flash floods and tornadoes also have been involved a few times.

It is unfortunate that the owners of savings bonds usually have cash and other valuables hidden with the bonds, and those are lost forever.

What Happens to Bonds

No exact tabulation has been kept of the many ways savings bonds are lost or mutilated, but the family washing machine takes care of its share. Bonds are left in shirt pockets, or other garments, and when mom does the family wash she salvages a glob of pulp.

Others have been eaten by cows and goats, chewed to shreds by dogs, burned with trash, torn into paper dolls by children and made into confetti nests by mice.

One man sent in an envelope filled with tiny pieces of bonds which had been torn by his wife during a family argument. However, when wives mutilate savings bonds, it's usually an accident. They seen to have an idea that ovens, electric cookers, waffle irons and similar devices are safe because hundreds of thousands of burned bonds have been replaced.

In contrast to the family quarrel, one man put a bond under his wife's dinner plate for a surprise birthday gift. She failed to notice is, and washed it with the dishes - but got a new one in place of it. Another man hid some bonds in an old shoe, which his wife gave to a charitable organization.

Regardless of what happens to your savings bonds - whether you have scorched or torn remnants, or nothing -you'll get new ones from Uncle Sam by reporting the loss to the Treasury. But that isn't the answer.

Owners of savings bonds can save themselves a lot of worry and save money for themselves and other taxpayers, if they keep a record of the serial numbers in another location.

This latter practice isn't so dramatic but, like driving a car carefully, it's much safer.

A Red Oak man recently dumpel a pile of clinkers on his driveway, intending to break them later and spread them around. When he went out to resume the project, all the clinkers had been taken.

TIMING

TIMING. That's a word that means different things to an auto mechanic, to an actor or playwright, to a bus driver, and to others.

Elmer L Iske. manager of the Mason City office of the Social Security Administration, says that "timing" can and should be an important word for many persons who reached retirement age on or before January of 1957.

Any such person, insured under social security, whose 1957 earnings were $2080 or less should contact his social security district office at once, Iske went on. Not doing so in January 1958 means all chances of getting a social security check for January 1957 have vanished.

So, Iske says, if you're a woman past 63, or a man past 66, and your 1957 earnings were less than $2080.01, better check your timing with respect to filing a claim with the social security folks by seeing them before February 1, 1958. In case you can't get in to their office, write them a letter saying, "I want to file my claim," and your rights will be protected.

Children's Dental Health Week February 2 - 8

The American Dental Association has announced that the 10th annual Children's Dental Health Week will be observed all over the nation, February 2 through 8.

A child's first teeth are important to his adult dental health!

Contrary to popular belief, when children's so-called "baby" teeth are ignored, several things happen. Early loss of baby teeth can cause the permanent teeth to come in-out of position. This can result in premature loss of permanent teeth, so-called "crooked teeth," poor mastication of food, possible facial deformities and speech difficulty.

"Only if the dental disease rate in children can be slowed down," says Dr William R Alstadt, president of the American Dental Association, "Can we hope eventually to achieve an adult generation in relatively good dental health. Prevention, beginning in childhood, is the one realistic means for bringing the vast dental disease problem under control."

If you are 35 years old, chances are you have at least 18 missing, filled, or decayed teeth and may be expected to be fitted for artificial denture in middle age.

Sound and effective dental habits learned very early in life may have prevented such dental disease.

If today's children are taught to brush their teeth properly right after eating, to cut down on sweets and to have periodic checkups, the "permanent" teeth of tomorrow's adults will be REALLY permanent!

The Christian Funeral

NOTE: This article is being printed at the request of Rev Melvin Miller, pastor of the Methodist Church at Klemme, Iowa.

Since the funeral is a trying experience to the bereaved, and because funeral arrangements are so often out of character with our Christian understanding of death and eternal life, we, the ministers of Hancock County, offer these suggestions regarding the Christian Funeral:

1. In the hour of death, notify your pastor immediately. He can not minister to your needs unless he is aware of them. Make no arrangements without first consulting him.

2. Consider the possibility of sealing the casket at the time the funeral service begins. Such an arrangement is much easier upon the mourners. (The deceased may lie in state before the funeral.)

3. Consider the possibility of a permanent memorial. It is a beautiful thing to send flowers to the funeral of a loved one. Yet, too often there are so many flowers that we wish some of the money had been spent for a more lasting memorial. (Money given to a memorial committee of your church could build up a fund for the purchase of one lasting memorial, which will be a constant source of inspiration and joy to the living.)

4. The minister has full charge of the funeral service. Any participation by secular organiza-

5. The Christian funeral need not be lavish nor expensive. Retions should be with his approval. member, our affection for our loved ones is not measured by the amount we spend on their burial.

6. Music should be chosen with special care. Hymns expressing faith, confidence and joy are preferable to weak and sentimental songs.

7. Funerals should not be held on Sunday. Regular services of worship have priority, and your pastor's Sunday schedule does not leave time either for an extra service, or to minister effectively to the mourners. Moreover, a Sunday funeral forces a crew of men to work on the Sabbath. Where this is unnecessary, it is not a good Christian example.

8. Let your attitude demonstrate your faith in the promises of your Savior. What you do and say in the event of the death of a loved one is the best example you can give of your trust in the promises of eternal life.

Highway Story

By Bob Hullihan

The little town is a fine place to live, or, as the residents usually described it, "a wonderful place to raise kids." And it is. It is possible in this town to really live as a known and accepted part of the community. Though families might live on different sides of the town they were, still, neighbors.

But there came a time when the "wonderful place to raise kids", turned out sadly to bury two teenage youngsters killed in a traffic accident. The loss of two young people in such a closely-knit community was a sharp almost personal blow to everyone.

What made the tragedy all the more difficult to take was that the youngsters had been killed when one of them committed a reckless and illegal driving act.

It just wasn't in the character of either youngster to be lawless —except with an automobile. And since breaking the law with an automobile is, frankly, an almost acceptable thing in our civilization, no one thought it too necessary to curb the youngsters.

Now, of course, they were dead and buried. It was too late for the lecture, or the fine, too late to take the car away for a while —too late for anything but to examine the communitie's conscience.

One man there may have had part of the answer when he told a friend: "You know, those poor kids never had any experience with enforcement. We're off the beaten track for the patrol and the sheriff. The kids never had to worry much about getting picked up for the way they drove. Maybe a little enforcement would have been education for them— enough to keep alive."

Wise Use of Your Land and Wildlife

Every farm is a complex living community based on the soil. Working with the soil, and dependent on it, are plants and animals that convert plant nutrients, moisture, and sunshine into food and fiber for man. It is a successful community only if all the living things in it are working for the benefit of the whole community.

If there are not enough grasses in the community, the soil loses its ability to take up and hold moisture. It may become eroded and lose its power to produce corn for hogs. If there are not enough earthworms, the same thing can happen. If there are not enough squirrels, there will be fewer acorns planted and in time there will be fewer oaks. If there are not enough cotton tails one of whose functions is to feed foxes—foxes may look to the farmer's poultry for food.

On the other hand, if there are too few foxes to eat meadow mice, there may be so many meadow mice that there will be less alfalfa for dairy cows. If there are not enough songbirds, there may be too many destructive insects, resulting in a shortage of grain for beef cattle.

But there must be useful insects to pollinate alfalfa, red clover and sweet clover, or else these legumes will not produce seed.

Thus we see that a successful farm community must have an abundance of useful wildlife and a low number of the harmful kinds. It must have what is called a "favorable biologic balance."

A system of farming that supports a family well without depleting basic resources has a favorable biologic balance. Conversly, farming that depletes the soil and results in plagues of insects, weeds, and crop diseases has an unfavorable biologic balance.

You may be surprised at the wildlife population living on well-managed farms. Studies made on Ohio farms having soil conservation palns in effect tell the story. On a 100 acre farm with about one-third of the fence rows in woody cover, 15 acres in protected woods, 25 acres in good pasture and 60 acres in a 4-year rotation with 2 years of meadow, the useful wildlife population was estimated to be: Several million beneficial insects, mostly destroyers of other insects and some that help to pollinate fruits and legumes. More than 400 beneficial birds, of 40 kinds. More than 1,000 beneficial small animals, many of which are effective insect destroyers.

Also present on well managed farms in various parts of the country are the adapted game birds and animals, quail, pheasants, grouse, rabbits, squirrels, and on some farms, ducks and deer to offer sport and food for you and your friends.

Fur-bearing animals like mink, muskrats, raccoons, skunks, and opossums provide recreation and cash income for you and your family. These valuable animals occur in greatest numbers on farms that use the land wisely and provide places for them to live.

Colorful, energetic songbirds add much to the enjoyment of rural life through their music and their movements. Who doesn't enjoy the songs of the meadowlark and the goldfinch or the sight of robins busily feeding their young?

Bumblebees, leaf-cutting bees, syrphid flies and other wild insects, formerly much more abundant than they are now, once helped farmers to produce legume seed yields four times as high as those obtained today. Their numbers can be increased through good land management.

Everything that grows on the farm—cows, oats, trees or quail has a proper place in its economy. The better informed a farmer is, and the better he is able to keep things in balance, the more profit he will make. An inventory of the working capital on an average farm will show what the values are and where they lie.

Level ferfile fields that support short rotations are the backbone of farm income. Grain, livestock and other cash crops are a farmers living. Under most conditions he would be foolish to raise timber on land that will grow high yields of corn, or to produce a poor corn crop on acres that would net a larger return in timber. Every acre should be used for its particular crop of highest value. The agriculturalist who under uses his land is accepting less interest than his investment could yield. If he overuses it, his soil will depreciate and he will lose in the end. That is what we mean by keeping things in balance.

Land primarily sutied for use as cropland, pasture, and woodland produces wildlife as a secondary crop. In addition, there is land on every farm that can and should be used to produce useful wildlife as a primary crop. Odd areas, fence rows or corners, etc., are perfect locations for the promotion of habitat. Small areas of wildlife land well distributed over the farm, when coupled with proper use and management of other land, make the whole farm an efficient unit for the production of all crops, including wildlife.

Our approach to wildlife problems must be down-to-earth, for wild animals are, first of all, a product of the soil. They flourish or decline according to what is done with the land and its plant covering. Game and fur are an annual crop. Like by-products of industry, they often are ignored and wasted. But the progressive manager will give them a part in his business, however small, and add their value to his income or his enjoyment of the place in which he lives.

Social Security Benefits Disabled Children Over 18, Says Manager Iske

"A year ago the Social Security Administration first began paying benefits to disabled children over the age of 18," Elmer L Iske, manager of the Mason City social security office said today.

"While the number of applications filed on behalf of disabled children is small compared to the number filed on behalf of children under 18, the benefits payable to disabled children will in most cases provide a permanent measure of security since they will usually continue as long as the child lives. Benefits to children under 18 who are not disabled," Iske pointed out, "end when the child becomes 18."

An application for this type of benefit can be retroactively effective for one year, according to Iske. Those disabled children who could have qualified for benefits for the month of January 1957 will lose one or more monthly benefit payments unless an application is filed on their behalf not later than January 31, 1958.

These benefits are payable to children of retired workers receiving social security benefits and those of deceased workers who were insured under social security at the time of death. The child must be totally and permanently disabled from a condition which resulted in disability before the age of 18, and must have been dependent on the parent, step-parent or adopting parent.

Daily Price Consideration Determines Best Livestock Market

Choice of a livestock market for Hancock County farmery depends greatly on the availability of markets and the price relationships on the day of sale, says County Extension Director Paul Henderson. In answer to the much asked question "Where and when should I sell my livestock?" Extension Economist Sam Thompson, Iowa State College says that it may be more profitable at different markets on different days.

The net advantages of a market can be measured in the net price it affords, Thompson says. There is no way, however, of deciding which market will yield the high net dollar until gross prices and all pertinent cash and noncash expenses have been carefully considered.

Things to consider in figuring high net dollar include the cash expense at each market and transportation outlay. Other important considerations are the estimated cost of shrinkage and the probable loss from dead and crippled animals. Be sure you start your figuring with the home weight, Thompson advises.

Remember, too, that the prices at various markets are dynamic —changing daily. The price differences between two markets are more apt to change than stay the same.

The individual farmer is often handicapped in selling his livestock, Thompson says. This is because his lots are often too small to effectively use available transportation and justify efforts to fully explore market opportunities. Grading may also present a problem for many farmers.

Choice of time of sale is usually rather closely related to changing receipts and prices. In the fall months, monthly hog receipts tend to increase after September, with declining prices. The amount and quality of feed avalable also has a bearing on the situation. For example, this year's moist corn resulted in delayed movement of hogs, with rising prices. Expanded receipts after January 1 may cause soft prices.

Seasonal behavior of prices is usually quite stable over the years. But, Thompson concludes, a departure from the normal pattern during a year may sometimes create attractive opportunities for sale, or cause heavy losses.

Correction and Apologies

The "DANGER!—Lunch Time" article that appeared in the January 22 edition of the Shamrock demands an explanation. It was not intended that the article should create an opinion in the minds of readers that the conduct of students is not orderly and courteous. Rather, the article was taken from the "Student Press Bulletin" and rewritten and distorted to the extent that it lead readers to believe that students richocheted off dented lockers and dug grooves in the floor in their haste to get to lunch. The staff of the Shamrock offers sincere apologies to its readers.

NORTH ELL TIP TOPPERS

The North Ell Tip Toppers opened their all day meeting by every girl bringing a candy recipe and making them. The candy that was made was presented to our mothers that afternoon at Elaine Jurgemyer's home.

Our meeting was started by saying the 4-H pledge and introducing our mothers for roll call. Seals were presented to the girls who didn't attend Award Night. Lois Wieland gave a demonstration on making cocoa. Nancy Guth and Linda Humphrey gave a demonstration on fancy sandwiches. Marby Abele gave the Country Girls Creed. Elaine Jurgemeyer reported on her trip to Chicago. Record books were explained by Elsie Mae Van Wert.

Farm Tips

Extension Director

Chewing lice are infesting many Iowa poultry flocks this winter, says Entomologist Earle Raun, Iowa State College. They irritate the hens and reduce egg production. The simplest control is one part of 4 percent malathion dust in three parts of wood ash or flour in a dusting box. The hens will treat themselves by walowing in this. If the litter in your laying house is still dry and loose it would pay to spread 1 pound of 4 percent malathion dust to each 40 square feet of litter. If you prefer nicotine sulphate you can use this chemical on roosts as a fumigant according to the manufacturers directions on the container.

Farmers often ask for a retest on seed germination reports between zero and 50 percent says LeRoy Everson, head of the Iowa State College seed testing laboratory. They can't believe their seed tested this low—but it did. However, much of the homegrown seed which is planted each spring in Iowa has not been tested at all. And seed-box surveys show many such low-germinating lots included in this untested seed. This untested but low-germinating seed results in reduced yields, sometimes a complete seeding loss. Test, don't guess!

Crank that tractor fast to get better winter starts, says Extension Agricultural Engineer Dale Hull of Iowa State College. Keep the battery fully charged. Hose the battery top clean to keep eddy currents from escaping through dirt and corrosion. If the engine spins slowly on starts, check for corroded cables. Keep all terminals tight.

What will corn be worth next spring and summer? Extension Economist Tom Rackham, Iowa State College, says there could be a very "soft" market this spring when the large supply of off-quality corn moves. However, the price could stiffen after the distress corn moves. But with the USDA planning to sell even more CCC corn than in 1957 and with some artificially dried 1957 corn available, no strong summer price advance seems likely. For whatever it may indicate, the Chicago futures market shows corn in July to be about 6 cents higher than for March. The only chance for a strong summer price advance is if the 1958 growing season is poor. But the prediction is for a good growing season for corn in 1958.

Is the new internal treatment for cattle grub OK? Extension Entomologist Earle Raun, Iowa State College, answers: Yes, if you are referring to ET-57. It's OK for beef cattle up to 60 days before they are slaughtered. However, it's too late to use ET-57 in Iowa this season. It kills grubs while they're in the cattle. They're appearing now on the backs of cattle. The systemic insecticide can't reach them. After the flies have laid their eggs and the grubs have started their life cycle in the animal, ET-57 will kill them. The time for this treatment in native Iowa cattle begins in September and ends about the middle of January.

Vaccination Against TB

Since the germ that causes tuberculosis was discovered 75 years ago, science has searched for an effective vaccine to protect all of us from the disease. But the answer is still in the future.

One vaccine developed back in the twenties, BCG—Bacillus of Calmette and Guerin—is still used, but has limited effectiveness. Research continues for a better vaccine, but there is nothing new in sight.

As a layman, you aren't too interested in the specific reasons why it is so difficult to develop an ideal vaccine against TB. You want to know whether your children should have the proetction of even an imperfect vaccine.

Mass vaccination of all children in this country is not indicated, according to a recent report of the U S Public Health Service. In some countries where TB is so prevalent that amost every child will be heavily exposed, mass BCG vaccination has proved valuable. However, in this country most of the new cases of TB develop among people infected some time ago. Vaccination is, of course, useless if a person is already infected. Doctors generally recommend BCG vaccination only for special groups—such as those working in hospitals and laboratories or families with a TB patient in the home—people most likely to be exposed.

If public health measures against TB in your community are adequate, the danger that children will be exposed is not great. A regular tuberculin test will provide a check on whether there is such exposure, and then preventive measures can be taken. Your doctor will tell you if there is any special reason why your children should be vaccinated against TB.

Cattlemen can look for continued strong meat prices and narrower feeding margins in 1958, according to Iowa State College farm economist Tom Rackham.

Relatively low meat supplies kept prices rising during last fall. Rackham expects 1958 meat prices to stay near current levels. However, hog prices could suffer when the large pig crop planned for this spring hits market next fall. Beef prices would tumble if large numbers of cattle reach market at once. If feeders sell their cattle freely enough so that shortages and bunched marketings don't occur, Rackham believes the 1958 market will remain stable.

If prices should drop sharply, feeders could probably gain by withholding their animals from market. But extended feeding has the disadvantage of increasing chances for bunched marketings later on, Rackham points out.

Feeders may also want to hold their cattle because reasonably priced replacements will be scarce this year. Feeding margins will be narrower in 1958. But feeding to heavier weights may be costlier in the long run than bargaining for available replacements, Rackham says.

Currently farmers have been feeding cattle to heavier weights. As a result cattle slaughter ran 10 percent lower during the last 3 months of 1957 than for the same period in 1956. And calf slaughter was down even more, Rackham notes.

This situation means heavier than normal slaughter supplies for 1958, both number wise and weight wise. Rackham believes these heavy marketings may get some relief from recent drops in heifer, cow and calf slaughter and the fact that gilts and ewe lambs have been kept for breeding.

4-H Leaders to Attend Recognition Day Program

Four leaders of Hancock County 4-H clubs and one member of the Cooperative Extension Service staff will attend the Eighth Annual 4-H Leaders' Recognition Day at Iowa State College, at Ames, on January 27. Selected to represent the county's leaders are Mrs George P Smidt, Woden; Mrs Aaron Stromer, Garner; Donald Burk, Goodell and John Miller, Britt. Paul Henderson, county extension director, will accompany the delegation.

The annual event is arranged and conducted by the Agricultural and Home Economics Extension Service of the college with the cooperation of the Iowa Chain Store Council, Inc. The Council provides funds for the day's program and for the banquet at which the leaders are guests.

Emphasis at this year's meeting will be on the local club leader's role in helping young people to understand themselves and about the world of work. Attention will be given, too, to a better understanding of the influences which help young people to make up their minds on decisions that affect their futures.

Mr and Mrs Art Kudle entertained the following to a 500 card party Saturday evening: Mr and Mrs Clarence Lenz, Mr and Mrs Marvin Barz, and Dr and Mrs A H Dulmes.

Mrs Albert Ausborn, Mrs John Hanson and Mrs Luther Schmidt called on Mrs Dale Linahon and Mrs Tenna Gifford Wednesday afternoon.

Weekend guests in the home of Rev and Mrs Melvin Miller and family were Mrs Gladys Clifton and Mr and Mrs Bill Gearhart and son of Hapkenton, and James Clifton of Ames.

Riehm Asks For $30 Million for Soil Bank

State Representative Curtis G Riehm, Garner, today sent the following telegram to President Eisenhower, Senator Hickenlooper and Senator Martin.

"For the good of the Iowa Farmer, request additional 30 million dollars for soil bank acreage reserve in Iowa. Present allotment was exhausted within a few days. Additional funds are necessary to improve the status of agriculture and reduce price depressing surpluses.

"Request immediate action."

Congress must immediately appropriate additional funds for the soil bank acreage reserve, according to Riehm. The 31 million dollars allocated for Iowa was signed up within a few days and it is estimated another 30 million dollars should be allocated to Iowa, and thus, if used, would reduce corn acreage in Iowa by by approximately 12 percent.

Net farm income is very unsatisfactory, says Riehm, with the reduction of corn acres by the soil bank plan the farmers income could be brought in line with labor and industry.

January Warmer than Last Year

January, 1958, was one of the warmest Januarys in recent years according to weather records kept by Earl Henschen, custodian of the Hancock County Courthouse. The average temperature for the month was a balmy 21.64 or 11.32 degrees higher than the 10.32 degrees recorded for the same month a year earlier. The minimum average for the month was 14.64 degrees and the maximum was 28.64 degrees.

The low temperature was a minus 5 on the morning of January 3rd and the high was a balmy 47 degrees on January 9. The mercury dipped to zero and below on only 7 days during the month just ended, 17 days were listed with temperatures of zero or below.

The month was comparatively dry with only .35 of an inch of precipitation, most of which fell in 4 inches of snow recorded udring the month? A year ago .36 of an inch fell. The largest amount of moisture recorded during the month fell in the 24 hour period ending at 7:00 a.m. on January 26 when .15 of an inch fell in two inches of snow. Eighteen days were listed as cloudy and 12 days were listed as fair. In spite of a small amount of precipitation, humidity was relatively high and corn left in fields and stored in cribs contained a reltively high percentage of moisture at the end of the month and did not dry as much as it usually does during January.

THE FARM OUTLOOK

By Paul Henderson
County Extension Director

Cattle prices during the next few months may depend a good deal on developments in the far western states, according to Tom Rackham, Iowa State College farm economist.

On January 1 the western states were feeding 13 percent fewer cattle than on the same day in 1957. Colorado and Utah were the only two western states showing gains, and they totaled only 15,000 head for the two states. California, on the other hand, was feeding 103,000 fewer cattle. Rackham believes the western situation will make an attractive deficit market for outside producers. Lots of Canalian cattle have already moved into the west. And since there is a scarcity of low-cost feed in the coastal area, there is a better-than-usual market there for plainer midwest slaughter animals, Rackham says.

Danger of bunching of wheat-pasture-fed and short-fed animals into midwestern markets during the next 60 to 120 days is the biggest immediate risk in the cattle market. This might mean the year's weakest markets, Rackham observes.

The total United States feeding picture showed 3 percent fewer cattle on feed January 1 than on the first day of 1957. The nine corn-belt states, however, shipped in 24 percent more cattle during the last 3 months of 1957 than in the last quarter of the preceding year. But Rackham points out that many of these animals are being used to clean up fields and can't be counted as being on feed.

The abundance of cheap feed in the corn belt is one good reason for the concentration of feeder cattle in these states, says Rackham. Corn belt feeders simply have outbid eastern and western buyers for feeder animals in order to take advantage of the feed supply.

"Challenge" Groups take Up "Century of Change"

Hancock County residents are taking up the "Challenge to Iowa" this week as they begin discussion of the first topic in the 6 week prograf.

"1858-1958 — A Century of Change" is the title of topic 1, says extension director Henderson. The story of "A Century of Change" points out that Iowans have faced challenges from the state's beginning.

While today's challenges are concerned with social and economic problems — improving farm income, expanding industry, adjusting communites and families to change—early day challenges were more basic, indicates the extension director.

He said Iowa's rich land was the magnet for most early settlers, and readying land for crop production was one of the first challenges. 9 out of 10 persons gained their living directly from the farm in the frontier period of Iowa's history.

Another challenge that faced early settlers: providing adequate schools for Iowa young people; is still with us, notes Henderson.

The earliest school was founded in Lee county in 1830. By 1846 673 school districts had been organized, with 105 school operating. And by 1870, there were 7,243 common schools. Iowa ranked first in literacy that year and has remained a leader at the intermediate level. But high school and college training has lagged.

(Evidence of this challenge remains. Today 17 states are above Iowa in education of adults. And more than half the states have a higher percentage of residents with collage degrees.)

Most of Iowa's early settlers had firm religious convictions. The challenge of establishing places of worship was met as soon as possible. By 1850, there were 207 churches in the state.

Religious training and schooling were often the responsibility of the family, despite early efforts to establish schools and churches. And since most of the children would follow in the footsteps of their parents and become farmers or farmers wives, the family was chiefly responsible for their vocational training.

The individual family was the center of social and cultural life. The family attended community activities as a group.

Iowa, like all newly settled areas, was confronted with the challenge of establishing and maintaining law and order, Henderson continues. Between 1846 and 1860, 70 persons were hanged by vigilance committees. In the decade between 1860 and 1870, mobs lynched 60 persons.

The first territorial legislature met in Burlington in 1837. The first capitol building was built at Iowa City in 1842. Then in 1857, Des Moines became the state capitol. In that year, there were 97 counties in Iowa, and the township had become established as the basis for a school system, law enforcement and tax collections.

While government, educational and religious institutions and agriculture were developing, Henderson says, industry was also making a start.

Its beginnings were small. In 1840, there were 5 flour mills, 37 grist mills and 75 sawmills. They provided employment for 154 men. However, industry grew rapidly. By 1870, there were 6,566 manufacturing estabiishments employing 25.000 workers. From then on, processing of Iowa farm products helped industry grow by leaps and bounds.

Rapid expansion in Iowa continued until the turn of the century. By 1900, net migration into Iowa had passed the million mark. Then came the beginnings of change that confront Iowa with its present challenges. Migration turned outward.

By 1950, Iowa had supplied more than a million people to other parts of the country. And out-migration continues at the net rate of 15,000 to 20,00 persons per year.

The year 1900 market the peak number of farms in Iowa. 228,000, and the peak in rural population. 10 years later, 43 percent of the population was still engaged in agriculture. In 1950, only 29 percent of the working force was engaged in agriculture. The number of farms has declined by 38.000 since the turn of the century.

Other developments changed farm productions methods and farm living. The revolution in transportation had a great impact on agriculture. It influenced changes in markets. Mechanization and agricultural research increased the productivity of the farm worker.

Indutry has continued to grow, until today the value of industrial products is beginning to surpass the worth of farm production. Even with this growth, Henderson comments, many people point out that much greater industrial expansion is needed to balance the agriculture and busines-industry segments of our Iowa economy.

Challenges faced today are a result of change, Henderson concludes. It will take further changes to meet these challenges. But he stresses that Iowa's history is founded on finding the answers to challenges.

Band and Vocal News

As the new semester started, we welcomed the eighth grade students into our band. There are now 42 members in the Klemme High School Band. The grade school band has 23 members.

Wednesday evening, Feb 12, there will be a recital at the Klemme gym of the grade students who have a solo for the Grade Music Contest. The contest will be February 15 at Mason City. So let's all attend and give these kids a big send-off. I believe they will do their best to bring home as many 1's as possible for Klemme.

March 4 is the annual Hancock County Chorus Festival at the Garner Memorial Building. This chorus will consist of the mixed choruses from each school in Hancock County. The program will consist of 8 chorus numbers with each school bringing one solo or small group for the program.

Mrs Whitney plans to take the Double Mixed Quartet as Klemme's small group for the evening.

Let's have a good representation from Klemme this year at the evening performances.

March 14 is the Klemme Grade School operetta consisting of the first through fifth grades.

ELL MIDGETS MEET IN GRADE SCHOOL BASEMENT

The meeting of the Ell Midgets was held at the Grade school basement on January 20. The meetings will be held here until further notice. Sheets for the record book were handed out. Lowell Greiman gave a talk on parlimentary procedure. The officers also demonstrated parlimentary procedure. Pamphlets on fertilizer, hereford cattle, and soil insects were handed out.

Handy

Trixie, a 5 year old terrier belonging to Mrs Louis Couchman of near Sewal, does everything but answer when the phone rings. Mrs Couchman is on a party line; when the phone gives two "shorts," Trixie summons her to the phone. The dog ignores other rings.

At Tama, Mrs Mary Hagerty has observed her 102nd birthday. She spent the day receiving callers.

How to Be Friendly

1. Draw outsiders into conversation.
2. Smile and greet people.
3. Be INTERESTED IN OTHERS.
4. Omit "I" from your vocabulary.
5. Opportunities - church, dating, etc.
6. Put yourself in another's position.
7. Common courtesy.
8. Compliments.
9. Be a good listener.
10. Try to avoid outbursts of temper.
11. Free yourself from petty snobishness and social prejudices.
12. Remember, it takes less muscles to smile than it does to frown.

In speech class Tuesday afternoon the Seniors and Mrs Oberg were discussing ways to be more friendly. They decided on the ones listed above.

As you have probably noticed the fourth item listed is "Omit "I" from your vocabulary." They decided to do just that for one day. This definitely was not easy to do.

The "I" experiment was to keep a person from centering the conversation around himself and it proved quit enteresting. It was a lot of fun to hear the different ways sentences were constructed without using "I".

Basketball Fans' Code

During the basketball season I will:

1. Applaud good plays made by either team.
2. Consider our opponents and fans as guests and treat them accordingly.
3. Consider the officials as the proper authorities and accept their decisions without demonstration.
4. Cheer the entry of both teams on the playing floor.
5. Do everything in my power to prevent heckling, booing, throwing of objects, or other acts of discourtesy.
6. Support the team and coach regardless of the record of the team, and consider the age, skill and experience of the players.
7. Take pride in promoting good sportsmanship among the spectators, players and coaches.
8. Attempt to become more familiar with the rules and fundamentals of the game, so as to be more intelligent and understanding as a spectator.

—RUBBERNECK. Meservey, Iowa.

SENIOR INTERVIEW

It is a nice sunny afternoon and we find Richard Meyer, age 17, a senior from Klemme high school sitting at the edge of a pond of water trying his hardest to catch himself a few fish. Soon we hear him humming the tune "Kisses Sweeter Than Wine" and then he is heard saying something about being a chemical engineer and going to school at Wartburg College, which is at Waverly, after finishing high school. Since the fish don't seem to be hungry, Richard is starting to get hungry for a tenderloin steak with French fries.

If you don't find Richard at this sport you may find him bowling. or listening to the Lawrence Welk band. He would also enjoy going to a movie starring Sonia Heni, or Rock Hudson in a show like "Man That Turned to Stone."

Richard is on the Annual and Shamrock Staff in school. Bookkeepping and Chemistry are his favorite subjects and his pet peeve is someone who thinks they are better than they really are.

Grad Stresses Study Value

College bound students may find food for thought in this letter found in the STUDENT PRESS BULLETIN. The letter was written by a college freshman to her friends in high school. We quote:

"This is quite a different sort of life from what I have been used to. All my professors are very nice. but they have made no bones about the fact that we are on our own. What we do is up to us. If we want to study, fine—if not. it's our own misfortune."

"I am not finding it too easy to get adjusted, but since I do like it here so much, I know that everything will eventually level off. When I get a B, it's a cause for celebration. The competition is on a much higher level than in high school. I don't think I have ever been in a group consisting of so many serious students. It's a wonderful feeling to know that almost everyone really wants to learn!"

"I have just finished studying for a French quiz. Tonight I have to go through—that's right, THROUGH an English book. And I used to complain about the homework at HPHS!"

Question of the Week

The question for this week is: "What do you think of the 1958 cars?" Here are some of the answers we received from the students.

Margeurite K: Some of them are O K. But it depends on who is in them.

James Beier: I guess they are all right if you have one.

Karen: I guess they are okay. However, I like the 1957 cars better.

Ronald B: I think the 1958 cars are all right but I'm wondering when they are going to increase the horsepower to 700.

Elaine E: I think they are real neat, most of them, anyway. It depends on who is in them.

Daryl Schlei: I think they are okay, especially the Mercurys and Fords.

Lois: I don't know, it's getting harder to tell that a car IS a car, especially the 1958 models. They look more like low flying jets.

Jerry Stokesbary: They are all right, but who can tell the front from the back?

Susan: The 1958 cars are O K as long as it is a Ford. It depends on who is in it.

Daryl Kothenbeutel: I think th

Dary Kothenbeutel: I think the only cars that have really changed in looks are the Chevrolets. The others are about the same.

Jean Meyer: They are all right I guess. But I like the 57's better.

Karen M: Sot much.

Velma C: I think they are real neat. Especially the new styling and the color combinations. But, who has the money to buy one?

GUESS WHO

Our "Guess Who" personality for this week is a brown haired senior boy. He has brown eyes and stands around 5' 11". "Guess Who" is the president of the Senior Class. After school you will always find him working behind the meat counter in Sawtelle's. This person drives a dark blue 1950 Ford with white fender skirts. Can you guess who this senior boy is?

Last week's guess who personality was Dorothy Kroehnke.

CLASS NEWS

The seniors are starting a new unit in English this semester—speech. Last Thursday the first speeches were given. The speeches were about each person, like an introduction, and the students discovered they had a few comedians in the class. Richard Meyer walked up to the front of the room, turned around, then announced, "I'd like to have a glass of water to drown the butterflies in my stomach!" "My greatest ambition," according to Doug Roul, "is to graduate from high school." We trust that Doug was only kidding.

"Making allowances, for your first try at giving a speech," Mrs Oberg said, "you all did very well."

I think the other students will agree with me in saying that this unit should be a lot of fun.

OFFICIAL COUNTY PAPER | KLEMME, IOWA, FEBRUARY 12, 1958 | VOLUME 63 | NUMBER 13

Some Random Thoughts

BY L. E. "PETE" K.

As County Supervsior, Sam Barber is retiring from his political job at the close of his present term, he requested that the Times print the following letter, signed by him. We are glad to oblige.

Dear Friends:

As I do not choose to be a candidate to succeed myself in office as county supervisor, I wish first of all to thank the good citizens of Hancock County for the courtesies extended me and the confidence and trust placed in me.

I must call to attention a few facts (which can be verified) dealing with some controversial issues for which we have been severely criticized. We have been compared to Wright County on engineer's salary. In 1956 Wright County had $650,000.00 of road work at an engineering cost of $34,703.34 or $.3 percent of the total and their engineer's salary was $5,000.00. Hancock County with an engineer whose salary is $8200.00 had $950,000 worth of road work at an engineering cost of $30,174.28 or 3.1 percent of the total. Hancock County is doing its own engineering while some other counties employ outside engineering firms.

We have constructed 30 miles of blacktop road and would have had considerable more had it not been for the drastic cut in the budget two years ago. We have approximately 60 miles of stabilized base, ready for blacktop and still 10 petitions signed by progressive citizens on file awaiting action.

Our new roads are built to the latest highway commission specifications with right of way widths of 86 feet between fences and a 24 to 26 foot top, 2 to 1 slope and with ditches that meet highway safety standards.

Our new bridges are at least two cars wide and do not create taffic bottlenecks. They can't be washed out and are of permanent construction. Again safety is a factor considered.

When you consider the cost of engineering in Hancock County with other counties who are employing outside engineering firms we feel they are not out of line.

Severe criticism has been level' ed at the Board for paying our engineer $8200. Just to set the thinking straight, three nearby counties all of them 12 township counties are paying $8200, $8400 and $9000 respectively. Other nearby counties are paying similar salaries and the state average is near the $8000 mark.

The tremendous demand for engineering services because of the Federal highway program has perhaps increased salaries faster than we woud have liked but these are factors over which we have no control. A number of counties untill recently were still without a registered engineer.

Hancock County has adopted a far sighted program with reference to local road maintenance and have 8-10 million yards of gravel in one farm alone and gravel costs have been skyrocketing.

The pressing demand for vault and office space was a constant headache to us.

In our efforts to alleviate the situation we purchased the old Lutheran church as a step toward correcting it. The divorce of the Farm Bureau and Extension Service further complicated mat-

Iowa Challenged to Keep Pace With A Changing World

"A century ago a prairie schooner could make the trip from Fort Madison to Lansing, (Iowa) in 3 weeks. Today a Russian sputnik travels the same distance in space in less than 2 minutes."

That introduction to the second fact sheet in the "Challenge to Iowa" discussion series is a dramatic example of how the world has changed—and is changing, says Paul Henderson, Hancock county extension director.

How change affects Iowa and Hancock county is readily apparent, Henderson says. Iowa no longer earns most of its income from agriculture, even though Iowa farm output has doubled in the last 50 years.

During the same period, the farm labor force was cut one-fourth. There are 15 percent fewer farms in Iowa than there were in 1900. Meanwhie industry has been growing steadily in the state.

Of most importance, Henderson says, these economic changes create other changes, too. Changes have taken place in living habits, in educational needs in income opportunities and ways in which the community can or should serve the individual.

This pattern of change isn't peculiar to Iowa. It's apparent in the United States and in the world, Henderson relates.

Like Iowa, the U S had its beginnings in an agricultural economy. In 1820, about 72 percent of the nation's working force made its living in agriculture. By 1950, less than 12 percent of the US population remained on farms. In 1956, the American farmer accounted for only 4.3 percent of the national income.

This shift from an agricultural to an industrial economy isn't limited to the U S either. Russia also is building an industrial society. And the underdeveloped lands of Asia, Africa and Latin America have begun the same process.

Populations of these vast areas, dissatisfied with poverty, eager to raise living standards, improve education, gain a bigger share of the world's goods and comforts have accepted CHANGE as the key to the future, Henderson says.

These people are anxious to move ahead. They are looking for examples to follow. The western world has furnished leadership in technology over the years. But now Russia has moved up in striking fashion.

Underdeveloped areas need capital as well as technology. Russia is providing capital—since 195 5trey rave supplied 50 percent more nonmilitary economic aid to these areas than has the United States.

Which way of doing things will these people choose—Western or Communist? Many experts say that steping out in front in a world of rapid change is the biggest challenge facing the United States—and Iowa—in 1958.

Iowa is involved in this worldwide challenge to grow and change for several reasons, he continues. It's a leading farm state, furnishing 10 percent of the nation's food supply. It's a growing industrial state. It shares both in the advantages and problems of a growing America.

As Iowa is a key state in this nation's economy, the United States is the most important single nation in the world's economy—and the key nation in the anti-Communist alliance.

With an important role in the nation and the world, Iowa is challenged to keep pace with change, Henderson emphasizes.

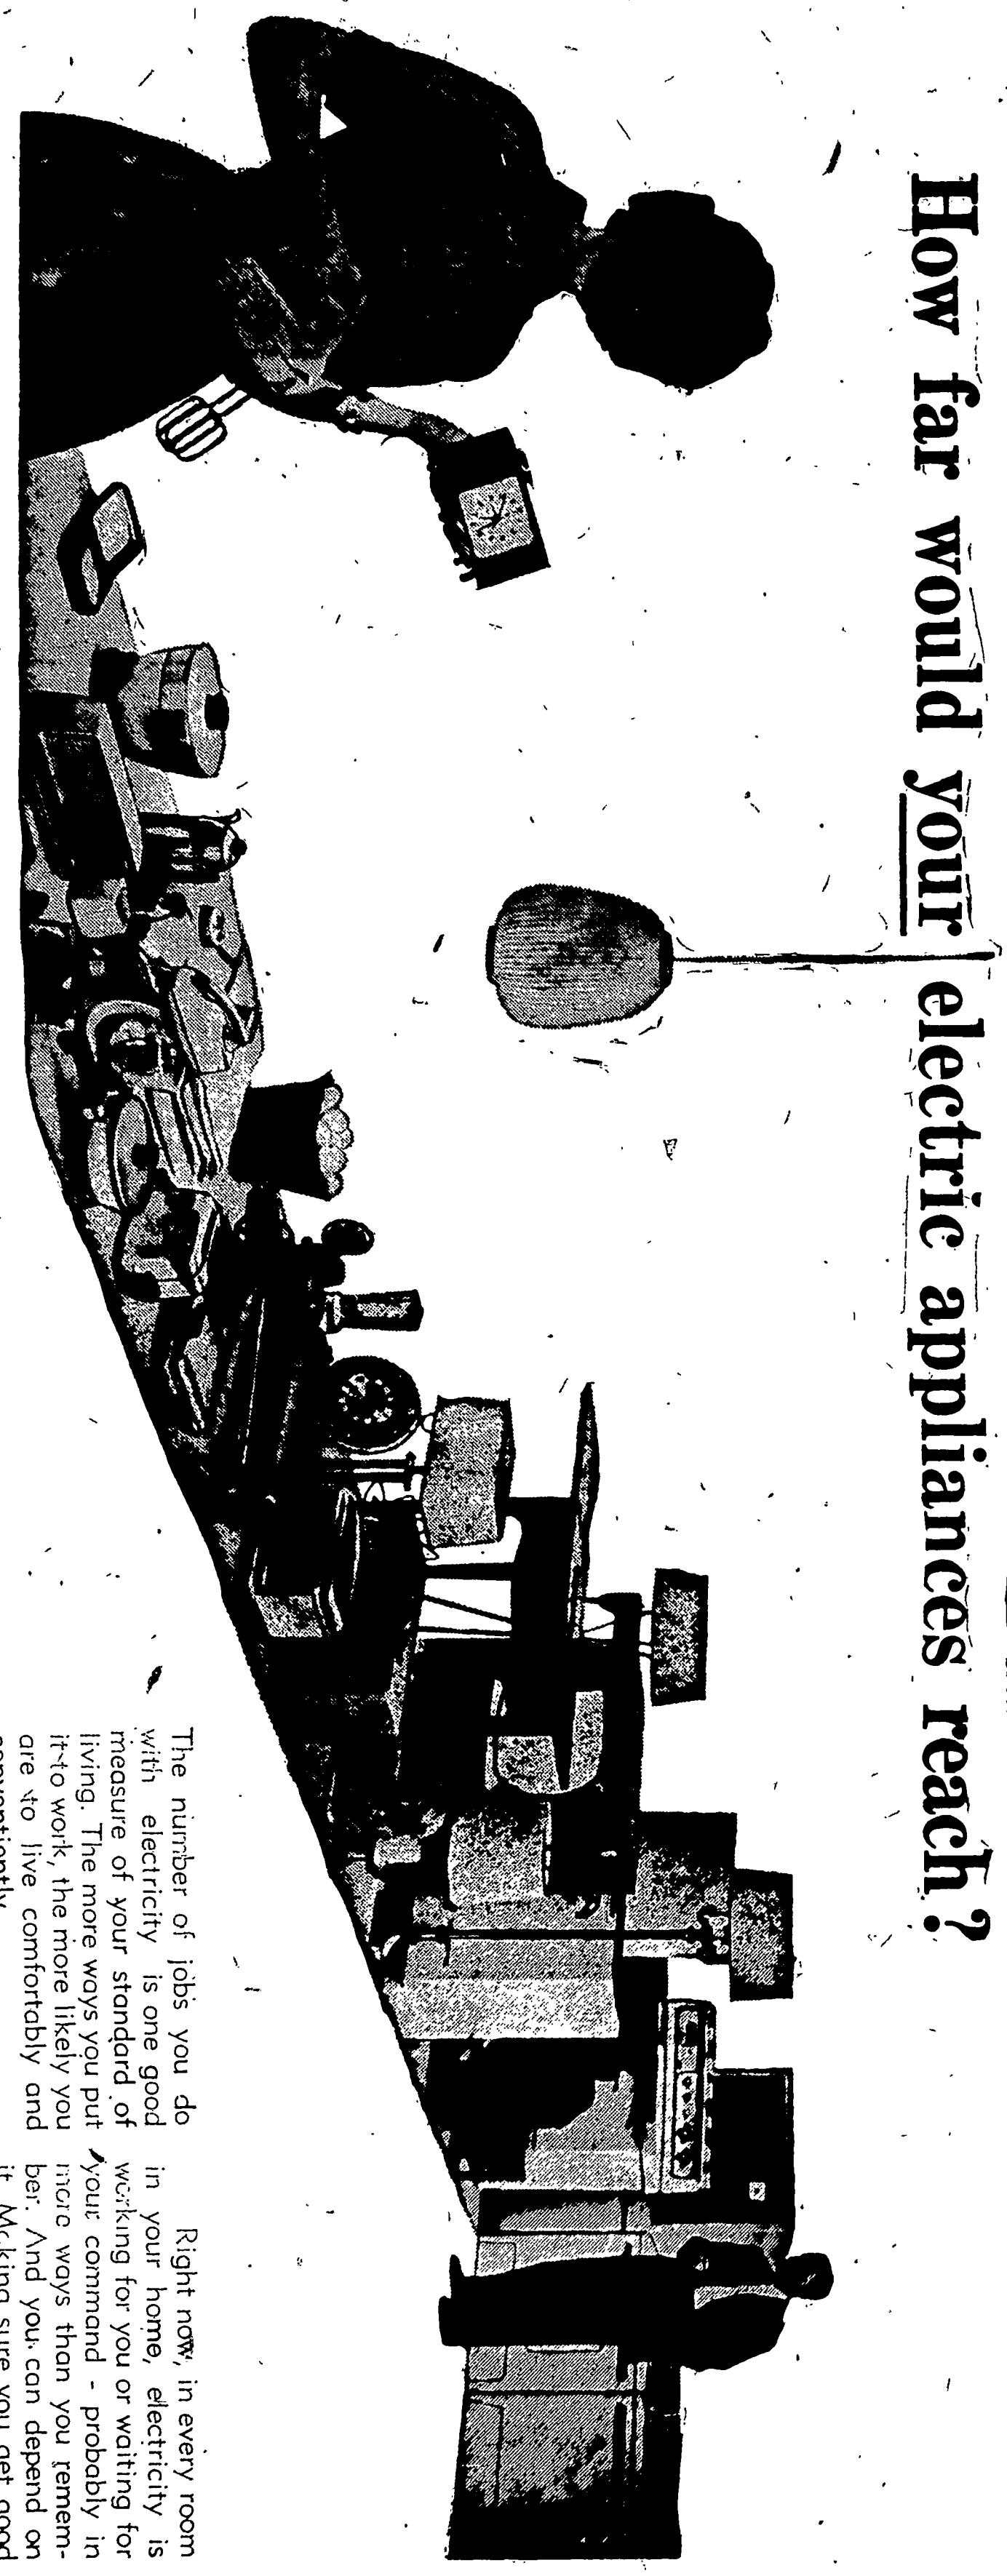
IOWA ELECTRIC LIGHT AND POWER Company



How far would your electric appliances reach?

The number of jobs you do with electricity is one good measure of your standard of living. The more ways you put it to work, the more likely you are to live comfortably and conveniently.

You may use electricity widely because it's so cheap and plentiful.

Right now, in every room in your home, electricity is working for you or waiting for your command - probably in more ways than you remember. And you can depend on it. Making sure you get good service is the main job of the men and women of the Iowa Electric Light and Power Company.

Who Is A Cheater

A cheater is a person who works for personal gain at the expense of others, or one who does not give everyone an equal chance.

A recent survey proved that most high school students believe that cheating is done by almost everyone. Some students report that real pressure has been exerted in them to cheat in order to keep up grades or so they could be one of the crowd. Cheating is very highly organized in some schools.

No one is completely honest. No one is bothered by cheating just this once but they are liable to find that when the next opportunity to cheat comes along it will not be as easy to resist. Cheating is a habit with him and this can lead to very serious trouble. Stealing is just a very advanced form a cheating and a habitual cheater may find this easy to do also after a while.

A cheater not only harms his fellow beings but himself as well. An example of this is when a student cheats in his school work, sometime during his life he may be held responsible for some fact and he will find that he doesn't know the fact because he did not try a gain this knowledge honestly in school. If a student acquired grades dishonestly his education will be of no value to him.

We as Christians have been taught that we were created by God with freedom to grow and develop as long as we follow his command. He does not will us to push aside our fellow man for our own personal gain. — Donald Dirks, Meservey Rubberneck.

Romantic Might-Have Beens

Listen girls, if Cupid aims his arrows at your heart this Valentine's Day, you'd better not refuse his offer of love!

History is full of girls who said "no" to proposals from men who adored them; and all too often, these rejected Romeos went on to great heights.

Whoever heard of Desiree Artet, Margaret Belches, or Ellen Sewell? If these three women had bees wiser is affairs of the heart, they still might be remembered as the wives, respectively, of the great composer Peter Tchaikowsky, the writer Sir Walter Scott and the philosopher Henry Thoreau. Sad to say, they declined the hands of these men—all of whom went on to greatness without them.

They Spurned Dumas, Goethe—

Do any bells ring when you read te names of Adele Dalvin, Lette Buff, or Rebecca Pardee?

Alexander Dumas, the highly successful writter, asked Adele Dalvin to be his love, but she declined. Lette Buff turned her back on Wolfgang Goethe, who went on to become Germany's great poet and philosopher Rebecca Pardee is remembered because she rejected a Yankee lawyer named Noah Webster, who became world famous as a concoctor of dictionaries.

Refusal in marriage by Anne Coleman, James Buchanan never married, but went on to become America's only bachelor president. Rebecca Burwell lost her chance to become first first lady of the United States when she said "no" to Thomas Jefferson. Catherine Floyd did the same when she rejected James Madison.

Robert Burns

Before the Scottish poet Robert Burns published his first professional work, he was "seriously smitten by the charms" of a local farmer's daughter, Ellison Bagbie, but she refused to give him her heart. Soon the darling of Scotland had many love affairs and before long, a wife—Yeon Armour.

Another man "richly blessed with the friendship of many noble women" was the composer Ludwig von Beethoven. His name will live in the world of music forever, but the woman who rejected him, Magdalene Willmann, is forgotten.

The great lover and romantic poet, Lord Byron, experienced "his strongest passion" as a youth when he fell in love with a Mary Ann Charworth. However, she was not flattered by the romantic attentions of the "lame boy," and so spurned the youth who became one of the most sought-after males of his century!

Frank Munsey

Born in Maine, Frank Munsey came to New York in the 1880's and began building a great chain of magazines and newspapers. It is said he made a million dollars every year for 30 years. Too bad Annie Downs didn't become Mrs Munsey.

The same goes for Maria Beadnell who was asked in marriage by a young English journalist. but refused. The journalist, Charles Dickens, became the wealthy and respected author. Miss Beadnell became Mrs Henry Winter—but who remembers.

Last, but far from least, there's Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart, one of the greatest composers of all time. His romantic attentions were spurned by a singer named Aloysia Weber—so he married her sister!

What is a Basketball Player?

Between the innocence of boyhood and the dignity of man, we find a sturdy creature called the basketball player. Basketball players come in assorted weights heights, jersy colors and numbers but all have the same creed To play every second of every game to the best of their ability.

Basketball players are found everywhere—underneath, on top of, running around, passing by, twisting from or driving through the enemy. Teammates rub them, officials penalize them; students cheer them; kid brothers idolize them; coaches criticize them; alumni tolerate them and mothers worry about them.

A basketball player is courage in tennis shoes, hope in a persey, pride in a sweat jacket and the best of young manhood in warm up pants. When your team is behind, a basketball player is incompetent, careless, indecisive lazy, unco-ordinated and stupid. When your team threatens to turn the tide of battle, however, he becomes careful, competent, ambitious, fleet footed and as brilliant as Einstein.

One thing about this wonderful creature is certain. You can criticize him but you can't discourage him. You can defeat his team, but never his spirit. Might as well admit—be you alumnus, coach or fan—he is your personal representative on the field, your symbol of fair and hard play. He may not be an All-American but he is an example of the American Way. He is judged not for his race, religion, social standing, or finances, but by the democratic yardsticks of how well he sacrifices individual glory for the overall success of his team.

Question of the Week

The Shamrock staff is playing Cupid this week in honor of Valentine's Day.

Our question of the week is: Who would you like to receive a valentine from—or who would you like to send one to?

Donna Carolus—Would like to receive one from a very favorite senior boy. If I can afford it, I'll send one, too.

Lois Hummel—I would like to receive a valentine from Rick Nelson.

Paul Gilpin—I would like to receive a valentine from all of the girls.

Sherryl Clabaugh—I would like to receive a valentine from Bob M. I'm not going to send anybody any.

Elaine Jurgemeyer—Would like to receive one from the Navy's Saratoga. I'll send one to someone who would like to receive letters from Santa Claus.

Dorothy Kroehnke—I'd like to receive one from a junior and probably will send one to "someone." (Who could this be?)

Betty Clayton—I'm going to send a valentine to two people—one to a person who is in the Air Force and one to a special guy from Joice High School who is a senior there. Would also like to receive a valentine from each of them.

Candace Carlson—I'll never tell. Not that he isn't worth it.

Barbara Clayton—I'd like to receive one from a certain sophomore boy from Klemme.

Joyce Lassahn—It might be nice to receive a valentine from some kid in Belmond, maybe.

Mardell Stadtlander — From someone I'll probably never get one from.

TEACHER INTERVIEW

Mr Charles DeForrest Whitford was born September 6, 1922. (You can figure his age.)

He went to school at Webster High School, Webster, Wisconsin; Superior Teachers College, Wisconsin; and the University of Minnesota. By the way his home town was Webster, Wisconsin. Before Mr Whitford came here, he taught at Backduck, Minnesota. He has been here for 7 years, including this year.

For listening enjoyment, Mr Whitford plays records and enjoys the New York Philharmonic. Watch out students, (especially those of you in band) here is his pet peeve and I quote, "people who forget to take their lessons (and, or) music."

Photography is a hobby of Mr Whitfords, while his favorite food it T-bone steak.

IF YOU WANT TO LAST—DON'T DRIVE FAST.

SENIOR INTERVIEW

On July 31 ,1939, Mr and Mrs Leon Gilpin were the proud parents of Paul Leon. Around Klemme high school, Paul is known as "Pete." His favorite pastime is bowling. (Maybe champ some day.) "Between Heaven and Hell" is his best movie and he likes James Dean as an actor. Teachers!! are his pet peeve. When he is around a juke box he will stick a nickel in to hear "She's Neat." T-bone steak would make him a good supper. Pete's future plans are to either help on the farm or join the Armed Forces.

RESOLUTIONS

Many aches, pains and miseries
Are caused by New Years resolutions.
Although people try many cures
There is only one solution.
People resolve this and that.
To paint the house and feed the cat.
To shingle the roof and fix the door,
To mend the sink and wax the floor.
To buy a window screen for the glass,
To pull the weeds and cut the grass.
To return the things that we borrow
If this is done we stop much sorrow!
To do all these things and many more
But the same thing happens as in years before:
The resolutions are forgotten—
Nothing is returned, repaired or boughten.
If this happens to you each year
Then bend close and listen clear.
There is only one solution:
Resolve not to make New Year's Resolutions!

COAL: A purchase which not only goes to the buyer, but the cellar as well.

COINCIDE: What most people do when it rains.

SYNONYM: Something you put on toast.

LOVE: Softening of the heartery.

DIETING: Penalty for exceeding the feed limit.

GINGER ALE: A drink that tastes like your foot when it falls asleep.

MOUNTAIN CLIMBER: One who's good till the last drop.

ADVERTISING: A method of making you think you've longed all your life for something you never heard of before.

STRENGTH OF MIND: A person who can eat one salted peanut.

The senior class of Klemme high school is sponsoring a bake sale at Wellemeyer's February 15, 1:30 p.m., to raise money for their skip day.

We hope you will all come and support the senior class.

Biology Experiment

Class: Biology.

Projects: To analyze a living organism.

1st day: Looked for material. Found material on neck of student in front of me.

3rd day: Studied material with naked eye.

4th day: Studied material with microscope.

5th day: Found bug to be dead.

6th day: Looked for more material.

7th day: Decided to study crayfish crab. (Commonly called crab.) Found crab when dog came out of marsh yiping.

8th day: Went to doctor—got pinched by crab.

9th day: Experimented. Put blue ink in water. Crab turned blue.

10th day: Found article in paper offering reward for a blue crab.

11th day: Looked into article found it to be offered by someone who lived in a place called Pontiac.

12th day: Found crab to have turned red. Could not discover reason.

13th day: Discovered someone had put red ink in water.

14th day: Put red and blue ink in water. Teacher examined progress of experiment. Turned green from observing red and blue two-toned crab.

15th day: Teacher again examined progress. Turned white and left the room.

16th day: Crab died. The poor thing couldn't tell red from blue and got mixed up and ate orange lady bug.

Expenses

Red ink	.60
Blue ink	.75
Doctor bill	$3.00
TOTAL	$4.35

What I learned from project: 1. Crabs turn colors. 2. Teachers have very weak stomachs.

First Shave

With lather spread wide till it's hiding his hide,
And a mouth that's determined and grim,
It being first—and performance
unrehearsed,
He's on edge, and the edge is on him.
Just notice those eyes, full of surprise,
And popping a bit from their sockets!
You'll see no such gaze till those still distant days,
When passengers climb into rockets.
Intending, perhaps, to impress
other chaps,
On a girl (he has visions of wedlock)
He takes up a stance, and he takes quite a chance.
With a razor and also a headlock.
A shave, at the start, requires courage and heart,
And pride in the otherwise meek.
Yet in more ways than one,
When it's all said and done,
It's likely to take lots of cheek!
Simplicity, of all things, is hardest to be copied.—Steele.

• RANDOM THOUGHTS

ters and we attempted to and are pursuing a program of improvement of this condition as rapidly as this can be accomplished with funds available commensurate with good business practice. We have made some mistakes in this program which we readily admit but they were made because of changing circumstances and not deliberate as some would believe.

Through the efforts of our board and Hancock County Public Health Nurse, Marcia Mitchell we are a part of the Mental Health Center at Mason City and mentally ill persons who have been neglected far too long, now are receiving treatment and we feel it is money well spent.

The foregoing are but a few of the facts which I could present. Before you pass judgement too harshly, I would beg of you to check for yourself the record which is open to inspection to anyone interested.

I am proud to have been a part of the progress in Hancock county and have enjoyed every minute as your servant as County Supervisor. My mistakes have been honest mistakes. My reason for retiring at the end of my present term (January 1st, 1960) is not the criticism which I frequently hear because a public servant who performs his duty in conformance to law will be criticised, but because I shall be in my 77th year and believe that is old enough to retire.

Again I want to thank you all for the many courtesies extended and for any consideration you may give this letter. May God richly bless each and every one of you.

Very Sincerely,
S. A. Barber.

Irene Balliet Meets With Church Leaders

Miss Irene Balliett, Field work Coordinator from the Board of Christian Education and Publication of the United Church of Christ (Evangelical and Reformed) spent three days last week working with the church school staff of Immanuel United Church of Christ (E & R) in Klemme. The church's program of christian education was studied and suggestions and plans made for utilizing new facilities to be available soon.

Among suggestions made was that a completely departmentalized church school, serving the various age groups from nursery children to aged adults be established. The new addition to the present structure will make such possible. It represents the church's answer to the needs for Christian education in the community for which the church feels a responsibility.

The consistory of Immanuel Church has set Sunday, May 4, 1958 as the day for dedication of both the new educational unit and the new parsonage.

Mr and Mrs Howard Schoenwetter and family left Sunday for their home in Maryland, after visiting here for ten days.

Schoolmasters Vote to Discontinue County Basketball Tourney

The Hancock County Boys Basketball Tournament which has been held each year for the past 38 years will not be held next year. The School Masters Club, which is the sponsor of the tournament, at its meeting held in Garner on February 12, voted by majority to discontinue the County Tournament for the 1958-59 school year. The club postponed action on the matter at its meeting in January to enable the members of the club to gather information and to consider all facts and work out a solution if possible, before a final decision was reached.

Facts thoroughly discussed and considered by the full membership of the club before a decision to dicontinue the tournament for next year are the following:

1. The boys Tournament has been held annually for the past 38 years and has held a high spot in the county sporting events.
2. It has been a good tournament in that the teams were usually well matched and any team in the county could win and has won the final game.
3. Every team in the county, including Goodell, has won the tournament at least once.
4. Good sportsmanship, both on and off the cout, has been the policy of the club and the rule of the tournament.
5. The teams look forward to playing in the tournament and the teams were well supported by their home followers.
6. The FINAL GAME at Britt last month had an attendance of 911 and a net of $587.00.

Due to conference schedules, conference commitments, school reorganization and the Iowa High School Athletic Association rules the tournament is no longer representative of the county. There seems to be no answer to these problems as they die beyond the authority of the club.

George Washington
Was a success
Because he got things done

- We don't think that he planned too far in advance when as a youngster he chopped down a cherry tree . . . but he at least had the equipment needed for the job. So he was able to get it done.
- In later years, he planned ahead, knowing, that planning was necessary for the completion of his aims in life.
- Planning ahead is necessary to getting things done and thrift is an important part of plans. In fact, thrift is the part of your plans that will insure their success and help to make your life free from worry.

Indians to Sell Advertisements

The Twin Lake Indians 4-H club is participating in the campaign to sell advertisements for the 1958 Hancock County Junior Fair book. Harlan Thompson, Roger Hansen, David Kudje and David Eliason were chosen to do this work at the regular meeting of the Twin Lake Indians held at the home of Gary Steenblock on February 10th. The campaign will continue throughout the month of February. Leaders Howard Kudje and Edward Halfpop discussed with the club members the special activity for the year, "Control of Noxious Weeds." It was pointed out, "Even though we have modern chemicals to control these weeds we must not forget our good farming practices. We have 19 noxious weeds in Iowa, and we must be on guard for all of them. After the adjournment of the meeting Harlan Thompson led a discussion topic on "Good Seed." "Good Seed," he said, "is that which contains no inert material and has a high germination test. Harlan emphasized that we cannot depend upon good seed alone. We must use good farming practices and common sense as well in raising our crops." The next meeting will be held at the home of Raymond Eliason on March 10th.

The Naomi Circle met Thursday afternoon with Mrs Herman Gast and Mrs Albert Lange as co-hostess. Miss Leona Lau gave the lesson and devotions. There were 14 members, 4 guests and 3 children present. Lunch was served. The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs Lester Neuberger.

What to Bring When You Apply for Social Security Benefits

Elmer L Iske, District Manager of the social security administration called upon all potential social security claimants to help save social security costs and speed receipt of their benefits, by having proper documents ready when calling at the social security office.

Iske said that an individual filing for old age benefits should bring with him to the social security office:

1. Social security card.
2. Proof of age.
3. Statement from the last year's employer showing wages for the previous year. (Form W-2 is acceptable.) If self-employed the previous year's tax return with "Schedule C or F" should be furnished. The "Schedule C or F" is the social security portion of the return and must be included. If self-employed, a receipt for the previous years taxes must also be presented. (This may be in the form of a cancelled check or Internal Revenue's receipt for payment.)
4. Any other documents such as bills of sale, lease agreements, etc., which you believe will be helpful to establish your rights to social security benefits.

Local Farmers Emphasize Maturity Dates in Seed

Farmers in Hancock County are again considering the maturity ratings of corn, grain sorghums and soybeans. With the return of near normal moisture conditions, selection of seed varieties best adapted to nature in season can pay well, says county extension director Paul Henderson.

The wet fall in 1957 pushed the subsoil moisture content up near 25-30 percent of field capacity. Whenever the subsoil moisture content reaches 50 percent of the field capacity (about 5 inches), prospects for the corn crop are favorable.

Henderson has word from Climatologist Bob Shaw, Iowa State College, that most farmers in the Hancock County area can expect to have about 2 to 5 inches of subsoil moisture in their fields. This means the prospects for the 1958 corn crop here is fair to good, Shaw says.

Assuming more normal moisture conditions, it might be wise to plant more acres with adapted and early varieties. This will assure a better distribution of harvesting labor and minimize losses from lodging and high moisture grain.

Building a Greater Iowa

America's Top Farm State

Nature gave Iowa a rich endowment — first in the nation in Grade "A" farm land. In fact, Iowa has one-fourth of all Grade "A" soil in the United States. No wonder our farm wealth tops the nation!

And adding to this wealth, one of the best customers our farmers have is the brewing industry. Each year the industry buys over $250,000,000.00 worth of farm products for the brewing of beer . . . the light, bright beverage of moderation. High on the list is corn, our No. 1 crop, because corn is a principal ingredient in brewing. Yes, in boosting farm wealth, as in so many other phases of our Iowa economy . . . .

Hancock Farm Bureau Members to Visit Washington, D. C.

Two members of the Hancock county Farm Bureau national policy committee, Richard Farquhar, Garner; and Paul Steiff, Forest City; were selected at the county Farm Bureau board meeting Tuesday to attend the group going to Washington, DC, March 9-13.

This group will consist of 110 Farm Buerau leaders in Iowa who will go to Washington to visit their congressmen and senators and give support for Farm Bureau policy and to provide an opportunity for those leaders to see how some of the problems Congress faces in trying to solve farm problems. Cost for these people is going to be divided between the Iowa Farm Bureau Federation, Hancock County Farm Bureau and the individuals themselves.

This group will leave Des Moines Sunday, March 9 at 1:45 p.m. and arrive in Washington at 4:30 p.m. Monday, March 10. During their brief stay they will meet with their congressman and senator, discuss farm problems and Farm Bureau policy, and take a half day tour of Washington.

Life will be a bit on the lonesome side now for army specialist Gerald Mosbey, of Albia, who recently left Germany for the United States. While overseas with the 5th Infantry division, he became one of the handlers for Charlie II, the divisions 66-pound mascot. Charlie is a lion.

Champions to be Picked At the County Fair

Grand and Reserve champions will be picked from the purple ribbon classes of all livestock exhibited at the Hancock County Junior Fair this year, according to Edward Bruns, youth assistant. The Boys 4-H Committee decided on this change after considerable discussion of the pros and cons. In making the change they are following the change made by several surrounding counties in recent years.

Curtis Greiman was elected as chairman of the Boys 4-H Committee at this organizational meeting held in the extension office on February 6. Alvin Townsend was named secretary.

The committee reviewed other rules and regulations in the fair book and made various changes in the Swine, Beef Heifer, Poultry and Rabbit department. They also named the various department superintendents and selected clerks to help during the judging.

Egg prices are running about 5 cents per dozen higher than a year ago and should continue to do so on into June, says Tom Rackham, Iowa State College farm economist. This is in spite of the fact that prices have dropped some from the December peak because of seasonal supply increases. Last September, egg prices were boosted when the markets felt the effect of the nation's reduced production. This accounts for the continuing 5-cent difference over last year, Rackham says.

Storage and frozen egg stocks were largely used up last year, and Rackham expects replenishment of these stocks to help support prices. Egg breaking activity should also help prop prices as the heavy production period nears, he says.

On the other hand, if laying flocks build up for next fall enough to boost late-season production, egg prices will tend to slip.

The nation's laying flock was 6 percent smaller on January 1 than a year earlier, and this year's spring flock is expected to be about the same percentage smaller than the 1957 spring flock. Thus, Rackham predicts egg production through the flush period and into summer will be lower than last year.

Although production for the last 2 months of 1957 ran 5 percent below the year before, layers are giving more eggs per bird and the percentage difference between 1958 and 1957 production should run less than 5 percent during the next few months.

Maximum egg production is currently encouraged by the fact that the egg-to-feed price ratio is running 10 percent above the 5 year average And a ratio almost this good should prevail through the hatching season, Rackham believes.

The nation's laying flock contains a smaller proportion of pullets this year than last because of the large number of yearling hens held over from last year. On Oct 1, 1957, there were 53 laying hens for every 47 pullets, whereas on the same day in 1956 the numbers were exactly reversed. The current hen-to-pullet ratio cuts national production since the hens lay at a lower rate than the pullets.

Deer

While some hunter report cards were still out, the state conservation commission estimates 2,335 deer were killed in Iowa this year.

Profits Grow in Successful Fight Against Disease

Cutting down plant disease losses in crops can increase Hancock County farm profits and improve the quality of Hancock county products, extension director Henderson says.

He says plant pathologist Mal Shurtleff, Iowa State College, suggests planting only the highest quality seed or plant stock of recommended varieties. Use certified or disease-free seed whenever possible, he warns.

Use disease-resistant varieties where they are available and adapted to Hancock County conditions, Shurtleff adds. Try to use more than one variety.

Shurtleff suggests having the seed of cereals, grasses, vegetables and flowers cleaned and chemically treated.

If it is possible, plant crops at recommended times and in a well prepared seedbed. Carry out recommended cultural practices.

Do your best to practice sound crop rotations and sanitation program, Shurtleff suggests. Fight diseases by removing and burning crop debris in the fall or plow it under deeply and cleanly.

Handle your crops with care. Try to avoid excessive mechanical injury when cultivating, harvesting and storing.

Use protective fungicide sprays or dusts (preferably applied just before wet periods) on fruits, vegetables and ornamentals which have had foliage and fruit diseases in the past. Be sure to apply materials according to directions often enough, at the right time and thoroughly.

Keep down weeds and insects which may harbor disease-producing organisms.

Facing Change is Challenge to Iowans

Facing change is the big challenge to Iowans, says Hancock county extension director Paul Henderson. He says this challenge is outlined in the discussion fact sheet being studied this week by Hancock county residents.

Evidence that change is going on in Iowa can be found in every phase of Iowo life, Henderson says. But he points out that the rate of economic and population change in Iowa is considerably less than that of other states.

This can be shown by comparing Iowa with two other states that have been somewhat similar to Iowa—Indiana and Missouri, the extension director comments.

Since 1940, Indiana's population has increased 28 percent, that of Missouri 13 percent, and Iowa's only 6 percent. In 1940, populations of the three states were quite comparable.

The three states were close in per capita income in 1940, too, Henderson adds, But between 1940 and 1956, Indiana per capita income gained $750 in buying power. The increase in Missouri was $730. In Iowa, the per capita income gained just $580 in buying power.

Taking population growth into account along with income growth per capita accentuates the difference in rate of gain, Henderson says. In the 8-year period ending in 1956, Indiana's total income increased nearly $2,100,000,000 on a buying power basis. The total increase for Missouri was about $1,700,000,000. Iowa gained only $380,000,000.

The failure of Iowa income to rise as it has in neighboring states has made it difficult to raise tax revenues. Iowa State College economists indicate that this makes it more difficult for the state to keep pace by improving public services and state institutions.

Iowa's slower economic growth is often reflected by farm people who say their lot isn't what it should be, Henderson notes. Another indication is the fact that both young people and highly trained professional people continue to move outside the borders of Iowa, because they are offered better incomes in other states.

Since Iowa's beginning, its rural population has exceeded the number of urban people. But within the last 5 years, the point has been reached where urban population has passed the rural total. For the first time Iowa has moved into the growing group of urban states.

And the value of industrial output, based on increased value by manufacture, now has begun to exceed the output of Iowa's farms, to further reflection of this change. Iowa is changing, Henderson says. But he stresses that the Iowa rate of growth is behind that of neighboring states and the nation as a whole. The challenge to Iowa is to face change constructively, he emphasizes. Decisions made now will affect future Iowa economic and social growth, he declares.

Legion Auxiliary to Hold Poppy Poster Contest

As the largest women's service organizatoin in the world, the American Legion Auxiliary is vitally interested in the serviceman and his family. The organization has therefore established through the Flanders Field Memorial Poppy, a program which functions for the needy veteran throughout the year and culminates with National Poppy Day in May.

The crepe paper replicas of the Flanders poppy distributed by the Auxiliary to the public on Poppy Day are made in the veterans hospitals by disabled veterans and each man receives from the organization, a small sum for every completed flower.

This "Poppy Industry" has a two-fold benefit for the disabled, he receives great therapeutic value from fashioning the flower with his hands and gains a sense of self respect in thus being able to earn a few dollars while hospitalized.

Through the Poppy money some servicemen contribute to the keep of their families at home, and others have saved enough, thru a long hospitalization, to have a little ready cash on their discharge. This furnishes a stimulus in starting a new life.

The final purpose of the Poppy Industry is realized on Poppy Day, when all funds received by the Auxiliary are used directly for the disabled veterans and their families, through the Rehabilitation and Child Welfare committees.

The Poppy Poster contest, held each year in the schools, permits the youth of our country by the medium of art, to portray the sacrifice of our servicemen, which is depicted in the poppy's red petals.

Schools or contestants interested in the Poppy Poster Contest should contact Mrs Roy Arnold or Mrs Mike Lemke for rules and awards.

Waist and waste are synonymous with many Americans.

Some husbands are certain woman was created from the jaw bone rather than the rib of man.

A wife's intuition is sometimes more helpful than a husband's experience.

Some legislators haven't learned they can't go forward looking backward.

Strangely, a man can give advice he has never taken.

A young man about town took a glamorous girl out on a date. They were driving down a moonlit country lane when the engine suddenly coughed and the car came to a halt.

"That's funny," said the young man, "I wonder what that knocking was?" "Well, I can tell you one thing for sure, the girl answered icily, "It wasn't opportunity."

The young co-ed brought a friend home from college, an extremely attractive and curvaceous blonde.

Introducing her friend to her grandfather, the girl added, "And just think, Marilyn, he's in his 90's."

"Early 90's that is," the old gent amended, with a gleam in his eye.

The only people with whom you should try to get even are those who have helped you.

Fail Successfully

The worst thing a person can do is fail in anything he does. As a student, it is even worse to fail. But if you have to fail, the following is a list to tell you how to fail successfuly. How would you rate if you woud ask yourself these questions? Why don't you try and find out? Just place a plus in front of the statement if it is true about you; a zero, if false.

.....1. I do just enough work to get by.

..... 2. I wouldn't think of doing more than is expected of me.

..... 3. I think teachers have favorites.

.....4. When I violate a rule I always get caught.

..... 5. I don't make a special effort to find out what is expected of me.

. . . 6. I spend as little time as possible working on subjects I do not like.

. . 7. I don't have any study plan. Nor do I have any method of checking myself to see that I am doing each day what is required.

8. I don't make a special effort to do my work neatly or accurately.

. . . . 9. I get to class as late as possible—just in time to escape tardiness.

.....10. I get set to rush out of the room as soon as the bell rings.

Hancock County Farmers Feeding "Wet" Corn Successfully

Practically all Hancock county farmers who have "wet" corn are feeding is now to their livestock without drying it, according to county extension director Paul Henderson.

Many of these are drying only the corn they expect to feed next summer and fall. None has reported feeding troubles that can be blamed on the high-moisture corn, extension director Henderson adds.

This doesn't mean, however, that you can feed high moisture corn blindly, he warns—any more than you can just throw any other kind of feed to livestock and forget it.

Henderson says that extension veterinarian John B Herrick of Iowa State College reports that there have been some calls from Iowa farmers asking about cattel getting sick eating moldy corn. Herrick says there are many different molds, with only a few that are toxic to cattle. Sheep and horses are more susceptible to molds.

However, Herrick believes that livestock sometimes overeat on high moisture corn. They can have digestive disturbances as a result. Occasionally these can be fatal. Extension animal husbandman Tom Wickersham of Iowa State College points out that livestock carelessly fed and fattening feed will get digestive disturbances, and sometimes die.

And, extension director Henderson adds, animal husbandmen advise against feeding moldy corn to gilts and sows you plan to breed. There's no positive evidence it will cause trouble with breeding stock—but there are indcations that it might.

For feeding fattening cattle, however, Henderson points out, high moisture corn is proving to be good winter time feed. In an Iowa State College experiment last year, cattle receiving ground ear corn containing 30 percent moisture required 75 pounds less feed, on an equal dry matter basis, per 100 pounds of gain, than cattle receiving corn contaninig only 14.5 percent moisture.

Farming Measured Against Standards for Successful Industry

Any important industry in a modern society, to be prosperous, must meet at least three tests, according to experts. These tests are described in the fourth of a series of "Challenge to Iowa" discussion fact sheets, reports Paul Henderson, Hancock county extension director.

The tests are (1) the industry must produce what buyers or consumers want to buy, (2) the business units that make up the industry must, on the whole, keep modern and up to date to meet competition, and (3) the industry must not, for any lengthy period of time, produce more than its customers will buy at a "reasonable" price.

How does the farming industry rate when measured by these tests? The "Challenge" fact sheets don't draw conclusions, Henderson says. But he adds that facts presented in the 4th fact sheet allow a reader to measure how agriculture stands today.

How well have farmers met the test of producing what consumers want to buy? A check on changes in eating habits shows that production actually has changed considerably.

Food Consumption Per Person	1940	1955	Change
Meat, Poultry, fish, lb.	143	170	up 19%
Milk, qts.	214	254	up 19%
Eggs, no.	305	355	up 16%
Fruit, vegetables, lbs.	455	434	off 5%
Potatoes, sweet potatoes, lbs.	130	106	off 18%
Flour, cereals, lbs.	196	154	off 22%

Farmers have made acreage shifts. Wheat acreage was reduced 17 percent from 1939 to 1955, for example. But large stocks of wheat have accumulated nevertheless. These stocks indicate the difference between what consumers and exporters want to buy at going prices and what farmers have produced.

Is farming keeping modern and up to date, and so meeting the second test? Farm management specialists, Henderson says, explain that a modern farm is one that has a balance between acreage, equipment and labor so that the farmer can use his capital and management skill as effectively as he could in some other occupation suited to his ability.

A modern farm, management specialists say, requires a farm business large enough that neither machines nor labor will be poorly used or idle unnecessarily. And the farm will be one where the farming skill and ability of the farm family can be used effectively.

Commercial farms in Iowa are only 13 acres larger, on the average, than they were in 1930. Over one-third (37 percent) of Iowa farms have less than 100 acres of cropland.

Groups of Iowa farmers were asked recently how many acres of harvested crops would be best for a good program. Their estimates varied from 180 to 220 acres. Achieving crop units of this size would mean that the number of farms in Iowa would be reduced thirty percent.

As many as 1 million of the nation's more than 3 million commercial farms are not modern in one or more major aspects as to size, machinery or methods used, in the opinion of some agricultural experts, Henderson says.

A recent study indicates that Iowa farmers should use six times as much fertilizer as in 1950 to get maximum output. It further indicates that crop yields could be increased 70 percent over the 1941-1950 average by adoption of the best management practices known. And it suggests that beef production, eggs per hen and milk per cow likewise could be markedly increased if all farmers farmed as well as modern methods permit. All this in spite of the existing tremendous advances in agricultural production.

Measuring farming against the third test of a prosperous, important industry in a modern society raises another question, Henderson says. Is the farming industry producing more than customers will buy at a reasonable price?

Fact Sheet No. 4 offers these facts, the extension director says: Fast-growing farm production, in relation to the population rise, has been a phenomenon in American agriculture.

During World War II and the early postware period, the unusual demand for farm products both at home and abroad absorbed the added farm output at favorable prices.

Although the boom demand period was soon over, output grew further as farmers continued to modernize. Farm prices and income began to fall. Total farm operator net income for the nation's farmers fell, from $17.2 billions in 1947 to $12.1 billions in 1956. It was 17 percent lower per farm. At the same time—prices farmers paid for living items increased by 17 percent.

These developments have contributed to present-day problems in agriculture. Fact sheet evidence indicates that farmers are moving in the direction of making their farms modern and up-to-date, Henderson concludes. But the problem of too-large farm output and depressed net farm income haven't been solved. So the challenge to agriculture—getting on a par with other parts of the American economy is continuing.

ANNOUNCEMENT

I wish to announce that I am a candidate for the office of

HANCOCK COUNTY CORONER

In the Republican Primaries June 2nd

KENNETH F. BOUGHTON

A FABLE NOT BY AESOP

There were two dealers, A and B, who sold "The Finest in Farm Machinery." They lived many miles apart. A was an old duffer and B was a nice young man with bright eyes and new ideas.

Also, there were two farmers, X and Y who were neighbors and they had the best of everything, including some of "the Finest in Farm Machinery," and each wanted some more of it. Both X and Y went to A, B, C, D and E and dickered exceedingly and at length. X bought from B who was miles away and Y bought from A who was close to home. X then said, "Ah-ha! I got me a good deal. I spent lots less money." Yea, he chortled in glee.

But everybody found out at the same time that a joker in the Factory forgot to tighten some bolts and things fell apart when they should not have done so. X and Y needed help from A and only Y got it and for free. Then it rained for a week, and only Y beat the weather.

MORAL: Distance lends enchantment, but it can be hard on the pocketbook.

Use Soil Test Correlated With Crop Returns, Henderson Advises

A sound and profitable fertilizer program for Hancock county farms depends first on soil tests correlated to the prospect of crop yield increases, says county extension director Paul Henderson.

If you don't have a soil test, Henderson suggests it'll pay to send representative samples from your untested fields just as soon as the ground is fit for sample taking in the spring.

He says that the first half of the job of getting profitable results from fertilization is that you follow a soil test report that's correlated to yield responses on the kind of soil you have in your field.

Iowa State College soil test reports for this county are correlated to yield responses obtained from given applications of nutrients in experiments conducted over periods of several years in this soil area. These experiments continue each year and the colleges soil tests are constantly brought up to date with results of these experiments.

Henderson says that Agronomist Joe Stritzel of Iowa State College, points out that a soil test by itself is largely meaningless for Hancock county unless it is correlated with experimental results obtained under the farmer's own soil and climatic conditions. This local adaptation is an important part of the Iowa State College soil test recommendations.

The other half of the job is a good representative sample of your field. Separate your field into its various soil types, Stritzel advises. You can recognize these soil differences by differences in color, differences in texture (the feel of the soil in your hand), and by the slope of the land.

Once you have the types separated, take one sample for each 10 acres or less of a given soil type. Each sample should be made up of 15 to 20 separate soil slices or borings taken at random to a depth of 6 inches from the area of 10 acres or less. Mix these soil slices or borings thoroughly and put them in a sample box.

You can get the boxes and instructions for taking the samples at the ASC office in Garner.

After you receive your test report, you have three choices of the amount of fertilizer you can profitably apply. These choices are available at the county extension office.

The county extension director can help you choose that rate which fits in best with your particular management situation and capital resources. The extension director can also help you adjust your fetrilizer use to fit abnormal moisture conditions on your land.

Here are some of the factors Stritzel says are involved in deciding whether to use more or less fertilizer than the average recommendations indicates: Your cropping management, the extent to which you wish to go in number of plants per acre for corn, weed control, soil and crop insect control, strict adherance to the best planting and cultivating times, and your use of capital in fertilizer as compared to other enterprises.

CROW'S DEALER POINTS OUT SEED CORN ADVANTAGES

Glenn Wille, local dealer for Crow's seed corn, points out some of the advantages of his product for our farmer friends this week.

Glenn says Crow's have sold single cross seed for 20 years and are the largest producer of single cross seed corn.

He says they offer premium hybrids which will produce uniform ear and tassel height. It has a 10 percent higher yielding factor with exceptionally good standing ability and feeding quality.

Crow's Corn is film-coated to protect it against soil fungi and cold, wet weather.

Glenn says Crow's is the first company to offer a corn growing program with a free soil testing service. For more information, contact him.

Hog prices have been lots better than last year's farrowing predictions indicated they would be. They should stay good until early fall, says Tom Rackham, Iowa State College farm economist. The main reason seems to be that farmers just didn't raise as many pigs last summer as they were expected to. Consequently, since mid November, the number of hogs marketed has never been more than the market demand. As a result, prices have displayed a strong up-trend since then, except for a sag during the Christmas season.

Hog producers have been helped some, too, by the relative scarcity of slaughter cattle and by the fact that cattle feeders have bid against packers for two-way animals.

The average weight of hogs sold during the last several months has been higher than usual, but no serious price discount has shown up. At the same time, feed purchasers have found feed prices low. The mid-January hog-corn price ratio was 23.7, the highest in 25 years, Rackham says.

But the Iowa State College economist figures that feeders of home-grown corn probably have found hog production costs as high or higher than before.

Agricultural Association Meeting to Feature Corn And Soybean Topics

Corn and soybean production will get major attention on the program of the annual meeting of the Northern Iowa Agricultural Experiment Association in Kanawha March 13, says Paul Henderson, Hancock county extension director.

Topic were selected by the association board of directors, Henderson adds, and will be presented by Iowa State College specialists.

The program will open at 9:30 a.m. in the Roxy Theatre in Kanawha. The annual meeting of the stockholdens with the audit report, will be the first item of business.

From 10 a.m. until noon, the meeting will be devoted to reports by college specialists. Topics are "Storing and Drying Grain on the Farm," "New developments in starter fertilizer," "New Trends in Corn Production," and "Quality of Iowa Farm Seed."

At noon, the association will provide free dinner to all guests. The meal will be served in the Methodist church.

The head of the Iowa State College department of botany and plant pathology, W H Bragonier, will be toastmaster. D W Brown, of the industrial administration of the college, will be the main speaker on the noon program. His topic is "Tax Planning for Today and Tommorrow." Talks also will be presented by Paul Henderson, Hancock county extension director and Aaron R Bowman, extension director in Wright county.

Afternoon presentations will open with a talk by C S Reddy, college plant pathologist He'll discuss "The Philippines in 57."

"The Present and Future of Soybeans," from the standpoint of varieties and diseases, is another afternoon topic. The program will close with the presentation of the experimental Farm annual report at 3:30 p.m.

Antibiotics in Poultry Feed May Not Pay, Says Henderson

Heavy dosing of Hancock county laying hens with 100 to 200 grams of antibiotics per ton of feed probably won't pay unless you're fighting a diagnosed disease, says extension director Paul Henderson.

He adds that Paul Walther, extension poultryman at Iowa State College, reports you may get more eggs, but not enough to pay for the cost of one or more antibiotics at these levels.

"Rations fortified with high amounts of high-priced antibiotics will give only temporary relief from 'winter slumps'," Walther points out.

He emphasized less expensive cures for "winter slumps." Since they're usually caused by lack of protection against sudden cold snaps, not enough light, and lack of feeders, you'd make more money by correcting thees problems, he says. Insulate the laying house. Provide lighting regularly for 13 or 14 hours per day. Five linear inches of feeder space per hen gives layers a chance to eat often enough to keep their body weight up to normal for high production.

Save money by using wise management instead of expensive antibiotics, Walther suggests.

Social Security and Soil Bank Payments

Many farmers who are participating in the Government's soil bank program are asking us what effect this has on their social security, Elmer L Iske, district manager of the Mason City social security office, said today.

"We explain to them, that, for social security benefit purposes or for purposes of the amount of earning permitted to a farmer getting retirement benefits, soil bank payments must be taken into consideration. These payments apply to acreage reserve, conservation reserve and also in cases where a farmer had placed his farm in the soil bank under the 'bid' procedure."

For example, Iske said, a farmer who is getting soil bank payments before he retires reports those payments as net earnings for social security purposes. He gets social security credit for them. A farmer who places his farm in the soil bank after he retires and has strated getting old-age insurance benefits, must report soil bank payments also. They apply against the amount of earnings that a person can have and get social security benefits. Whether or not a retired farmer's old age benefit payments are affected by the payments he gets under the soil bank program depends upon the substantial services he renders in connection with his participation in the soil bank program. Soil bank payments would not affect the old-age insurance benefits of a farmer who elected to plant trees on his land and merely gave a little time to directing the planting of the trees. However, a retired farmer who placed his farm in the soil bank and personally planted a cover crop on his land would probably be rendering substantial services during one or more months in the year. In this case, he would not get social security payments for the months in which the cover crop was planted. Farmers who have questions about soil bank payments in relation to their social security should get in touch with our office, Iske concluded.

The Highway Story

The people who work in the driver improvement section of the state safety department tend to be a little disillusioned with human nature.

They spend their days studying the records of drivers and determine which ones need special attention. They are constantly in touch with drivers who have frightening records of accidents and violations.

"Yet, 90 to 95 percent of them are absolutely convinced that they are superior drivers," according to James Fetters, head of the section.

To prove his point, Fetters picked up a file he was working on at the moment. In the folder there was a record on a driver showing seven convictions for moving traffic violations, two warnings and three accidents. The driver had been suspended before with no apparent effect.

He was about to be suspended again and, in the file, was a letter from the driver pleading his case. The tone of the letter can be picked up from the final sentence. The driver wrote: "As a matter of fact, you people should be giving me an award for safe driving."

Was this reaction unusual? Fetters shook his head sadly. "Practically everyone we hear from is a superior driver," he said. "If you would read our mail for a week you'd wonder how it's possible we have so many accidents."

Are you, too, a superior driver?

Look In All Directions Before Crossing Streets, Says AAA Club

WINNER, THIRTEENTH AAA TRAFFIC SAFETY POSTER CONTEST

Fewer children would be killed each year in traffic accidents if all youngsters had eyes in the backs of their heads, according to Floyd L Link, Director of public relations for the AAA Motor Club of Iowa. Since they don't, however, they should look in ALL directions, not simply right and left, before crossing the streets, he said.

This advice is featured on an AAA safety poster the Motor Club of Iowa is distributing to elementary schools this month in this area.

Mr Link pointed out that pedestrians both children and adults should remember to watch out for cars preparing to turn in front of them from a side street. Only by looking behind as well as left and right may the pedestrian be forewarned of this danger, he asid.

Parents were urged to instruct their children in the proper way to cross the street by setting a good example. The AAA Club official said too many parents destroy the value of traffic safety lessons taught to their children by ignoring the rules themselves.

The poster design was created by 14 year old Mary Eliz Sklepki an eighth grade student at West Junior High School, Youngstown, Ohio. Mary's poster won a first place prize in the junior high school division of the American Automobile Association's 1957 National Traffic Safety Poster Contest. It was reproduced for distribution by AAA Motor Clubs throughout the United States.

JOKES

My husband, a medical officer at a Naval hospital, was examining a sailor just brought to the surgical ward. Above the scar of an appendectomy he discovered the tattooed words: "Opened by mistake!"

When I couldn't locate the book I wanted in a Sheppard Air Force Base Library, I asked the pretty WAF librarian, "Have you 'No Time for Sergeants?" I try my best, she replied.

Two friends were telling each other the dreams they'd had the night before. One of them said he'd dreamed he was in Coney Island having a wonderful time on the roller coaster.

I can top that said the other, I dreamed I was alone in a room with Sophia Loren, and as if that wasn't enough. who should walk in but Marilyn Monroe!

Well, a fine pal you are, sadi the first man indignantly. Why didn't you telephone me?

Oh, I did, said the friend. I telephoned you in my dream, but your wife said you were in Coney Island.

Black Top Can Lower Road Maintainance Costs Considerably

State Highway Department Officials are making a detailed study of highway maintenance costs and the bearing that black top surfacing has on such costs.

Figures released from Kossuth county where a long range black top improvement program was inaugurated in 1950, where 220 miles have been so surfaced and another 35 miles will be black topped in 1958, indicate that maintenance costs can be reduced considerably.

In 1953, the cost of gravel resurfacing in Kossuth County was $230,101; in 1954, $156,288; in 1955, $110,281; in 1956 $86,215, and in 1957 it was reduced to $41,-847.00.

Thus the cost of maintenance gravel was reduced $188,254, enough money to build an additional 10 miles of blacktop. Kossuth County officials believe maintenance costs for gravel will average lass than $60,000 a year in the program now under way in that county.

Hancock county adopted a similar program in 1954 and now has about 30 miles of such surfaced road and will add another 11 miles in 1958. Hancock county highway officials believe than in addition to reducing considerably the cost of maintenance gravel, they will be able to maintain roads with two less maintainers and operators in about two or three years, thus reducing maintenance costs still further.

Mrs Carl Dose of Marcus observed her 100th birthday recently, at Marcus. She was born in Germany. She and her late husband observed their 63rd wedding anniversary in 1940.

Anniversary

Probably no Iowans have been married longer than Mr and Mrs Sam Emmert of Granger, who observed their 70th wedding anniversary February 9. They were married n Bloomfield on that date in 1888. Both were born in 1867.

MUSIC

Hats off to Mr Whitford! Last Saturday we received 15 blues, 14 reds and 8 whites at the 2nd Annual Grade School Music Festival. The popularity of this event doubled. Last year there were 509 entries, while this year 1018 entries. I believe our students who participated should be congratulated on the fine job they did. The moral of the story is "High school band students, practice your horn," so we can do this well or better.

February 28 the Klemme band will make their recording for KSMN. Klemfe once again has the honor of playing on the air.

March 4 is the Hancock County Annual Vocal Festival at Garner. Mark that date on your calendar and be sure and attend. The Mixed Chorus is now selling tickets. Buy your tickets so that we can be proud by having Klemme well represented at the festival. Let's not make the Mixed Chorus ashamed of themselves by not having the backing of Klemme.

SENIOR INTERVIEW

"Get a Job" is Sandra Rae Michelson's favorite song. Diana Lynn and John Wayne are her favorite actress and actor respectively. She would enjoy going to the show "Jailhouse Rock," after which you would probably find her eating a hamburger and french fries. Basketball is her favorite sport and dancing her favorite pasttime. You might find Sandra studying her favorite subject, bookkeeping also. She is on the annual staff. On January 27 Sandra was 17 years old and has grown to the heigth of five feet. She has brown hair green eyes and lives 2½ miles west of Klemme on a farm. Her parents are Mr and Mrs Raymond Michelson and she has two brothers and two sisters. Her future plans are to become a bookkeeper.

Question of the Week

This week's question is: "If you had a jasmin what would you do with it?"

Here are a few of the answers received from the students.

Jerry J - I would give it to Gladys S, for I think she needs it.

Marlin S - I'd send it to Russia and tell them to put it in their next satelite.

Beverly L - I would probably give it to Mr Neary for use in Biology.

Mardell S - It reminds me of a flower so I'd put it in a vase.

Dorothy R - I would give it to Mardell, my partner in crime in study hall.

Doug R - I would bring it to school, I am sure the students would give it their attention.

Mrs Oberg - Sounds like a flower-so-I'l put it in a vase.

If you didn't know already, a jasmin is a shrub or vine with clusters of fragrant yellow, white and red flowers.

Relic

A Civil war relic has been placed in the library at Wyoming. It's a portion of a tree, peppered with shrapnel and grape, and with a large cannon ball embedded in one side. A Union soldier, Charles Gridley, brought the tree limb home from the wars after being mustered out in 1865. The souvenir was found among the possessions of his daughter, Mrs Cecil Wherry who died last year.

Retiring

Russell Jones is retiring this month as rural mail carrier at Bloomfield. He's been on the job since 1925.

Attention Juniors!

To all Juniors that are interested in going on to college after graduating from high school, here is your chance to apply for a scholarship while you are still in your junior year.

The National Merit Scholarship Corporation is offering scholarships to juniors who want financial aid in going to college. The amount of the scholarship is determined by the financial need of the student. The program covers all of the United States territories and possessions as well as the 48 states.

The purpose of these scholarships is to send thousands of deserving students to college, those students whose unusual talents might otherwise be wasted due to their inability to finance the increasing cost of higher education.

All high school students in their second-semester junior year or first semester senior year are eligible to take the test. All students will receive a report of their scores. These test results will enable students to understand their present academic strengths and weaknesses, will give them facts with which to plan their senior year, will help them decide about going to college, and will enable them to select college courses to study in which they are most likely to succeed. The charge for taking this test is $1 per student, payable on the day of examination Tuesday, April 29, 1958. The tests will take place from 9.00 to 12:00 in all participating high schools.

If you would like more information on this subject, see Mr Whitney.

GOING STEADY

He says, "Will you go steady with me?"

He thinks, "I'll knock your head in if you do not."

She says, "Yes I'll go steady with you."

She thinks, "What can I lose?"

He says, "Here's my class ring."

He thinks, "It was beginning to turn my finger green anyway."

She says, "I'll get you a friendship ring."

She thinks, "He'll probably lose my class ring."

He says, "I'll give you my Hi-Y pin."

He thinks, "I hope I can get it back from Shirley."

She says, "You don't have to give me your Hi-Y pin."

Obituary of E. A. Zeidler

ECKARD ALOLPH ZEIDLER. A Klemme resident for 46 years, died at his home, Thursday, February 20, 1958, at the age of 75 years. He was born March 26, 1883 on a farm near Howard Lake, Minnesota, being the second in a family of twelve children. His father - Carl Zeidler, His mother - Eva Haman. Both were natives of Germany.

At the age of 19, he moved with other members of his family, to Jefferson, Oklahoma, where he grew to manhood.

In 1910, at the age of 27, Eckard Zeidler and Minnie Velau were married, by a Methodist pastor, at the home of his brother in Medford, Oklahoma.

They commenced housekeeping on a farm near Jefferson, and after two years moved to Klemme, Iowa, where they have since resided.

Their only child, a son named Howard, was born to them at Klemme, March 2nd, 1913, but he lived only 18 days.

Eckard Zeidler was a carpenter by trade, in this work he was slow moving but steady, and whatever he built was strong and stayed together, and thru these many years his services were constantly in demand.

He built a neat, modest home in 1940, where he and his wife have resided these past years.

Eckard Zeidler was always interested in church activities, as a youth he was organist in the Methodist Church at Jefferson for several years; he played a bass horn in the local band; he sang in the church choir, and sang with a male quartet, his was a low bass voice.

He continued his singing in Klemme, and always attended church services until his health failed.

Five years ago (1953), he developed a heart ailment which slowed him up as a carpenter, but gave him more time to go fishing. He enjoyed fishing very much and followed this sport all his life.

Finally a stroke ended his life.

He leaves besides his wife, Minnie:

Three brothers: Rev. O. W. Zeidler, San Diego, California; Alfred H. Zeidler, Austin, Texas and Rev. R. J. Zeidler, Topeka, Kansas.

Supervisors Attend Road Contract Letting

Hancock county engineer Chas K Paulson and members of the Board of supervisors will attend the letting on the construction of 11.244 miles of asphaltic concrete construction on Hancock county farm-to-market roads to be held by the Iowa State Highway Commission at Ames on March 4th.

The projects include the farm-to-market road from Garner to Miller and west through Miller 6.044 miles commonly known as the Miller Road, and the farm-to-market road from Klemme east to the county line, 5.200 miles. Cerro Gordo county will pick up at the county line at a later date and continue this road to the Ventura-Meservey road.

The letting will include bids on 56,132 tons of rolled stone base; 44,867 gallons prime and tack coat; 16,035 tons type B, Class A asphaltic concrete and 73.8 cubic yards of concrete for railroad crossings. Certified checks totaling $9,500 must accompany the bids.

The new black top construction will bring the black top surfaced farm-to-market roads in Hancock county to approximately 41 miles. Hancock county began its black top program in 1954 and as farm-to-market roads are surfaced with asphaltic concrete construction, gravel maintenance costs which run extremely high on such roads will be materially reduced.

Kossuth county began its program of such construction in 1950 and now has a total of 220 miles of blacktopped roads and will add another 35 miles in 1958. Gravel maintenance costs in Kossuth County have been reduced by some $188,254 since 1950.

Junior Leadership Discuss Family Relations

"What is the solution to the problems arising between parents and teenage daughters and sons?" This was the question the Junior Leadership members and parents discussed at the meeting on February 24. The meeting began by showing a movie "Getting Along with Parents." After the movie we had a panel discussion, with contributions and questions from the audience. The panel consisted of Elaine Jurgemeyer and Harvey Johnson; Mrs Donald Dean and Donald Burk. Lyle Johnson acted as moderator.

Some of the problems were concerning the car, family relations and special privileges for special nights. It seemed that handling the car was a particular worry for parents. All parents agreed that they appreciated their daughter or son calling home if he were going to be gone longer than he had thought. Most teenagers contended that their parents didn't quite understand how they felt and that "times had changed." A solution, however, which would help solve many problems was reached. It was: If more parents and young people would discuss their problems and differences together sensibly that a common solution and agreement could be reached.

Lunch was served and the remainder of the evening spent socially.

4-H Club Work Is A Family Affair

"The rural home, be it ever so humble with parents of gentle culture, is nature's great university, more richly endowed than Harvard or Yale." - Dr Seaman A Knapp.

Few, if any, common denominators are as universal as the desire of parents to offer their children a better world and a better chance for success than they enjoyed themselves. From the beginning, 4-H club work has been established as a family affair. These are two basic advantages for having a "4-H Salute to Parents."

The purpose of this statement is to present some of the many ways in which parental opportunities can be given to bring the values of 4-H club work into every home. Then more boys and girls will receive the maximum benefit from their educational experiences as club members.

Benefits for Parents in 4-H Club Work

Countless parents give to club work, often very generously in time, effort and resources. Why? One of the things we know about ourselves is that usually we are are interested in supporting a program which does something for us. Club work must have some very inportant appeals to command the support of so many busy parents. What might be some of these benefits?

Principal among them would probably be the knowledge that their children are learning important things under competent and dedicated leaders. This, coupled with whatever recognition their youngsters receive for their achievements, can give a pleasant glow of pride and a feeling that worthwhile activities are available in their communities. It is probably good to feel that one's home is considered a suitable place for the club to meet. There is the satisfaction of knowing that one has abilities and knowledge which the club leader recognizes as important enough to be included in the club's program.

Parents perhaps welcome the youngster's projects as activities around which they can build companionship and learn to communicate and understand each other. For others, 4-H club work becomes a medium for widening one's circle of friends and learning of the interests of other people as they participate in special activities planned for parents. There is the gratification which comes from knowing one is part of a nationally recognized youth activity with a long and proud history. And finally, not the least important, could be the new experience of learning from one's children as they bring home ideas and knowledge which can and does contribute to a greater sense of well being in the family.

FARM BUREAU WOMEN'S TOUR HELD TUESDAY

Tuesday, morning, February 25th, three bus loads of women went on tour for the day to Des Moines. Stops were made at the Veterans Hospital and Salisbury House. The rest of the day was spent enjoying the Home and Flower Show.

Those from this community on the tour were Mesdames Orris Lundy, August Josten, Harlan Nuehring, Eldon Hagen, Cora Schaefer, Nellie Arnold, Esther Hess, Kate Sandrey, Ann Christians, Ben Ridder, Martha Bredbenner, Evelyn Abele and Marilyn Buseman.

How Widespread Are 4-H Clubs

The 4-H Club idea now circles the globe. More than 40 countries, in widely separated areas of the world, have adopted all or part of the plan and adapted it to their own needs and conditions. The movement in some places is identified as 4-H Clubs and uses the familiar green four-leaf clover emblem. Elsewhere the local adaption makes the program peculiarly individual.

Many people in distant lands have learned about 4-H Club work and the high caliber of American youth by getting a firsthand acquaintance through the International Farm Youth Exchange. This is a real two-way exchange because, through it, young people here go to other countries and young people of other lands come here—each to live, work and share experiences for several months with farm families.

Wherever they are, 4-H Club members strive individually and with each other for better citizenship, better living, better family cooperation and better world understanding.

THE FARM OUTLOOK

By Paul Henderson
County Extension Director

Cattle feeders should "bottom" out feeder cattle intended for the spring market, advises Francis Kutish, Iowa State College farm economist. Kutish says the current scarcity of fed cattle means "bottomed" out animals will bring good prices right now.

Kutish points out that the January 1 report of cattle on feed indicates a lot more upper grade cattle will reach market during April, May and June than during the first 3 months of this year. And there are additional cattle not counted in the January 1 report running on full feed in corn fields. Some feeders are even hauling silage to the fields to help balance the ration, Kutish says.

Cattle feeders seem to be having trouble feeding their animals to choice grade as early this year as last, Kutish notes. There are several reasons for this slow gaining situation, he says. First, there was less short feeding of heavy cattle this year than last. January 1 saw fewer cattle weighing 900 pounds or more in the Corn Belt than did the first day of 1957. But there were more cattle below the 900-pound mark.

Second, cattle were late moving into the Corn Belt last fall, as ranchers held back for top grass gains before selling. At the same time, feeders put off buying, in hopes of cheaper cattle.

Third, some Corn Belt feeders kept their cattle on hay, waiting for last year's slow maturing corn to be picked to the cattle could be turned into the fields. When the corn was picked, it was wet, and this slowed the rate of weight gain.

Kutish says these factors combined to cut the number of good and choice cattle reaching market during early 1958. Prices have gone up, but the good prices may not last beyond March if the January 1 report is any indication.

AIRPORTS

WATERWAYS

Billions of your tax dollars are annually spent to build and maintain the nation's airports, highways and waterways. Air, truck, bus and barge carriers thus have their "rights-of-way" provided at public expense. Yet the bulk of the taxpayers seldom have occasion to use all of these modes of transport. And these carriers operate with more flexible rate structures and under milder government controls than those regulating the self-supporting rail industry.

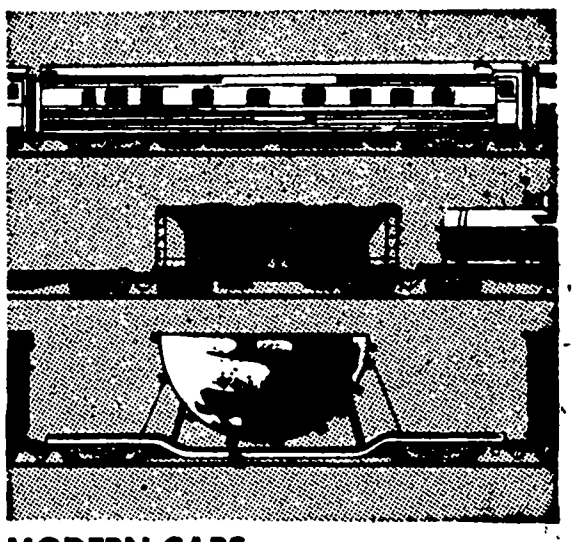
MODERN TERMINALS

MODERN RIGHT-OF-WAY



MODERN CARS

Between 1937-1957, Rock Island Lines spent $330 million to modernize completely its 8000-mile railroad. $130 million was spent providing new or improved bridges, signalling, communications, roadbed, rail, warehouses, terminals, yards, etc. $200 million was invested in new locomotives and cars. These vast sums pale in comparison to government subsidies to air, highway and barge carriers. BUT railroad maintenance and improvement funds are derived solely from earning capacity (private capital). The Rock Island also pays taxes to all levels of government. Ironically, some of this railroad tax money becomes applicable to the subsidization of other forms of transport.

February A Month of Temperature Extremes

February, 1958, was a month of exteremes and went into the record as the coldest month of the winter and the coldest February in many years according to weather records kept by Earl Henschen, custodian of the Hancock county courthouse.

The average temperature for the month was 13.68 which was lowest for many years and 11.57 degrees lower than the 25.25 average for the same month in 1957 and 7.96 degrees colder than January of this year.

The minimum average was 3.25 degrees and the maximum average was 27.36 degrees. 17 days in February recorded temperatures of zero and below with the coldest a frigid 19 below recorded on Sunday morning, February 16th Just one week later the high of 57 was redorded on Sunday, February 23rd.

While the month was cold, it was relatively pleasant with 23 days of sunshine and only five days listed as cloudy. Only .14 of an inch of precipitation fell during the month in two inches of snow, one of the driest Februarys in years. In 1957, also a month, .29 of an inch was recorded.

The month passed without a blizzard. The first 18 days were extremely cold and the last 10 days far above normal which melted the snow cover of the winter crocuses, jonquils and tulips were up at the end of the dry month, .29 inch was recorded in bloom.

Gophers

Winneshiek County will probably retain its title of pocket gopher trapping center of Iowa. During 1957, bounties were paid on 14,551 pocket gophers.

Hanged

A 13 year old Ossian youth was hanged accidentally, while swinging on a rope in a hay mow. He was David Durnan, son of the Ossian postmaster. A loop of the rope caught the boy around the head as some bales of hay rolled out from under him.

Pen Pals

Four years ago Judy Van Ekeren, 15, of Pella, began corresponding with a pen-pal, 15 year old Erika Pflug, of Hamburg, Germany. Recently the German girl has been visiting in Pella.

Escape

Almost completely buried in gravel, Jim Pittman of Boone dug himself out of a living grave near Jefferson recently and escaped with only a fractured collarbone. He was testing for gravel when a bank caved in on him, covering him to the shoulders.

Fox

Eldon Wrede of Dayton recently killed five fox in one day. Although he has not kept a count, he estimates that during the past 10 years he has killed more than 200 of the wiley animals.

ANOTHER
FABLE NOT BY AESOP

The was a Dealer "A." He was called a "Good Joe"; that is, he was called that most of the time. He knew his stuff and no nonsense. He ran a good shop, but to do that, it cost him money, lots of money.

A had an army of good customers. Among them were X, Y and Z. X had what it took. He always paid cash. Y knew what banks were for. If he had it not at the end of the month, he borrowed and paid up. Z would pay up now and then, but it was always closer to then than now.

X, Y, and Z all needed help at the same time, and the Weather Man said, "It will rain tomorrow." X owed nothing Y would pay next day, it being the First of the Month Z said, "these dealers make too much anyway. A can wait."

A sent out both mechanics. One to X and one to Y and said, "When you get done, help Z." But the jobs at X and Y took way past quitting time and Z got his crop rained on. X and Y saved more than ten times the interest for one year.

Communities "Building For Future" Attack Problems

Iowa communities that are making improvements are attacking local problems caused by change, declares Paul Henderson, Hancock County extension director.

There's no standard pattern for action, Henderson says. But where there is action, key leaders, business groups, booster clubs, community councils, service clubs - these or others are setting the pace.

Leadership is the magic ingredient, Henderson says. He adds that experts advise that a start can be made anywhere, just so a start is made. Someone must see something that needs to be done, and assume leadership in getting support for it. Leadership can be supplied by an individual or a group.

Although ther's no simple formula for community improvement that will insure success, there are factors that are likely to be similar in each case. The extension director says they're outlined in "Building Iowa Communities for Tomorrow," the fact sheet currently being studied by "Challenge to Iowa" discussion groups in Hancock county.

The factors are: One, a specific need is identified. There may be several needs. Two, a group of leaders study the need for improvement, and the community resources related to the need. They determine who will benefit and how, and consider the attitude of citizens and groups that would be involved in any action taken.

Three, means and methods are examined, formally or informally. A plan of action which seems likely to yield the best results is chosen. Four, support for the idea is secured from those who have the power of leadership in the local community.

Five, after sufficient support has been obtained for the idea, leadership and resources are organized and set in motion to see the plan through to completion.

Some Iowa communities have permanent planning groups, Henderson says. They have operated with considerable success in making improvements in a number of cases. Other communities make progress on a less formal basis. Much depends on the nature of a community, the make-up of its organizations and its leaders.

He stresses, however, that communities that are moving ahead are the ones that are "digging into" their problems in one way or another.

GUESS WHO

STILL LOST, History Book, "The United States in the Making," returned to a junior girl. She has black hair and hazel colored eyes and has grown to the height of five feet three inches. She has two brothers and lives in town. When basketball is being played you will find her helping the team win by being a cheerleader. When the Marching Band needs help you will find her in the majorette position.

For music, she is in the Mixed Chorus, Girls Glee Club and in Double Mixed Quartet. This does not include all of her school activities.

Some of her outside activities include being a member of the E and R Church and singing in the church choir. She also participates in Youth Fellowship.

She has many more activities but we hope you can find this person and her history book so she can finish her studying.

JOKES

A lady was entertaining her friend's small son. "Are you sure you can cut your meat?" she asked, after watching his struggles.

"Oh, yes," he replied, without looking up from his plate, "We often have it as tough as this at home."

Indifferent

Gus: "The horn on your car must be broken."

Mr Whitney: "No, it's just indifferent."

Gus: "Indifferent! what do you mean?"

Mr Whitney: "It just doesn't give a hoot."

What Does 4-H Mean

The term "4-H" refers to "head, heart, hands and health," which are emphanized in the club program, and which imply these educational objectives to members.

HEAD - To learn the value of science through applying the latest scientific knowledge to farming and homemaking projects.

HEART - To develop wholesome character and personality and the qualities of good citizenship, often through working together.

HANDS - To acquire useful skills in farming, homemaking, mechanics and vocational trades.

HEALTH - To cultivate good health habits which lead to satisfying, happy living.

SHOP CLASS

Today we are in the shop room where the Industrial Arts Class is held. We are here to find out what is or has been taking place in shop this semester, It is quite evident that there has been a lot of work done in the shop by the number of projects that are finished by the students and Mr Butler, their instructor. The projects that have been completed include those such as lamps, bookends, bookcases, serving trays and cabinets, etc. Mr Butler is presently working on a cabinet for finishing supplies which is made of birch. The purpose of the birch wood is that it will be more durable and will improve the appearance of the shop.

The first 12 weeks of the first semester was devoted to the practice of drawing plans for projects. After the preparatory drawing course the Freshman students started work on some fairly easy projects whereas the second class comprised of Junior are working on more complicated projects. Many of the projects completed by the shop boys for the shop room are those which are used in the tool cabinets, etc. The equipment can be used in the new shop building when the new school building is completed. Mr Butler hopes that he can, with the help of some students, make more cabinets and a new tool chest to store the shop tools in while they are not in use.

I think anybody can agree that the boys are doing a good job in shop and deserve some credit for it.

Annual Nears Completion

The SHAMROCK of 1958 is nearing its last stage of completion before it is sent to the publishers for printing. For those of you who are unfamiliar with the process of producing the school annual, here is the run-down on the way it is done.

Early in the fall the senior class selects the annual staff from its members. This year the people from each of the other high school classes were also selected to help with the annual so they would become more familiar with annual production.

The next step is to have senior pictures, class pictures and the various activity pictures taken. When the pictures are assembled it is necessary to choose the one which will appear in the annual.

Now the real effort begins. Each page that you see in the annual has to be individually set up by a member of the annual staff. This involves arranging the pictures on the page to the best advantage and creating the writing to go with each picture. After the page is set up the typist goes to work, then the pictures are pasted on the page, and presto, another "mat' is completed. ("It isn't as easy as it sounds!" screams the staff.)

The fruit of this labor will be apparent to all when the annual comes out this spring

Got His Goat

Angry Man: "Why did you tax me $8.00 for my goat?"

Tax adjuster: "Well, keep him out of the street. The law says, 'For private possessions bounding and a-butting on public property, $2.00 a running foot'."

The Top

"What is the outstanding contribution chemistry has given to the world?"

Flo: "Blondes."

Good Memory is a Big Asset

While intelligence plays a major role in acquiring a good average in school, it cannot be denied that a good memory is also a tremendous asset.

Unlike intelligence, a good memory can be developed even in some rather hopeless cases.

In the first place, there must be no force used. When attempting to recall a name, date or whatever the case may be, allow the great photographer, the mind to get a picture of what is to be excavated.

Then the trick is to dismiss the whole dismal thing from all conscious thought. Like a bolt from the blue, the answer will be flashed to the mind from the subconscious.

It will not be much help in some instances. During an oral quiz, it would not be practical to stand openmouthed, waiting for a mental broadcast to recall the name of the boss in building of the Egyptian pyramids. School might be dismissed for the day while waiting for the old gears to grind.

In these cases, the system of association of ideas is employed. The more ridiculous the association, the better.

If, for example, the abovementioned boss' name had been Feodor Totsky, an image is formed in the mind when studying, of a little tot who cannot say Theodore. The next time the subject of the pyramids arises, immediately the mental image is radioed of a little boy named Feodore sitting with a pail and shovel before this wonder of the world, shouting crude orders to his workers.

It is possible through practice to discipline the memory to an amaznig degree. A good exercise is to take a quick glance in a department store window and attempt to recall as much of what you saw as possible.

Soon the mind can encompass and recall practically everything in seconds.

This could be developed into a game to break the monotony of walking the same route every day or seeing identical scenery from a car window. This is beneficial to the brain. It removes the accumulated dust of years and creates a clearer insight and interest in just about everything.

Sometimes a rather backward individual will be accepted as an intelligent person simply becaus he has a good memory, which proves there is hope of success for all. It is well worth striving for, and the possibilities are unlimited.

CLASS NEWS

Just listen to the whirring of the sewing machines as the Home Ec H girls busily work on their projects.

This semester the girls in Home Ec II are sewing. They have al lcompleted one article and are now on their second. These articles include blouses, shirts, dresses, jumpers, and whatever else the girls wish to make.

There are a few troubled faces as the girls are to the stage where they don't know which seam matches what, etc However, with the helpful aid of Miss Whitmire, the girls once again proceed with their sewing.

Now we'll leave these girls busily sewing, pinning, cutting, and oh, yes, ripping out seams, too! Good luck with your projects girls!

Pancake Supper

The Senior Class wishes to thank the Klemme community for making the Senior Pancake Supper such a huge success.

The Seniors had a few funny experiences happen to them. They discovered that when hooking too many electrical appliances on one circuit, you would blow a fuse. Of course this didn't stop the seniors from working, they then cooked by candle light, for the supper must go on. It sure was a happy troupe of kids again when the electricity was back. Oh, these good old days.

While passing through the kitchen, I saw Mr Whitney with an apron on, spatula in hand and flipping pancakes.

Mr Whitford was found wiping dishes after he had eaten his pancakes. A helping hand sure was helpful in this department.

Mrs Whitney and Miss Whitmire were found helping out wherever help was needed.

As a by-stander, I am just reporting what went on back of the scenes. Thanks again, for helping the Seniors make their Pancake Supper a big success.

Speech

Communication is the key word to speech.

Speech is progressing very well for most of the students. Some of us still have trouble with certain words in our speeches, but as a whole we are getting along fine.

We started out with two minute speeches and didn't have to prepare notes or make an outline. Now we have three to five minute speeches with an outline for Mrs Oberg, our teacher, and notes for ourselves to help out if we forget what comes next. We can't all give our speeches because there are 18 of us in Speech Class, therefore we are divided into two groups, one of which is the first day and the second the next day.

We are not quite as nervous as we were when we started giving speeches.

Question of the Week

"What is a gannet?"

Gordon J. I don't know, but I would give it to Daryl Brager and let him eat it to see if it tasted good.

Elaine J. I'd send it to Marshalltown and let LaVohn Josten take care of it when nursing.

Betty C. A weapon for some kind of defense.

Lois H. A gannet is something like a garnet except you can't wear it on your finger.

Something to catch "large" fish with.

Paul G. I'd give it to Mr Neary to take home and give to his wife.

Susan W. A gannet is a pretty bird that I'd give to Bobby S.

Dorothy K. I suppose it is some kind of an animal.

Sherryl C. I don't have the slightest idea. It is probaly a hat of some sort.

Elaine E. I haven't the slightest idea. Whatever it is, Lois can have it.

Harlan S I don't know.

(A gannet is a large fish eating bird somewhat like a pelican, with a long wing span and a short tail.

I bought a wooden whistle,
But it wooden whistle,
So I bought a steel whistle,
But steel it wooden whistle
So I bought a lead whistle,
Steel they wooden lead me whistle,
So I bought a tin whistle,

Klemme Boys, Crystal Lake Girls Win County Jr High Tournament

Second round action in the Hancock County Junior High Basketball Tournament got underway Wednesday night at the Klemme gymnasium with Kanawha girls routing Woden girls 35-3 to move into Saturday night's final opposite the Crystal Lake girls. The second game of the evening saw Hayfield boys slip by Garner 31-29 on a last second shot, to gain the right to play in the boys' final.

In the last game Wednesday, the pre-tourney favorites, Klemme and Kanawha tangled. Klemme ended up on top beating the Kanawha aggregation 30-24, with Christians, Murray, and Renner leading the scoring attack with 13, 9 and 6 point respectively.

In the girls final Saturday evening, Crysta Llake had little trouble downing Kanawha 37-18 to become the 1958 Hancock County Jr High Girls Champions.

KLEMME 41 HAYFIELD 28

The boys final saw Klemme move out to an early 13-1 advantage and retain that margin throughout the game beating the Hayfield boys 41-28. Keith Christians and Jerry Murray led the scoring attack for Klemme with 21 and 15 points respectively However, Bill Renner, Art Hoffman and Bill Clabaugh all turned in a fine game in helping Klemme become the 1958 Hancock County Jr High boys Champions.

Freshman Interview

"Wanted" at the Hop! Duane Kramer, alias, "Fuzzy." From the confidential files, we know that his height is 5' 9", he has brown eyes and dark brown hair. On July 8, he will be 15 years of age.

He has been found guilty in the first degree for taking an interest in shop and sports.

The fugitive has taken refuge at the home of his parents, Mr and Mrs Paul Kramer.

When he is not on the run, he likes to play basketball.

At his trial, it was found that he liked Rock Hudson and Jane Wyman who starred in "Giant" which he enjoyed seeing.

He was captured while eating fried chicken and his first word after his arrest was, "Gee!"

By virtue of his pet peeve, "Girls," he was captured and brought to justice.

For his punishment we are recommending that he attend college after high school.

As you could have guessed, this was an interview that was written in jest and was not to be taken as an insult to Duane Kramer. We meant no offense to anyone, so accept this as a comical interview.

Speech Contest

Mardell Statlander, Cozette Lau, JoAnne Jacobs, Jane Renner and Jerry LaFavre will go to the District Speech Contest to be held at Spirit Lake on March 7 and 8.

These people qualified for participation in the district contest when they received Division I ratings in the preliminary contest held at Forest City on February 8.

The students will be competing for honors with schools from the northern part of Iowa.

After this contest the winners will compete in a state-wide contest.

Mrs Carolyn Oberg is the speech coach for Klemme High School.

What Are the 4-H "Guideposts"

These guideposts are used by cooperative extension workers and volunteer leaders to aid 4-H members in analyzing their situations, needs and interests. These point the way to building programs that will prepare the young people for better living—physically, mentally and spiritually:

1. Develop talents for greater usefulness.
2. Join with friends for work, fun and fellowship.
3. Learn to live in a changing world.
4. Choose a way to earn a living.
5. Produce food and fiber for home and market.
6. Create better homes for better living.
7. Conserve nature's resources for security and happiness.
8. Build health for a strong America.
9. Share responsibilities for community improvement.
10. Serve as citizens in maintaining world peace.

628 4-H Members in Hancock County

With more than 2¼ million members in the United States, 4-H ranks nationally as the largest youth organization in this country and in the world. It is also the largest youth group in Iowa and the 628 members who belong to Hancock county clubs give it equal status locally, according to Edward Bruns, county extension youth assistant.

There's still room for more members Edward Bruns emphasized, and National 4-H Club week March 1-8 is a good time for boys and girls to join a 4-H club, he said.

The 4-H program has much to offer young people. Just a few of the things they will learn through membership are in this list: A sense of home and community responsibility. Habits and attitudes of good citizenship. Skills for useful, productive work. Application of science to everyday farming and homemaking. The business side of efficient farming. Sources of reliable information about their problems. Practice of good health principles. Art of getting along with people. Happy home living and congenial family relations.

To join a club is simple, according to Edward Bruns. A boy or girl need only to sign an enrollment card, start attending meetings of a local club and begin work on an approved 4-H project. Enrollment cards may be obtained from the county extension office in Garner or from any local club leader, he said. Further information on the club program may be obtained from these sources.

Bruns reminds prospective members and their parents that the period for accepting enrollments is growing short. May 1 is the deadline in this county, he reported.

The 4-H program is cooperatively conducted by the Federal Extension Service of the United States Department of Agriculture, the Aricultural and Home Economics Extension Service of Iowa State College and the Hancock County Agricultural Extension District.

DON'T WAKE YOU UP EARLY AT HANCOCK CO. HOSPITAL

For many years patients have been rudely awakened in the wee hours of the morning by the snap of a switch and a glare of light in their eyes. At this time they were cheerfully reminded they must have their temperatures taken and their faces washed before breakfast, which was two hours away.

This task completed, the light was snapped off, the patient told to go back to sleep until breakfast time. What poor patient so rudely awakened could calmly turn over and follow this suggestion, for by this time the patient is wide awake and spends the next two hours in dreaming of a nice hot cup of coffee.

Patients at the Hancock County Memorial Hospital now can no longer ask why they are awakened at 5 a.m. when breakfast is not until 7:30, for they can slumber peacefully along until the fabulously late hour of 7:00 a.m. Temperatures and morning ablutions are then barely completed before breakfast is served.

Crop Management Info. At Kanawha Meeting March 13

Latest information on corn and soybean crop production practices will be presented at a meeting in Kanawha next week, Hancock county farmers are reminded.

County extension director Henderson says the annual meeting of the Northern Iowa Agricultural Experimental Association, to be held in the Roxy Theatre in Kanawha March 13, will feature discussions on crop handling topics.

The crop subjects will be presented by Iowa State College specialists beginning at 10 a.m. This part of the program will be preceded by the annual stockholders meeting and audit report at 9:30 a.m.

Following the morning program, all persons attending the meeting will be provided free dinner by the association. The meal will be served in the Kanawha Methodist church.

During the noon hour, several speakers will be heard from, including D W Brown of Iowa State College. His topic will be "Tax Planning for Today and Tomorrow."

The afternoon program will include a report by C S Reddy, college plant pathologist, on a recent visit to the Philippines. Soybean varieties and diseases also will be discussed.

CAPITOL LETTER

(Weekly news release of the Iowa Press Association. The material contained herein does not necessarily conform to the editorial policy of this newspaper.)

Deadlines

Primary election candidates for congress, state, elective office, and the state legislature must file nomination papers no later than March 29.

Secretary of state's office has announced the filing deadline.

This date, of course, is for candidates who will be seeking party nomination to the offices in the June 2 primary elections.

Candidates named in June will be their party nominees for the election in the general elections next November.

Inasmuch as March 29 is a Saturday, the secretary of state's office in the State House will remain open all that day until 4:30 p.m. to accept nomination papers of last-minute applicants.

Korean Bonus

The state of Iowa has advertised for the sale of bonds to pay the Korean soldier's bonus approved by the last legislature. Bids will be opened March 27 at 11 a.m.

State officials report that about 50 employees will be hired, probably for about 6 months to help administer the bonus program.

Ray K Kauffman, secretary of the bonus board, said about 100-000 Iowans will be entitled to payments.

Not So Bad

A deputy assistant secretary of commerce, Carl F Oschsel, had this to report at the Iowa Industrial Development Clinic:

Iowa has a running start for the future which other states do not possess.

Personal income in Iowa showed a 5 percent increase between 1955 and 1956.

January report of the labor department shows no Iowa community listed among either the major or minor labor surplus areas.

Average Iowa worker's income is up 7½ percent.

Discuss Redistricting

The state's committee for legislative redistricting has started to work. It's second meeting is scheduled for Des Moines March 21-22. Initial organization parley was held recently in Des Moines and Donald Norberg, Albia newspaperman, was named temporary chairman.

The 16 member unit, including four legislators, was named by Governor Loveless. The committee members have inicated their confidence in being able to settle one one reapportionment plan for presentation to the next legislature.

New Aid Rule

About 7,500 families are receiving aid to dependent children in Iowa and about 40 percent of them have some income from work, relative's contributions or other sources.

The state board of social welfare has announced a new policy intended to encourage members of families receiving this aid to obtain additional money by working.

Under the present rule, if a family receives additional money by working, or from some other source, the aid grant is reduced by the same amount. Under the new incentive plan no deduction in the grant is made unless the total income of the family exceeded 100 percent of the need.

Bad Checks

A recent Monday mail set a new record for the state tax commission. It received 163 bad checks from retail business firms in Iowa. The checks totaled $27,-000, or would if they were any good. They were supposed to represent payments for sales tax collections by the firms for the last quarter of 1957. Tax collectors are taking a dim view of these payments.

Retail business firms are required to collect a 2 percent sales tax from their customers, and then pay the state the tax money due. Apparently, said one official, the businessmen have been spending the sales tax money for other purposes.

File Truck Suit

Five trucking companies from Iowa, Nebraska and Minnesota have filed a federal court action in Springfield, Ill., asking the state of Illinois be prevented from violating terms of the reciprocal truck registration agreement reached between Iowa and Illinois in 1952.

The suit claims Illinois secretary of state has gone beyond the terms of the agreement in ordering stoppages of Iowa-licensed trucks engaged in interstate commerce.

Highway Minutes

After several weeks of debating the issue, the highway commission has a secretary taking minutes of the commission's bimonthly meetings.

Commissioner Cecil Malone, several weeks ago, had recommended that complete minutes of each meeting be taken by a hirel secretary rather than leave this work up to Chief Engineer John Butter. Suggestion passed on a 3-2 vote but no action resulted. Meanwhile Malone continued to point out errors in commission minutes since the earlier vote.

Butter's secretary is now taking the minutes.

Efficiency Doubles Egg Profits, Says Specialist

Hancock county farmers who boost their laying flock's egg production 20 percent could probably double their egg profits, Hancock county extension director Henderson reported today.

He says extension poultryman Pal Walther of Iowa State College has found that wise management can step up a hen's production from 200 eggs per year to 240 eggs on almost the same amount of feed.

Walther's records show an average 500 bird flock laying 200 eggs per bird makes about $466 a year.

But the same flock laying 240 eggs per bird, makes $933. He uses an egg price of 35 cents per dozen in comparing the flocks.

The extra profit adds up fast if farmers use smart managing instead of more feed. The lower producing hens eat about 84 lbs of feed each. The feed costs about 3.5 cents per pound. Total feed cost $1,470. But the higher producing flock eats only four pounds per hen more than the more sluggish one, costing only another $70.00

Other costs: housing, labor, interest and replacements are about equal to two-thirds of the feed bill, states Walther. He finds these other costs for the lower producing flock would be $980. For the higher producing flock, they're $1.026.

The flock laying 200 eggs per bird will finish the year costing the farmer about $2,450 and producing $2,916 worth of eggs. The poultryman profits $466, says Walther.

The flock laying 240 eggs per bird costs $2,567, produces $3,- worth of eggs and profits $933.

Trouble

A semi-trailer toppled over on the weighing station near Mechanicsville, the result of being overloaded with nearly 65,-000 pounds of scrap paper. The owner, A A Ostrander of Minneapolis, faces fines of nearly $600 on the overloading charge.

April 15 Deadline for Filing Social Security Income Report

Did you receive monthly social security benefits in 1957 - even for one month?

Did you earn over $1200 in 1957. If your answer to both of these questions is "yes" then according to Elmer L Iske, manager of the Mason City office, you must file an annual report of your earnings with the Social Security Administration on or before April 15, 1958. This applies to those beneficiaries who were not yet 72 on February 1, 1958.

If you are receiving social security benefits monthly, you may earn up to $1200 a year without any loss of benefits. If your earnings exceed $1200 however, you will generally lose one months benefits for each $80 or fraction of $80 by which your earnings exceed $1200. If your annual report is not filed on or before April 15, 1958, you may lose additional benefits as a penalty. Regardless of how much you earn in the year, you will receive your check for any month in which you did not earn more than $80 in employment or render substantial services as a self-employed person.

Iske emphasized that earnings from work of any kind, whether covered by social security or not, must be included in this annual report. If you were entitled to monthly benefits in 1957 and your earnings were more than $1200, file your annual report of earnings with the Social Security Administration promptly so that any necessary adjustments can be made in your case without delay. Failure to file a report, or filing after April 15th, can result in a penalty which could mean an additional loss of benefits to you. If you wish further information or assistance in completing your report, telephone write or visit the social security office in the Post Office, Mason City, Iowa. The office will open at its new location at 124 West State Street on March 10th.

Social Security Opened New Mason City Office

At 10 a.m. on Monday, March 10th, the Mason City district office for the Social Security Administration opened its doors at its new location 124 West State Street. This space was formerly occupied by the Cool Air Tent and Awning Company and is one half block west of the Cerro Gordo Hotel.

Elmer L Iske, district manager of the Mason City office, stated that the move was made to provide better service to the public. The new location is on the ground floor and is just across the street north of a large free parking lot. The increased size of the office will provide more adequate waiting and interviewing space for callers.

The Mason City Social Security office serves the counties of Cerro Gordo, Chickasaw, Floyd, Hancock, Howard, Mitchell, Winnebago and Worth.

The counties have a combined population of 150,000 and 10,500 of these people are receiving a total of $500,000 per month in social securtiy benefits.

Iske said you should contact the social security office for any of the following reasons.

1. When you retire after age 65 for men or age 62 for women.
2. If you wish a social security account number or to change the name on the number you now have.
3. In the event of the death of a member of your family who has had a social security account number.
4. If you become disabled prior to age 65.
5. If you are 72 or older and still have not retired.
6. If you wish information about your earnings record or about the social security program.

Scouts Open Fund Drive For Marble Rock Camp

A campaign to raise $250,000 for development of a new Winnebago Council Boy Scout Reservation on the Shell Rock River north of Marble Rock was officially launched last week at a meeting in Mason City.

A 21-member leadership group under the chairmanship of Ray N Rorick met to formulate organizational plans and select county and community leaders in a 9-county area of the council. Rorick is business manager of the Mason City Globe Gazette and has been a Scouting supporter for many years.

The quarter-million dollar fund campaign is the first public subscription undertaken by the Council for a capital improvement program in its 38-year history.

Rorick said development of the new 300-acre reservation area has been made necessary by the large increase in population with an attendant increase in Scouting enlistments. This growth over many years has made the present 25-acre site as Clear Lake, Camp Roosevelt, inadequate for the more than 4,000 Scouts enrolled. The new reservation will provide facilities for more than 5,000 scouts.

"Camping is the heart and soul of Scouting," Rorick pointed out. "All the techniques and habits of character acquired by the Scouts throughout the year assume their real meaning and importance during camping experience. The Scout Camp is also the training center for adult leadership.

Rorick said the officials of the Council have been contemplating development of the new reservatios for several years but only recently were the engineering and architechtural plans completed.

One of the main features will be a $100,000 swimming pool, complete with filter system and showers and dressing rooms.

Young Adults to Attend State Assembly

Young people from Hancock county will be in Ames next week attending the State Assembly for Young Adults, reports Edward Bruns, county extension youth assistant.

The Assembly, which will be held at Iowa State College on March 14-16, gives young adults from all over the state an opportunity to make new friends, learn new things and distuss new ideas. Bruns was advised by Harlan Geiger, state older youth leader at the college, that over 600 young adults are expected to attend the assembly. They'll attend a get-acquainted party Friday night, hear speakers and take part in discussions Saturday, go to a banquet and dance Saturday night and wind up the weekend with a matinee service Sunday morning.

The main theme of the assembly, "Around the World in '80," will attempt to make young people aware of how life will be in 1980 when they're at the peak of their professional and economic careers, and of the challenges these changes will bring. Speakers and discussion groups will highlight various aspects of the changes, such as marriage, religion, politics and understnding self and others.

Featured speaker at Saturday's banquet, who will also take part in some of the afternoon discussions; will be Dr Nicholas Nyaradi, director of the Institute of International studies at Bradly University, Periora, Ill. In his speech, "Shall We Survive?" he'll discuss the conflicts between communism and democracy as he has seen them from firsthand experience. He was Minister of Finance in Hungary until communist pressures got too great, and he came to the United States.

Bruns said that any young adults between 18 and 30 who are interested in attending the assembly can contact the county extension office for more information. Young people's groups that will be represented at the assembly inlude farm organizations, churches, YMCA, YWCA and 4-H clubs.

Family Reflects Changing Times

The family - like other social institutions - reflects the changes taking place in the world today, says Paul Henderson, Hancock county extension director.

Family opportunities, responsibilities and living patterns are affected by rising incomes, migration from farm to town and from area to area, broader job opportunities for young people, and the general speed-up in national and world events.

But while all these factors make family life more varied and complex, authorities say the basic reasons for the family remain constant, Henderson indicates.

These reasons are economic and emotional interdependence, the common household, and sharin gof activities. The family has not changed in its primary purpose.

Recognition of this fact is a positive starting point for the family today, the extension director points out. It can actually find more basis for sharing because there are more interests and desires among family members.

While the family has the same purposes as a unit, however, its functioning differently in a changing world. Family responsibilities take new direction.

A discussion of these point is contained in fact sheet No: 6 in the "Challenge to Iowa" series, Henderson says.

The fact sheet states that: The family has greater need to assure psychological as well as economic security for all its members. Some experts feel this is the new frontier for tomorrow.

Because of greater leisure time, the family is expected to assume even larger obligatoin to employ this time toward total family happiness.

The role of the family in relation to elderly people grows in importance.

Tomorrow's family will have an opportunity to operate on a higher plane - educationally, socially and personally. Its responsibility to the community and to to society in general will be greater.

In addition the fact sheet summary related, tomorrow's family will do well to be alert to change and to recognize its effects on the family. Only in this way, it is said, can the family preserve its basic values.

AVERY SUNBEAMS

Roll call was Safety Precautions to Observe in the Kitchen. 10 members, 2 leaders and 3 visitors were present. Jo-Ann Helps and Dorothy Ostendorf gave a team demonstration on "The Good Breakfast Pattern and Menus that can be planned." A talk on "Good Grooming" was given by Kathleen James. We planned our menu for our Mother's Breakfast. We brought bread that we had baked and our leaders judged it. Our next meeting will be at the home of Sheryl Schlueter, it will be an Easter Breakfast with our mothers as guests.

NOTHING TO DO? TRY RECORD HOP

One of the biggest indoor activities among teenagers is dancing. Nearly every Friday or Saturday night one may find a group with their arms full of records on their way to an informal record hop at a buddy's house.

Record hops are fun and very inexpensive. It's more or less a pitch-in-party. Everyone can bring a few records and usually the snacks consist of potato chips, crackers, cake and lots of ice cold sodas. Sandwiches or hot pizza rolls may be served to give the hop an extra special flavor.

Usually a record hop consists of five to eight couples, since it is held in the home. Because it is such a casual party, pals who weren't invited won't feel hurt.

A closing time for the record hop usually isn't set, as it is likely to come to a slow, gliding halt of sheer exhaustion!

For that little extra twist to your record hop, here's the recipe for hot pizza rolls:

4 sandwich rolls
4 slices Mozzarella cheese
2 cups spaghetti meat sauce
¼ lb salami or peperoni, diced
½ cup canned chopped mushrooms.
Grated Parmesan cheese

Split rolls and place one slice of cheese on each open-faced roll. Cover with ⅓ of meat sauce. Sprinkle with diced meat and chopped mushrooms. Top with the remaining sauce and sprinkle with Parmesan cheese. Place under broiler until slightly browned and cheese is melted.

ANNUAL HANCOCK COUNTY MUSIC FESTIVAL

On March 4, our mixed chorus sang at the Hancock County Chorus Festival held in Garner. All of the schools in Hancock County, about 250 pupils participated in the festival.

There were eight chorus numbers sung. Each school had a small group or solo for representation. Klemme's mixed double quartet sang two numbers.

Mr P Falzgraff, from Perry, Iowa, was the director. Klemme was very well represented at the festival.

WHO'S TO BLAME?

COLLEGE PROF:
Such rawness in a pupil is a shame. Lack of peparation in high school is to blame!
HIGH SCHOOL TEACHER:
Good Heavens, what crudity; the boy's a fool, The fault, of course, in in the grammar school.
GRAMMAR SCHOOL TEACHER:
From such stupidity may I be spared; They send them up to me so un-prepared.
PRIMARY SCHOOL TEACHER:
Kindergarten blockhead; And they call that preparation! Worse than none at all.
KINDERGARTEN TEACHER:
Such lack of training never did I see; What kind of woman must the mother be?
THE MOTHER:
Poor helpless child. He's not to blame. His father's folks are just the same.
- Hawk Hi-Lite, Hampton, Nebraska, High.

Certification of Teachers

The public schools in Hancock county including the county board of education employ 192 teachers. The school system employing the largest number of teachers is the Britt Community School with 45 and Hayfield Consolidated employs the least, 9. There are more elementary teachers employed than secondary or high school teachers, but the exact number of each cannot be exactly determined for (1) some teachers teach in both the elementary grades and in the high school; (2) a junior high school in some school systems includes grades 7, 8 and 9, and in others just grades 7 and 8; and (3) proper classification of administrators and special teachers.

This number includes 4 members of the special education staff employed by the intermediate unit of Hancock, Winnebago and Kossuth counties and the Hancock county superintendent of schools.

Each and every person contracted by the several boards of education, to teach, has a valid certificate in force and registered in the office of the county superintendent of schools.

A summary of certificates registered shows there are:

16 permanent professional certificates, based on a baccalaureate degree plus at least 30 semester hours of additional work, usually a Master's Degree.

38 professional certificates based on a college degree (4 years).

69 pre-professional certificates issued on less than a college degree.

9 temporary issued for one year to previous holders of a valid certificate.

49 life certificates. A life certificate may be issued on a college degree, more or less, along with other factors considered at the time of issuance.

4 standard secondary, (old type) based on a college degree.

3 standard elementary, (old type) based on less than a college degree.

4 others. This may be one of several dozen types issued by the department through the past number of years.

New and exchange certificates now being issued are in six categories or groups.

1. Permanent professional; 2. professional; 3. pre-professional; 4. substitute; 5. temporay; and 6. professional commitment.

It might be of interest to know there are 62 men and 130 women employed.

Most of the men and many of the women teachers are married. Some schools have very few married women teachers while others have as many as approximately 75 percent married teachers.

All superintendents and principals in the county are men.

Freshman Interview

I asked a freshman boy what he does during one evening after he gets out of school and this was his reply.

During the school year I am on the Student Council. I first practice basketball, baseball or track right after school is out every day. After practice I jump into anyone's car that is handy and listen to the song "26 Miles." Then we take a ride up town where I enjoy one of my favorite pasttimes, looking at girls, and then go home and eat a meal of T-bone steak and French fries. I then might go skating, another pasttime, or go to the show "Bernadine," he also said any show starring Jane Mansfield or Pat Boone would be enjoyable. If he has a church meeting to attend it would be at the E and R church in Klemme. He said his birthday was August 31 for all the girls who have their books handy. He also said they should write down that he is five feet, seven inches tall, has blue eyes, brown hair and is 14 years of age. Mr and Mrs Harold Kothenbeutel are his parents and he has two brothers and two sisters. Now, girls, write Daryl Kothenbeutel beside this information. Sorry, You'll have to find his telephone number.

Question of the Week

"Why is the Guillotine the best known cure for a sore throat.

Howard A. - I would give it to Mr Neary so he could cure his sore throat after a day of school.

Marlin S - A guillotine is the best cure because it will draw the soreness out of your throat.

Myrna B - I don't know. I'd have to ask Wally.

Ray H - I would use it on Mr Neary and maybe he wouldn't yell so loud in closs.

Donna C - I really don't have any idea, but I imagine it could be cured by Mr Neary's facts and figures.

Audrey L - Don't have any idea, but I think you could, maybe, eat it.

Judith G - I don't know. But Mr Neary could use it for his colds.

A Guillotine is a machine to behead people. I am sure if they are beheaded they wouldn't have any trouble with sore throats.

Otis Intelligence Test Given to High School

Monday morning all the high school students took a thirty minute test which determines ranking as far as their mental ability is concerned. The purpose of the test was to aid in determining what subjects should be recommended for the various students and also in recommending those who should plan on going to college as far as mental ability is concerned. It is also used to determine whether students are doing as well in their classes as their mental ability would indicate that they should.

The students themselves will not be told the results of the findings until they are seniors. If parents should be interested in the results in order to determine whether their child is getting as much out of school as he or she should, the results will be given them by inquiring at the principals office.

It might be an interesting sidelight to know that the student body as a whole did very well on the test. The average (median) for the high school was 104, which is 4 points above the overall average of the people who have taken the test. The sopho- average was 106.5 for the high class average.

HOSPITAL AUXILIARY TO HELP DIRECT VISITORS

Visitors frequently become lost in a hospital while looking for a patient or room number, and often wander into restricted areas.

The busy nurse has to take her time from the care needed by her patients to give out information and directions.

The ladies of the Hospital Auxiliary have volunteered their services and will take over this task on Saturdays, Sundays and holidays during visiting hours, which are 2-4 p.m. and 7-8:30 p.m.

Classes have been held by the hospital administrator for these ladies, instructing them in their duties as hostesses.

County Costs Soar

Total cost of operating county administrative offices has nearly doubled in the last 10 years.

The Iowa Taxpayers Association says, after checking county reports in the state auditor's office, that costs rose from $4,796,894 in 1946 to $9,341,389 in 1956.

That is an increase of 94.7 percent. The latest single year increase, from 1955 to 1956, was $507,465 or 5.74 percent.

This report covers boards of supervisors, county auditors, county treasurers, clerks of the district courts, recorders, sheriffs, and county attorneys.

All figures used are total expenditures with no deductions for fees collected by these officials.

Gets State Job

The Iowa attorney general has a new research assistant on his staff—Carl H Pesch, 28. A recent graduate from the University of Iowa college of law, Pesch had taught school at Cresco and Jefferson before taking his law work.

He is a graduate of Rowan public school and Iowa State Teachers College.

Licensed Antiques

Iowa, for the first time, this year, is issuing license plates fo antique automobiles owned in the state. An antique, authorities say, is an auto which is at least 15 years old. Registration fee for these ancient articles is only $1.00.

Cars licensed as antiques, however, can be used only occasionally. They may be driven only in parades and to and from auto shows.

Some 700 sets of antique plates have been sold. So great has been the demand for plates for antique cars that another 300 sets have been ordered.

Farm-Labor Group

Plans are moving ahead in Iowa for the formation of Farm-Labor organization, patterned after a similar unit in Wisconsin. The program involves uniting farm and labor groups in one organization.

First two congressional districts in Iowa to have units organized are the third and sixth. Spearheading the plan, reportedly, are United Auto Workers and the United States Packinghouse workers.

Would Call Meeting

Gov Herschel Loveless has said he will call the state highway commissioners (there are five) together in his office to clarify "for myself and the public" the commission's road building policies.

The commission is dominated by a Republican majority. There are three Republicans and two Democrats on the commission.

The governor and the Republican commissioners have been warring for months. The governor recently callenged as unsound an interstate highway priorities program approved by the three GOP commissioners. They in turn shouted "politics."

OK Pay Hikes

The Iowa executive council has approved salary increases for 4 employees in the Iowa Aeronoutics Commission. It boosted the pay range from the staet director from $6,000-$6,900 to $6,900-$7,800; the assistant director range up $900 to $,600-$6,900; air age education officer and air enforcement officer from $4,740-$5,460 to $5,400-$6,300.

Inadequate Fire Protection

In the wake of the recent fire at the Lincoln (Neb) state hospital, officials at the Glenwood State School said the adequate fire protection facilities are still lacking in several buildings at the Iowa institution.

"We are doing all we can with in the limits of our overall budget to make changes recommended by the state fire marshall," said Paul Criswell, assistant superintendent at Glenwood.

First to File

A U S congressman, Ben F Jensen, of Exira, was the first candidate to file nomination papers for the June primary elections in Iowa. Jensen, veteran congressman from Iowa's 7th district, filed his papers early on the first day for submitting them —March 10.

Deadline by which all candidates for the primary must complete filings for state office is March 29.

To Close Store

State liquor control commission officials are making plans to close the state liquor store at New Ablin. The commission decided to close the store last year because patronage was not sufficient to maintain the business. Local citizens objected, filed a court action to prevent the closing. An Iowa district court judge ruled the commission could close the store.

Director Named

New director of the Iowa Commission for the blind is Kenneth Jernigan, 31, of Oakland, California. His salary will be $5,500 a year. He succeds Malcolm Jasper who resigned.

Probe Cigaret Prices

Iowa law prohibits retailers from selling cigarets at less than 8 percent above the price they pay to wholesalers.

Iowa tax commission officials are now taking steps to enforce controls on cigaret price wars. Cigaret price cutting has popped up in some Iowa cities and towns, commission officials report.

The Iowa law imposes a fine of $100 to $500 for violation.

Tree

Eddie Merrick of near Mount Sterling suffered a crushed shoulder and face lacerations recently when he was found pinned under a tree. He had been working in the timber but he could not recall how the accident occurred.

Choose Pasture Seedings To Fit Soil: Henderson

Practical pasture renovation suits forages to land, says Paul Henderson, Hancock county extension director.

He says agronomist Ralph Krenzin of Iowa State College advises taking a careful look at pastures. Part or all of the land may be suitable for forage crops with greater productivity than permanent-type pasture seedings Krenzin points out.

"Pasture renovation doesn't automatically mean that you must establish birdsfoot trefoil along with bluegrass," the agronomist stresses.

Trefoil fits best on permanent pasture acres that aren't reasonably well suited to other forage forage combinations, Krenzin says. But alfalfa-grass seeding mixtures will be more productive on land that could be worked into a rotation, or used for semi-permanent grazing.

The agronomist says the development of Vernal alfalfa, which holds up well under grazing, gives a farmer more leeway in selection of a pasture legume.

Orchard grass also is helping extend the use of alfalfa in pastures. Krenzin says orchardgrass has quick recovery after grazing. This helps reduce the bloat hazard. As long as cattle get a good percentage of grass along with alfalfa, they're less likely to bloat.

Hancock County Transportation Summary

Forty-six (46) public school buses traveled a distance of 483,663 miles and transported a total of 2101 pupils to the public schools in the seven school districts of the county during the 1956-57 school year.

The total cost of this transportation service is $114,233.07. State aid for transportation of pupils to public schools reimbursed the districts $33,624.41. The state reimbursement is approximately 64 percent of the amount due and was pro-rated for the lack of funds.

These amounts and numbers are taken from a summary prepared by the transportation Division, Department of Public Instruction, and made available to the county last week.

The total cost for Klemme Community School was $14,617. This was broken down as follows:

Deterioration was $3,556.00, driver cost was $6,682.50; Gasoline $1,462.50; Oil $132.90; Tires, $720.80; Repairs $1,372.92; Insurance, $343.59; Storage, $228.18; and other expenses, $117.61.

The buses traveled 343 miles per day or 60,368 for the 176 days the 6 buses were operated.

The average number of pupils transported was 279.11; State aid due for transportation was $7,663.97; the maount received was $4,919.47, or $19.02. Actual per pupil cost was $52.37.

Iowa Crop Seed Shows Better Germination

Reports from the Iowa State College seed testing laboratory show the 1957 seed crop germinating a little better than usual.

Hancock county extension dirertor Paul Henderson has word from Louis Bass of the seed testing laboratory that the following percentages of seed germinated too low to make satisfactory seed: Timothy - 8.5 percent; bromegrass - 5 percent; oats - 3 percent; clover - 5 percent and soybean -0 percent.

While there was a lot of high germinating seed tesfed, some lots showed no germination at all. Other lots germinated only 15 or 20 percent.

It should be pointed out, Henderson says, that these percentages are not large. But the best farmers are the ones who have their seed tested early. They are the ones most likely to have high-germinating seed. The percentage of poor-germinating samples will increase as planting time approaches, Bass says.

Planting untested seed means you might have to replant a whole field before anything will grow. If you can't stand the expense of replanting, have your seed tested, extension director Paul Henderson suggests. The samples require 10 days to two weeks for testing at the Iowa State College seed testing laboratory at Ames.

Mr and Mrs Irwin Rosendahl and Mr and Mrs Calvin Josten and James of Ventura were Tuesday supper guests at the Ewald Josten home.

Supplemental Pasture Can Pay Big Dividends, Says Henderson

Supplemental pasture crops, with a little planning, can return big dividends in Hancock county, says county extension director Paul Henderson.

Plans include evaluation of present pasture, he points out. What are the periods of good grazing? When will you have weaknesses in grazing during the season? Plan to have supplemental pasture crops coming on during poor grazing times, he advises.

Farmers who plan ahead from season to season rely on fall seeded rye to furnish early spring grazing. According to Agronomist Ralph Krenzin of Iowa State College, fall seeded rye will provide good spring pasture two weeks ahead of other pasture crops, on the average.

The extension director suggests checking with neighbors who use rye pasture. Many farmers could benefit by seeding a small acreage to rye next fall, he says.

A crop that everyone has time to use for pasture this spring is oats, Henderson continues. If an early season shortage of pasture is anticipated, plan to get the most from oat forage. Use a seeding rate of 3 bushels per acre. Consider nitrogen fertilizer for the oats, if you need maximum forage yield.

If you take the oat forage off as pasture, you'll also be helping establish the legume grass stand. You'll remove the oats before they offer serious competition to the seeding.

The grazing season for oats is short - from about May 1 to mid June. But the crop is productive. To be utilized most effectively, it should be grazed heavily.

One of the most common pasture shortages occurs during the hot weeks of midsummer. But more and more farmers are turning to a crop that comes into heavy production during that season - Sudangrass.

Sudangrass isn't planted until around June 1, but Henderson says it's not too early to consider putting in several acres for hot weather pasture. It could provide cheap "pasture improvement" this year, he stresses.

Property Tax Meetin at Britt, March 24th

Property taxation is an outmoded method of raising public revenue and should be retained only until a satisafctory substitute can be devised. This statement is contained in a news release sent out by the Hancock County Farm Bureau. The news release goes on to say: If property taxes are to be reduced or even maintained at the present level, other methods of raising revenue must be used.

To get a better understanding on property tax inequities, a county wide meeting sponsored by the Hancock County Farm Bureau will be held at the Britt high school at 8:00 p.m., Monday, March 24. Everyone interested in property taxes is invited to attend.

Property taxes in Iowa have increased about $19 million dollars a year while net farm income has been declining and there is no relationship between the "ability to pay" and the amount of tax levied.

During periods of low income property taxes are even more burdonsome than during periods of high income. Farmers can never "pass on" the costs of taxes to the consumer and during periods of low income the small businessman carrying a large inventory such as grocery stores, hardware stores, and implement dealers also carry a heavy tax burden.

Ability to Pay

Using the "ability to pay" principle these facts show that farmers carry a disproportionately large share of the property tax load:

(1) Property tax is based on valuation. Farmers have 51 percent of the property valuation but only 16 percent of the income.

(2) Farmers have a larger share of property valuation than all other occupational groups combined, but receive a smaller per capita income than any other one group in the state (31 percent less than the average.)

(3) Rural property taxes have increased 52 percent since 1950 while Iowa farm income per capita has dropped 30 percent.

(4) Personal property requirements of farmers have increased in recent years while farm income has declined.

Escapes

Joe Haley of Mechanicsville had to jump for his life when his brakes failed and his car was hit by a freight train. The car was dragged 100 feet, then the gas tank exploded. Haley was unhurt.

Aim for Safe Kitchen "Operation"

A kitchen can be a mighty dangerous place, especially at meal preparation time. Elsie Mae VanWert, Hancock county extension home economist, warns that kitchens present real hazards to children. A play pen or area in or near the kitchen is a good way to protect small ones.

Falls are one of the major kitchen hazards for adults, Miss VenWert points out. Protect yourself and others by cleaning up spilled water, grease and other foods right away. A safe step stool will eliminate another kitchen danger - that of climbing chairs, boxes and other makeshifts in order to reach high shelves.

Avoid cuts. Store sharp knives separately to protect the user and the knives. Wash them individually, and never leave them in the dishwater. Put them away right after using. Remember, sharp knives are safer than dull ones.

Burns are another cause of serious injuries. Keep dry potholders conveniently near the range. Tongs are both handy and safe for handling hot foods. Warn your youngsters about the dangers of a hot range, and explain to them why they mustn't reach for pans on the range. Turn handles to the sides and back of the range so a small child can't reach them.

County Farmers May Cut Costs With 'Gustom-Work" Srhedule

Custom work offers opportunities for cutting machinery costs on Hancock County farms this year, says extension director Paul Henderson.

A neighborhood custom work plan can make the fixed costs of machinery go further. These fixed costs are depreciation, interest, taxes, insurance and storage. They'll be the same whether machinery is used on one or a dozen farms. Doing custom work makes it possible to get full capacity from farm equipment.

Besides some jobs that are most efficiently done by a particular piece of equipment may not be large enough to justify the necessary investment on your farm. In this case, hiring the work done is often the most practical answer.

Ray Armstrong, agricultural engineer and manager of the Farm Service at Iowa State College, says there are cost-saving possibilities on nearly every Iowa farm, although they may be different from farm to farm.

Some Hancock county farmers find it practical to hire some types of work done while offering other types of custom services to their neighbors, Henderson points out.

He says copies of a rate guide to help you in estimating fair rate for your neighborhood is available at the county extension office in Garner. Ask for FS 740, "Iowa Farm Custom Rates for 1958."

The farm custom rate guide covers tillage, planting, cultivation, harvesting, fertilizing, spraying and various miscellaneous operations. Armstrong points out the suggested rates are merely average and should be used only as a guide.

The rate guide does not include labor costs. These may vary widely over the state. It costs less to work large fields or long rows while for small, irregular fields or poor soil conditions, charges would be higher.

Here are some representative rates under normal conditions: Plowing with a 2-bottom plow, $2.50 per hour or $2.75 per acre; with a 3-bottom plow, $3 per hour or $2.50 per acre; for a 2-row corn picker $6.50 per hour or $3.25 per acre; Corn Combining $8 per hour or $4 per acre.

Tested Oat Seed May Save Money for Hancock County Farmers

About one-fifth of Hancock county's oat producers may be planning to plant seed next spring that will cause then future loss of profits and sales. County extension director Paul Henderson says that a seeder survey researchers made a few seasons ago showed that about one out of five samples contained primary noxious weed seeds.

Tests made in 1958 by the Iowa state department of agriculture indicated that 46 percent of the Iowa seeder boxes sampled contained primary or secondary noxious weed seeds. It was also found that 21 percent of the samples had one or two kinds of primary noxious weed seeds.

Henderson reports that LeRoy Everson, head of the seed testing laboratory of Iowa State College, says farmers still aren't very concerned about what's in their oat seed. Over 90 percent of the seed planted is produced by the farmer for his own use or purchased from a neighbor. Most of this seed is not tested.

But, Everson warns, by planting seed that has not been tested, farmers are saving pennies and losing dollars. The best seed is relatiely inexpensive compared to the over-all cost of production.

He believes total cost of preparing the land, fertilizing, harvesting and selling, makes the cost of good tested seed worth the few extra cents spent in the beginning. By having seed tested Hancock county farmers can avoid risk of spending added dollars in the future spraying and cultivating to stop the growth of weeds planted along with low quality crop seed.

Everson adds that it doesn't pay to plant untested oat seed in the belief it won't make any difference because you will use the product for feed. You may be cutting yourself out of later profits. If you should plant another crop in the field next year, and primary noxious weeds appear in it, you may be forced to spend dollars to have them removed, you may even be forced to sell the crop at a loss.

March 31 Last Day to Qualify for 1957 Wool Payments

Wool producers of Hancock county were reminded this week that they must complete the sale or marketing of wool or lambs by the end of this month if they want to qualify for a payment in the wool incentive program for the 1957 marketing year.

Payments under the program for the 1957 marketing year, which ends on March 31, will be made in the coming summer. Applications for payments to be made at that time must be filed wiht the county ASC office not later than April 30, but the producer must have completed his sales by March 31. Incentive payments for sales made after March 31 will be made in the summer of 1959, for the wool marketing year beginning April 1, 1958.

The county ASC office explained this week that under the wool incentive payment program "completion of marketing" means that the title of wool or lambs must have passed from the seller to the buyer. If there is any detail of the sale, such as weighing or results of core-testing for shrinkage, which is not settled until after March 31, the sale will not be considered a transaction during the 1957 marketing year, which runs from April 1, 1957 through March 31, 1958. This means that wool must either be actually delivered or transfered through documents. This can be accomplished only after all the factors needed to determine the net sales proceeds, such as price per pound, weight, and yield, are known.

Plans for Attending ISC Family Life Conference Underway

Hancock county participation in the annual Family Life Conference at Iowa State College is now being planned, according to Elsie Mae Van Wert, county extension home economist.

Dates for the two-day conference have been set for Wednesday and Thursday, April 9 and 10.

In keeping with the national trend for families to go in for home and community recreation in a big way, the theme selected for the conference this year is "Recreation—An Adventure in Living," Miss Van Wert reports. National reports show that families have been seeding the country, vacation-wise, to the tune of some nine billion dollars a year - not including the mementoes they buy. They have been buying home "do it yourself" tools to the extent of more than 50 million dollars a year recently as compared with only 9 million dollars in 1957. They have been spending some 836 million dollars just on home gardening hobbies alone. As for participation type recreation, in 1952 they spent around 2.5 billion dollars for individual recreation as compared to only .9 billion dollars for spectator amusements. And this doesn't begin to tell all the other kinds of good times families have planned recreationwise, Miss Van Wert points out.

Key speaker for the two-day program will be Robert Nolte, nationally known recreation authority, Minneapolis, Minn. Appanoose county, which is tackling its recreational needs on a county-wide basis, has been invited to tell its plans. A church youth group of high school and junior high students will demonstrate how they plan and put on their own enthusiastic recreational activities.

Still another aspect of the national trend is shown in the fact that more than 16 million dollars has gone into art centers within the midwest in recent years. What Iowans are doing in creative art will be shown at the conference. Other areas of emphasis will include: planning for family and community recreation when facilities are limited; trip-camping family-style, backyard entertaining and recreation thru family music.

The Wednesday evening banquet, traditionally held at the Student Memorial Union on the campus, will feature playlets put on by two self-developed community actor's groups. How the groups organized and get support will be explained.

CATTLE

Sell cattle now if they're ready for market, says Francis Kutish, Iowa State College farm economist. Kutish says fed-cattle prices are currently good, and farmers actually are running a big risk in holding their cattle in hopes of better prices.

Fed-cattle prices are due to sag sometime this spring, Kutish says. Last fall, more cattle were shipped into the main feeding states than during the previous fall. Since last fall, fewer cattle have been marketed than in the same period the preceding year. When this backlog of feeder cattle hits market, down will come prices.

MEAT SUPPLIES

The U S consumer will eat about 154 pounds of meat during 1958, according to the latest U S Department of Agriculture estimate. This is about 4 pounds less than the actual 1957 consumption per person.

Kutish points out that the USDA cut its original 158-pound estimate when it realized 1957 hog production was less than had been thought. Knowledge that the cattle cycle has about completed its downswing also prompted the USDA to alter last fall's figure. The record for U S meat consumption is 166.8 pounds per person, set in 1956.

BUSINESS

The current business recession is due mainly to inventory liquidation, as merchants let their stocks on hand dwindle, according to the U S Department of Commerce. The recession doesn't show much sign of snowballing, says Kutish.

Gross national product dropped from a 440 billion dollar annual rate during the third quarter of 1957, to a 432-6 billion dollar annual rate during the last quarter. Inventory liquidation accounted for 5.7 billion dollars of the 7.4 billion dollar drop. During the same time, total consumer spending and net foreign investment each showed a decline equivalent to 1.2 billion dollars annual rate if multiplied to a yearly basis.

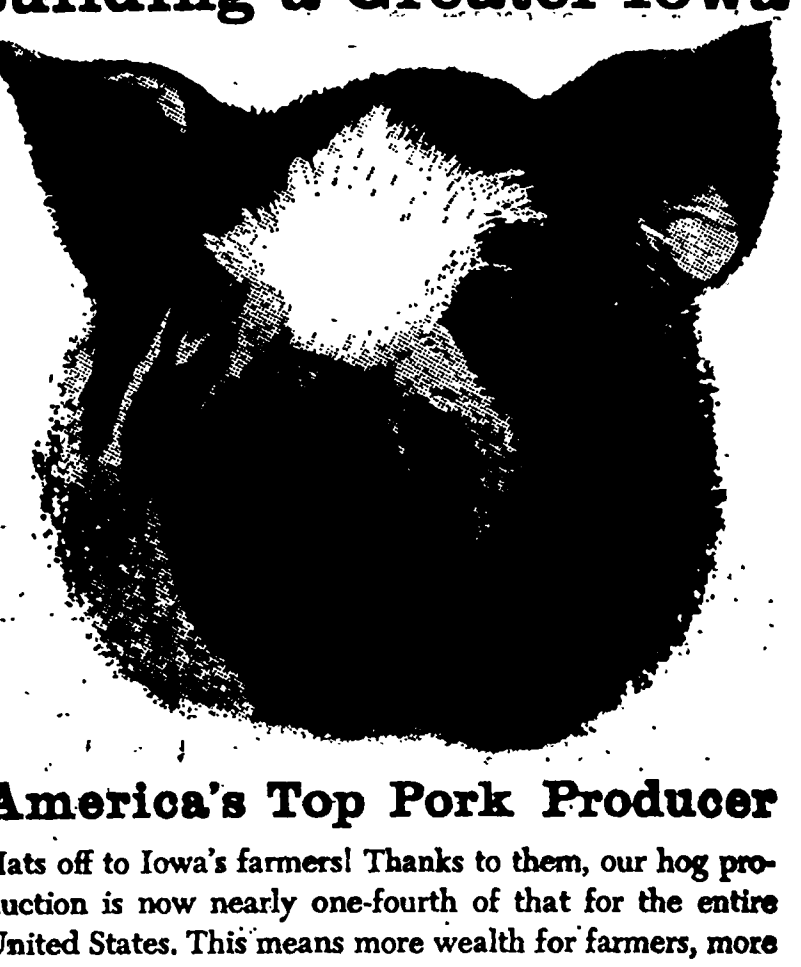
Building a Greater Iowa



America's Top Pork Producer

Hats off to Iowa's farmers! Thanks to them, our hog production is now nearly one-fourth of that for the entire United States. This means more wealth for farmers, more jobs for workers, more income for all of us.

Similarly, our brewing industry, too, is pouring still greater and greater prosperity into Iowa. With over $30,000,000.00 a year in Iowa payrolls, $27,500,000.00 in business costs, and $25,300,000.00 in taxes, it adds over 80 millions a year to our wealth. Yet these are only three of the many ways in which beer—the light, bright beverage of moderation—adds to the advancement of our state. Truly, it can be said . . .

Scout Fund Drive Kickoff Meeting Next Monday

Plans were being completed this week for the initial kick-off in the Boy Scout $250,000 Reservation Development Fund Campaign in the nine counties comprising the Winnebago Council.

Chairmen and workers of the Advance Gifts phase of the Campaign will assemble next Monday, March 24, at the Hanford Hotel in Mason City at a dinner meeting to receive final instructions before starting out Tuesday to contact the business, industrial, commercial and professional interests of the area.

Some 200 businessmen have accepted assignments in the Advance Gifts solicitation under the co-chairmanship of Herbert Ohrt, of Mason City and Henry Burma of Allison.

First report in the campaign from this group will be given on March 31 at the public phase kick-off in the Roosevelt Fieldhouse in Mason City. A giant public rally, featuring a free Buffalo barbecue, will send another 800 volunteer workers out into the counties to begin solicitation.

Counties to be covered include Butler, Cerro Gordo, Floyd, Franklin, Hancock, Mitchell, Winnebago, Worth and Wright.

The reservation development fund campaign was organized to secure funds for the construction of facilities at the new reservation area north of Marble Rock. When completed it will have facilities to serve more than 5,500 Scouts during the camping season. Winter camping facilities will also be provided.

The present camp at Clear Lake, Camp Roosevelt, is a 25-acre site and has been used for moe than 30 years. The huge increase in Scouting interest prompted the Council several years ago to find a larger camping area.

Scout officials pointed out that the new area is a 300-acre site and was selected after several years of study of site throughout the nine-county area. Camping experts have agreed that the Winnebago Scout Reservation will be the finest in the nation and should be ample to serve the Scouts for many generations.

Herbert Ohrt, who is also heading the Pace-Setters Division of Advance Gifts, said the solicitation will not be a house-to-house canvass. Instead, the campaign will be conducted among the business and professional men of the area and the Scout families and supporters of Scouting on a selective basis.

BROWN SWISS SALE

Deadline Near for Tree & Shrub Planting Orders

Going to plant any trees or shrubs this spring? County extension director Paul Henderson says if you haven't ordered your nursery stock yet, you'd bette do it now - especially if you're going to buy trees from the state nursery for soil bank, erosion control, or wildlife conservation purposes.

The state nursery expects to accept orders on a first come, first served basis until March 15 if supplies last. Supplies of honeysuckle were gone by the early part of February. The only species now available are: Multiflora Rose, Austrian Pine, White Pine, Red Pine, Sycamore, Silver Maple, Walnut Seed.

Henderson says you can get applications for Soil Bank orders at the county extension office or the ASC office in Garner. The state conservation commission this year had 20 species of trees and shrubs available at cost price. They include multiflora rose, white pine, red pine, American pine and sycamore. A special at the state nursery is a wildlife packet - 175 assorted plants for $3.75.

Associate Forester Lee Andreas of Iowa State College says trees and shrubs for ornamental and windbreak purposes are not sold at the state nursery. You can get them from a commercial nursery.

Instructions for planting trees are available in Iowa State College's revised pamphlet 151, "Tree Planting on the Farm" at the county extension office in Garner.

Highway Story

By Bob Hullihan

You are not to be trusted. And neither am I. In fact, no one is supposed to trust anyone on the highways. That's the underlying theme we've found in reading several driver manuals published by major trucking companies.

These books all order the drivers to be on the defensive every minute they are moving and NEVER to assume that any other driver is going to do the correct or expected thing. This instruction is deadly serious and, in most of the manuals, amounts to a direct order to drivers and a requirement for employment.

For example, in its turning instructions to drivers, the manual of General Expressways System has this to say:

"When turning right, be as close as possible to the right curb. If you can't block the right lane, be sure the lane has no car in it before you turn. Look and see! We charge you with the responsibility of recognizing the fact that motorists do attempt to squeeze into the "booby trap" (right lane) on right turns, and that they pass at intersections on your left turn. Never trust people to see your signals. Look and see!"

All the manuals bear down hard on the responsibility of the driver — and in no uncertain terms. In most of them drivers are told they will be subject to the same discipline for acts that MIGHT have caused an accident as they would for doing something that actually caused an accident.

In every case, drivers are required to sign a statement that they have read, understood and will abide by regulations in these manuals. Might be an idea worth considering for all drivers.

Ideal Beau

I think that I shall never know
A poem luscious as a beau.
A beau who likes to jitterbug,
And won't get mud on mother's rug.
A beau with heavenly eyes of blue,
Who gets me home from a date 'fore two—
A beau who opens doors for me,
A beau with bright personality—
A beau who always dresses nice
And for his girl will sacrifice
His week's allowance for a gift
That really gives his doll a lift.
Who never leaves his manners home,
And treats me like a queen on a throne.
This kind of beau is just for me—
Howcum this type you seldom see?

During courtship, a man yearns for a woman. After that, the "y" is silent.

Some people are like blotters—they soak it all in, but they get it backwards.

There is something feminine about a tree. It does a strip tease in the fall, goes about with bare limbs all winter, gets a new outfit every spring and lives off the saps all summer!

The old-fashioned man never thought anything of walking 18 to 20 miles in an afternoon. He has a grandson who never though of it, either.

"I Am Music"

"Servant and Master am I, servant of those dead, and Master of those living. Through me Spirits Immortal speak the message that makes the world weep, and laugh, and wonder, and worship.

"I tell the story of love, the story of Hate, the story that Saves and the story that Damns. I am the incense upon which prayers float to Heaven, I am the smoke which palls over the field of battle where men lie dying with me on their lips. I am close to the Marriage Altar, and when the Grave opens, I stand nearby. I call the Wanderer home, I rescue the soul from the depths, I open the lips of lovers, and through me the dead whisper to the living.

"One I serve as I serve all, the King I make my slave as easily as I subject his slave. I speak through the birds of the air, and the insects of the field, the crash of waters on rock-ribbed shores, the sighing of wind in the trees and I am even heard by the soul that knows me in the clatter of wheels on city streets.

"I know no brother, yet all men are my brothers. I am the father of the best that is in them, and they are the fathers of the best in me. I am of them and they are of me. For I am the Instrument of God. I am Music."

Question of the Week

"What would you like to have most?"

Paul G. I would like to have a 1958 Ford or Chevrolet two door hardtop most of all, and Mr Shafer's and the schoolboard's John Henry on my diploma.

Betty C. I would like to have Harold home from the Air Force for graduation. (If I graduate!)

Mrs Oberg. I would like to have the seniors learn their lines for the class play.

Dorothy K. My diploma signed.

Donna C. I would like my diploma signed and on my way to Omaha.

Joyce L. My diploma signed-a good job with lots of money rollin' in.

Miriam H. That's a secret which nobody knows but me!

Barbara C. School out for the rest of the year!

Candace C. I would like to have everyone be friends. The world would be so much better to live in.

JoAnn H. I am pretty well satisfied although I wouldn't mind if school was out for the rest of the year!

Roxanne B. School out most of all but otherwise pretty well satisfied.

Maurine J. Right now I would like to have an automatic homework doer and mud remover machine.

Sharon B. I'm pretty well satisfied, but if I could have anything I would wish for some secret patient to cure any problems or worry I might encounter.

OBITUARY OF JOHN JOSTEN

JOHN JOSTEN, age 85, a lifetime resident of the Klemme Community, died at a Council Bluffs Hospital, Monday, March 17th, 1958, following a two year illness.

He was born in the village of Himmershoi, Schlesvig-Holstein, Germany, on August 29, 1872, the sixth of a family of seven children.

His father, Valentine Josten, operated a cabinet shop, where furniture was built for the village people. The maiden name of his mother was Anna Nissen. In May 1875, when John was two years old, the family moved to America. They traveled by boat down the Elbe river to the ocean, and from there by steamship for 13 days to Castle Garden, New York. They continued by rail to Garner, Hancock County, Iowa. They purchased a farm in Ell Township, and moved out as soon as a temporary home could be built.

John Josten completed his common school education in a rural school nearby. He then attended the Worden-Pollok Academy at Garner where he acquired a working knowledge of six languages.

His parents were members of the Elltown Reformed Church, here he attended Sunday School, and completed his studies in the Heidelberger Katechimus, under the Reverend Henry Treich.

During the first building boom in the village of Klemme, beginning in 1890, many business places were erected, and among these was the photographic studio of John Josten (1893). And the Dressmaking and Millinery Shop of Elizabeth Renzehausen (1892).

Several years later, in 1901, John and Elizabeth were married. They became the parents of one child, Earl E Josten.

In 1894, the Town of Klemme was incorporated. 84 voters turned out at the town's first election and chose Henry Terhufen as the first Mayor of Klemme.

John Josten voted at this election, and now with his passing, all of these 84 voters are dead and gone, most of them lie at rest in the Klemme Cemetery.

Among other things, John Josten was distinctly a 'Churchman,' as a boy he memorized hundreds of chapters from the Bible, and for many years was a church leader in his home town.

He died Monday morning, March 17, 1958, his age, 85 years, 6 months and 17 days.

He leaves to mourn his passing: his son, Rev Earl E Josten, Missouri Valley, Iowa; Two grandchildren, Robert and Ann Josten; also one brother, Henry A Josten, Klemme, Iowa. The following preceded him in death: His one sister, Christina, Mrs August Haberkamp; his four brothers, Hans, Valentine, Peter and Erich.

County Farmers Ponder Grain Sorghum Question

One of the big questions in many Hancock County farmer's minds is "How about grain sorghum this year?", says Paul Henderson, county extension director. He explains that some hesitate about planting the crop again because of harvest losses last fall. But he also points out that farmers who harvested sorghum carly and dried the grain artificially had good resutls.

The extension director says Iowa State College Agronomist Ed Dyas offers this advice: Grain sorghum will produce well in most of Iowa. It has the greatest advantage in comparison with corn in southern and western Iowa, where the climate tends to be a little warmer and drier. In other parts of the state, farmers should be prepared in the event of unfavorable weather at harvest time.

Dyas adds that growing sorghum isn't difficult, although good management is important. He advises using certified seed and treating it with corn seed treatment materials.

Hybrids probably are the best bet for most farmers, Dyas says. Hybrids have out-yielded varieties by 25 percent in college trials.

There are some disadvantages to hybrids, the agronomist says. For example, some of the best yielders are susceptible to lodging. Some others, under favorable growing conditions, may get too tall for convenient harvesting. But the grower interested in getting top yields will probably choose hybrids, Dyas says.

He lists the grain sorghum hybrids certified this year by Iowa State College in order of maturity: R S 501, R S 590, R S 61z, Texas 611, Texas 620, R S 650 and Texas 660. Dyas cautions that Texas 660 is late, and adapted only in southern Iowa.

Extension director Henderson says Hancock county farmers can get help in selecting the right grain sorghum from an Iowa State College publication available at the county extension office. The title is "Iowa Grain Sorghum Tests - 1954-1957.

Citizens Request Road Surface This Year

Monday morning approximately 30 businessmen, councilmen, school men and interested citizens from Klemme met with the Hancock County Board of Supervisors to discuss the possibility of blacktopping the road that runs east and west just north of the school house.

The original plan was to see if the road could be surfaced from the east edge of town to the highway, but this was abandoned in favor of surfacing from the east edge of town to the railroad tracks, or even just two blocks to cover the schoolhouse and the Reformed Church.

The road (altogether) is scheduled to be surfaced in the ten-year program started by the county in 1954, but is termed a "stub" and is the tail end of the project. At that time it would connect the "P" road with the rest of it from highway 69 west to highway 111, the Kanawha-Britt road.

In order to get the work done at the same time as the blacktop that is let for this year, several things would have to take place. On the road itself, the level would have to be raised approximately 11 inches to take care of the surface drainage. There would have to be sub-surface drainage put in on part of the road, but the new schoolhouse drain would take care of about half of the sub-surface drainage needed. In anticipation of the hard-surfacing of the road, the ground level for the new school addition was raised about a foot.

The blacktop surface itself would be 22 feet wide, with a 4 foot shoulder on each side of the road to take care of parking facilities. The present grade will have to be widened as well as brought up to level, but according to the engineer, there would not be too much trouble encountered in finishing the stabilizing of the grade.

Cost of the road would not be prohibitive, if the contractor is willing to do the work at the same rate let for the farm-to-market road and also the Miller road. The price on those roads is $18,236 per mile, or $2,000 less than a year ago. Figuring the distance to the railroad tracks is approximately one-third mile, the cost of the blacktop would be about $6,075, plus, of course, the cost of the grading and completing the sub-surface drainage.

Big reasons why the money is not immediately available is the fact that the "stub" is not a farm-to-market road. The farm-to-market road was changed to enable the main street to be paved, and cannot now be changed back. This, coupled with the fact that the farm-to-market roads are being surfaced first, lets the road out.

The bright spot in the discussion was this: Engineer Paulson said that the contracts will be let for bridge work in the county in the amount of $125 to $150 thousand dollars next month, and if there is enough money left to do the work, he will meet with the Town Council around the first of May to discuss the details.

Paulson said that plans to stabilize the road from highway 69 west to 111 are now with the highway commission in Des Moines. The plans are for stabilizing only and the blacktopping would follow 2 years later. However, they may put on a "slurry" coat to see how the road would stand up. But - this is only an experimental coat and not the real, hard surface. He also said there could be a possibility of a "slurry" coat on the stub from highway 69 to the new blacktop on the east edge of town, but that is pure speculation.

Looking even farther ahead to the proposed super-highway that is to run about parallel to 69 and east of Klemme, the road will probably have an interchange with the new highway. Engineer Paulson said Hancock county has 6 roads to either underpass or overpass the superhighway and 6 will interchange with the freeway. One of the interchanges will probably be directly east of Klemme and one directly east of Goodell. At least, those are the preliminary plans now being formed by the highway commission. This will average an interchange or crossing of the freeway each 2 miles in the county. This is favorable, as some counties have one each 3 miles.

President Jacobs called the meeting to order with 19 members present. Several guests were present. Sawtelle's Announce Plans for New Building

Mabel and Gordon Sawtelle, proprietors of the Sawtelle Superette this week announced plans for the building of their new store building on the former American Legion lots east of the creamery on the south side of main street.

The new building, which will cost approximately $20,000, is to be built of clay block, materials furnished by the Northern Lumber Company of this city. The building will be 48 by 90 feet, but the Sawtelle's plan to have an apartment in the back of the building, so the store will be approximately twice the size of the present one.

Gordon and Mabel came to Klemme in May of 1955 from Latimer where they operated a furnace and sheet metal business. They have one daughter, Jeri, who attends Klemme school.

At a later date, the Times will run a cut of the architect's drawing of the new building, so you can see what to expect when it is completed. Gordon says the windows will slant out, giving the place a modernistic look.

CAPITOL LETTER

RACE BOILS DOWN

The Republican primary race for governor is boiling down while still sizzling. One candidate has dropped out of the fracas but three others are battling along firing at each other.

State Sen J T Dykhouse, Rock Rapids, has withdrawn from the affair. His withdrawel report was announced by William Murray of Ames, an ISC professor, seeking the nomination. Murray told a Polk county GOP meeting that Dykhouse is now on the Murray bandwagon.

At the same Polk county parley Henry Burma, campaign manager for Lt Gov W H Nicholas, who also seeks the GOP nomination for governor, said "this (Polk) meeting is the first time I have met Mr Murray and I've been in Republican politics in Iowa 40 years."

Murray is a newcomer to GOP politics and apparently the veteran Nicholas and his aides aren't going to let that point go unnoticed.

John Knudson, Albion, a former state legislator, also is after the nomination.

VA FUNDS OUT

Services at three Iowa Veterans Administration hospitals will be reduced somewhat because of federal budget cutbacks. One ward is being closed at the VA hospital in Des Moines, while other fund savings will be achieved by personnel cutbacks and reduced services at the VA hospitals in Iowa City and Knoxville, the Domiciliary Center at Clinton.

TOUGHER TO DRIVE

For motorists who generally do not observe traffic laws the future is getting blacker.

Beginning April 1, and no foolin' about it, Iowa motorists will be put on a point system for their driving ability, or lack of it.

Under the point system, recommended by the state public safety commissioner, Russell Brown, motorists who get 10 points (or demerits) will find their driver's licenses suspended.

There are 28 violations which will bring from 2 to 10 points against a driver's record if he commits any one. Drunk driving, manslaughter, felony, leaving the scene of an accident, speed in excess of 20 miles an hour over the speed limit, unlawful use of license are a few of the 10-points and "out" category.

SOETH QUITS ASC

Max Soeth tomorrow will quit his job as chairman of the Iowa Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) committee because he doesn't agree with U S Secretary of agriculture, Ezra T Benson. Benson is Soeth's boss.

Soeth said he couldn't go along with Benson's farm policies and said some of the Washington rulings have tended to prevent the farm programs from being successful.

Soeth, of Estherville, is a former Iowa legislator.

HEADS IOWA UNIT

William F Floorman, Des Moines insurance executive, has been named chairman of the governor's committee on employment of the physically handicapped. He succeeds Mrs Mabel Tracey of Manchester who resigned after serving several years.

The committee works in conjunction with a national unit named by the president.

IOWAN NAMED

Robert Hoerner of Fairfield is one of the three law clerks on the staff of Chief Justice Earl Warren of the U S Supreme court. Hoerner, an "A" student, will receive his law degree from the University of Michigan in June and will take over his new duties July 15. He is married and has one son.

LE COMPTE WINS

Iowa congressman Karl LeCompte has won his 1956 election. A congressional elections committee has decalred him properly elected to the 4th congressional district seat after a contest action had been filed by his Democratic opponent Steve Carter of Leon.

LeCompte, a weekly newspaper publisher at Corydon, has announced he will not seek renomination and reelection this year.

GLENWOOD DISPUTE

Governor Loveless is looking into a dispute at the Glenwood state hospital which arose as the result of dismissal of a physician from the staff. Dr Ward A Young, dismissed, had been a consultant there for 11 years. He said dismissal came from his criticism of the medical procedures and hospital conditions at the institution.

The Iowa mental health director, the board of control and the governor have become involved in the dispute and are taking a closer look at the problem.

Glenwood superintendent, Alfred Sasser, Jr., said the doctor was dismissed because of "unsatisfactory performance of duties."

MEN AND DOGS

At the Waverly army radar base, army personnel are guarding Iowa while German Shepherd dogs guard the base.

Army technicians at the Air Force installation operate radar screens to watch all aircraft in the area. It's part of a far-flung air corps operation.

The dog "guards" patrol the 788 Aircraft Control and Warning Squadron installation. The dogs are now being used extensively at large air command bases around the nation

STUDENT LOANS

Interest rates on loans from 15 University of Iowa loan funds have been reduced from 6 to 4 percent annually.

M L Huit, dean of students, said the total value of the 15 funds is $86,375 but they have been turned over several times and a total of approximately $769-thousand had been loaned from the funds prior to the present school year.

Rates were lowered because of the excellent history of repayment.

Mr and Mrs Lowell Mau and family visited with Rev and Mrs Melvin Miller and family Friday evening.

Mr and Mrs Sumner Trumbell and Mrs Edna Thada were Mason City callers Wednesday.

Electric Firm Expansion Set

A 14 million dollar major plant expansion was announced today by Iowa Electric Light & Power Company.

H O Sandberg, North Central Iowa District Manager of the firm, said a new generating unit with a capacity of 82,500 kilowatts will be added to the firm's Sutherland Station at Marshalltown.

The station was completed in 1953 with 66,000 kilowatts capacity at a cost of 12 million dollars.

The new generating unit, one of Iowa's largest, will require structural additions.

The new unit is scheduled to begin operations June 1, 1961. It will require additional sugstation and transmsision facilities.

Contracts will be opened May 1 and construction work is scheduled to start next year.

So there will be plenty of electricity for all your future needs. We will continue to expand our plant, increase the capacity of our lines and substations, to guarantee all our customers an ample supply of electricity for all the wonderful and exciting new developments that lie ahead, Sandberg added.

Farm Bureau Delegates Return from Washington

The Hancock County Farm Bureau Board of Directors will have a first hand report on the status of farm legislation at their board meeting April 1. This report will come from Dick Farquhar, Garner and Paul Stieff, Forest City, who were the delegates from Hancock County who went on a trip to Washington, D C, to visit the legislature.

Mr Farquhar and Mr Steiff were 2 of the 113 Iowa farmers who left the state March 9 as part of an annual Farm Bureau legislative-and-educational project.

With other farmers from the 6th district those men had scheduled two sessions with Congressman Coad. The first was a dinner meeting Tuesday evening, at which the entire group played host to the state's representatives and senators.

At this session, four county leaders made brief reports on organization policy affecting agricultural legislation. Art Rankin of Linn county, Price Manatt, of Audubon, Ed Tubbs of Clinton and Clark Hughes of O'Brien discussed such topics as the place of government in agriculture, the dangers in two-price legislation, the need for reciprocal trade agreements, and the need for additional Soil Bank funds to complete requests by farmers for the Acreage Reserve program for 1958.

In a second session, with the groups broken down according to Congressional District lines, the Iowans planned further and more detailed discussion of specific legislation currently proopsed for agriculture.

Also on the schedule for the Farm Bureau spokesmen were visits to house and seante chambers, the White House, the offices of the American Farm Bureau, plus a pleasure tour of historical sites in and around Washington. Each of the group paid a portion of his own trip expense, with limited funds from Farm Bureau covering living expenses in the capitol.

150 Attend 2-County Dairy Producer's Day

150 dairy producers attended the Hancock and Wright county dairy day. Those present heard Dr J B Herrick, Extension Service Veterinarian, warn againt one shot treatments for mastitis without knowing what type of matitis they were treating. He also gave them some pointers on the use of anti-biotics and the danger when milk for human consumption contains small amounts of anti-biotics. It is necessary to destroy the milk for a few days after treatment of the cow with anti-biotics. He suggested seeing your local veterinarian before treating the milk cow's udder.

Bob Fincham, Iowa State College extension dairyman, emphasized low cost feeding programs to produce maximum profit from the dairy herd. He pointed out that the dairy cow didn't need as complicated feeding mixtures for high profit production as some other livestock require. Mixed protein feeds do not show the profit in feeding dairy cows that they do with poultry and swine.

Al Huinker, Hancock county dairy quality fieldman, and Herbert Haskins, Wright county dairy quality fieldman, demonstrated a number of practices necessary in producing a high quality product.

Burns Byram, fiedlman for the Eastern Iowa Breeders, showed pictures and discussed production records and pedigrees of bulls being used by the North Iowa Breeders Cooperative.

The Iowa Dairy Princess, Miss Marlyn Dralle from Butler county gave a short talk on dairy promotion and sang two vocal solos to add to the program. She also assisted the Garner Chamber of Commerce serving the dairy products for the noon lunch.

The prizes for the drawing were won as follows.

150 lbs. dairy feeds, given by Allied Mills and dealers, Wright and Hancock Co., Mrs Lewis Formanek.

100 lbs. Mor-Gain feeds, given by Garner Roller Mills, Garner, Mrs Bob Howlett.

1 gal pail surge detergent, given by Schubert Surge Service Garner, Carl Manniga, a second pail by Schubert Surge Service Dows, Mrs Haskins.

125 lbs Coop Feeds, by Farmers Coop Society, Garner, Ken Tillman.

100 lbs Nutrena feeds, Friens Feeds, Garner, Walter Best.

The free lunch was furnished by the following: North Iowa Breeders Cooperative, Hancock County Dairy Quality Improvement Association and Garner Chamber of Commerce.

Others represented in the planning and execution of the program were the Hancock and Wrgiht County Extension Services and the Wright County Dairy Interests.

State Assembly for Young Adults Stresses Thinking

Young people attending the State Assembly for Young Adults at Iowa State College last weekend were being challenged to think.

Their curiosity was aroused Saturday morning by Dr Wendell Bragonier, head of the department of botany and plant pathology at the College. Bragonier spoke on the main theme of the Assembly, "Around the World in '80'." He stressed some of the problems today's young adults will have to meet and possibly solve in the next 20 years. He mentioned education, federal aid, government controls and the use of leisure time as areas where they need to do some serious thinking.

Bragonier predicted that the young people will have more and more leisure time in coming years and now is the time to plan for it. He emphasized that they should think about using their time productively and creatively, instead of depending upon others for entertainment.

About 350 young adults heard Bragonier speak and attended the afternoon discussion groups. Total registration was close to 500, with late arrivals for the Saturday evening banquet and dance.

Thinking and discussing was part of the afternoon program when the young people went to special interest sessions. They covered such areas as personal freedom, democracy, religion, politics and personal maturity.

Saturday evening Nyaradi spoke at the banquet on "Shall We Survive?"

Check Grass Seed Lebal First, Henderson Advises

Farm cleanliness and sanitation are still vital to maintaining the quality of Hancock County dairy products, extension director Paul Henderson says.

There's been a tendancy for some folks to trust mechanical coolers to take the place of "elbow grease" they formerly used in cleaning and sanitizing dairy equipment. A W Rudnick, extension dairyman at Iowa State Colege, says this idea is resulting in some high bacterial counts.

Cooling is important, Rudnick points out. It is necessary to maintain the quality of clean milk. It is so important, in fact, that some Iowa milk-receiving plants pay their top premium prices only to producers who have mechanical coolers.

However, the function of the cooler is to maintain quality. It won't "improve" milk that contains too many bacteria when it goes into the cooler.

He says this is illustrated in the report of tests in one plant where the skim-milk price is based on a direct microscopic bacterial count of each producer's milk.

In this test, Rudnick reports, every sample that showed a direct microscopic count of more than a million bacteria came from a farm that had a mechanical cooler. This doesn't mean all counts from farms using mechanical coolers were high. It does mean that some folks who had invested in mechanical coolers were losing the value of their investment by putting high-bacteria milk into it. They were doing a hit-and-miss job of washing their milking equipment.

On the other hand, every one of the farms whose milk showed an extremely low bacterial count, less than 50,000, was operating without mechanical cooling.

Rudnick says all farmers delivering to this plant had been told they must wash milking machines after each milking. Some of the small producers—with five of six cows—decided it would take less time to milk by hand than to wash milking machine equipment. They washed pails, hands and udders and kept their cows clean. They delivered the best milk their receiving plant could get, simply by keeping clean.

Rudnick points out that such attention to high quality is essential for dairymen who wish to maintain demand for their product in a quality market.

Sunday evening visitors in the Everett Guth home were Mr and Mrs Virgil Schleuter, all of Meservey.

Mr and Mrs Louis Bacon and family of Ventura visited Saturday evening at the Don Bacon home.

THE FARM OUTLOOK

By Paul Henderson

County Extension Director

CATTLE

The cattle marketing situation stays about the same, as marketings lag and prices continue high, reports Francis A Kutish, Iowa State College farm economist. But prices will sag when the big backlog of fed cattle that developed since last fall hits market, Kutish says. As spring nears, the price slump comes closer.

A drop in fat-cattle prices will probably affect feeder cattle prices. Recent bidding for feeders has kept pace with rising fat-cattle prices. Between the middle of January and the end of February, average cost of feeders at Sioux City and Kansas City rose $2.25 and $3.33 respectively.

BUSINESS

So far the government has been slow in acting to stop the current recession, Kutish says, but Congress is currently thinking of either cutting taxes or of pending for public works. Either approach would give consumers more spending power, Kutish notes, but the tax cut would stimulate spending among more people, he believes.

The rate of inventory liquidation increased during January, but sales by manufacturers dropped. Thus the ratio between inventories and sales still leaves room for more inventory liquidation, Kutish observes.

Spending for industrial construction dropped durnig January and February. This indicates a reduction from last fall's levels of business investments in new factories and equipment.

DAIRY

Farmers can expect about a 4 percent drop in receipts from all milk sold when the new dairy price support levels take effect April 1 Milk for manufacturing will bring about 22c per 100 pounds less after April first.

The national production-consumption ratio will also affect the amount the farmer gets for his dairy products. Milk production in 1957 reached a record 126.4 billion pounds. An increase to about 127 billion pounds is expected for 1958 if current production trends continue. However, per capita milk products consumption during 1597 was next to the lowest on record, dropping about 2 percent below 1956. A slight increase is predicted for this year, but even so, production will more than equal demand.

Price-support purchases for the year beginning April 1 are expected to approach the 6 billion pounds of milk equivalent acquired by the government during the 1957-58 year.

FBI Talk Highlights RYP Meeting

Highway Story

By Bob Hullihan

Next Tuesday is the day they give points away. Iowa's new point system for suspending bad drivers begins April 1. And it's no April Fool joke. The driver who earns 10 points is out - suspended for at least 30 days.

If you are interested in being one of the first to win 10 points unler the new system, here are some combinations that will give you "game" in short order.

The quickest way out is to be convicted of speeding more than 20 miles an hour over any speed limit in town or country. That offense is a 10-pointer because it smacks of deliberate intent to break the law.

Or, if you mant a little more run for your money, you could drive through a stop sign without stopping. That's 5 points. The next day you could be picked up for improper passing. That's another 5 points and you've arrived.

If you enjoy living in a state of suspense you could do this: Go out and indulge in a bit of wlid, aggressive driving that causes an accident.

Chances are, you'll be convicted of reckless driving. That's 7 points. Because the way you were driving caused an accident, 2 more points will be added. That puts you at 9 points and just one away from suspension.

If that seems a bit uncomfortable, you may want to take the sensible way out. Drive for 12 months without a violation or an accident and 5 points will be taken off your record.

Yes, there's considerable point to driving carefully now.

Dental Care Begins Early

When should I take my child to the dentist?

It's a question often asked by mothers of small children.

The answer, says the Iowa State Department of Health, is at the age of 2½.

Parents can help their children grow up with good teeth by beginning their regular dental examinations early. Providing a well-balanced diet low in sweets for children and teaching them to brush their teeth after every meal also helps to insure healthy adult teeth.

Recent statistics have shown that 50 percent of the youngsters first examined by the dentist at 2½ have been found to have one or more dental cavities. 25 percent at that age need to have one tooth extracted.

Many persons think the premature loss of "baby" teeth doesn't matter. It does. Losing primary teeth too soon causes adjacent teeth to crowd into the empty space, forcing the permanent tooth, coming in below. out of line.

Sugar is the major cause of tooth decay. If the teeth are not brushed after eating sweets, acids form on the enamel and decay starts.

Teach your child to brush his teeth as quickly as possible after eating sweets. It takes a great deal of patience to teach a child to brush his teeth properly, but the results in healthy teeth will be well worth the effort.

Freshman Interview

As we come to school we find a girl walking around in the halls. This girl happens to be the subject of the Freshman Interview for this week, who is Karen Brekke.

Karen Brekke was born in Mason City on November 11, 1942. Karen is a member of the St Paul's Lutheran Church at Garner, and also is a member of the Walther League and sings in the choir. Question of the Week

What would you do if you found a FELINE on your door step?

Bobby T. I would give it to Mr Shafer for an Easter Present.

Dorothy R. If I found a feline laying on my doorstep I would give it to Mr Westberg to send to the moon when he launches his satellite to the moon.

Elaine J. I would give the feline to the seventh grade to worry about what to do with it.

Betty C. I'd give it to the senior cast for the play to use on the stage..

Mardell S. I'd take it to choir and maybe someone could use it there.

Richard M. I have a grudge against them since one of them ate our little bird, so I would chase it as far away as possible.

Mr Whitney. Kick it off.

Lavonne W. It all depends on what it is, maybe I would feel sorry for it and bring it in the house.

Marlen S. I would let it have its freedom.

Joyce L. I'd leave it there or throw it as far as I could.

Beverly L. I would probably get rid of it. (Kill it.)

Sandra M. I'll dance with it.

Jerry J. I would give it to my best friend for it would make a nice pet.

A feline is an animal in the cat family, such as a cat, tiger, panther or lion.

State Speech Contest March 29th

JoAnne Jacobs and Cozette Lau will be contestants in the State Speech Contest held at Denison, Iowa, this weekend.

This is their first state contest, but they are veterans of local and district contests for the past two years.

The student body wishes you the best of luck in your presentations Saturday, girls.

Senior Class Play

The time for the Senior Class play is nearing quickly. The play has been chosen and the cast has been picked. The play is entitled "Her Kissin' Cousins," and will be presented in the Klemme High School gym on Friday, April 11, 8 p.m.

There are four girls and four boys in the cast. They are as follows.

JENIFER DESMOND (Dorothy Kroehnke) A healthy, attractive girl, about seventeen, with a sort of "no nonsense" quality about her.

JODIE ARMSTRONG (Barbara Avery) a friend of Jennifer's and about the same age, but rather more impudent and lively.

MOLLIE FARRELL (Elaine Jurgemeyer) Another friend of Jennifer's and cut from the same pattern. All three of these girls are typical of the nicest kind of high school girls.

LUCY LEE SAUNDERS (Karen Clabaugh) Mollie's cousin and guest. About seventeen, she is every inch a girl and oh, so very Southern! She is given to clinging to anything masculine and is, in general, the kind of girl other girls dislike on sight, and boys make fools of themselves over.

BRUCE BARTLETT (Douglas Roul) Jodie's special property, and about eighteen. He is what is sometimes called 'smooth' but certainly not in the "wolf" class.

HARRY AMES (Chuck Bacon) Mollie's boy friend and about 18. Perhaps a little less sharp than Bruce, but a very pleasant and nice-looking person.

TOM JACKSON (Gordon Johnson) The same age as the others, he is a shy boy. His manner, his voice and his smile are engaging, and there is something very likeable about him. During the course of the play he undergoes a thorough change.

RANDOLPH FITZHUGH (Richard Meyer) Perhaps a year or so older than the others and extremely good-looking. His accent is just as deep-south as Lucy Lee's.

The cast has had play practice starting March 10, and hopes to be able to make the play a tremendous success with the help of Mrs Oberg.

Tickets will be on sale in just a short while. Adult tickets are 50 cents and children's tickets are 25 cents. All reserved tickets are 50 cents.

JOKES

Boys! Never tell a girl she is fat, just says she is short for her weight.

Wife to Husband: "You say I'm overdrawn - I say you're underdeposited.

Father to son asking for money: "Junior, have you ever thought of being a professional fund raiser?"

In the window of a Madison Ave beauty salon: "There are no homely women-only lazy ones.

Beside marriage license window: "When a fellow needs a friend, he sometimes makes the mistake of getting a wife."

Do you have odd jobs? We can help you. Call 7-2560.

OFFICIAL COUNTY PAPER | KLEMME, IOWA, APRIL 2, 1958 | VOLUME 63 | NUMBER 20

Golden Anniversary Share In Scout Camp is $50.00

More than 500 volunteer workers in the nine counties of the Winnebago Council of Boy Scouts began general solicitation this week to secure $250,000 for development of the new Scout reservation.

At a public rally Monday night in Mason City the workers received final instructions for contacting every Scout Family and supporter of Scouting throughout the entire area.

First report of their efforts will be made Friday night at specific meeting points in each county. Other report meetings will be held on April 7 and 10. A final "Victory" report meeting will be held at Mason City at a time and place yet to be determined.

Contributions to the campaign are being sought on a pledge basis rather than cash contributions. The pledge period is for 25 months and culminates in the 50th year of Scouting, the Golden Anniversary of the birth of Scouting in America.

The general solicitation workers are being aided in their work by an Advance Gifts group which is making personal contact with business and commercial firms in the entire area as well as individuals.

Every prospect in the general solicitation is being given the opportunity to subscribe to one or more "Golden Anniversary" shares in the development campaign. A Golden Anniversary share is a pledge of $50 over a 25-month period. Subscribers will receive handsomely designed certificates and will also have their names entered in the Golden Anniversary ledger which will be kept at the Scout Reservation as a permanent reminder of their generosity.

Subscriptions to the campaign can be paid in any manner the donor chooses, monthly. quarterly, semi-annually or at the convenience of the donor.

CAPITOL LETTER

POINT PLAN

Iowa motorists are now living under the "point plan." The plan went into effect the first of this month.

State Safety Commissioner Russell Brown set up the program which provides for revocation of a driver's license after a violation or violations add up to a total of 10 points established under a formula set by safety officials.

The controversial program will likely result in court test cases to test the legality of the move by the commissioner. However, as a safety measure, Brown notes already that Iowa drivers are paying more attention to good driving practices and the death toll already is showing a reduction.

DEER TOLL HIGH

Autos kill more deer than do hunters in Iowa it appears. Paul Leaverton, superintendent of game for the conservation commission, reports that in 1957 autos killed 263 deer. Motorists reported damage to autos in 172 mishaps as totaling $18,985.

AIRPORT FUNDS

The federal government will spend $160,500 in Iowa in the fiscal year beginning July 1st for airport construction and improvements. Funds have been allocated for projects at airports at Ames, Cedar Rapids, Dubuque, Fort Dodge and Sioux City.

PROGRAM PAYS OFF

Iowa's program against delinquent income tax payers is paying dividends. The state has collected $150,000 from some 3,000 delinquent taxpayers since Feb 1, state tax officials report. These funds have come in since the commission started to prosecute evaders.

The drive against the evaders will continue too. Chairman Leon Miller said we have just "scratched the surface" in the program. He said the commission may collect back taxes from as many as 20,000 Iowans within the next year.

WILL HEAD LAWYERS

L L Corcoran, Sibley attorney, has been nominated by the board of governors of the Iowa State Bar Association for presidency of the group. Corcoran has been vice-president of the ISBA for the past year.

Corcoran will assume the presidency at the coming state convention of the Iowa Bar. He will succeed Shirley A Webster of Winterset. Carl F Conway, Osage has been nominated for vice-president.

HEADS ASC

Joe F Garber, Delmar, is the new chairman of the Iowa Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) committee.

Garber succeeds Max Soeth, Estherville, who quit as chairman because of his disagreement with farm policies of Ezra Benson, U S secretary of agriculture.

Benson accepted Soeth's resignation and displaced him eight days ahead of date Soeth had asked for termination of his duties.

GOP CARAVAN

The biennial "Republican caravan of candidates" gets underway this month with stops at 21 cities and towns in the state. Candidates for congressional, state and county offices on the GOP ticket will participate in the project.

The caravan will start April 15 at Council Bluffs and Harlan and makes its final appearance April 24 at Cedar Rapids and Dubuque.

The Iowa Council of Republican women sponsors the junket.

NAMES NEW GROUP

Governor Loveless has named 40 Iowans to a state "commission on human relations." Chief purpose of the unit, Loveless said, is the promotion of friendly relations "between various segments of the population, to work toward creation of a climate of fair play and to prevent incidents of social injustice."

Members of the groups are from 24 cities and towns. First meeting is scheduled for this month, probably in Des Moines.

USE TAX DROPS

Sales of new motor vehicles and trailers in Iowa last month were lower than those in the same month a year ago. Dollar volume of sales was $21,726,277. Two percent use tax collections totaled $434,525 compared with $471,968 a year ago.

SPEED TAX HUNT

An IBM filing and checking system for personal state income tax returns filed with the Iowa tax commission has been inaugurated in the past few weeks.

Auditors will work on tabulated lists based on information received on IT5A cards filed by employers on behalf of employees. This automatic check of state income tax matters will be done automatically whereas in past years the operation has been a long tedious hand operation.

GETS THE BELL

Iowa's lieutenant-governor will get the bell soon.

Friday, April 18, Lt Gov W H Nicholas, now seeking the GOP nomination for governor, will get the bell which has hung in the belfry of the Clutterville school for years.

The one-room school at Clutterville is about to be displaced. Nicholas will get the large bell as a gift from the school. He had spent his first year in teaching at this one-room school.

LONG SERVICE

Some fellows serve long prison sentences in Iowa. One inmate has been behind the bars in the penitentiary since 1919, some 37 years. Two other prisoners have been behind the bars at the state pen for 35 years.

Interest on prison terms being served in Iowa was heightened recently when the state of Illinois released Nathan Leopold, noted Chicago thrill slayer, after he had served 33 years in prison.

TAX EVADERS

Five Waterloo residents have been arrested on charges of failure to file state income tax returns for the years 1955 and 1956. Legal actions will follow, according to commission officials.

WEEKLY PAY GAINS

Average hourly and weekly earnings in Iowa manufacturing showed gains during January, latest month such figures are available. The average weekly earnings were up $1.56 over weekly earnings of the same month in 1957.

Average weekly earnings in manufacturing in Iowa was $84.09.

UNICAMERAL LOSES

The governor's state reapportionment committee is sold on the present Iowa legislative setup - that of a senate and a house.

The committee has been named to study legislative reapportionment and to make recommendations to the governor and legislature for changes in the present system.

Members of the committee voted against a recommendation that Iowa go to the unicameral (one house) legislative setup. They also voted in favor of the bicameral plan.

Frank T Nye, Cedar Rapids, has been named chairman of the reapportionment unit.

ASKS SUPPORT

Highway Story

By Bob Hullihen

After weeks of planning, the big day came. Main street suddenly became peopled with vigorous young men and women who went about pinning safety badges on passersby. They stuck safety bumper strips on parked cars. Stuffed safety literature in windows, painted slogans on street corners.

They dragged in the wreck of a car in which someone had been killed and parked it in the court house square. At noon the mayor turned out to give a short speech. Whistles blew and bells rung. The high school band went boom-ta-raing down the street and kids paraded on bicycles. People turned out to watch and shout - a little.

That night there was a big meeting in the square and a pretty girl was crowned Safety Queen and a boy was crowned Safety King and a man was called up out of the crowd and given a certificate for courteous driving.

And so the big day ended and weary committeemen congratulated one another and every one trailed home and went to bed. Safety had been served - or at least the "idea" of safety had been served.

The next day, the town was happily back to normal with its under-manned, under-paid traffic police force, its untrained teenage drivers, its all-kept accident records, its old-fashioned ordinances, its poorly marked stop intersections. its dismissed or wrist-slapping traffic fines.

But it had certainly been a great day for safety.

1958 Spring Market Offers Dairyman Culling Opportunity; Henderson

Hancock county dairymen have an unusual opportunity to cull low producing, unprofitable cows this spring, says Extension director Paul Henderson.

The prices being paid this spring for cull coys on the market are exceptionally good, he points out. This is also the season of the year when milk prices drop because of the surplus production. Unprofitable cows produce even bigger losses for their owners at this time.

And, Henderson adds, extension dairyman Floyd Arnold of Iowa State College points out that many cows on Iowa farms do not pay for labor and other costs above feed costs. Arnold points out that feed costs are about half the cost of keeping a cow; labor is ¼, and other costs, depreciation, building, veterinary service, equipment, insurance, interest and the like, make up another fourth. To make a fair return from dairying you need to cull out your unprofitable cows. Most cows pay for their feed - but that's only half your cost. Besides, Arnold says, if the unprofitable cows were culled from all herds there would be no dairy surplus in the United States.

Here are the kinds of cows Arnold advises dairymen to cull out now, before the herd goes on pasture and before you waste any more feed or pasture on cows that don't return you a profit:

1. The unprofitable producers-those cows that produce less than 7500 pounds of 4 percent milk or the equivalent in a year.

2. Crippled or diseased animals. An infectious or contagious disease can be easily spread when an infected animal is allowed to mingle with the rest of the herd as it does on pasture.

3. Slow or difficult breeders. The trouble may or may not be disease, but irregular breeders are usually poor property.

4. Animals that are undesirable in type.

Farm Tips

from your

Extension Director

By Henderson

Oat yields can be pushed up to 75 bushels per acre without affecting the establishment of a good seeding, says agronomist Ed Dyas of Iowa State College. Important practices: Start with good seed. Clean and treat seed. Plant early - but not before seed bed is well prepared. Use 2½ bushels per acre if you drill, 3 bushels if you broadcast. Use fertilizer if soil tests show its needed.

Thee seedling roots can't take sun or wind - so keep them moist and covered from the time you get them from the nursery till they're safely transplanted, says assistant extension forester Lee Andreas of Iowa State College. Get the trees planted and watered as soon as possible.

Half hams from No 1 hogs outsold half hams from No 3 hogs when they were offered in the same display cases at the same prices in three different Iowa communities, says E A Kline, meat specialist at the college. For every $100 of sales of half hams, an average of $63.50 was sold from grade 1 and $36.50 from grade 3 beside it. There was no difference in price and no indication that one display of half hams contained a different quality than the other. The locations of grade 1 and grade 3 were switched to give both grades a chance at both sides of the case. So the study shows that, with respect to hams, the No 1 hog seems to have the characteristics desired by consumers for lean meat for the table.

Gardens can be plowed now anytime the soil is dry enough to work well, Horticulturist Vance advises. It's a good idea to plow doyn a complete fertilizer, he adds. He makes a general recommendation of 15-20 pounds per 1,000 square feet of 10-10-10, 12-12-12 or a similar fer tilizer. Plowing under organic material, such as manure, or compost, will also help the garden, he says.

Can Orchardgrass be used interchangeably with brome as a mixture with alfalfa?

Extension agronomist Harvey Thompson, Iowa State College, answers: Yes. There are qualifications, however. For pastures, orchardgrass can be used interchangeably with bromegrass in an alfalfa mixture. But it doesn't make as good a hay mixture as brome would with alfalfa. This is because the orchardgrass reaches maturity much earlier than alfalfa. If you intend to harvest an orchardgrass-alfalfa mixture for hay, i'ts best to harvest when alfalfa begins to bloom.

Prune Fruit Trees Now

Horticulturist A E Cott, Iowa State College, says fruit trees can be pruned without injury anytime during the dormant season. That is, anytime from now until the trees leaf out. Corrective pruning - for broken limbs, crossing and rubbing banches, sucker and water sprouts - should be carried out at any time of the year.

Some Box Cakes Cost Less than Recipe Cakes

Now there's proof that you can actually make a commercial chocolate mix cake for less money than recipe cake. And the box cake takes less time, too.

That's what home economics researchers as Cornell University recently found out, says Elsie Mae VanWert, Hancock county extension home economist. The researchers also found the mix cakes more uniform, and that the mix cakes require less than half as many utensils than recipe cakes.

Eight recipes from established cookbooks and five commercial cake mixes were tested. The panel of judges found no difference in what they considered the best recipe cake and the best mix cake. Among the mix cakes, the one preferred by the judges was made from a mix calling for added water and fresh eggs.

Mix cakes cost about half a cent less per serving than recipe cakes, even when eggs or milk are added. Ingredients for the preferred recipe cake in the tests cost 43 cents. The mix calling for added eggs and water cost 39 cents; and the mix with added milk, 41 cents. Mix cakes may cost even less when you buy them on "special." You can put your own value on your time.

If you find satisfaction in creating your own high-quality cakes, you may prefer recipe makes. On the other hand, if you're especially interested in saving time and money, or if you're not skilled in cake making, you may prefer mixes, Miss VanWert points out. Either way you can have high-quality chocolate cake.

CATTLE

If you believe "history repeats itself," a look at the 1955 fed-cattle situation may give a clue as to what can happen to fat cattle prices this spring, says Francis Kutish, Iowa State College farm economist..

Sales of choice fed steers out of first hands for slaughter in February, 1955, were virtually the same as this February. Prices averaged about $1.50 higher this year than in 1955 but this partly because personal incomes are higher than in 1955 and because U S population is up, Kutish points out.

There is also less pork this year than in 1955, but the exact relationship between hog production and beef prices is difficult to figure, Kutish says.

The important point to note is that fed-cattle prices slumped during spring, 1955. They are likely to do so again this year, Kutish believes. This means farmers should try to get their cattle to market as soon as possible.

WOOL

The outlook for wool prices has just about reversed from what it was a year ago. Where 1957 saw high prices early in the year, price early this year are well below a year ago.

Woolen mills have been liquidating their wool inventories, but the USDA says this should be about over, and wool prices should pick up as mill activity increases.

If the current recession eases this summer or this fall, wool will bring best prices late in the year, Kutish says. But holding wool till the last part of 1958 could be a money-losing proposition if the recession becomes worse, he points out.

Beside the Still Water

My friend, have you ever heard of the town of "Yawn"

On the banks of the river "Slow?"

Where grows the "wait-a-while" flower fair

And the "sometime-or-other" scents the air,

And the soft "go-easies" grow.

It lies in the valley of "What's-the-use?"

In the province of "Let-it-slide."

That tired feeling is native there

It's the home of the listless "I-don't-care,"

Where the "Put-it-offs" abide.

A convention of imps was considering how they could best cause the destruction of man. One said, "I will go and tell man-kind there is no God," but he was reminded that atheists had been doing this for a long time with little effect.

Another said, "I will go and tell them that there is a God, but He doesn't care." He was reminded that cynics had been saying this for a long time, but when Jesus came and taught that God is love, people believed Him.

A third imp proposed, "I will go and tell mankind that there is a God, and that He does care, but there is plenty of time." He got the job.

Are you a dweller in the land described in the poem? Or a victim of the third imp? What do you do with your time?

Many Poultrymen Can Reduce Cost of Laying Pullets; Henderson

Pullets may be costing many Hancock county poultrymen more than they think. Raising chicks to egg-production age is costing producers as much as $1.75 per bird in some cases, says county extension director Paul Henderson of Garner.

However, producers keeping poultry records in the Iowa Demonstration Flock Project with extension poultryman E R Whitfield of Iowa State Colleeg, find the pullet cost needn't be that high.

The records show feed cost is the biggest single expense item. In some poultry operations as much as ¼ of the feed is wasted. Whitfield recommends using feeders with 6-inch sides after the birds are 4 weeks old. He also advises filling the feeders only one-third full to avoid feed waste. For the demonstration flock owners the average feed cost of raising a chick to production age is about 70 cents per bird. (Some prodccers get the job done for less than this.)

Another major expense of raising pullets is the purchase cost of the chicks. Whitfield says the producers who are keeping poultry records in cooperation with Demonstration Flock program paid an average of 44 cents per chick. However, some paid as high as 64 cents a chick and some as low as 34 cents.

"If you pay a fancy price for chicks," Whitfield points out, "it pays to balance your chick cost with good management - to take advantage of high-quality birds."

Housing, equipment, fuel and miscellaneous expenses in the demonstration flocks averaged in total only about 15 cents per bird, Whitfield says. He points out that a small investment in housing or equipment often pays big dividends in production returns. For instance. it generally saves in cost per pullet raised if you provide at least 1 square ft. of floor space for each beginning chick, then double the floor space per bird at 8 weeks. You can reduce the number of culls and cut feed expense by giving adequate housing, says Whitfield.

And if you spend no more than 70 cents per bird on feed, 44c on chicks and 15c on other costs. you are saving 46 cents out of the $1.75 many folks are spending to produce a laying pullet.

Farm Bureau on Property Taxes

EDITORS NOTE: This article was furnished us by the Farm Bureau and does not necessarily conform to the editorial policy of this newspaper.

"Under any method of determining how government costs should be allocated, the property tax is an inequitable means of raising public revenue." according to a summary by the Iowa Farm Bureau following its year long study of Iowa's tax structure.

The Farm Bureau has issued these conclusions: The property tax has little or no relationship to ability to pay. For instance, rural property taxes have climbed 52 percent since 1950, while farm income was dropping.

The property tax has little relationship to benefits received. (All children receive comparatively equal benefits from the public schools, but each rural child is backed by more than $14,000 in property valuation, each urban child $6,400. By the same token. rural residents pay more than three times the cost of county government per capita than do city residents, while each receives about the same services.

Finally, Farm Bureau notes that the "old principle about the property tax being the revenue producer even in bad years" is no longer true. Some counties cannot operate local government under present millage limitations Anticipated increases in school costs and in maintaining county government will increase the property tax load to a point where it may become confiscatory.

Farm Bureau lists many possible changes in the tax structure which would transfer some of the tax load to firmer and fairer tax bases. (None of these are offered as recommendations by the organization.)

For instance: Collect individual and corporation income taxes at the full rate (revenue increase $11.6 milion); increase sales tax from 2 to 3 percent (revenue gain, about $30 million); extend sales tax to cover motels and hotels (gain, about $1 million); remove sales tax exemption on property used in interstate commerce (about $1 million); use withholding system on salaries and wages (about $1.5 million.)

Other pohsibilities for transferring the burden away from prop erty include an "adjusted gross income tax." This would use the "adjusted gross income" as computed for federal tax purposes (business expenses deducted) for a base. It would differ from the present individual net income in two ways: No deductions would be permitted for personal exemptions, interest, taxes. medical expenses and contributions; and second, the total amount of adjusted gross income would be taxed at a single uniform rate regardless of the size of the adjusted gross. Estimated are that a 1 percent rate would raise $30 million.

One, several, or all of these steps might b eundertaken to raise state tax revenue, which in turn could be used to provide relief from the property tax burden which currently concerns both rural and urban owners.

Since the property tax strikes hardest at farmers and small businessmen, Farm Bureau is urging community level study of the entire tax structure, aimed at reaching agreement by the voters on the most equitable taxing base to be used for local, county and state government revenue purposes.

Farm Bureau policy for the 1959 session of the legislature will be developed by members following discussion of the problems at local level.

Mr and Mrs Verle Keraus and children of Garner, Mr and Mrs Otho Keraus and children of Hampton were entertained to dinner and supper Easter Sunday in the parental W C Keraus home.

Early Hybrids Suggested For Part of Corn Acres

Corn growers in Hancock county might benefit this year by planting part of their acreage to early maturing hybrids, says Paul Henderson, county extension director.

He adds that E R Duncan, Iowa State College agronomist, suggests that anyone with over 80 acres of corn consider putting up a fourth of it in early hybrids.

Planting early corn in part of the acreage enables a farmer to livide his harvest, Duncan points out. All the corn isn't ready at once. This is a particular advantage where large acreages are involved or where a farmer has a picker-sheller or corn combine and drier operation.

Duncan cautions. however, against planting the entire corn acreage to an early hybrid. This would put a farmer in the position of having to get it all picked before stalks lodge or ears drop. Losses can be high with early maturing hybrids unless they're picked in season, Duncan says.

To get yields from early hybrids comparable to production from hybrids adapted to an area, the agronomist says the planting rate of the hybrids will have to be increased. Ears of the early corn will be smaller, and it will take more of them to hold up yields.

Fruit Tree Pruning Demonstration Set

Fruit tree pruning will be demonstrated Tuesday, April 15. Two orchards will be used. The first demonstration will be at the farm of George Barker (about 1 mile east of the Hancock county Junior Fair grounds) at 10:00 a.m. The second will be at the Hensman Smidt farm at 1:15 p.m. (6 miles south and 2 east of Britt, or 8 miles west of Klemme.

All interested in pruning their fruit trees are urged to attend one or both of these demonstrations. Most fruit trees need an annual pruning but some general principles need to be followed to make strong, long-lived trees.

DAR WANTS OATHS

The Iowa DAR wants teachers and school administrators in the state to take an oath of allegiance to the Constitution.

Iowa members of the Daughters of American Revolution will ask the 1959 legislature to take "immediate action" to effect such oath-taking.

The DAR suggested the oath as a prerequisite to becoming a teacher. would be mandatory on all instructors and administrators in public schools and colleges.

COUNTY PLAN BOARD

A county planning board will bes established in Pottawattamie county this month, probably Apr 22. That's the date set as "organization day" for the proposal.

The new planning group would be charged with long-range planning and coordination of development of rural and urban areas, particularly development that affects mutually the city council, school board, and county board of supervisors.

The three taxing bodies are spearheading the move for the county planning unit. A county planning engineer is expected to be hired.

WANTS CENTRAL OFFICE

A state official has proposed that the state set up a centralized office machine department for use by all state agencies located in Des Moines, seat of the state capitol.

Melvin Synhorst, secretary of state, estimates Iowa spends $500,000 a year for rental of card processing and record keeping machines for state departments. He feels much of the equipment could be consolidated and some eliminated in a central department.

He cited the central printing department as an example of what could be done thus saving money and personnel.

FIELD NARROWS

The Iowa governorship field has narrowed as the June 2 primary election day appears six weeks away.

A field of four Republican aspirants has been narrowed to two, and Gov Herschel Loveless has the primary field all to himself in the Democratic ranks.

The GOP finalists, after the filing deadline. are Lt Gov W H Nicholas of Mason City, a veteran, and William G Murray of Ames, a newcomer. Other candidates who failed to file necessary papers for the race are John Knudson of Albion and State Sen J T Dykhouse of Rock Rapids.

Five men are seeking the lieutenant-governor nominations on the two party tickets. DELINQUENT TAXES

Delinquent sales and use taxes presently total $268,000 in Iowa.

John Harper, tax commission collections supervisor, said that the total assessments for these delinquent taxes is "the highest ever."

The total climbed by 24,000 in February, he said. The rate of payment. however, is showing signs of improving.

There have been reports that state tax commission may start criminal action through the courts to collect sales and use taxes from delinquent business firms.

NURSERY CENTER

The Shenandoah area is known as the "nursery center of the world." And this year, as in the spring of every year, the seasonal shipment of nursery stock and seeds creates daily mountains of mail through the southwest Iowa post office.

"Christmas is never like this" Postmaster John Haldeman said the other day as the spring rush continued from the nurseries in the area.

He said an average of 6 to 7 carloads of mail, mostly parcel post, leaves his post office daily by rail. The rush starts about mid-February and ends in mid-May.

Let's Talk Gardens, Fruits and Flowers

Spring garden work is increasing. Several jobs need to be done within the next week or so, says Horticulturist Ben Vance, Iowa State College. Maybe you're going to plant roses, prune shrubs, or even put in a new asparagus planting. Here are some suggestions from Vance that may be helpful.

The rose isn't a difficult plant to grow. But you must follow a few simple principles in buying plants, selecting sites and cultivating. Roses need 5 or 6 hours of sun each day. Good soil drainage is important. too. They won't do well on poorly drained soil. Locate them far enough away from large trees and shrubs so that these larger plants don't rob roses of soil moisture and nutrients. Roses shouldn't be in a wind-swept location, but they should be placed where air will circulate around them. Otherwise disease control will be difficult. Further advice on roses is contained in "A Handbook for Rose Growers," available at extension offices.

Some spring flowering shrubs grow vigorously and soon become a problem. Prune them properly.

Prune early blooming shrubs, such as lilacs, spiraea, Vanhoutte and flowering almond after they have finished flowering. If you prune them before they bloom, you remove much of the flowering wood.

Shrubs that bloom in late spring and summer. butterfly bush, hydrangeas, Anthony Waterer Spiraea, Froebel spiraea, and others, can be pruned now. Thees shrubs produce their blooms on wood of the current season's growth.

When pruning, it's usually best to prune a few of the larger canes at the soil surface. Removing a few of the larger branches each season will help keep the plant shapely.

You can grow asparagus easily in the home garden. If you are starting a bed this spring. you'll find Martha Washington variety is one of the favorites.

One-year old asparagus crowns are better and cheaper than crowns that are 2 or 3 years old. Select a site in full sun and plant the crowns as soon as soil can be worked. Don't expect to harvest asparagus from a new planting this year.

If you forgot to remove old fruiting canes in your raspberry planting, you should do this as soon as possible. Cut them off at soil level and burn them.

Pure Live Seed Means Cash Savings; Henderson

You can use the "pure live seed" percentage indicated on your seed tag to figure the real cost of your seed, says county extension director Paul Henderson.

Here's how: Multiply purity times germination to obtain pure live seed percentage. The result is the real price per bushel of "pure live seed."

This is the way it works. You're comparing two lots of soybean seed. Both are sold locally. One lot shows 99 percent purity and a 95 percent germination. It sells for $3.50 per bu. Multiply 99 by 95. You get 94 percent "pure live seed.' 'Divide $3.50 by 94. The result is $3.72 per bushel of "pure live seed."

The other lot looks like a bargain. It is selling for $3 per bu. Purity is 90 percent and germination 70 precent.

Multiplying 90 percent times 70 percent, you get 63 percent of "pure live seed." Divide $3 by 63. The result is $4.76 per bu of "pure live seed."

You would lose $1.04 by choosing the "bargain."

Three factors are important when you're buying soybean seed. says county extension director Henderson.

He says L E Everson of the Iowa State College seed testing laboratory believes these factors are variety, weeds and pure live seed. In determining the best varieties, he suggests looking over the Iowa State College publication, FS 739, "Recommended Crop Varieties for 1958," at the extension office in Garner.

Avoid buying seed containing noxious weed seeds or a high total of any weed seed Everson adds. And in checking the "pure live seed" you are checking the percentage of seed which can germinate and grow. This is the important point.

DISK

Five-year-old Todd Johnson of Eddyville escaped serious injury recently when he fell beneath a tractor disk. The youngster was riding on the tractor when the accident occurred.

Time For Dormant Tree Sprays in Hancock Co.

Fruit trees in Hancock county will benefit from dormant sprays applied now. says Paul Henderson, county extension director.

Dormant sprays—applied while temperatures are above freezing. but generally before growth start—help curb several important fruit pests. A dormant spray is the only effective control for peach leaf curl and plum pockets. It also helps control scale insects and kills overwintering. mite eggs.

Henderson lists recommendations for dormant sprays supplied by Ed Cott, Iowa State College extension horticultorist.

For apple and pear trees, spray with liquid lime sulfur—2 cupfuls per gallon, or 5 cupfuls for 10 gallons.

Spray peaches before buds swell, and raspberries just as buds begin to grow, using lime sulfur at a rate of 1 cupful per gallon of water.

Plums should be sprayed before buds start to swell. Use a mixture of 2 cupfuls of liquid lime sulfur per gallon.

Cott says that general purpose and one package fruit sprays aren't effective for dormant treatment. They are useful later during the growing season, but not at this time.

Extension Director Henderson suggests that home orchardists contact his office for a copy of Iowa State College Pamphlet 175, which outlines a complete home orchard spray schedule. Henderson will also be sending out cards during the season that will remind folks of spray dates. People who wish to receive that service should request that their names be added to the mailing list at the county extension office.

Clipped hedges that are open at the base, or that have not been kept pruned, should be cut off flush with the ground while they are dormant so the can come up anew, says extension lanlscape architect Margherita Tarr, Iowa State College. Hedges can be killed if that clipping isn't done right away, before they begin spring growth.

Vegetable garden disease problems can be minimized if you buy seed of disease resistant varieties, says plant disease specialist Mal Shurtleff of Iowa State College. If you have a choice between several varieties of a vegetable adapted to your area, choose the one that has resistance to one or more major diseases, he advises. Further information on combatting diseases in the family garden is contained in Iowa State College Pamphlet 230, "Insects and Diseases in the Family Vegetable Garden." It's available at your county extension service office.

Pocket gophers start the season early. So control measurse should start early, too, says entomologist Harold Gunderson of Iowa State College. Strychnine dusted baits of potatoes or other fresh root vegetables are effective against gophers. Baits should be placed in the main runway near the two freshest mounds on each system. Mounds are visible now while vegetation is short. A complete outline of gopher control is available from your county extension director. Ask for Iowa State College pamphlet 188.

Fire finds a breeding palce in paper, rags and rubbish, tucked into corners of buildings, closets and attics, warns safety specialist Norvel Wordle of Iowa State College. Even when this refuse isn't a factor in starting a fire, it will feed the flames. All papers and trash should be properly disposed of before they have a chance to contribute to disaster this spring.

Wireworms Control . . .

Entomologist Earle Raun, Iowa State College, says: For heavy infestations of wireworms, apply 2 to 3 pounds of either aldrin or heptachlor per acre. Broadcast over the area, using 3 pounds per acre in heavy, organic soils. Broadcast application of alderin or heptachlor will also control a wide variety of soil insects. These two chemicals can also be applied in the row, using 1 pound per acre. Row application however, does not give good control of cutworms and corn billbugs.

Is the use of lindane in the planter box worth its cost? Entomolgist Raun says lindane as a seed treatment is worth the cost in controlling seed corn beetles and seed corn maggots. Aldrin. heptachlor or dieldrin will also work. But as seed treatments, none of these chemicals will do the job on heavy infestations of wireworms.

Grain mixture for creep feeding lambs.

Animal Husbandman Emmet Haynes, Iowa State College, recommends the following ration for the first 3 to 4 weeks: 6 parts cracked corn, 2 parts whole oats and 2 parts soybean oil meal or its equivalent. After that time, go to a 9 parts shelled corn and 1 part protein supplement mixture.

Farm Bureau Tax Study

Extensive research on Iowa's tax structure "further demonstrates" the inequities in taxes on property. according to Harry Storey, Iowa Farm Bureau legislative director.

"Mere ownership of property, once considered a fair measure of ability to pay taxes, is placing an undue portion of the cost of government on two major groups of Iowans," Storey said. "Small businessmen and farmers are both required, by the nature of their operations, to own considerable property and inventory. They pay heavy property taxes - whether they earn an income from the business or not."

Farm Bureau's comprehensive tax-structure study followed a policy decision by its membership to de-emphasize the property tax as a source of revenue. The organization has not yet recomended any specific move toward using a more esuitable tax as a replacement. but is urging state-wide community and township study and discussion of this matter during the spring and summer months.

We forsee no rural-urban conflict on this matter," Storey said. "The tax is just as inequitable for a town and city property owner as it is for farmers. The state legislature has repeatedly recognized the inequity, and tried to level the load with homestead exemptions, agricultural land tax credit, the road use tax and other devices.

"We believe it is now time to review these stop gap measures. We believe the voters of Iowa can and will agree that state and local revenues should come from the most fair tax base which can be developed. The recent removal of ½ cent of the sals tax, coupled with a parallel two-year increase of some $30-million in property taxes, is a reverse step."

Farm Bureau's studies indicated that 53 percent of the property tax goes to support schools. 10 percent to secondary roads, 17 percent to county government, the remainder to city government.

Farmers, owning 51 percent of the state's assessed property in the form of land, buildings, livestock and machinery, are paying 43 percent of the total property tax bill - from only 16 percent of the state's income (1956 figures). This obvious inequity parallels that faced by small businesses where high property taxes are collected even though earned income is relatively small.

Farm Bureau officials consider the property tax base a major handicap to school reorganization. Its surveys show that "Invariably, when urban and rural districts are combined in a reganization, rural residents face a higher property tax, urban a lower. If, much-needed reorganization is to proceel rapidly, thih major roadblock must be removed."

Rural-urban unbalance also shows up in the cost of county government, Storey said. An applied uniform levy over the county places a per capita cost of $9.23 for an urban resident, and $33.19 for rural resident. It is again obvious that this inequity cannot be defended, either on a basis of ability to pay or of government services rendered, Storey said.

The studies indicated a considerable range in the per capita cost of county government over the state. Each resident in Black Hawk county pays $7.87 yer year while each Clarke county resident pays $28.19. (These are the two extremes.)

Start "Family Fire Campaign"

State fire marshal Ed J Herron suggested today a "family campaign against fires" as one way to cut down on disasterous fires which had claimed 25 lives in Iowa the first three months of 1958.

At the current rate, Herron said, 100 Iowans will die in fires during the year. Every spring and fall there is a rash of fire deaths, mainly caused by brush and trash fires that get out of control. Most of the victims are children and elderly people.

The "family campaign" suggested by Herron has a two fold purpose: To do a worthwhile job and have every member of the family take part.

First on the family schelule should be to throw out all combustible rubbish that can be found around the home or place of business. Everyone can help.

The second phase could be a family contest, he said, to see which member of the family can find the most fire hazards and eliminate them. Dad could possibly give a small cash prize, and still be money ahead when all the hazards are eliminated.

Herron suggested that the family look for these fire hazards and eliminate them:

Frayed electric cords, extension cords that are carrying too many appliances and oversize fuses in the electrical pane blox

Too few handy ash trays, or ash trays that tip over easily.

Kitchen curtains hanging dangerously near the kitchen range or a furnace that needs inspection repairs and cleaning.

Flammable liquids not properly stored in metal containers. Gasoline and paint thinner should be kept only in small quantities and never in glass jugs.

Brush, dry grass and leaves in the yard and around outbuildings.

Herron said that the "family contest" can instill important fire safety practices in young minds and good fire safety lessons and good examples by parents will be beneficial to children all through their lives.

CROP PROSPECTS -

Feed grain production this year will probably fall short of 1957; but when feed grains left after the current feeding year are added to predicted 1958 production, a surplus will result, says Francis A Kutish. Iowa State College Farm Economist.

Kutish says that on March 1, farmers planned to plant about 2 percent more acres of corn than in 1957. But planned acreages of oats, barley and sorghums were down 8, 3, and 13 percent respectively. This acreage patter would mean between 2 and 6 million tons less feed grains produced in 1958 than in 1957. Kutish points out, though. that after the current feeding year 9 or 10 million tons of feed grains will be left.

Since predictions call for more acres of corn than were raised last year, and since most of last year's big grain sorghum crop went to the government. there's a good chance that more of these grains will be available for feeding during the 1958-59 feeding year, Kutish says.

HOGS -

Overproduction problems may plague the hog business if present indications of the future are correct, Kutish says. Hog raisers have a larger spring pig crop on the way and are planning for 13 percent more farrowings during June through August than last summer. This could mean larger pig crops are being planned for later this fall and for spring, 1959. If the larger pig crops appear, an oversupply may result. Kutish says.

The Iowa State College economist looks for considerably larger hog marketings this summer and early fall.

Production Records Aid Hancock County Dairy Men in Cost Control

Milk production records are helping about 60 dairymen control their costs in DHIA and OS says county extension director Paul Henderson of Garner.

This is important in dairying today, he says, because the dairyman has little control over the price he gets for his milk. He can control, to a large degree his cost of producing it.

Weigh-a-day a month records are enabling dairymen to figure the production capacity of their cows. feed for efficient production, breed for higher production and cull out low producers. This is making a big difference in net income from dairying on farms where the records are fully used, Henderson says.

He points out that Donald Voelker, extension dairyman at Iowa State College, cites these figures from the Dairy Herd Improvement Association reports for 1956 and 1957; Cows producing 5,000 pounds of milk a year averaged $2.10 feed cost for every 100 lbs of milk they produced. Cows producing 10,000 pounds averaged $1.49 feed cost for each 100 lbs of milk.

Similar contrasts could be made, Voelker added. between labor and housing costs for the low and high producers. Voelker says mere observation has proved, time and again, to be unreliable as a guide to an animal's production. Dairymen need accurate records throughout the lactation to guide them in bringing their herds up to profitable production rates.

Weigh a day a month is a simplified, low cost plan of production record keeping now available to Hancock county dairymen. Voelker says it's particularly valuable in herds of 14 cows or less, but it's effective in herds of any size.

It calls for weighing the milk and feed of each cow on one day each month, county recording recording this and other simple items on a form and mailing them to the weigh a day a month record center. If enough dairymen would be interested in this plan a county plan would be set up.

A record keeper at the center would compute from these forms the information the dairyman needs to cull unprofitable animals. select the best for breeding, and feed cows better in accordance with their ability to produce. The service costs about 5 cents per month per cow. Any dairyman who wishes to enroll may do so at the county extension office in Garner, Henderson says.

Dairymen who want more complete records, including butter fat tests, can enroll in the owner sampler plan or the Dairy Herd Improvement Association at the extension office.

Highway Story

By Bob Hullihan

The curious thing about Iowa's new point system for suspending drivers licenses is that it isn't so new. The word now is that the safety department has been using a "point system" for something like the past 10 years.

Evaluators in the safety department's driver improvement section have been assigning points to drivers with records as a means of measuring how far any one driver has moved toward suspension. This has been a strictly internal system in the department for keeping tabs on poor drivers.

Last year, using this internal method, the department suspended the licenses of more than 5,000 Iowa drivers. If this comes as something of a surprise to you, therein lies one of the reasons for the "new" point system.

For several years it's been pretty obvious that most drivers just did not realize the safety department could and did suspend licenses because of records of violations or accidents or both.

Department officials came to feel that there could be great safety value in making drivers realize this fact and remember it.

That's one of the major reasons for announcement of the "new" point system—to let all drivers know, unmistakably, that a license can and will be suspended for poor performance. Another purpose is to give every driver a means of keeping track of his progress toward suspension if he happens to be going in the direction.

The hope is that the point system will act as a "brake" on the carless or thoughtless.

In a way. it's a sad commentary on all of us that we've become considerably more excited about the prospects of losing a license than we ever were over the prospect of losing a life in traffic.

CLASS NEWS

Have you ever heard your own voice? I mean really! Didn't you know the voice you hear as your own isn't the same voice others hear?

Cup your hands over your ears to pull them forward. Now read this article aloud. Sounds different, doesn't it? This is a close as you can come to hearing your voice the way it really sounds. unless vou can record your voice.

Last Wednesday the speech class had the unsual assignment to bring something, a short paragraph, to class to read aloud. When the class assembled they discovered the reason for this assignment. Each student had to read into a microphone and a tape recording was made of his voice.

When the tape was played back everyone thought that the voice sounded likes everyone - except when it came to his own recording.

"Oh, is that me?" "Do I really sound like that?" These were the comments from everyone.

Try it sometime, you'll be surprised by the sound of your voice too.

Don't You Read This!

We juniors don't want you to read this for we don't want you to know we are thanking you for hiring us as "slaves" during the past two weeks of "Slave Week."

There is no need to read this second paragraph for we are only going to say that if you would like to have your car washed, or screens put on, or lawns raked you can call any of us juniors and we'll try our best to do the job.

If you've read to this third paragraph, then read this - THANK YOU!! CALL AGAIN!! (We might add, money is still needed to hire a band for our prom after the banquet. Please help us give the seniors a wonderful last memory!)

RELATIVES

Peter A Nilles of Remsen now stationed with the Amy in West Germany recently was able to visit with some of his relatives on a visit to Luxembourg. The Nilles and Nothem families in the village of Bissen are relatives of his father and the Krieps and Weyen families of Heiderscheid are relatives of his mother.

INJURED

George White of Eldora was injured recently when he became entangled in a grain auger as he was working in some grain bins. He was treated for a head cut and then released from the Eldora hospital.

Mr Henry Nannenga has moved to the Ahren's Nursing home at Hampton.

Did You Hear the One -

A flock of sparrows was headed west when one of its members was reported missing. The others stopped to wait for him to catch up.

He finally appeared, bruised, battered and with just a few feather left.

"What happened to you?" the flock chorused.

"It was awful. I got caught in a badmintin game in Pittsburgh!"

Doctor: You need to stop worrying so much. Throw yourself into your work.

Patient: But loctor, I run a cement mixer!

Senior Class Play

Friday, April 11, at 8:00 p.m., the senior class will present "Her Kissin' Cousin." This play is a comedy involving six high school students during their summer vacation. All is well, until Lucy Lee, a real southern Belle, invades the scene. Lucy Lee causes more trouble than the girls care to have, and seeing the risk of losing their boy friends to the little southern gal, they plot to save their property.

Dorothy Kroehnke, Barbara Avery, Elaine Jurgemeyer, Chuck Bacon, Gordon Johnson and Doug Roul compete against southern invaders Karen Clabaugh and Richard Meyer for a promising evening of fun for your whole family.

If you don't have your tickets, see any senior for them, 50c for adults, 25c for children. There are still a few reserved seats available; the chart is at Gerardi's.

STUCK

Workers on the project of the new junior-senior high school building in Exira recently ran into trouble. While they were moving some of the big equipment, one of the hugh turnapulls became mired in the mud. Two big caterpillars became stuck in the mud as they were attempting to free the turnapull. It finally involved the use of two other big machines to free the first three.

Question of the Week

Question: Boys! What do you think of the sack dresses?

Jon: I think they are positively ugly on anything but a barrel.

Douglas: Some girls look pretty good in them, but I believe the boys are most concerned in who is in them.

Ray: I can not say I rightly care for them. I think they are made for girls that look like a potato sack.

Paul: I think they look pretty good on some girls. But on some girls, they look like the devil.

Marlin: I think people are going back to the old days when they wear them.

Larry L: I like the more tight fitting style.

Ron: I don't thiik they bring out anything on any girl.

Darryl: A sack is used for feed, not for a dress.

Howard: I don't think they look very good, if they want to wear a sack, then wear a gunny sack, it's cheaper.

Richard: When I see a girl wearing one of those sack dresses, I begin to wonder what they have that they want to hide.

Freshman Interview

Claudia Jean Neuberger was born November 7, 1943, the daughter of Mr and Mrs Lester Neuberger.

She has grown to the height of five feet, two inches, has brown eyes and brown hair.

Now as a freshman in high school her favorite subject is algebra. She would also enjoy going to a movie such as "The Ten Commandments starring such actor and actress as Charlton Heston and Ann Baxter. Aftarward, she would be most pleased to have a steak and French fries.

Claudia's ambition now is to graduate from high school. I'm sure as she becomes a senior she will have a more important one. Good luck to you, Claudia.

Aptitude Tests

The students in Klemme High now have the chance to take the Kuder Preference Record which is really an aptitude test. The purpose of this test is to find the field in which your interest lies. It points out vocations with which the student may not be familiar but which involve activities of the type for which he has expressed preference. The test also serves as a check on whether a person's choiec of an occupation is consistant with the type of thing he ordinarily prefers to do.

This test may be obtained by seeing Mr Whitney. The test will take approximately 40 minutes. The test is simple and easy to take.

Farm Bureau on Property Taxes

EDITORS NOTE: This article was furnished us by the Farm Bureau and does not necessarily conform to the editorial policy of this newspaper.

"Under any method of determining how government costs should be allocated, the property tax is an inequitable means of raising public revenue." according to a summary by the Iowa Farm Bureau following its year long study of Iowa's tax structure.

The Farm Bureau has issued these conclusions: The property tax has little or no relationship to ability to pay. For instance, rural property taxes have climbed 52 percent since 1950, while farm income was dropping.

The property tax has little relationship to benefits received. All children receive comparatively equal benefits from the public schools, but each rural child is backed by more than $14,000 in property valuation, each urban child $6,400. By the same token. rural residents pay more than three times the cost of county government per capita than do city residents, while each receives about the same services.

Finally, Farm Bureau notes that the "old principle about the property tax being the revenue producer even in bad years" is no longer true. Some counties cannot operate local government under present millage limitations Anticipated increases in school costs and in maintaining county government will increase the property tax load to a point where it may become confiscatory.

Farm Bureau lists many possible changes in the tax structure which would transfer some of the tax load to firmer and fairer tax bases. (None of these are offered as recommendations by the organization.)

For instance: Collect individual and corporation income taxes at the full rate (revenue increase $11.6 milion); increase sales tax from 2 to 3 percent (revenue gain, about $30 million); extend sales tax to cover motels and hotels (gain, about $1 million); remove sales tax exemption on property used in interstate commerce (about $1 million); use withholding system on salaries and wages (about $1.5 million.)

Other pohsibilities for transferring the burden away from property include an "adjusted gross income tax." This would use the "adjusted gross income" as computed for federal tax purposes (business expenses deducted) for a base. It would differ from the present individual net income in two ways: No deductions would be permitted for personal exemptions, interest, taxes. medical expenses and contributions; and second, the total amount of adjusted gross income would be taxed at a single uniform rate regardless of the size of the adjusted gross. Estimated are that a 1 percent rate would raise $30 million.

One, several, or all of these steps might b eundertaken to raise state tax revenue, which in turn could be used to provide relief from the property tax burden which currently concerns both rural and urban owners.

Since the property tax strikes hardest at farmers and small businessmen, Farm Bureau is urging community level study of the entire tax structure, aimed at reaching agreement by the voters on the most equitable taxing base to be used for local, county and state government revenue purposes.

Farm Bureau policy for the 1959 session of the legislature will be developed by members following discussion of the problems at local level.

Early Hybrids Suggested For Part of Corn Acres

Corn growers in Hancock county might benefit this year by planting part of their acreage to early maturing hybrids, says Paul Henderson, county extension director.

He adds that E R Duncan, Iowa State College agronomist, suggests that anyone with over 80 acres of corn consider putting up a fourth of it in early hybrids.

Planting early corn in part of the acreage enables a farmer to livide his harvest, Duncan points out. All the corn isn't ready at once. This is a particular advantage where large acreages are involved or where a farmer has a picker-sheller or corn combine and drier operation.

Duncan cautions. however, against planting the entire corn acreage to an early hybrid. This would put a farmer in the position of having to get it all picked before stalks lodge or ears drop. Losses can be high with early maturing hybrids unless they're picked in season, Duncan says.

To get yields from early hybrids comparable to production from hybrids adapted to an area, the agronomist says the planting rate of the hybrids will have to be increased. Ears of the early corn will be smaller, and it will take more of them to hold up yields.

Fruit Tree Pruning Demonstration Set

Fruit tree pruning will be demonstrated Tuesday, April 15. Two orchards will be used. The first demonstration will be at the farm of George Barker (about 1 mile east of the Hancock county Junior Fair grounds) at 10:00 a.m. The second will be at the Hensman Smidt farm at 1:15 p.m. (6 miles south and 2 east of Britt, or 8 miles west of Klemme.

All interested in pruning their fruit trees are urged to attend one or both of these demonstrations. Most fruit trees need an annual pruning but some general principles need to be followed to make strong, long-lived trees.

To Build Shelter House In City Park As Soon As Sufficient Funds Are Raised

City Council To Tour Town Property Tonight

The City Council met at the Fire Station on Monday night to take up business brought before them

Mayor Keraus and the City Councilmen will make a tour of inspection of the City Property tonight (Wednesday, April 16) to determine what changes need to be made

FIRE TRUCK

The Council discussed the question of housing for a tank truck to carry water to rural fires The Township Trustees have agreed to furnish the truck if the town will provide housing for it Mayor Keraus suggested that a door be cut in the town building just east of the fire station and house either the tanker or the city fire truck there, and the other, of course, in the present fire station This would give immediate housing for the proposed tank truck at little expense to the city

Another item along the fire line brought up was pertaining to installing a permanent alarm on main street. This would eliminate the possibility of no one answering the present fire telephone system, and enable the caller to turn in his own alarm. It would also eliminate the necessity of one person remaniing near his fire phone 100 percent of the time.

It now costs $75 per year to have someone take the fire calls. The permanent installation could probably be put in for the first year's $75 and then the cost would drop considerably The City Volunteer Fire Department is in favor of the move

The Council agreed to use the town's third of the money, or $25 to install the permanent fire alarm, if the other two townships would do likewise

SHELTER HOUSE

Henry Wessels brought up the shelter house project in the park that has been underway by the Commercial Club It was discussed by the council members The item for discussion was the proposition that the Town furnish the water and sewer lines for the shelter house if the Commercial Club would go ahead and build it Wessels, also president of the Commercial Club, brought the plans for the shelter and they were examined by the council

Estimated cost of installing the water and sewer line was approximately $230.50 This was broken down as follows: Digging trench $42.50; pipe for water $85; pipe for sewer $68; and installation $35

The Council voted unanimously in favor of the proposition

BLACKTOP

Blacktopping of some of the city's streets was brought up and talked over by the Mayor and Council All agreed that adequate drainage was the biggest deterrent to any blacktopping program.

A representative of a blacktopping firm was present and the following cost estimates were brought out at the meeting:

The blacktop itself, consisting of a 20 foot slab of three coats would cost in the neighborhood of $300 per block The three coats consisting of one prime coat and two armor coats The armor coats being 78 percent asphalt and covered with 30 pounds of pea gravel per square yard An additional armor coat would have to be applied every three to five years to maintain the condition of the road

Cost of curb and gutter was set at approximately $1 52 per running foot Total cost of curb and gutter and blacktop would run in the neighborhood of $1212 per block, plus of course, the intersections and rainage

The first streets suggested for the surfacing were the schoolhouse street (the street running north and south on the west side of the schoolhouse) and the remaining streets around the park.

As noted before, the suggestion was tabled until adequate drainage could be provided and other problems worked out

Let's Talk Gardens Fruits and Flowers

Selecting the site of the home vegetable garden is important, reminds horticulturist Ben Vance of Iowa State College You may have a garden established But if you're just starting a new one keep these points in mind: 1 the location should be well drained; 2. It should get full sun, or at least six hours of sun a day; 3 locate it away from trees and shrubs that rob moisture and nutrients; 4. have the garden close to the house, if possible It's more convenient for harvesting fresh vegetables.

Good garden crops can't be grown unless good seed is used Buy the best seed available from the most reliable sources Seed cost is a minor item, when other expenses and labor are considered You can save on seed cost by buying in bulk

Always check to see if vegetable seeds have been treated to prevent seedling diseases If they haven't, it's a good idea to buy chemicals and treat seeds yourself College plant diseases specialists suggest captan Arasan or Spergon for the job

You can use a "rotation in your garden to increase organic content of garden soil Plant early maturing crops in ½ the garden area, late season crops in the remainder After the early vegetables have been harvested, annual ryegrass can be sown in this area It will make good growth in time for fall plowing. Next year, late crops would be planted in this area, and the other half of the garden seeded late in the season.

Horticulturist Ed Cott says that fruit growers still have time to prune grapes and apples Grape pruning should be finished by the time the buds swell and reach the size of garden peas, however.

Apple trees should be pruned every year There's still ample time to get this job done Even if you don't finish before trees begin to leaf out, it's better to finish the job up than to let trees go

It's still not too late to prune raspberries, either And if you are maintaining a raspberry planting under a much, now is a good time to make a topdressing of a complete commercial fertilizer Two pounds of 10 6 4 applied to a 50 foot row 2 feet wide would be a satisfactory rate Put fertilizer in the row and around the plants, not in paths

Social Security Trust Fund Totals Nearly 23 Billion Dollars

The balance on hand in the Old Age and Survivors Insurance Trust Fund from which social security benefits are paid still stands close to the 1957 record level of 23 billion dollars according to E L Iske, district manager of the Mason City social security office

Iske declared: "The social security system is self supporting financed by the social security tax contributions made by workers, employers and self employed persons." He added that the payments into the social security trust fund combined with the interest earned by the trust fund assure the financial soundness of the system, leaving no doubt as to its solvency and full capability of making benefit payments to the present 11 million beneficiaries and the millions more to be added in the future. Iske said that actuarial studies show that the Trust Fund will continue to grow well beyond the year 2,000

Right Fertilizer Use May All to Crop Yields

Proper fertilizer handling by Hancock County farmers can make a big difference in yield, says extension director Paul Henderson.

Several Hancock County farmers who are interested in higher yields have been wondering what kind of fertilizer should be used for oats.

Henderson says agronomist Joe Stritzel, Iowa State College, reports that the kind and amount of fertilizer for oats depends on the soil But usually a mixture of nitrogen and phosphorus is needed

Unless an Iowa State College soil test indicates otherwise, Stritzel adds, nitrogen should generally be limited to 20 lbs per acre If lodging has occured in the past, nitrogen should not be applied

Phosphorus amounts can range from 40 to 80 pounds of available phosphorus pentoxide per acre If you are without a soil test, he notes, check your "Area Guide to Fertilizer Use" leaflet for recommendations for both nutrients This is available at the county extension office.

Other farmers in Hancock county are puzzling over what type of nitrogen fertilizer is best for topdressing bluegrass pastures, Henderson adds

Agronomist Stritzel says there is no one best type for Hancock county Possibilities include: no-pressure nitrogen solutions and most solid nitrogen sources, such as 21 0 0, 33 0 0, and 45 0 0

Anhydrous ammonia and low pressure nitrogen solutions should also be acceptable provided: (1) the blade spacing is no more than 8 inches apart and (2) provisions are made to prevent escape of free ammonia from the knife slits

Final selection should be based mostly on what it will cost to apply a given poundage of nitrogen to the sod

Another question in Hancock county centers around whether soil temperature affects the type of nitrogen fertilizer used for bluegrass pasture

Srtitzel reports that temperature is not important for top dress applications in the spring Themperature is important only in fall applications of nitrogen for next year's crop

Orchardgrass Wins High Place as Pasture Grass

Orchardgrass is becoming one of the most useful grasses available in this area, says county extenion director Paul Henderson. It's been largely overlooked in the past

He reports Agronomist Harvey Thompson, Iowa State Colleie, believes it's well adapted to Iowa soils and climate and superior to most grasses in recovery after grazing or mowing It persists well in pastures under good management

It's an early grass with favorable distribution of "aftermath" growth It grows vigorously and that helps maintain a good grass legume balance This balance is believed to be important in the control of pasture bloat, Thompson adds

Stands of orchardgrass are easier to establish because the seedlings are vigorous. This grass also is relatively tolerant to drouth and high temperatures

When properly managed, orchardgrass has high nutritive value and is palatable, Thompson says

Rapid early growth and early heading account for the low palatability rating often given to this grass When it is allowed to set seed, it becomes coarse and stemmy It then is semidormant and its feeding value is low for the rest of the season

But Thompson says you can maintain satisfactory palatability and feeding value by removing seed heads soon after they emerge Then keep the plants in good grazing condition the rest of the season

Extension Director Henderson says you can get more details on the use of orchardgrass in an Iowa State College publication, FS 746, "Orchardgrass - Its Use on Iowa Farms" This publication is available at the extension office

By Paul Henderson

County Extension Director

DAIRY —

The dairy business should bring better profits this year than last, even though milk supports are 19 cents per cwt lower than last year, says Francis A Kutish, Iowa State College farm economist

Better beef prices will do the trick, Kutish says Even though income from milk will drop, cull cows and vealers will bring enough more to make up the milk loss The first week in April cows averaged $16 62 at Chicago, where a year before they brought $12 08 And veal animals sold for $31 70 as compared with $26.80 during th saue week is 1957.

For example, take a 30-cow dairy herd which produces as average of 6,150 pounds of milk per cow With a milk price of $4 05 instead of last year's $4.20 the milk check would be $277 smaller for the year. But if 9 vealers and 7 cull cows were sold from this herd, total income would be boosted by $426. This would make up the $277 milk-price loss and give a net profit of about $150.

There's also a chance that lower feed prices may result in increased milk production this year, Kutish says This would further boost profits

CATTLE—

Spring demand for light cattle is likely to continue, even if fat cattle prices drop some during the next 60 days, Kutish believes Trading on stockers and feeders in the western range country is brisk, since prospects for early spring grazing are good Kutish thinks this will sustain light cattle prices

Fed cattle are still bringing good prices. Choice and prime animals continue scarce, with choice steers at Omaha averaging about $6 50 higher than a year ago Prime prices are running about $10 higher than last year. However, sales of good grade fed steers have been running ahead of last year at Omaha and Sioux City

Kutish still looks for increased marketing of choice steers later this season When it will begin is uncertain, though, as wet corn in northwest Iowa, South Dakota and Minnesota may cause cattle to be held to heavier weights

EGGS—

Egg prices for next fall and winter should be moderately good if the number of eggs going into incubation during April isn't a lot higher than in March, Kutish says March April and May are the big hatch months On March 1, ony 4 percent more eggs were in incubators than a year before.

This year's laying flocks contain more held over hens than did last spring's flockh Kutish points out that more chicks must be hatched to offset the heavier culling this year The USDA figures 5 or 6 percent more chicks will be needed

Property Tax Changes Suggested by Farm Bureau Study

EDITORS NOTE: This article was released by the Farm Bureau and does not necessarily conform to the editorial policies of this newspaper

Several possibilities exist at local and county levels for de-emphasizing the property tax, according to research reports issued by the Iowa Farm Bureau That organization has stressed the inequities of property as a basis for determining ability to pay taxes, and its parallel lack of indentity with benefits received.

A major possibility in shifting some of the rural-urban tax load from property to other tax bases centers on transfer of the state institutional tax to the state This tax, imposed by the state on counties with no limitations, is levied by the Board of Control to cover each counties share of patients admitted to the several mental, tubercular and sight saving institutions.

Transfer of the tax load involved to a broader political division than a county would be following precedent established by state financing of our colleges, state prison and reformatory institutions It would save county level costs of $13 million now paid by property owners Costs now paid by counties are rising at a rate of 15 to 20 percent per year

In other areas, Farm Bureau suggests the possibility of further coordinating county government functions, following the precedent set in the past legislative session allowing adjacent counties to hire county superintendents of education

Also the Farm Bureau study made reference to possibility of extending the network of rural roads financed by road use taxes. Currently taxes on rural property to the extent of $30 million is collected for our secondary roads, thus making for a "doubled cost" situation on property owners who also pay for primary, farm to market and some secondary roads via the road use taxes

Harry Storey, Famr Bureau's legislative director, notes that present Iowa law permits adding mileage to the farm to market road system in counties where all farm to market roads have been completed

Such additional mileage on the farm to market network would permit extra rural mileage to be partially financed by state and federal funds

School costs, largest single "bite" in the total property tax revenues. may "afford the greatest opportunity for property tax relief," Storey said

Two approaches, in this area, are possible, according to Farm Bureau Expanded state aid for schools, might be substantially expanded, thus reducing dependence on property taxes for supporting education Second, property tax inequities at the local level might be corrected by establishing differential tax levies getween urban and rural property

In the area of additional state aid, alternative proposals have been offered One might pay 25 percent of school costs from state aid. This would involve a $54 million state aid program. approximately $30 million higher than currently being appropriated but which is still lower than the average being allocated by other states

Or, Iowans might decide to go slightly higher than the average of state school aid programs, and finance 50 percent of school costs from state sources

This latter would require $85 million more than is currently being appropriated, and could be raised by a combination of an additional 2 percent sales tax plus a 1 percent adjusted gross income tax.

Or, state guarantees could be established covering a foundation education program of $200 per child, which would also require an extra $85 million This latter approach would insure a basic educational program, leaving the local district to decide how much more they desire to enrich the school program.

Finally, Farm Bureau suggests that if "we continue to depend on property as the major source of school revenue, we must correct property tax inequities at the local level

Two possible plans were offered for study and discussion First a differential tax levy be established when rural and urban property are combined in the same school difference, the differential to establish each area's proportionate share of school costs based on the number of children in each area

Second, provide a differential levy similar to that used in Minnesota, where a 2 to 1 differential is used where urban and rural property are combined to finance education

None of the proposals and possibilities are being endorsed by Farm Bureau at this time. The research on the state's tax structure is being distributed for use at community and rural twp levels, to that taxpayers may decide how they prefer to base their tax payments The farm organization studies indicate that property taxes fall heaviest on farmers and small businessmen both of whom must own considerable property and inventory because of the nature of their operations In both cases, ownership of property has little relationship to earnings or to ability to pay taxes

Exten. Boy Scout Fund Drive an Extra Week

A one week extension in the Boy Scout $250,000 Reservation Development Fund Campaign was announced Monday evening by Ray Rorick, general chairman

The extension was decided upon to give the more than 800 volunteer workers an opportunity to complete solicitation throughout the nine county area of the Winnebago Council Delays due to a late start and the Easter week holiday were given as reasons for the extension

The last report meeting will be held at 8 p m Monday, April 21, in the multi-purpose room of the Roosevelt Elementary school in Mason City All Workers are urged to bring in all cards to the meeting

The campaign was organized to secure funds for the development of a 300 acre campsite near Marble Rock on the Shell Rock River The present camp at Clear Lake, Camp Roosevelt contains 25 acres and has grown too small for the thousands of Scouts in the area Expansion possibilities there were not possible

Officials of the Winnebago Council and the Reservation Development committee are planning to move ahead quickly on construction of facilities so that the Reservation will be ready for use by next year

Subscribers to the campaign are being asked for "pledges" over a 25 month period to coincide with the anniversary of Scouting in America in 1960

The campaign was officially launched March 31 with a giant kickoff and public rally in Mason City Report meetings have been held in each county since that time

Henderson Names Two Orchardgrass Varities Among Best for Iowa

Orchardgrass varieties available and best suited for Iowa appear to be Commercial and Patomac, says extension director Paul Henderson

Seed of Commercial is produced in the mid Atlantic or southern Corn Belt states Henderson says agronomist Harvey Thompson, Iowa State College, reports it's good in all around performance and is winter hardy Patomac yields about the same as or somewhat less than, commercial. It's as hardy and is somewhat better in leaf disease resistance Both are mid early in heading and good in aftermath vigor

Seed lots classified as Danich have been variable in performance, Thompson warns The mid late types, Latar and S-37, are not considered consistant producers in Iowa

TAKES ACTION

Gas tax collections by the state treasurer's office, which threaten to become a politcial issue in this fall's campaign, has prompted State Treasurer M L Abrahamson to take some corrective measures.

He said he has ordered Fuel Tax Director George Marchi to start a training program for field auditors in the division; has authorized the division to be revamped to eliminate personality problems, and has asked the state auditor to audit the division.

Abrahamson said the estimate that the division failed to collect four million dollars a year in fuel taxes before Marchi became a member is "cock-eyed." This estimate was made recently by State Sen Duane Dewel, a member of the legislative investiga tion committee.

Abrahamson, Marchi and Dewel are Republicans. Democratic party leaders have indicated the division activities may become a campaign issue this fall

COUNCIL ON JUVENILES

Governor Loveless reports he will establish an Iowa council for community action on juvenile behavior. He will appoint members representing all 99 counties as part of a "drive to raise the level of juvenile behavior in Iowa."

There will be a governor's conference on juvenile behavior in Des Moines, May 3, Loveless said. He also reported that only about 2 percent of Iowans 10 to 18 years old are actually delinquent

FAVORS WITHHOLDING TAX

Iowa income tax director. George J Eischeid, believes the state should have a withholding tax plan such as the federal government. He has been quoted as saying "It's the only way the state ever will collect a lot of the taxes it has coming."

Eischeid's remarks may cause some political reverberations. Governor Loveless has said he does not favor a withholding tax for the state The governor and the tax officials are Democrats.

One Republican for governor, William Murray, has come out strongly for such a tax program. His primary election opponent in the GOP ranks, Lt Gov W H Nicholas, is opposed to such a plan.

Murray was the paid research director for the last state legislative tax study committee A withholding tax measure for Iowa failed to obtain fuch support in the last legislative session

DON'T LIKE IT

Wallace's Farmer and Iowa Homestead magazine reports Iowa farmers are against county mergers

In a recent poll conducted by the magazine. 60 percent of the farmers polled said they are opposed to a merger of two or three counties into one to improve county government in the state.

Only 19 percent favored consolidation of counties.

BEST SPELLER

An Iowa girl is the spelling champion of a Nebraska sponsored spelling bee.

Sandra Ford, 13, Bridgewater, in Adair county, is the champion ofv the so callel midwest spelling contest sponsored by the Omaha World-Herald.

Miss Ford, who defeated a young Nebraska lass, will participate in a national contest in Washington, DC, June 5.

SALES DOWN

Ioya auto dealers did nearly $22 million worth of business in March this year, but the total was some $4 million below sales in the same month a year ago Total volume figures are taken from collection of the 2 percent use tax on such transactions by the state tax commission The tax produced $439,204 last month.

OPEN MEETINGS

The Iowa attorney general has ruled that meeting of city and county boards of assessment and review must be open to the public.

State law requires that meetings of county boards of review shall be public, but the law is silent about city boards.

The attorney general's opinion said that what applies to county boards should also apply to city boards.

"One cannot deny." the opinion stated, "That for a meeting of a board of assessment to be public is for the public good....

"There is no reason to believe that the work of the board would in any way be hampered by admission of the general public to such a meeting, or in any way enhanced by keeping out the public .. "

HARD TO SPOT

Dr Gale H Walker, superintendent of a Pennslyvania state school, told Iowans the other day that it is almost as hard to identify a mentally defective person in an institution as it is to point one out among the general public.

FUNDS RESTORED

A two percent economy cut for the Veterans Administration hospital in Des Moines has been restored after a month Res oration of the funds will enable the reopening of one ward that was closed as a result of the budget action in Washington

FLU THREAT STAYS

The threat of Asian flu may remain in Iowa for several years. That's the report of Dr Ralph Heeren of the state department of health.

"Studies show that when a strain of flu appears," he said, "It tends to remain domniant for several years."

WATCH IT MEN!!

Eating and smoking are the most frequent casues of heart trouble.

A Cleveland heart specialist, Dr William Proudfit, believes "diet and smoking are a more frequent cause of heart trouble than nervous tension." He told the Iowa state medical society convention just that.

PLAN 7-STATE PARLEY

The state commerce commission is asking 6 other states to participate in a meeting to seek settlement of pipline company differences holding up natural gas service to 134 communities. The meeting is planned for May 1 in Des Moines.

Of the 134 communities, 90 are in Iowa.

Judge Not

There is no other quirk of human nature so common or so malicious as the habit of judging others. All of us at one time or another have been guilty of this cruelty And many of us have been the butt of it.

Seldom is a person heard to confess to breaking the ninth commandment: "Thou shalt not bear false witness against thy neighbor." Yet this is the one we all break most often

A minor poet wrote: "Stubbornness we depreciate. but firmness we condone; the former is our neighbor's trait, the latter is our own." We all tend to garnish our own traits and tarnish the other fellows.

Psychologists say if you want to find a person's weak points, note the failings he has the quickest eye for in others.

Lack of understanding in judgement of others comes from not knowing what lies behind the person's actions We should all hold in our heart sthe Chinese proverb, "Be not disturbed at being misunderstood, be disturbed rather at not being understanding."

Not So Dumb

Pack: "Why is your car painted blue on one side and red on the other?"

Mac: "It's a great scheme. You should hear the witnesses contradicting each other."

X Marks The Spot

Gus and Joe, at a Northern fishing resort, rented a hotel room, boat and found great fishing as a certain spot in a nearby lake, so great that they decided to mark the place and come back for more sport the next day. At the dock Gus said, "Joe did you mark the spot?" "Yah," replied Joe, "Aye put a chalk mark in this side of the boat." "Boy, are you dumb!" exclaimed Gus. "Maybe we won't get the same boat!"

A Beginner

Farmer: "Come on, I'll show you how to milk a cow"

Novice: "Perhaps I'd better start on a calf."

Safety First

A woman was driving along a country road when she noticed a couple of repair men climbing telephone poles

"Fools!" she exclaimed to her companion, "They must think I never drove before!"

Horse Sense Quiz

1. If a basketball weighs 10½ ounces plus half it sown weight, how much does it weigh?

2. On a windless day, two air planes, 1,250 miles apart, fly directly towards each other. If one plane travels 200 miles per hour and the other 300 miles per hour, how far apart will they be an hour before they collide?

3. After making a series of tests, a scientist discovered that it took 80 minutes for a tray of ice cubes to freeze in his refrig erator on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday. But the other days it took an hour and 20 minutes. Can you explain this phenomena?

4. A platoon of fewer than 100 soldiers were trying to decide what marching formation to use in a parade. They tried it three abreast, then four, five and six abreast, but in every case there was always one extra man left. How many soldiers were there in the platoon?

5. Imagine that on Mars there is a tiny, one celled animal that splits in half every minute to make two one celled animals the same size as the original. We put one of these strange creat ures in a beaker that has a volume to ten cubic inches. In 20 minutes the beaker is completely filled. When was it half filled?

6. A dog and cat together weigh 27 pounds. If the dog's weight is an odd number and if he weighs twice as much as she does, how much does each weigh?

ANSWERS:

1. Since two halves make a whole, 10½ oz nepresents half the weight of the ball. Thus, it weighs 21 oz.

2. Since an hour before the crash one plane will be 200 miles from the scene of the collision and the other 300, the answer is 500 miles. The distance between the planes when they started was just mentioned to confuse you.

3. There is nothing to explain 80 minutes is the same as an hour and 20 minutes.

4. 60 is the lowest number into which two, three, four, five and six will divide evenly. To this we add one (the extra man) so the answer is 61.

Radical Idea

Due to increased competition and a keen desire to remain in existance, we find it necessary and urgent to institute a new, revolutionary policy

We are asking that somewhere between starting and closing of school, and without infringing too much on the time usually devoted to lunch period, chewing gum, rest periods, story telling, vacation planning and rehashing of yesterdays TV shows, each student endeavor to find some time he can set aside to be known as a "work break"

To some, this is a radical innovation, but we honestly believe the idea has great possi bilities It can conceivably be an aide to steady grades, and later it might be a means of assuring regular pay checks.

While the adoption of the "work break" plan is not compulsory it is hoped that each student will find enought time to give the plan a fair trial.

Double Talk

TEACHERS SAY:

1 This is not very important.
2 This assignment is not difficult in the least ...you should have no trouble with it.
3 All right, Little One, what is bothering you?
4 Do you have an excuse for your absence?
5 This school is your school and we know you want to keep it in good condition.
6 You get less credit for work that is handed in late.

TEACHERS MEAN:

1 Mark this, you will have it on the test
2 This is hard You are probably too dumb to understand it, but study hard anyway.
3 Hurry up! I have work to do
4 Can you prove you did not go fishing
5 Just wait until we find out who has been carving on the desks.
6 it is easier to throw all the papers in the wastebasket at once.

Fourth Grade News

Our class has been studying all about Alaska. It has been fun to pretend that we're visiting this country and are busy writing letters about our adventures to our friends and families in Iowa. Here are some of our letters.

Stevens Point, Alaska
April 22, 1958

Dear Roberta,

Greetings from the land where the sun shines twenty four hours a day for six months. It seems very funny to go to bed when the sun it still shining.

This morning I got up and put on my mukluks. Can you guess what they are? They are Eskimo shoes made from sealskin. Then we went out and I had a wonderful ride in a dog sled. There were some dogs pulling the sled. The dogs are very strong and clever and are called malemutes. We rode over the snow covered tundra. A tundra is a treeless plain of the frozen north.

This afternoon I visited school. Their schools are very different from those in Iowa. It was just one room in a home. Grownups who want to learn to read and write can come, too. Mostly they learn enough to be able to count their herds and do business with the white traders.

Well, that was the way I spent the day. It was alot of fun.

Yours truly,
Meridee Brager

Dear Ted,

I am visiting Alaska. We have just come back from exploring a cave. We found a tusk of some animal that lived thousands of years ago.

The reindeer roundup is a very exciting event. First the herds men round up the reindeer Some of the men make a corral of ice. Then they drive the reindeer through a chute. They are sep arated by notches in their ears The fawns are divided among the owners. The owner with the largest herd gets the most young deer.

I will write again and tell you some more about Alaska.

Summer Jobs

Are you planning to get a job this summer? It's never too early to start looking for jobs because good summer or part-time jobs are becoming more scarce each year.

You can start by looking in the want ads of the local newspaper to see which job appeals to yau. Consider the job opportunities in the nearby towns in the stores and factories which hire summer help

There are as many methods of applying for a job as there are jobs In many cases, the applicant must go to the manager or to the personnel office of a factory to obtain permission to fill out an application Replying to a want ad can often be done through the mail. Make sure the letter is correctly written, as it must represent you.

When you are interviewed for a job, dress neatly and conservatively; first impressions are important. Practice good posture, look alert, speak distinctly and DON'T chew gum. Be courteous don't be brash and smart alecky. On the other hand, don't be too timid Look as though you have confidence in your ability to do a job well, and your future employer will have confidence in you, too.

Film Development

Small boys like movies with gunplay and gore,
With riders and robbers to fill them with bliss.
They look upon love as an absolute bore—
They sicken when hero and heroine kiss
Small girls like movies with peaceable plot,
Dancing, romancing and costumes, of course.
They seldom like gunmen, the guy who gets shot,
The ranger, the stranger, or even the horse
But little girls ripen and little boys calm;
At teenage they're prone to agree
When shoulder to shoulder, and palm against palm,
They like any movie they see-

People - We dedicate this parsonage home.
Pastor - O God, heavenly Father of us all, Thou hast given all peoples a dwelling place and hast "set the solitary in families" and hast given us the joys of human fellowship and the satisfaction of neighborhood; Thou who hast given us the world for our pilgrimage, and hast set ajar before us the radiant gates of the ctiy celestial, for these inestimable gifts of Thy boundless love we must humbly give Thee our thanks and acknowledge that we cannot ever pay Thee our debt. But out of the depths of our gratitude we bid Thee come to this dwelling place which has special significance and worth among Thy people in this community. Grant that it maygive Thee large access to all dwelling places and increasing welcome in every home.

May the faith that inspires the great fellowship of Christian minds, so abound in this home that new fires may be set burning on the altars of all our homes. May the spirit of Christian love and interest, aglow in this home, light new candles of cheer, goodwill and appreciation in all our homes

May this home be the exemplar of that which all our homes should be in loyal love and attractive goodness, and may the Good Shepherd come in and out freely and find a true resting place here that all our homes may feel the influence of His redeeming fellowship and become a conscious debtor to Thy measurless grace

Unison - Our Father who art in heaven and the glory forever. Amen

A Brief History of Immanuel Church

Immanuel Evangelical and Reformed Church of Klemme, Iowa, was organized as Immanuel Reformed Church in 1895. At the request of people living in the vicinity of Klemme, the Rev Henry Treick, pastor of Peace Reformed Church, began conducting services in the Klemme public school in 1893. At the same time a Sunday School was organized under the leadership of William Becker Sr. Within two years the attendance had increased to such an extent that a congregation at Klemme seemed practical and on the twenty-third of May, 1895, the Immanuel Reformed Church was formally organized. The same year a church building was erected east of the school house on a lot given by Henry Klemme. By By 1901 Immanuel Congregation felt able to support a pastor of its own. Rev Albert Muehlmeier was elected pastor.

During the pastorate of Rev William Thiel, 1911-1919, there was steady growth in membership and attendance. Additional chairs and pews were bought to provide seating for the growing congregation. Talk of building an addition was dropped however, for the entrance of the United States into the World War and the introduction of the English language into the church in 1918 made such unnecessary.

On May 1, 1926, Rev Calvin Gro[illegible]rch arrived in Klemme. Under his leadership the congregation, and especially the Sunday school, increased its membership to such an extent that the building could no longer accomodate them. At a special meeting on the 26th of August, 1929, the congregation voted to erect a new building on the present site at an estimated cost of $28,000. The cornerstone was laid April 30, 1930. The dedication services were held on August 31, 1930.

Throughout the years the congregation has been blessed with a continued growth in membership. The Sunday school made such a remarkable growth that the consistory began planning an Educational Building. Tentative plans were submitted to the congregation at a special meeting December 10, 1956. The congregation voted to build an Educational Building and parsonage at an estimated cost of $65,000. Forty five thousand dollars was the estimated cost of the Educational Building and $20,000 the cost of the parsonage. Mr A H Hattendorf, Ocheydan Iowa, contracted to build both buildings at the figure quoted provided no major alterations were made from the original plans.

The ground breaking services were held April 7, 1957, west of the church on the building sites. This ground had been purchased from the Klemme estate in 1940 in anticipation of such a need as this. The building contains 7 classrooms and pastor's study on the ground floor, 4 classrooms, a social room, kitchenette, rest rooms, cloak room and furnace room on the basement floor. Borrowed light (clear glass in the upper part of the hall walls) is a feature of the upper floor. Ceiling is acoustical tile throughout Floors in the basement hall, kitchenette and social room, in the pastor's study and lounge are excelon tile. All others are asphalt tile except the front entrance which is lynatile tile. The building is block and brick construction and entirely fireproof

Parsonage History

At the same meeting in which the first pastor was elected, Immanuel Congregation decided to build a parsonage on the lot north of the church. The lot was presented to the congregation by August Barz Frederick Bock, William Becker, August Schuettpelz and Henry Wille constituted the building committee. Tie sheds and a barn were also built The total of parsonage, barn and moving expenses of the minister was $1551.

Over the years the congregation made many improvements in the parsonage as well as keeping it in good repair. The kitchen was enlarged and a room added above the kitchen in 1904. In 1914 electric lights were installed The stairway was changed and a full bath put upstairs in 1925 at a cost of $1,000. A new hot air furnace was installed in 1934. In 1936 a new garage was built west of the parsonage Two enclosed porches were added to the parsonage in 1937. In 1944 kitchen cupboards were built and the north porch was changed to a half bath. An oil burning furnace was installed in July 1952 at a cost of $1050. In February 1956 the oil burner was converted to natural gas. The cost was $191.13

Plans for a new parsonage were made in 1956 At a special meeting of the congregation in December, the decision to build was reached. The members of the parsonage repair committee became the parsonage building committee. Ground breaking services were held April 7, 1957, at 9:30 a m Excavation for the basement began May 13, 1957.

The new parsonage is a 1½ story building. It contains four bedrooms and bath upstairs, a living-dining room, two bedrooms, bath, kitchen and combination dinette and utility room on first floor, and a full basement. The wives of the parsonage committee assisted the pastor's wife in selecting floor coverings and drapes for the living-dining room The double garage joins the parsonage on th- west

Construction was completed by March 23, 1958, when open house was held. Rev Lauer and his family moved into the parsonage the day after Easter, April 7, 1958.

The old parsonage and garage are to be sold and removed from the premises. This will provide Immanuel Church the entire north half of its one block of property for use as lawn, recreation facilities, and parking.

At the time of this writing it appears that the total cost of both buildings will be about $

Riehm Asks for Changes In Traffic Point System

Curtis G Riehm, State Representative and Candidate for 6th Dsitrict Congressman, while campaigning for the Republican nomination for 6th District Congressman, found a general acceptance of the point loss system for driving illegally, except as for loss of points for faulty equipment such as burned out light bulbs even when the vehicle had been checked within a reasonable time prior to being picked up.

On April 23rd, Riehm requested of Russel Brown, Commissioner of Public Safety, for: (1) A re-evaluation and clarification of the point loss for faulty equipment (2) That a new regulation be issued, thta no point loss will result for faulty equpiment if the driver of the vehicle stopped for such offense can show evidence of any equipment check within a reasonable time such as 60 days prior thereto

As to a burned out light, Brown assured Riehm that no point loss would result for a light bulb which had just burned out while driving on the highway, unless evidence indicated that the lamp had been out for some time.

Plans Available for Grain Storage Bldgs

A new series of plans for farm grain storages is available for Hancock County farmers, says county extension director Paul Henderson.

They're likely to be particularly valuable this year, because a normal corn crop would result in critical shortage of storage facilities. Added storage may be necessary on many Hancock county farms this year.

Catalogs describing plans for corn cribs. bins, granaries, and flat storages may be obtained at the extension office in Garner. Each plan in the catalog was recently designed or revised. All meet the latest recommendations of engineers and other special ists concerned with grain storage on the farm.

Henderson explains that anyone may select from the catalog the storage building which best suits his need. He can then order working plans and material lists for 25c per sheet. Plans vary from one to four sheets

Six different corn crib plans are available. including two with pole frames.

There are 10 plans for bins, granaries and flat storages. They range in capacity from a 600 bu portable bin to a 15,000 bushel gable grain storage.

All of these plans were developed by agricultural engineers at Iowa State College in cooperation with the Midwest Plan Service whose purpose is to provide standard farm building plans based on research and experience in 12 midwest states.

Row Fertilizer Gives Corn Fast Start

Row fertilizer will give corn a fast, vigorous start and boost yields too. says Paul Henderson county extension director.

Yield increases from row fertilizer have averaged 6 to 10 bushels per acre over the years, the extension director adds.

He says many Hancock county farmers consider a row fertilizer the most important single item in their corn fertilization program

Henderson says Joe Stritzel, Iowa State College agronomist, lists these advantages for row fertilizer: the nutrients are placed close to the root of young corn plants. Corn makes quick growth, and gets the jump on weeds. And yield increases per dollar invested are good.

Stritzel says row fertilizers are especially effective when placed with the new planter attachments Tse new method puts the fertilizer in a band to the side and just below the seed.

In 1957 experiments, the new placement gave 3 to 5 bushel yield increases, over those with the old split boot placement.

Most row fertilizers contain 3 nutrients, nitrogen, phosphorus and potassium. and are called "complete" fertilizers. Stritzel says it's important that the phosphorus portion be at least 50 percent water soluble.

If more nitrogen is needed than will be supplied in row fertilizer it can be injected into the soil ahead of planting, the agronomist says. Anhydrous ammonia, 82 0 0 and 37 and 41 percent nitrogen solutions are suitable for this purpose

Nitrogen also can be applied to the surface and disked in However, this method is less satisfactory than others, because weed growth is stimulated

Sidedressing offers another possibility of applying nitrogen, Stritzel says Corn can be side dressed with any type of nitrogen up to the time of second cultivation

Any fertilizer applications for corn are best based on soil tests, Stritzel says But farmers who don't have soil test reports can get help from "Guide to Fertilizer Use," an Iowa State College publication available in the county extension office

NATIONAL FAMILY WEEK: MAY 4 THROUGH 11

Each year in May the churches of your community observe a special family week observance. This week is intended to rekindle the church's interest in families - the areas of worship, recreation and education The special week also provides an excellent occasion for families to consider themselves before God, take stock of their unique situations, do some confessing, forgiving and then a ot of rededicating

Number one on any list is: Get to church and don't stop when the special week is over. Households for God don't stay for God very long outside that living and very large household (called the Church) which hears God's word and weekly proclaims is love

ON POPPY DAY—

During this month of May. we of the American Legion Auxiliary will ask all Americans to turn their eyes and their hearts to the past for a day to pay tribute to and gather inspiration from those who gave their lives to assure a free future for America. We will ask everyone to wear a poppy.

Wearing a poppy is a simple little thing to do, but a thing with great meaning. It means that we remember and honor the men who in past hour of danger protected our country with their young lives — that we believe their sacrifice to be a magnificent act never to be forgotten — that we hope America always will have men of their strength, courage and devotion to defend freedom should it again be threatened.

As American Legion Auxiliary members we have been entrusted with the responsibility for the annual observance of Poppy Day. We are the ones who take the symbolic little flowers from the hands of their disabled makers and place them over the remembering hearts in our communities. We have been assigned the duty of keeping bright the memory of America's fallen defenders and of keeping alive for our country's future the inspiring glory of their deeds.

Three Students Take Merit Scholarship Tests

Cozette Lau, Joyce Thiemann, and Dorothy Roul. students at Klemme High School, have taken the National Merit Scholar ship Qualifying Test, Mr Whitney, Principal. announced today. The test was administered at the high school at 9:00 a m (Tuesday, April 29

An estimated $5 million in Merit Scholarships and other awards are at stake in the National competition, now beginning its fourth year. Some $12 million in Merit Scholarships have been awarded in the first three years of the program.

Merit Scholarships are provided by some 80 corporations, foundations, professional societies and individuals, as well as by the ..ational Merit Scholarship Corporation itself, which conducts the competition.

The National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test is a three hour measure of educational growth and aptitude Emphasis is on broad intellectual skills, and on understanding and ability to use what has been learned, rather than on sheer knowledge of facts.

A group of 10,000 students—composed of the highest scorers in each state—will advance to the Semi-finals when the results are reported to all participating schools next fall. Semi finalists will then take a second examination. Those who repeat their high performance on the second examination will become finalists in the program and will indicate their choice of college and course of study.

Further evaluation of their grades. citizenship, and extra-curricular achievements will follow, and the winners will be announced in the Spring of 1959.

The test results will be available at the beginning of the senior year, in time for use by seniors and their class advisors The scores may also be used in many high schools to help students make decisions about college and the most appropriate courses to major in Many students throughout the country who do not expect to win have registered for the test, in order to learn more about their individual strengths and weaknesses.

Dr John M Stalnaker. President of the National Merit Scholarship Corporation recently cautioned that there are many reasons why test results cannot be used to evaluate school performance The distribution of the population throughout the state, the size of the school. the native intelligence of its top students, the percentage of students taking the test. the nature of the community where the school is located, the purpose of the school, and many other factors having nothing to do with the total effectiveness of the school can influence its number of finalists

The test results will however. enable students as individuals, to compare their scores with other students across the nation

The test has been constructed by Science Research Associates of Chicago, and will also be scored and reported by the testing agency.

Each Merit Scholarship carries a stipend based on the need of each individual winner, and is renewable annually without further competitive examination The average stipend in past years has been $650 per year The minimum award in the 1958-59 program will be $100 a year and a maximum will be $1500 a year.

The names of all program finalists will be sent to colleges and universities and other scholarship organizations throughout the country. In this way many non-winning finalists are helped in winning scholarships awarded directly by colleges and other organizations.

About 1000 Merit Scholars, winners of the 1957 58 compe 1958tition, were named on May 1, 1958 They are winners in the third Merit Program which began last October.

The National Merit Scholarship Corporation directs the annual competition. It was founded in 1955, on grants of $20 million by th Ford Foundation and $500 thousand by the Carnegie Corporation of New York

Senator Tells Evils Of Communism

SPONSOR'S NOTE: We adults often tell you youngsters to dislike and abhor communism—but we seldom give you the reasons Hundreds of millions of people in the world are under this system, so why do we dislike it so much? The following article may help you see our reasons.

This message on the subject of communism was written a few years ago by Senator Hamilton Fish, Jr, of New York It is as true today as when written.

A MESSAGE

The reason I abhor communism is that I am a liberal. I believe in the right of the people to govern themselves and in the preservation of democracy whereas communism is the most despotic form of government in the world; backed by force and terror and the bread ticket in Soviet Russia where the people have no rights or liberties of any kind such as we know them in this country of ours

We have no right to pass judgement on foreign nations We have no right really to question the kind of government that exists in Soviet Russia, only so far as it interferes with our own government in the United States.

Now what are the aims and purposes of the communists?

All communists no matter where they are advocate identically the same principles.

First, communists seek to destroy all religion and each hatred of God

Second, they seek to destroy all private property and inheritance.

Third, they are pledged to use the Communist International at Moscow to spread strikes, riots sabotage and industrial unrest in all non communist countries

Fourth, to promote the bitterest class hatred

Fifth, to bring about a class of civil war in order to establish a soviet form of government by force and violence; and lastly they teach hatred of the American flag.

These are the principles of communism None of them can appeal to the free people of this country This is why I am against communism.

Know Any Good Books

"If I ever get through these required book reports. I'll never read another book!" And you close your eyes and groan in mock agony.

Let's hope that you have a change of heart and ramble into a library looking for a really good book.

What would you choose? There are so many, it's hard to decide

If you like "fightin' and feudin" stories, try Lorna Doone by Blackmore This book describes the feud between the Ridd family and Doone clan.

For adventure try Hilton's LOST HORIZON Soón you'll be lost in a thrilling narrative of a plane trip and the fabulous place called Shangri-la.

If you're trying to get away from it all. why not sample Mark Twain's Tom Sawyer or Alcott's LITTLE WOMEN Get lost with Tom and Becky Thatcher in the cave near the Mississippi, or have a whooping good time with Jo and Laurie.

Try working off an "angry spell" with MUTINY ON THE BOUNTY That's rebellion at its best

Are you the meditative type? Read IT CAN'T HAPPEN HERE by Sinclair Lewis and you're sure to be startled and a bit scared.

Are you a history major? Take a look at the South through Margaret Mitchell's eyes in GONE WITH THE WIND, or relive the swashbuckling tale of IVANHOE You'll be fascinated by the beauty of Rebecca, a Jewish girl Do you like to read about people close to home? Read DUNBAR'S COVE by Borden Deal and see how much his land can mean to an East Tennesseean in his fight against the TVA and progress Sample something of Faulkner

For sports, BLOCK THAT KICK; comedy ANYBODY CAN DO ANYTHING, THE EMPORER JONES; and biography, NO MAN STANDS ALONE There's something you will enjoy there

A book is a window into another life, and almost always proves to be a good investment of time It is the secret of living many lifetimes and cramming much experience into our allotted years

And, it's a lot of fun, too!

MOTHERS DAY

Sunday, May 11 is set aside this year as the day for honoring our mothers

Mother's Day originated in 1907, at the inspiration of Miss Anna M Jarvis of Philadelphia She thought that at least once a year, sons and daughters ought to pause to pay tribute to their mothers

She arranged for a special mothers service in one of the churches, and asked those who attended to wear white carnations The idea caught on, and services were held in more churches the following year

The second Sunday in May was agreed upon as a suitable date.

By 1911 the custom had spread throughout most of the United Sates and was also observed in Canada Mexico, South America, Africa, China and Japan

Congress in 1914, designated the second Sunday in May as the official Mother's Day

The custom of holding special observance in honor of motherhood is not new The practice was followed in Rome as early as 250 B C

A colored lad killed a man - "Don't tell me" the irate judge scowled, "that you killed a man for the paltry sum of three dollars"

Tells What to Look for In a Small Appliance

When you go into an appliance store to buy a small piece of electric equipment, an automatic fry pan, for example, you may have an easier time choosing one from all similar models available, if you follow these five suggestions from Elsie Mae Van Wert, Hancock County Extension home economist.

1. Construction. Check to see that the appliance has good weight and balance so that it will rest firmly on table, counter or shelf; avoid "tippy" equipment The utensil should be securely put together. The appliance should be assembled so well that youngsters can't take it apart.

2 Operation See that controls are easy to read, understand and operate. Can you use the appliance comfortably, do your hands seem to "fit" the handles and controls?

3. Care Choose appliances with simple design and smooth surfaces, rather than those that have hard to clean crevices, corners and deep grooves. Avoid utensils made of too porous materials. Check the manufacturer's suggestions for care, and ask yourself if you'll be able to keep up with this piece of equipment.

4. Wattage and voltage. Look at the manufacturer's name plate to see how much wattage your new appliance will use. Most of todays heating appliances take 1000 watts or more, and most use alternating current. You can connect such small electric equipment to wall convenience outlets, but Eslie Mae Van Wert recommends special appliance circuits with number 10 or 12 wire.

5 Safety Look for the letters "UL" on a circular seal This is the seal of Underwriter's Laboratories, and it assureh you the piece of equipment has met the Laboratories' standards of safety. fire and shock. The seal should be stamped directly on the nameplate or fastened securely Look for this label on the appliance cord, too Read the manufacturer's warranty & guarantee After you have purchased a small piece of electrical equipment, date and fill out the warranty blank File it with the family business records If the manufacturer includes a registration card, fill it out and return it to the manufacturer immediately

While we all watch for the effect the point system may have on the state's traffic death record, something rather startling has been happening on another level of the safety program

Since April 1, when the ten point rule for license suspension started, there has been a sharp drop in minor traffic accidents in cities and towns across the state.

This report came from an informal survey of several major auto casualty insurance companies in Iowa. While most company officials contacted say it is still too early to make definite statements, they all reported an abrupt change in claim patterns for Iowa since April 1

The Iowa claim division manager for one large company said his office was having the "biggest lull in traffic accident claims in at least the past five years."

"We're sitting here astonished." another insurance official said. "It used to be. a few weeks ago, that the accident claims in the morning mail would keep everyone in the office busy all day.

"Now, there have been mornings lately when we're all cleand up by 10:30 or 11:00," he said.

Another Iowa claim manager said there has been "a considerable drop off in smaller accident claims in cities and larger towns."

All the insurance men feel the point system, plus the heavy publicity the program has received by the press, radio and TV, is the major cause for the drop in claims.

And, all of them have their fingers crossed by hopes the impression the point system seems to have made on attitudse of drivers won't wear thin.

Don't Plant Booby Traps At Farm Intersections

The farmer who plants a crop in the corner of his field bordering a road intersection may very well be planting a traffic accident death trap that will kill him or a neighbor. this summer, the state safety department warned today.

In a letter to agricutlural leaders throughout the state, the safety department has called for help in asking farmers to "Keep the corners clear of crops" this summer.

The letter warns that up to 20 percent of all rural traffic deaths in Iowa are caused each year by tall crops at rural intersections which obscure the vision of drivers.

Most of these accidents occur during July through October, when crops are high and most of the victims live within 25 miles of the scenes of the fatal accidents, according to Clifford Swanson, research director for the safety department.

The safety department has prepared and distributed diagrams showing how much of the corner of a field should be left clear of crops to give drivers clear vision of incoming roads at intersections.

Swanson said that farmers need take only as little as one-tenth of an acre out of production to give adequate vision at rural corners

Acting State Safety Commissioner Russell Brown said he felt agricultural leaders would be justified in regarding the rural intersection death rate as "an emergency situation."

He said action on the problem "right now" will save the lives of many farmers and farm families who will otherwise die in traffic accidents at rural corners later this summer.

Farmers Reminded Soybean Loans Mature on May 31st

Farmers having 1957 soybeans under price support loans were urged this week by the Hancock county ASC office to watch market prices closely during the next few weeks so that they n.ay get the best possible return from their crop

Hancock county ASC committee reminded producers that frequently they can get a better price for their soybeans by paying off the price support loan and selling the commodity on the market They pointed out. however, that any redemption of soybeans must be done before May 31 when the support loans mature

The support rate on 1957 soybeans was $2.06 a bushel in Hancock county

As of April 15, a total of 708,-216.99 bushels of soybeans were under price support in this county Of that total. 599,765.99 bushels were under loans and 108,451 bushels were covered by purchase agreements.

Producers who intend to deliver purchase agreement soy beans to the yovernment must notify the county ASC office during the month before the May 31 maturity date.

Carcass Class Expanded For Iowa State Fair

To encourage farmers to raise better meat type cattle, hog and lambs, the Iowa State Fair today announced plans for a greatly expanded "carcass" show the the 100th state fair in Des Moines, August 22 to 31.

A new building is being built in the center of the livestock show area of the fair to house huge glassed coolers where winning carcasses in all classes will be displayed.

Animals entered in the meat type events will be judged first on the hoof. Then they will be slaughtered and their carcasses exhibited in the refrigerated cases, to comparisons may be made between the live animals and their final "dressed out" value.

Prize offerings in this competition are being almost doubled to a total of $3292 for this years fair, compared with $1,775 for Iowa's first carcass show last year. In the cattle department of this event, there will be 44 prizes, in the swine show there will be 20 prizes and in the sheep carcass contest 18 prizes.

Farmers wishing to enter stock in the carcass competition may obtain rules and prize lists by writing the State Fair Board at Des Moines.

Acreage Reserve Requirements for Multiple Farm Operations

Farmers who have an acreage reserve agreement for 1958 and also have an interest in the operation of more than one farm were reminded this week by the county ASC office of certain requirements they must meet to qualify for acreage reserve payments.

The Hancock county ASC committee. urged all landlords, owner operators and tenants who are in doubt about acreage reserve requirements for multiple farm operations to get complete information at the ASC office at once Getting such information before their corn is planted can prevent costly misunderstandings, they declared

The operator who has an interest in more than one farm must comply fully with the regular soil bank rules on the farm covered by his acreage reserve agreement In addition on any other farm or farms in which he has an interest either as a landlord or tenant, he must not exceed by more than 10 percent the "normal acreage" in effect on the other farms for the commodity designated in his acreage reserbe agreement

The "normal acreage" is the highest acreage of the designated acreage reserve commodity grown on the farm in 1956 or 1957 or allotted to the farm for 1958.

Any farmer who fails to comply with the "normal acreage" limitation will forfeit his right to an acreage reserve payment for the commodity named in the agreement.

The normal acreage rule applies separately to each acreage reserve commodity. For example, a farmer having both a corn agreement and a wheat agreement can qualify for a corn acreage reserve payment by meeting all requirements relating to acreage of that commodity and still be ineligible for a wheat acreage reserve payment for failure to observe the normal acreage limitations for that grain.

In cases where two persons. such as landlord and tenant, are interested in an "agreement farm," the normal acreage restriction applies only to the person having an interest in another farm

Reservation Fund Falls Short of Goal

125 workers gathered for the final report meeting on the $250-000 Scout Reservation drive, Monday night at Mason City, reported subscriptions totaling $171,390.

Hancock County's report was $5,182.

Most workers reported cards still out in the solicitation process. It was agreed to hold another meeting at the Council Office on May 19 for those workers who are interested in following through on their assigned cards until all have been worked.

Chairman Ray Rorick reported that many firms in the area, where authorization for contributions to the campaign must come from central offices, have not yet handed in their cards.

It was generally felt that with a continuation of effort on the part of the campaign workers that the goal will be reached.

The Reservation Development fund was organized to seocre funds for tht construciton of facilities at the new reservation area north of Marble Rock. When completed, it will have facirities to serve fore than 50,-000 Scouts during the camping season Winter camping facilities will also be provided The new area is a 300 acre site and was selected after several years of study of sites throughout the nine county area served by the Winnebago Council.

Public solicitation in the current campaign began April 1

Juniors, Seniors Enjoy Annual Banquet

On Saturday night, May 17, the Klemme Junior Class was host to the seniors and faculty at the annual banquet and prom.

Theme of the banquet was Southern Plantation. Guests entered the Plantation Klemme and were greeted by faculty hosts, Mr and Mrs Harlan Shafer and Mr and Mrs Donald Butler in the garden. Pastel streamers enclosed the garden under a blue sky. Shrubbery and trees loaned by Perkins Nursery at Clear Lake, made the garden setting realistic. There was even a bird bath with a bird.

At the far end of the gum was the veranda of the mansion with two tall columns. Tables for the banquet were set on the veranda. Centerpieces consisted of a southern shanty house and Negro men and women carrying out such activities as cotton picking, washing. sweeping and visiting. The pipe cleaner dolls were made by the junior girls while the boys constructed the house. Favors were pickaninny dolls.

The mothers of the Junior class prepared the banquet meal. Waiters and waitresses were ninth girls and boys: Karen Brekke, Claudia Neuberger, Patricia Ulrich. Melva Johnson, Duane Kramer, Daryl Kothenbeutel, Robert Abele and Daryl Schlei. Records provided background music for dinner with Sharon Bachman in charge of the record player.

Following dinner a short program was presented by the Juniors. Mistress of ceremonies was Myrna Barz. Junior class president Joyce Thiemann welcomed guests and Douglas Roul desponded for the Seniors. A special musical number in which Jerry Stokesbary pantomimed "Mammy' 'was presented. Mr Whitney gave a short speech and a few words of advice.

Two original humorous writings by the Juniors were given by Dorothy Roul and Ronald Beier. Final number of the program was group singing of Southern songs.

Following the banquet Juniors, Seniors. Faculty and guests enjoyed a prom which featured music by J J Fitzgerald and his "Top Hats" from Mason City.

The prom was the climax of the Juniors' "slave sale." They appreciated the aid from the town and community and all their help in making the banquet and prom a success.

Why We Have a "Poppy Day"

Next Saturday, May 24, little red poppies will bloom on millions of coats throughout America. As the annual day for the wearing of the poppy draws near it is well to bring to our minds the significance of this little flower. Why do we have a Poppy Day?

First. we wear the poppy once a year to express the feeling of reverence that is always in our hearts for the men who died on the poppy-studded fields of France and Belgium during the World War.

Second, we wear the poppy to help lighten the burden for those who are still undergoing suffering and hardships because of the war, the disabled veterans and families of the dead and disabled.

Building a Greater Iowa

Adding to Iowa's Payrolls

Iowa's drive for new industries is paying off. In the last 18 months 68 new industries have moved here. These, plus expansion of existing companies, have added over $27,000,000 to Iowa's annual payrolls.

Yet, big as these new payrolls are, they still do not equal the $30,000,000 per year received by workers in the Iowa brewing industry, who live and are regularly employed in this state. All Iowa gains from these tens of thousands of jobs . . . created by the brewing and distribution of beer, the light, bright beverage of moderation. In these payrolls, as in so many other ways . . .

Freshman Interview

On May 6. 1943, Jerry Kay Stokesbary opened his eyes to a big world.

He is now 15 years of age and is a freshman in the Klemme Community School. Jerry stands 5' 6", has green eyes and dark brown hair. Jerry is known as "Stokie" likes baseball and basketball as his favorite sports.

"Enemy Below" was his favorite movie and Debbie Raynolds and John Wayne are his best liked movie stars. He likes to do anything pertaining to sports, but his pet peeve is "running." Jerry has 2 sisters, Janice and Julie. and his parents, Mr and Mrs Leon Gelner in his family.

When asked what his future ambition was, he replied, "To be a basketball Coach " You'll make a fine one, Jerry.

Anyone for Tennis

Something which Plagues me heavily and has nearly driven me to despair is this game called tennis...

The prefix. "Ten," means the number of people on each side needed to return the ball, and the suffix "Nis" is a mispelling of "Miss."

Being at a fairly average level in sports I am naturally stunned when a game tries to beat me. When I serve the ball and it land bautifully in the net, my opponent yells, "fault!" but it isn't my fault.

And these scoring terms, such as LOVE and DEUCE, are drving me batty.

The object of the game is (as nearly as I can determine) to drive the ball into the square space on the opponent's side of the net. This seems fairly simple

Try it! Throught no fault of my own, the ball rarely goes there. It must be the manner in which the racket is constructed. The racket is the device supposedly used to maneuver the ball It looks like the frame of a banjo with the strings woven tightly across the base.

The experts say that a ball cannot pass through the tiny holes but I'm beginning to wonder. (You know what an expert is—"ex" means a has-been and of courhe a "suprt" is the result of pressure on a drip.)

ARE THESE RECORD PIGS?

The following is part of a letter recevied from Kenneth Shea of Cresco, Iowa.

May 14, 1958
Cresco, Iowa

Dear Sir:

I am an ex GI farming near Cresco. Iowa

Last March 3rd one of my sows farrowed 22 live pigs of which I saved 20 ...

At 56 days this litter weighed 1012 pounds or 50½ lbs average.

They were officially recorded and weighed by a licensed veterinarian. This I believe is a new U S record for a 20 pig litter ..

Yours Truly,
Kenneth Shea

Boys

There are three types of boys:

1 THE WOLF: He thinks he's the neatest guy around. but he's really a creep. He walks by a group of girls and expects them to swoon at the sight of him. When they don't, he makes a wisecrack about "dump girls." If a girl happens to go for him, he decides that he's too good for her and drops her like a ton of bricks.

2 THE SHY: He is neat, but if a girl says "Hi" he turns all shades of red or pink. He always loses out on a discussion because he is too shy or too nice to give his personal opinion.

3 THE PERFECT: He is tall, dark and handsome (or any type you prefer!) He always asks you out when you want to be asked or he calls you when you want to be called. He is the most popular guy at school: a football, basketball and baseball star, and a real neat dancer Everything about him is just right The only trouble is, he doesn't exist!

Spel It Rite

Regardless of your occupation. peeple will know how edicated you are by the way you spell. incorect spelling shows not only the amount of edication you have received, but also you're carfulness and intrest in what your doing.

Wheniver you reed a letter with mispelled words in it, you begin to wander if the person writting cares about you or not. In college a mispelled word can meen the difference between an A and an F. In secretarial work it can meen the difference between employment and unemployment.

Correct spelling not only shows your amount of education, carefulness and interest in what your doing. but also means a lot financially. So no matter what you're doing whenever you must write a letter, spell it rite!

There are 24 mispelled words in the above editorial. See if youcan find them.

If you find 24 to 22 mistakes rate yourself SUPERIOR; 21-19 ABOVE AVERAGE; 19 to 15 GOOD; and under 15 you need to use a dictionary to start improving your spelling.

Students Grade Teachers

Have you ever thought of allowing the students to grade the teachers? Before you comment one way or the other. let me explain the idea of the value of the enterprise. When students get grades, it tells them the subjects on which they need to work harder. The same principle would apply for teachers No teacher is perfect (as no student is) and I believe that it would help them do a better job of teaching if they knew the places the students thought they needed improvement

Now you may say, "The idea is sound, but how would you follow it up with practical use?" The ideal situation would be to have them graded twice a year—at the end of each semester. Then if any practical suggestions were offered. the teachers would have time to try them out.

The grading would have to be confidential and would have to be backed up with a sound reason written on the grade sheet

Believe it or not, but most students do want to learn something in school, and in the end will thank the teachers that helped them to learn Also, most students evaluate a teacher within the first six weeks of school as to whether or not they will have to work for their grade or if they can just "get by." Students notice such things as the discipline and control. and the way the material is presented to the class

If students were allowed to give their views on these things, the teachers would have a chance to become better than they now are

—Rubberneck, Meservey, High

A father we know has been growing more and more exasperated because his college age son persists in borrowing his clothes. One evening the youth appeared dressed for a date. "Isn't that my tie you're wearing. Edward?" the father asked sternly.

"Yes, sir, I—I guess it is," said the son.

"And my shirt?"

"Yes. sir."

"And my belt too!!" the father exploded.

"Well gee whiz, Dad" the son said defensively, "you don't want your pants to fall down, do you?"

LEE RIDDER WRITES FROM GERMANY

Bonn Germany
14 May 1958

Dear Pete:

Though I would write you here from the capitol. This of course is still a small city, and the new povernment buildings aren't bad. Came up here today along the Rhine from Wiebaded where Denny lives, and came by the big statue representing "The Watch on the Rhine" This country is certainly heavily populated. but just north of here in the Cologne, Dusseldorf and Essen area, it is still more dense. Don't exactly care about heavily populated places The weather has been cool and rainy for the most part The World's Fair was compact but good.

Yours, Lee

Better Insect Repellent Now Available

Look for a new liquid insect repellant this summer. It will make outdoor life more comfortable and safer than ever before says Elsie Mae Van Wert, Hancock County extension home economist. The repellant is diethyl toluamide and you can apply it to your skin or clothes. It won't stain fabric.

It will protect you from at least five insect pests—mosquitoes, ticks, chiggers, fleas and flies. It's the nearest to an all purpose repellent yet developd and it wards off mosquitoes better than any other combination of chemicals. The new repellant has several other advantages—a non-greasy, lotion like consistancy, a pleasing fresh fragrance and a resistance to rubbing or wearing off that makes one application last several hours.

If you have other repellants on hand there's no need to throw them down the drain. Other repellants are still effective even thought they don't repell as many kinds of insect pests and don't keep insects away for the length of time diethyl toluamide does.

Use diethyl toluamide for working outdoors, picnicing, playing, vacationing and gardening. Make a note of diethyl toluamide. It will be listed on the container of new commercial preparations even if they sell under brand names. The repellent is available in stick and aerosol bomb formulations, as well as in lotion form. Read the label and follow precautions. advises Miss Van Wert.

Taxes Are Everybody's Business

Transfer of Tax Burden

Although Iowa is below the 48 state average for state tax collections, we are considerably above the average for local property tax collections—almost $17 per capita. It is generally recognized that our local property tax problem is the most burdensome and inequitable in our tax structure.

While our special state taxes have been reduced $12 million a year, increased costs of schools and local government will mean an increase in local property taxes of about $19 million in 1958 over 1957. Can and should the property tax be avoided as a source of state revenue?

What Are Other Sources of Revenue?

1 SALES TAX: A 1 percent sales tax raises between $28 million and $30 million a year. The Legislature could increase the rate to 3 percent which would bring in additional $29 million a year.

2 TAX ON SERVICES: Another possibility would be to extend the sales tax to services. At the 2 percent rate this could bring in between $10 and $15 million annually, depending on exemptions.

3 INCOME TAX: Another area that would raise considerable amount of money would be in the income tax field. Currently the individual income tax is raising around $27 million with the rate leveling off at 4 percent on net incomes of $5 thousand and above and starting with ¾ of a percent on the first thousand dollars net income. If and when additional state revenue is necessary, should it be raised from sales tax? Income tax? Tax on Services? or some other means?

Why Property Tax Credits?

The property tax is one of the most serious problems facing agriculture today. It is the major source of revenue for most of the local government functions, schools, county, etc. Originally property was about the only form of wealth in Iowa. However, today this is no longer the situation with new forms of wealth in stocks, bonds, etc, but we still depend to a great extent on the property tax. Here are some reasons why this tax is a problem.

A. There is lack of relationship between ownership of property and ability to pay taxes For example, agriculture has about 52 percent of the valuation of the state, and last year had only about 16.4 percent of the income. Under a state-wide levy, farm people will pay 52 percent of it with only 16.4 percent of the income. The same situation exists when farm and city property are thrown together in one taxing district, such as a school district.

B. There is considerable difficulty in assessing different classes of property at the same rate. State law says that property shall be assessed at 60 percent of its value for tax purposes. Actually, none of it is assessed at this rate. This would be all right if all classes were assessed at the same level. Actually, according to a recent survey, farm land and buildings are being assessed at 29.9 percent of their sales value, while city and town homes are being assessed at 24.6 percent of their sales value. Thus farm land is assessed at a 21 percent higher rate than city homes.

C. There is little relationship between the level of property taxes and the level of other prices. For example, since 1947 net farm income has declined by 30 percent while property taxes have increased from $142 million to $284 million or 100 percent during the corresponding period.

Should the state assume more responsibility for certain government functions, such as schools, with more of the revenue for these government functions coming from taxes collected at the state level in order to relieve the property tax situation?

These and many more questions on taxation are going to have to be answered in the near future. Get acquainted with these problems so that you will be able to make some constructive decisions this fall when you receive your Farm Bureau opinionaires asking for your opinions on these problems.

Livestock Men Report Losses In Unwatched Pasture Cattle

Livestock men are reporting disease and other death losses among cattle on pasture this spring County extension director Paul Henderson says frequent checking of livestock on pasture is essential now because of the many diseases that may strike pastured animals.

He says Extension Veterinarian John B Herrick, Iowa State College, reports blackleg has already caused several deaths among cattle in southwest Iowa. Herrick recommends all cattle on pasture be vaccinated against blackleg.

Poison, lightning, injuries and diseases are common causes of death losses on pasture. Besides Herrick says, several livestock men have found, too late, that they have let heifer calves pass the age for brucellosis vaccination. The calves were in pasture where they were not regularly checked and the dates for vaccination slipped the owners minds.

This vaccination has to be done while calves are between 6 and 8 months of age to be fully effective and to qualify the calf for clearance as an official vaccinate. This is particularly important to cattlemen in brucellosis area testing plan counties. Herrick says heifers on pasture are frequently neglected in this regard.

Efficient Management Pay Dairyman, Says Henderson

Many Hancock County farmers are considering dairy cow herds these days as the best means of stabilizing their farm incomes from year to year.

Extension Director Paul Henderson of Garner says management skills available on the farm are an important factor to consider in deciding whether this move will pay.

He reports that Extension dairyman Floyd Arnold. Iowa State College, lists kinds of management skill and facilities Hancock County folks will need to make a real success of dairying. The object, he says, is to develop practices that will use the total farm and herd resources efficiently to produce all the salable products possible.

Questions to ask yourself. Arold suggests are:

1 Can I keep adequate farm and herd records to guide me in meeting feed requirements and in selecting breeding animals?

2 What facilities do I have for saving labor—such as self feeding methods for hay and silage or for rapid milking procedures?

3 Can I provide housing that keeps cows comfortable in all seasons, clean, healthy and with plenty of winter bedding? Keeping cows comfortable includes through cleanliness and chemical treatment to control flies.

4 Can I control disease? Sanitation is necessary to prevent mastitis, calfhood diseases. scour and other riseases that reduce the herd's production.

It's also inportant, Arnold says, to maintain a regular year after year program that will keep the cows breeding regularly —each one producing a calf each year. This includes giving each cow a rest of 4 to 6 weeks before she calves again. which means sticking to a 10-month lactation program.

Hancock County Farms May Need New Corn Storage Buildings

Many Hancock County farmers will be building new corn storage structures this year, says county extension director Paul Henderson of Garner.

Several hundred farms in the county may have more corn than they can store properly unless the do, he said. There's an estimated 4,850.000 bushels of corn in storage now in Hnacock County.

ASC Office Manager Alfred Josten, says about 50,000 bushels of that is in government purchase agreements. warehoused for CCC 600,000 bushels in local elevators.

He adds that Richard Phillips, extension grain marketing specialist at Iowa State College, says this may be a good year for any farmer who needs additional storage to add it. The federal government will pay 16 cents a bushel for storage of resealed corn. That's the same it pays the commercial elevators You get the money even though you redeem the corn and sell or feed it yourself. This resealing offer, Phillips says, may be interesting to corn producers who want to be sure of getting 1957 corn out of their cribs in time to get the 1958 crops in.

The federal government plans to add more storage bins to take delivery of corn. However, the planned additional government bins appear not to be enough to handle all the hold-over corn plus 1957 corn that would have to be moved to make room for a normal 1958 crop.

Besides you can get a government guaranteed loan at only 4 percent interest to pay up to 80 percent of the building cost of your new grain storage facilities. For the reseal payment and loan. simply file an application at the county ASC office in Garner before vou start to build.

Of course, it won't pay everybody to build just because it can be done at "bargain" rates. Phillips, however, advises all Iowa grain producers to think carefully now about their long-time needs for storage. Decide whether your present storage is adequate.

Phillips points out the government storage payment and loan may offer a special opportunity if you're thinking of modernizing your grain program for bulk feed handling, picker sheller harvesting, grain drying, labor saving in connection with multiple pig farrowing or other stepped up livestock feeding programs. This might be the time to build to get ready for such developments you plan for the future.

Investment in grain storage, Phillips adds, will be sound if, over the life span of the structure, the expected benefits com pare favorably with the cost—and if the structure fits in as part of your total farm business.

Highway Story

By Bob Hullihan

He listened while the city went to sleep. The sound of traffic rising to his apartment gradually disentangled. lessened, and fell into long periods of silence. Then came the single, lonely sounds: the last bus, the solitary, quick crack of heels on the sidewalk as somone hurried home against the clock. the dragging hum of a car his ear followed far up the empty street.

When even these sounds ended, he knew the city slept. His wife, his children in another room, his friends. few enemies, the hundreds of people he knew by sight in the daily streets, the thousands he didn't know at all, they all were turned now to that quiet business of sleep. He felt like the only man unemployed in a busy place.

He got out of bed, dressed and scribbled a note in the kitchen: "Couldn't sleep again so have gone for a drive. Be back for breakfast." Outside. on the street, he felt better, almost as though he had some definite business there. A light, fine rain misting down blurred the few lights still burning in the city.

He drove to the nearest cross-town avenue. In a few hours he would be driving down this street again with morning traffic toward a day's work without sleep.

He began to drive fast. The rumble of brick under his tires sounded like escape toward something reassuring and solid.

Then, perhaps, a moment of sleep came at last. Or, perhaps the last twinge of desperation or an instant of neglect.

The car was sliding on the wet street The lights of a bridge flashed ahead. He turned, frantic to avoid the gray abutment. The car crashed down the bank into a darkness of water, a flood of current of sleep.

THE FARM OUTLOOK

By Paul Henderson
County Extension Director

Grass feeding cattle may find scanty grazing in pastures this summer if weather conditions are anything less than "favorable" from here on out, says Tom Rackham, Iowa State College farm economist.

When the low fall markets roll around, some farmers may feel pressure to sell the stockers and breeders they bought this spring, Rackham believes, with little or no gain in weight. Dry feeding for winter sale may be the answer to this situation, though, he says. Such dry conditions, if they continue in the range country, might even help topple the seller of feeder cattle from the strong position he's held since fall, Rackham notes.

On May 1 almost all US grassland appeared ready to produce more than 80 percent of the normal grazing return expected from extral good conditions. This encouraged cattlemen to buy more stockers and breeders. Along with high prices, it caused them to hang on to the cattle.

But the US weather bureau predicts drier than usual weather for the next month in much of the intermountain and northern states region. Rackham says bad pasture damage could result. Warm weather gave pastures their normal growth early this season. From now on, grazing reserves will depend on what's above ground, he observes.

Roses Respond to Disease Control

Roses bloom best for Hancock County growers who control rose diseases, says Paul Henderson, county extension director.

And he adds that just a weekly treatment with a multi-purpose rose spray or dust will do a lot to control rose diseases. Hnederson says Mal Shurtleff. Iowa State College plant disease specialist, recommends such a program for the average rose grower.

Shurtleff says the dust or spray used should contain captan and one of these three chemicals—sulphur, Karathane or Mildex.

Captan controls "black spot," the most prevalent of the rose diseases. The other chemicals Shurtleff says, control powdery mildew, another common rose disease

The weekly spraying or dusting should cover the plant thoroughly, the specialist says. The undersides of leaves should be covered, as well as upper surfaces.

Regular treatment will result in healthier rose plants and better blooms, Shurtleff says.

Taxes Are Everyone's Business

Taxes are everyone's business—how the state raises money and spends it affects everyone. Being informed on government activities is part of everyone's responsibility as citizens.

With tax rates for sales tax, corporation income tax, and expenditures will exceed revenue by approximately $15 million for the current biennium—It is estimated that the reserve fund will be reduced from $39 million to $24 million as of June 30, 1959—In addition no new appropriations are available for capital improvements for state institutions. As a result, unusual interest has developed in the subject of state finance in Iowa.

We have some problems in our present tax structure. It has developed over the years to meet new and changing needs without any particular plan or long term program.

Latest available figures show that approximately 11 percent of our personal income in Iowa will be going for state and local revenue. We are above the average for all states in combined state and local per capita taxes —$12 above the average. We are a little below the average as far as state taxes are concerned —taxes that pay for the various state functions—barely $3 below the national average. As to local taxes, we are considerably above the average—almost 017

It is at the local level that our taxes are considerably above the national average. Are there areas in our local government you think improved efficiency, merging units of government, limiting government services. etc, would be feasible to reduce local property taxes?

Taxes are Increasing

Between 1946 and 1955, state and local taxes increased by 131 percent in Iowa compared to 127 percent for the nation as a whole. At the same time, personal income in Iowa increased by 41½ percent compared to the national increase of 72 percent —our taxes are increasing greater than the national average and at the same time. our increase in personal income was lower than the national average.

How do we account for the fact that personal income in Iowa increased less than that for the nation as a whole since 1946 and at the same time our taxes have increased more than that for the nation as a whole.

Our tax bill is BIG

The combined state and local tax revenue for 1957 in Iowa is more than $500 million. The major areas of taxation are:

General Revenue for State Appropriations: $147,437,924, or 27.3 percent of the total.

Local Property Taxes: $284.-785, 336, or 52.9 percent.

Road Use Taxes: $106,483,084, or 19.8 percent.

General revenue will be decreased by $11.3 million for '58.

Problems

Balance the budget: At the present time state income for the State General Fund is about $7.5 million a year less than annual appropriations. It is estimated that the reserve fund will be reduced to $24 million by July 1, 1956. This amount is considered a minimum working balance for the state to maintain. The major problem of the next legislature will be to balance the budget by increasing revenue—reducing appropriations —or some of both.

Increase: In addition, pressure will be on the legislature to increase salaries, provide for additional capital expenditures at state education institutions, more state aid for schools, etc.

Money to local communities: About 55 percent of the State General Fund is for state aid to local communities:

State aid to schools	$22,881,500
Homestead Credit	26,025,000
Social Welfare	17,835,000
Agri. Land Tax Credit	10,500,000
Miscellaneous	1,102,000
	$78,344,000

If the legislature reduced or eliminated these financial aids to local communities, what effect would it have on local property taxes. Or, should the present 2 percent sales tax be increased to provide additional state aid for schools? These are some of the questions on state taxes that is YOUR business. Get acquainted with these problems so that you will be able to make some constructive decisions this fall when you receive your Farm Bureau Opinionaire asking for your opinions on these problems.

Let's Talk Gardens, Fruits and Flowers

It's time now to plan warm-season crops — cucumbers, squash, muskmelsons and watermelons.

Most home gardeners like to raise cucumbers, both for slicing fresh and pickling. Horticulturist Ben Vance, Iowa State College, says varieties you might try are: Smoothie, a recent All American selection, Burpee's hybrid, and Marketeer. For pickling, Ohio MR-17 or Ohio MR-25 would be good. National pickling is an older variety gardeners like.

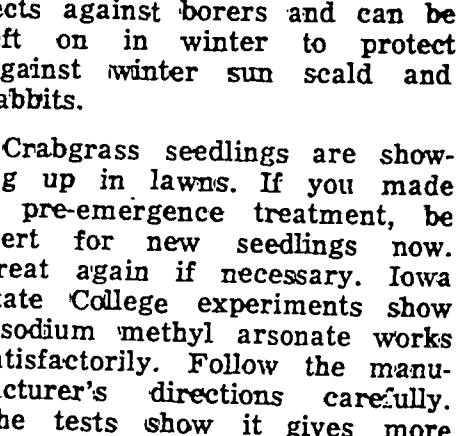
In limited space you can train cucumbers on a temporary trellis, snow fence or other support. This helps control insects and diseases, too, and improves quality. Plant seeds 10-12 inches apart in the row and use heavy cords to train the vines. You can grow summer squash this way, too.

Better not plant watermelons, Vance says, unless you have considerable space. Good varities are Kleckley Sweet, Dixie Queen and Charleston Gray. New Hampshire midget is a good choice for the small icebox type. Plant in light, sandy soil, with at least 5 feet between plants and rows. Incorporate manure or other organic matter into the hill, if it's available. A cupful of complete fertilizer mixed thoroughly and deeply in the hill before planting also helps.

If you planted trees this spring and rainfall has been limited in your area, soak the soil around them once a week. It's good insurance to wrap the trunks of newly set and tenderbarked trees, such as maples, to protect them from sun scald. You can use aluminum foil, wrapping paper, newspapers, feed sacks or fertilizer sacks. This also protects against borers and can be left on in winter to protect against winter sun scald and rabbits.

Crabgrass seedlings are showing up in lawns. If you made a pre-emergence treatment, be alert for new seedlings now. Treat again if necessary. Iowa State College experiments show disodium methyl arsonate works satisfactorily. Follow the manufacturer's directions carefully. The tests show it gives more consistent results in spray form than when applied as a powder. Phenyl mercury compounds also give good results if you follow directions. Potassium cyanate is also effective, but it turns bluegrass brown until moisture renews growth. If you follow directions, it will not kill established bluegrass permanently. Better use it as a last resort later in the summe where crabgrass has started to form seedheads.

Remember, it's risky to use crabgrass control chemicals on spring-seeded lawns.



"The installment collector has a hard time keeping up with the Joneses, too!"

Power Company Signs Agreement

H O Sandberg, District Manager for the Iowa Electric Light and Power Company, has announced the signing of an interconnection agreement between five of the major electric utility companies in Iowa. Besides the Iowa Electric Light and Power Company, other participating companies are: Iowa Power and Light Company, Iowa-Illinois Gas and Electric Company, Iowa Public Service Company and Iowa Southern Utilities Company.

Sandberg stated, Collectively, these five companies provide electricity for some 628,000 customers. They have 71 generating stations with a capacity in excess of 1,150,000 kilowatts. They also have approximately 1116 miles of high voltage transmission line in Iowa operating at voltages of 115,000 or higher.

The high voltage lines of the five companies are already partially interconnected through the Iowa Grid System. By completing this interconnecting system and thus pooling the generating facilites of the Iowa companies, adequate reserves to assure service to all users of the various companies will be available. The interconnection plan will also enable the companies to install larger and more efficient generating units at lower cost," Sandberg added—

::According to Sutherland Dows, President of the Iowa Electric Light and Power Company, the arrangement will provide greater protection for the customers of all participating companies against interruptions resulting from generating facilities being out of service.

Another important benefit to Iowa will be that an almost unlimited supply of electricity will be available for industrial growth, Mr Dows stated.

The interconnection agreement which was signed ast week by the presidents of the five participating companies will become effective July 1, subject to the approval of the Federal Power Commission.

Dr. Dwight C. Wirts Heads Fund Drive

Dr Dwight C Wirtz, Des Moines orthopedic surgeon, has accepted reappointment as Iowa volunteer chairman for the 1958 annual fund appeal of the Sister Elizabeth Kenny foundation slated to open August 25.

Announcement of reappointment of Dr Wirtz to the post which he has held annually for the past seven years, was made by Ora D Gay, Minneapolis, five state area volunteer chairman.

Dr. Dwight C. Wirtz

Iowa residents are being asked to contribute $80,000 of the five state quota of $893,000, according to Gay.

Under its expanded program, the Kenny foundation now makes Kenny treatment and rehabilitation at Elizabeth Kenny institute available to persons of all ages ages with nerve, muscle and joint disabilities as well as to polio patients, Gay said.

Contributions also will be used to sponsor medical research at Kenny facilities and through grants to leading hospitals and universities throughout the nation, he added. The Kenny foundation, in addition, encourages young doctors to embark upon medical research careers through individual scholarships, according to Gay.

Highway Story

By Bob Hullihan

If you picture a highway patrolman as someone who spends all his time writing traffic tickets, chasing violators, or lifting the dead and injured out of wrecks, you haven't quite got the whole picture.

Patrolmen are called upon to perform a surprising variety of services. One officer, for example, recalls spending a couple of hours in a farm home as a baby sitter with several youngsters while the father rushed his wife to a hospital for childbirth.

Another patrolman recounts his battle to kill a mouse that was running around the floor of a car, terrifying the female occupants.

Just recently a worried father called patrol headquarters in Des Moines to report five teenagers missing. The boys had left Ledges State Park in two canoes for a two-day trip down the Des Moines river. They were overdue at home when the father called the patrol.

A patrol observation plane immediately flew up the course of the river and soon spotted the five boys sitting on a sand bar in the middle of the river near Polk City. They had stopped off to wait until a storm blew over.

It isn't at all uncommon for patrolmen to be called on to rush the heads of animals suspected of rabies to Ames or Iowa City for tests.

In fact, from the patrol viewpoint, the problem of rabid animals seems to be a serious one in Iowa, especially in the central part of the state. If you encounter a wild animal that doesn't run at your approach, be wary, patrolmen warn. The animal probably is sick and, possibly, rabid.

June is "Dairy Month"

Iowa's 140,00 dairy farmers are, for about the 15th year, again backing a strong June Dairy Month program in cooperation with the American Dairy Association.

Al Hagen, manager of the Iowa Dairy Promotion headquarters in Des Moines, says dairy month is big business. Two hundred thousand place mats and paper napkins promoting dairy products have already been sent to restaurants in Iowa.

About 1800 dairy promotion kits have gone to grocery stores 20,000 auto bumper butter and milk stickers have been distributed; 30,000 dairy food cook books are being passed out to homemakers and 4,000 institutions, like banks, will be displaying posters declaring they are cooperating with the June Dairy Month effort.

Theme this year, set by the American Dairy Association, is "June's Best Buys are Dairy Foods."

Iowa dairymen provide strong support for ADA'S 6 million dollar budget. Out of the $600,000 collected in Iowa through the May and June butterfat set aside and the voluntary set-aside the other ten months, $400,000 go to the ADA and $200,000 stays in Iowa for a year-around program of advertising merchandising, public relations and education.

Permanent, year-round county dairy promotion committees have been organized in 91 of Iowa's 99 counties. The groups will put local emphasis on banquets, dairy tours, dairy food sampling in grocery stores, and other activities during June Dairy Month.

LEE RIDDERS' VISITING IN GERMANY

EDITORS NOTE: The following is a card received by Edmund Josten, from the Ridders, who are visiting their sons in Germany.

Wiesbaden, Germany
Mon. Eve., 2 June '58

Dear Ed and All:

I may mail this in the morning in Frankfurt, as I go there nearly every day by train while I am here at Denny's place in Wiesbaden, about 30 miles west. Thought I would write you folks a card and let you know the conditions as I see it after a months close survey, at least the whole central area which I have covered with 2500 miles of car travel and some more by rail. All the stores seem to be well stocked with wich activity even forenoons and no empty buildings to speak of. Prices appear to be adjusted about in line with the US. Perhaps our foreign aid program has helped them and in turn has hurt ours, that is, business I mean. You can see by this picture that the buildings are all very modern, having replaced the ones bombed ou from the war.

Conservationists Say Make Program Possible Cooperating Groups

Conservationists agreed at 9 Iowa regional meetings recently that it's necessary to have full cooperation from all agricultural agencies within any county to get the soil and water conservation job done right, says Charles Ballantyne, extension conservationist at Iowa State College.

Soil district commissioners stated that they would be unable to do the overall job as it should be done if the didn't have this cooperation, Ballantyne pointed out. And William H Greiner, secretary of the State Soil Conservation Committee said that in almost every county in Iowa this good cooperation exists. The Cooperative Extension Service, Soil Conservation Service, county ASC committees, conservation officers, vocational agriculture instructors, FHA supervisors, county boards of supervisors, soil district commissioners, and many others, help to get this needed soil conservation job accomplished.

Many districts hold tours for clergymen before Soil Stewardship week in May and Soil Conservation Week in June to acquaint them with the soil and water conservation job. This has been instrumental in developing a better understanding of and appreciation for good and use on the part of the clergyman, Greiner believes.

Tours are also conducted for county Farm Bureau Women's groups, businessmen, service clubs, school children and others to view conservation projects.

Many districts have sponsored conservation workbook contests and conservation essay contests for school children. Prize money is awarded for the top essay and workbook. Conservationists from all parts of the state agreed that once you sell a child on conservation the child will sell the parents on it.

With this in mind, most districts send school teachers to the Teachers Conservation Camp at Springbrook State Park each summer. After a teacher has attended this camp, her effectiveness increases noticeably as far as teaching conservation is concerned, the conservationists said.

Sessions of this year's camp begin June 8 with George W Worley, Iowa State Teachers College scientist, as camp director. By attending two 3-week sessions, a teacher can get six semester hours of college credit. This ordinarily meets requirements for renewal of certificates. Both courses, Biology 104 and 105 are acceptable as natural science requirements for certification.

GRADUATES

Three members of the class of 1908 attended the recent Alto High alumni banquet. They were Alta Thiede, James Bell and Florence Wilkinson, who were graduated together fifty years ago.

American Legion Auxiliary Starts New Year in June

June is generally considered "Commencement" month, with graduations on school calendars throughout the nation. It is also "Commencement Month" for American Legion Auxiliary Units, since election of officers is held in June.

Officers chosen for the Klemme unit for the coming year are President, Neva Hartzell; Vice President, Marilyn Buseman; Secretary Treasurer, Carrie Schwichtenberg.

Although there is a "beginning and an ending" to the Auxiliary year, there is never an end to promotion of activities which benefit the veteran and his family. Bills before Congress to provide small pension increases for totally and permanently disabled war veterans and widows of veterans are being supported by the American Legion Auxiliary, Mrs Elmer Arnold Unit Legislative chairman states. These increases are being asked because of the rising cost of living since increases were granted four years ago.

June is also the month for "Juniors" in the organization. More than 75,000 junior members throughout the nation carry on the work of the auxiliary through programs designed for their ages, and assist the senior members in work for the disabled veterans, needy children of veterans, and they also learn the basic principles of true Americanism. When the juniors reach 18 years of age they are "graduated" into senior membership.

The Auxiliary considers the junior group the most important since from it will come the active members of tomorrow. The following are junior members of this unit: Clarice Ann Arnold, Marilyn Arnold, Rosalyn Arnold, Monica Schaeffer, Arlys Arnold, Becky Back, Lynette Buseman, Connie Kuhles and Jeri Jean Sawtelle.

The Future of The Iowa Egg

Last fall, the Hancock County Farm Bureau Board of Directors as a result of the interest in the quality eggs, appointed an egg Study Committee in Hancock County to study the Quality Egg Programs and the future of the Iowa egg. This committee has spent many hours and attended many meetings on the different programs of the quality eggs and now are ready to give their report at an open meeting set up for June 16, at 8:00 p.m. at the REA Basement in Garner. If you are an egg producer, plan to attend.

At the present, Iowa ranks first among the 48 states in egg production. Over half the eggs produced in the nation come from 10 states and approximately 80 percent of the eggs produced in Iowa are shipped and consumed out of the state. For the most part, egg producers in Northern Iowa have had longer experience in selling eggs on grade and produce higher quality eggs. Consequently, it is in this area of the state where integration in the egg business is starting to take hold.

The broiler business left Iowa because it was found that the program was more attractive to farmers in other states. The gross income from eggs in Iowa, at the present, is approximately $129,000,000 per year. Many feed companies, poultry dealers and other cooperatives are showing a great deal of interest in the Iowa situation. If we don't produce a high quality product, other states will, and Iowa agriculture will again lose an important segment of their agriculture. If we produce a quality product, as many farmers in Hancock County are now doing, but don't get this quality egg to the housewife; we mya find ourselves in the position of having outside concerns take over and as a result the Iowa farmer's bargaining power will be considerably weakened.

WHAT IS THE FUTURE OF THE IOWA EGG: Iowa egg producers can continue to be the number 1 producer of eggs if they choose, because they have one great advantage, that is the supply of feed. Any chicken that is fed a balanced ration lays a quality egg. It's the way this egg is handled from the time it is laid until it reaches the housewife that determines the quality in the eyes of the housewife Mrs Houswife all over the US wants fine, fresh eggs, Iowa must supply this quality egg or someone else will.

The Iowa producer has the advantage of their source of feed to raise these chickens. The Eastern "Egg Factory" has the advantage of being close to the market. The next 5 years will determine who is going to supply Mrs Housewife with the eggs she wants.

For the Iowa producer to hold this market, he is going to have to make sure that the quality eggs his chickens lay maintain that quality until the time it reaches the housewife. His direct responsibility in this is gather, clean, cool, store and market these eggs at the proper time, way, and place while they are on the farm. His indirect responsibility is to see that the eggs will continue to be handled and stored in the proper way along the line until they reach the housewife. If this is not done, the Iowa egg market will go out of Iowa just as the broiler market has done!

Well Built Stacks of Baled Hay Pay Good Returns in County

Well built stacks of baled hay pay good returns for many Hancock County livestock men.

County Extension Director Paul Henderson points out they protect the feed value of a good hay yield. Many good operators feed more hay each year than they can store in barns. Good stacks often save the cost of buying additional hay at higher prices in winter.

He reports Agricultural Engineer Dale Hull, Iowa State College, says the first requirement for a good stack of baled hay is a level site. Bales on a sloping site tend to lean. The stack may eventually topple. The site should be dry, well-drained, and not subject to flooding.

Successful stack builders spread loose hay or straw evenly over the level ground to keep the bottom layer of bales from spoiling, he says. He recommends another thickness of "bedding" around the edges so the stack will tilt inwards. This makes it stable and makes building it easier.

Only solid-even sized bales should go into the foundation layer of the stack. They insure a good foundation.

Once the foundation has been laid, stack the other layers so every bale covers a joint in the layer below. Begin each layer with the ends and continue until the center of the stack is filled. Keep the walls straight and the corners solid, Hull advises.

If bales are uneven and don't fit close together, Hull says it's better to leave a gap rather than force a bale into the space. Forcing is likely to cause bulging at the sides. When bulging starts, bales slip and must be propped up or the stack will fall apart.

Stacks 12 feet wide or less should not go more than six layers high. Up to 10-11 layers may be stacked on a base 15 to 18 feet wide.

If you build stacks higher, Hull warns, outside bales may slip or bulge. A "gable roof" built on top of the stack can add to this danger.

The bale itself has a lot to do with good tight ties. Many stacks become "hay piles" because they're made with loose bales.

But, all efforts to build a solid stack can be defeated if you use a poor covering. Whatever type of covering you use, he advises, should be tied down well.

Controlling Flies Aids Beef Cattle Gains

Experienced beef producers in Hancock County control flies on their animals to prevent a summer slump in the rate of gain, says Paul Henderson, County Extension Director.

He says many beef producers follow the fly control program suggested by Earle Raun, Iowa State College entomologist.

Raun says the horn fly causes the biggest problem with beef cattle. These small, black flies cluster on the backs of the cattle, causing irritation and blood loss.

The best control is obtained with back rubbers, the entomologist declares. They can be purchased or homebuilt. They should be placed where cattle loaf.

The rubber is treated with 5 percent DDT, methoxychlor, toxaphene or 2 percent malathion. When animals rub on the device they coat themselves with insecticide.

An alternative would be to spray cattle every 2 weeks with ½ percent solutions of the above insecticides, with the exception of DDT. It should be used only on the back rubber, Raun says.

Cattle in feedlots may also be troubled by stable flies. The back rubber will offer little protection against these pests.

For complete control of stable flies, Raun advises following a good sanitation program around the lots and buildings, and using a good residual spray. Diazinon is most effective, he says. It should be applied to shed and barn walls, fences, undersides of feed bunks and wherever flies rest. It should not be used on animals. Diazinon will last 10 to 14 days in exposed areas. Inside, it may be effective for from 3-6 weeks.

Raun says Diazinon also should be applied to areas of manure that can't be cleaned out at least every 10 days. Diazinon, sprinkled on the surface every 10 days, will kill fly maggots and adult flies.

THE FARM OUTLOOK

HOGS—

Hog prices should stay up for some time, says Tom Rackham, Iowa State College farm economist. He notes that continuing good prices and early prospects for a big feed crop have made hog production look attractive. Thus, withholding hogs for breeding may decrease the size of the expected gains in summer marketings.

Hog supplies this fall should be about the same size as last fall. Since last fall's supplies weren't large enough to hold prices down long, Rackham sees about the same price situation for this fall. This will depend somewhat on whether the recession makes a weak market for other meats, he says.

He points out that live-hog prices are currently sensitive to changes in wholesale prices, because there isn't much pork in storage to take up marketing fluctuations. This is why hog prices shot up in mid May when market deliveries dropped off. Rackham says the price hike was set off by a sharp advance in loin prices.

LAMBS—

The lamb market looks as though it will be slow for the rest of this year, what with a slightly larger, early spring lamb crop due to hit market stating in June, Rackham says.

Lamb prices hit a mid-winter high and then started down. In April they dropped below 1957 levels and haven't pulled up since. Prices during the first quarter of the year were boosted by withholding of sheep and lambs from market. But, says Rackham, reaction to withholding strikes the sheep and lamb market quicker than it does the beef market, and the mid winter price drop resulted.

Although federally inspected sheep and lamb slaughter during the first 4½ months of this year ran 400 thousand less than for the same period in 1957, prices stayed low.

The market hasn't been helped by the heavier lambs being sold, Rackham says. He points out that consumers are less likely to buy fat, higher priced lamb cuts than similar cuts of beef and pork.

The wool market has been slack, and this hurts the wooled lamb market. But new orders from the textile industry would start wool processors buying again, Rackham says.

Some help for the market comes from the demand for ewes and ewe lambs for flock development.

Lamb feeding profits have been good, especially on early sold lambs, Rackham says hte average feeding margin in the north-central region was $1 higher per lamb for the first 4 months of 1958 than for the 1956-57 season.

Henderson Advises Fair Exhibitors to Check Health Regulations Now

Hancock County livestock owners planning to exhibit cattle at fairs this summer may save disappointments by consulting their veterinarians now about 1958 health requirements, County Extension Director Paul Henderson says.

Henderson says that Extension Veterinarian John Herrick of Iowa State College says it will usually pay livestock men to follow the health regulations for all expositions of any kind. They are for the owner's safety, and it's not smart to try to avoid them.

Extension Director Paul Henderson is urging all Hancock County 4-H leaders to alert all livestock exhibitors in their clubs in ample time before the Hancock County fair He says Dr Herrick points out it is "extremely discouraging" to see junior exhibitors prevented from showing livestock because they didn't know about health requirements or didn't check on them before planning to enter the show.

Herrick also suggests that all exhibitors quarantine their animals for at least 30 days after the exhibition before they return these show animals to the home herd. Despite precautions, the show animals may acquire a disease in transit or at the exposition. Quarantine in a separate lot after the show enables you to recognize any disease problem before your show animal spreads it to the entire herd.

"Largest Crowd Ever" at Hancock County REA Annual Meeting

The largest crowd ever to attend the annual meeting of the Hancock County Rural Electric Cooperative was present last Tuesday evening at the Garner Memorial Building for the 22nd annual meeting. Some 2700 persons went through the "chow" line according to Garner Chamber of Commerce officials, who arranged and served the free lunch which kicked off the annual meeting.

He also told the audience that the average annual consumption of electricity per member is 6,768 KWH and by 1975 this figure will be tripled. Electric home heating is becoming increasingly more popular according to Bush and more and more farmers are using this method of heating their homes.

The local cooperative employs 16 persons and operates and services members in Hancock, Cerro Gordo, Winnebago, Worth Kossuth and Wright Counties.

BONUS PAYMENTS

State officials estimtae that payment of the bonus to Iowa veterans of the Korean war can begin about Sept 1. The date is three weeks ahead of an earlier target date, and these were some anticipating the payments might not be made until after the November elections.

It is expected that most of the bonuses will be paid within six months after payments start.

About 95,000 to 100,000 Iowans are expected to be eligible to receive these payments which will range up to a maximum of $500.

Vets of the Korean Conflict will be paid at the rate of $10 per month for domestic service, and $12.50 monthly for foreign service between June 27, 1950 and July 27, 1953.

NEW OFFICERS

Regardless of the outcome of the November elections there will be new faces in the presiding chairs in the Iowa legislature next January.

Lt Gov W H Nicholas, presiding officer of the senate last session, chose to seek the GOP nomination for governor rather than another term as lieutenant governor. He was defeated in this bid. Sen Alan Vest, president pro tem of the senate, unsuccessfully sought the lieutenant governor spot. So He'll not return next year.

On the other side, the presiding officer, W L Mooty, speaker of the house, will seek election as lieutenant governor on the Republican ticket, thus vacating his house seat. His opponent will be Sen E J McManus, Democratic Candidate.

Also missing from the house—in addition to legislators who did not seek reelection, were defeated or are trying for senate seats—will be the majority floor leader in the past session, Robert Carson. Carson did not seek elective office this year.

NEW TAX PLAN

Stat officials have taken steps to recover income tax payments from residents of neighboring states earning income and wages in Iowa firms.

Tax officials have asked 24 Council Bluffs firms to start withholding such tax from Nebraskans now on the pay rolls of the Iowa firms.

State Tax Chairman Leon Miller said the companies will be held liable for back taxes, interest and penalties on incomes of 32 employees who are involved. One of these persons, it is reported, is receiving $50,000 a year from Iowa business interests.

The action taken in Council Bluffs is only the first in a series of moves which will involve persons on all borders who are earning income and wages in Iowa while living outside the state, officials say.

TO SEPARATE FROSH

Coe College, Cedar Rapids, will peparate its freshman students from others in the dormitories. The Coe board recently voted this action, it said, as part of a movement to raise campus standards.

ROAD WORK PROGRESSES

Iowa reduced the unsurfaced portion of its secondary road system by 2,000 miles last year, the highway commission reports

Less than 3 percent of the state's farm to market highway system and 24 percent of other secondary roads are not surfaced now.

Some 14 counties have 95 percent of their secondary roads improved with a higher type surface, either gravel, blacktop or concrete paving.

TIMES CHANGE

There was the day when marriage of high school age students was mighty rare. But not so any more, apparently.

A sociologist and a state official, who have been studying such things, report that marriage at high school age is becoming more widespread in Iowa.

Lee G Burchinal, sociologist at Iowa State College, and Loren Chancellor, director of the state's division of vital statistics, have been studying marriage ages in Iowa and the U S. Their findings indicate a trend, since the turn of the century, toward marriage at younger age. The high school weddings trend is more recent, however.

In 1940 about 1 percent of the men and 16 percent of the women in Iowa were 18 years of age or less. By 1956, those figures had climbed to 7 percent for men and 28 percent for women. These marriages, the study indicates, were not elopments.

INCOME TAX LAGS

Iowa income tax collections are presently running behind last year. Officials say this may be a result of "slower and more detailed" processing of payment returns. Too, more persons than normal paid first-half returns, or are paying on the installmen basis. Second half taxes for 1957 are due October 31. As of June 1, collections this year totaled $18,054,752 compared with $23,231,018 in the same period last year.

SCHOOL COSTS UP

Net operating costs off Iowa's 112 city school districts were more than 20 percent higher for the last school year than they were in 1955, the Iowa Taxpayers Association reports. Net operating costs were up 9½ percent over the previous year. Largest single cost item went for salaries which in the year just ended were 20.4 percent above 1955 salaries.

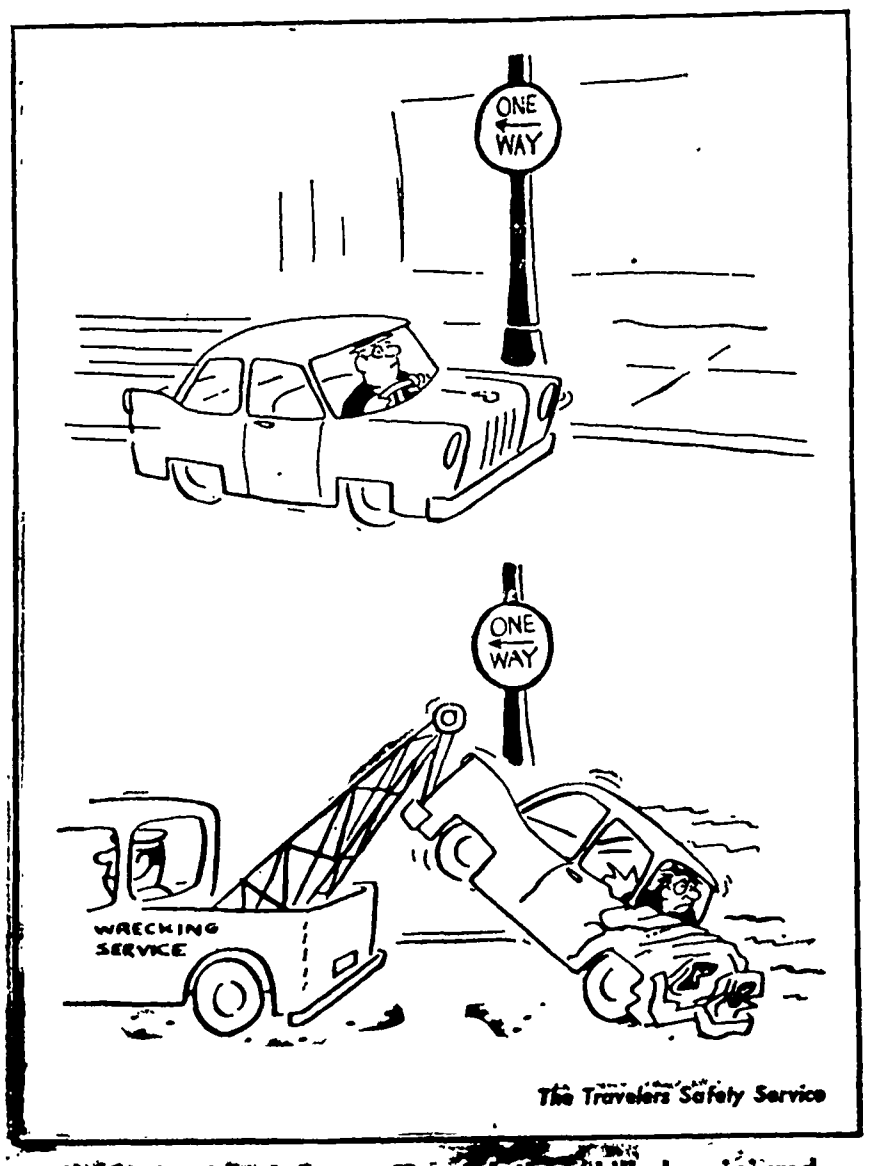
CARE OF ELDERLY

Elderly persons should not live in the homes of their children. This is the counsel given by a Des Moines psychiatrist at the annual Institute of Nursing Home Management at Drake University.

Dr Herbert C Merillat said that for the best satisfaction of elderly persons they should associate with others their own age. He feels they should live together in small groups to obtain companionship. He said most individuals who have cheerful early lives are happy in later life.

Dr Merillat is medical director of a private hospital in Des Moines.

The Road Toll by Jerry Marcus



Accidents involving traffic violations killed or injured 2,079,500 persons.

WANTS MORE PATROLMEN

Iowa's commissioner of public safety wants more highway patrolmen.

Russell Brown, the commissioner, said he will ask the next legislature to approve an additional 150 patrolmen, an increase of more than 50 percent in present strength. The last legislature, a year ago, upped patrol strength fom 225 to 275 men.

Building a Greater Iowa

Where the Tall Corn Grows

All America pays tribute to Iowa as the greatest corn-growing state in the Union. We raise 17% of all corn produced in this country . . . for a bumper cash income of $255,000,000.00 per year.

One of the best customers for this corn and other grain is the brewing industry. Each year the industry buys over $240,000,000.00 worth of grains. That would equal 94% of the total cash corn income from Iowa's entire crop! In brewing beer . . . the light, bright beverage of moderation . . . corn is used more than any other grain, save barley. So we Iowans can certainly say . . .

The annual cost of storing grain varies from farm to farm in Hancock County, says County Extension Director Paul Henderson.

So you'd better figure the individual costs for your farm if you want to add profitably to your grain-storage space this year. An average figure may be arocnd 10 cents a bushel.

Here are some of the cost factors. Paul Henderson says that Richard Phillips. extension grain marketing specialist in Iowa State College, advises farmers to consider:

The chief annual fixed costs of farm grain storage inculde depreciation on the building anl equipment, insurance, property taxes and interest.

So, use the annual depreciation rather than "first cost" of the structure in figuring storage costs on different types of structures. For instance. a permanent ear corn crib may cost $1 a bushel to put up, but it lasts 20 years. So it costs only about 5 cents a bushel per year. A temporary wire mesh crib could be put up for about 50 cents a bushel. But it lasts only 5 years. That means it's costing you 10 cents a bushel per year—twice as much as the structure with the higher first cost.

Insurance, Phillips adds, is another cost you need to figure in deciding what corn storage will cost. It shouldn't amount to more than one-third of a cent per bushel per year.

Property taxes will depend on your local assessments and levy. They seldom exceed ½ cent per bushel of storage space.

You can figure interest at the market rate times the depreciated investment. If you take a government storage loan your interest on the part of your cost paid by the government loan will be only 4 percent—which is below the market rate.

You'll have variable costs each year, too. These are repairs insurance on the grain, grain taxes, handling costs, pest control, quality loss and shrinkage of grain.

Repair costs are normally small on the annual, basis, but they may be high in a given year. Usually they don't average more than a cent per bushel of space per year in wooden structures, and should only be a fraction of a cent per bushel of space in round steel bins.

The Iowa grain tax is only 25 cents per 1,000 bushels held more than one year. You probably should charge an average of a cent a bushel for every handling of the grain—into a bin or crib, out of it.

Cost of fumigating bins for pest control varies. It's from ½ cent to 1½ cents per bushel per year for effective control, particularly where grain has been stored more than 1 year. If you do your own fumigating, use extreme caution and follow the manufacturer's directions carefully. Fumigant gas is highly poisonous.

It takes some labor to care properly for grain in storage. The cost of this labor usually ranges from 2-5 cents per bushel. Electric equipment for aerating or other service seldom costs more than a fraction of a cent per bushel.

When you store grani on the farm you take the risk of quality loss and shrinkage. You can largely avoid deterioration by approved management practices. Better figure out for yourself how much to allow for this loss. It might be well to put it down as ½ to 1 cent a bushel in any case.

BUSINESS and AGRICULTURE

The nation's farmers have improved their financial lot somewhat during the recession, says Tom Rackham, Iowa State College farm economist. Rackham says current gains in agricultural "well-baling" are largely a result of coincidence. Prices can drop back, he says.

Current short-run well-being does not indicate that a solution has been found for agriculture's depression problem, Rackham believes. Good weather will bring good vegetable crops and excessive grain harvests. Smaller feeding margins and bigger slaughter runs are approaching. These mean dropping prices. And the recession itself can cut farm product sales if it hangs on, Rackham says.

Farm income has risen because some product prices have gone up more than production costs, he says. Also, production in some lines has increased to take care of higher U S demands and foreign exports, plus a heavier flow into government storage.

Perhaps the most important factor, Rackham says, is that farm income is now divided among fewer farmers, which increases per-farm income.

Livestock producers started the higher profit trend when they held stock off the market for breeding and feeding. Relatively short run, upward price pressure resulted. Dairy and poultry returns have experienced similar upward trends, and the same situation exists in fruit and vegetable growing, where producers not hurt by recent crop losses are profiting by the good market these losses caused.

Rackham points out that the recession hasn't cut farm costs. Mid-April prices for items used in farm production were 3 per cent higher than a year earlier. At the same time, agriculture had contributed a lot through lower feed costs to price savings in the overall agricultural industry.

EGGS—

Egg prices probably won't continue to run higher than year ago levels, but the average fall price may be close to last fall's extra high prices, Rackham says. If this happens the egg price increase will be near the average 20 percent spring-to-fall upswing of the last 5 years.

Egg prices this spring were considerably higher than last spring's very low prices. But March prices were only 1.2 cents above the 1947-56 average, and April prices were 1.6 cents below the 10-year average.

Egg production should lag behind last year, Rackham says. And seasonal production will drop, which will strengthen prices.

The fall laying flock won't be larger than last fall's, Rackham predicts. Only 6-8 percent more pullets than in 1957 are expected this fall. But on January 1 there were 12 percent fewer pullets than a year before.

Farm Tips

from your

Extension Director

By Henderson

You can get plans for livestock shelters that help maintain gains and feed efficiency during hot weather, says Fred Roth, extension agricultural engineer at Iowa State College. Plans drawn up by Midwest Plan Service can be ordered through your local county extension director. There is a portable hog shade consisting of a 10 by 10 foot frame braced with glued plywood, and mounted on runners. Either aluminum or steel roofing can be used. Material cost is between $90 and $100. Roth says that, as roofing, aluminum reflects more heat than plain galvanized steel. But galvanized steel, painted white, reducts temperature more effectively than aluminum. Aluminum, however, is more practical, because you don't have to paint it.

New Techniques Protect Quality of Hancock County Hay Crops

Hancock County farm operators can protect the feed value in their hay this summer either by "conditioning" it or "drying" it, says Extension Director Paul Henderson. Either method enables them to get the hay out of the field sooner after cutting and save most of the leaves.

When you "condition" hay, you crush the stems immediately after cutting so they dry in the field as quickly as the leaves da. When you "dry" hay, you cut it, put it up wet, then force air through the hay after it's beeen stored.

Henderson says that. with both methods, leaves can be saved and the hay you put up will be greener. More leaves mean more protein and greener hay means more vtiamin A for the livestock you feed.

He says Larry Van Fossen, extension agricultural engineer at Iowa State College, reports hay leaves don't start to shatter until the moisture content of the hay is down around 30 percent. Conditiosing gets the stems down to 20 percent (a safe moisture content for storage) as fast as the leaves will dry in the field, Van Fossen says.

The drying method allows you to dry hay down to 30-40 percent in the windrow. then put the hay in storage and dry down to 20 percent.

Drying seems to work best for chopped hay and conditioning for based hay, Van Fossen says. Chopping hay is a dirty job and conditioning is won't particularly help this problem. On the other hand, drying baled hay usually requires extra labor. Bales are generally dried on an outside drying platform and then mobed into storage. This requires an extra operation Olso, baled hay that contains 30-40 percent moisture is heavy for handling.

Both methods allow you to harvest the hay in about the same length of time after you've mowel it, Van Fossen says: You won't have any more time by crushing hay that's to be dried, he says, Hay that hasn't been crushed will dry to 30 percent just about as fast as hay that has been crushed. The big help in crushing. he says, is that it allows you to field.dry your hay on down to 20 percent. This isn't necessary when you're going to dry your hay in storage.

Van Fossen says it's necessary to condition hay as soon as possible after you mow it. The conditioner that follows the mower is most desireable, he says. It not only does the best conditioning job, but also saves an extra trip over the field.

A for what it will cost you to condition or dry your hay, Van Fossen says that will vary considerably. Special equipment is needed in both methods. The farmer who sells his hay may spend more than he gets back, because there often isn't enough distinction between good hay and poor hay on the market. Van Fossen says. Good management, however, reduces costs no matter how small the scale of operation.

Van Fossen adds that many users have found the self-feeding haykeeper an especially good unit for drying chopped hay. Of course it also works well for self-feeding. The cost of erecting a 50-ton unit for drying is about $800.

Sunday a picnic dinner was held at the home of Franklyn Busemas. Screw Worms May Appear Early This Year

Screw worms appeared unusually early in Iowa this year, County Extension Director Paul Henderson says. They may become an immediate threat to livestock in Hancock County.

He says Extension Entomologist Earle Raun, Iowa State College, recommends that wounds of any sort on livestock—wire cuts, dehorning wounds and others—be treated promptly with screw worm smear. The treatment should be repeated every few days until the wounds heal. Smears which can be used include smear 62, smear 82, smear EQ335 and others.

Veterinarians use these smears to treat infested wounds. Raun says pet owners would also be wise to use the preventive smear on any wounds their animals have.

Raun said the early appearance of the screw worms has been traced to a shipment of east Texas cattle to southeast Iowa in late April. The pupae have dropped to the ground, flies have emerged and spread the infestation to other southeast Iowa Sheep and cattle.

Raun said the flies are likely to spread throughout the state earlier than usual.

Dehorning, castration and docking wounds and the navels of newborn animals need protection.

These worms hatch from eggs the flies lay in open wounds. The worms feed on the living tissues of the animals and kill them if not controlled.

LET'S TALK GARDENS, FRUITS and FLOWERS

Flower and vegetable gardens do well this time of year. But so do weeds, says Horticulturist Ben Vance of Iowa State Colege. He advises controlling the weeds while they're young, before they start crowding plants.

When you're cultivating around flowers and vegetables, be careful not to go too deep. Many plants have "feeder" roots close to the surface. Damaging these can cut down the size of the plants and yields. You may prefer mulching to cultivating.

This is a good time to topdress the vegetable garden with fertilizer. Use a high nitrogen, complete fertilizer. For example, 10 10 10; 12 12 12, 10 6 4, etc., can be applied at the rate of 1 pint to 50 feet of row. Work the fertilizer into the topsoil to a depth of ½".

Avoid getting fertilizer on leaves or stems of plants. It may damage them.

Don't over fertilize your tomatoes until fruit has set. You might encourage excessive vegetative growth at the expense of fruiting. After fruit has set, 2 tablespoons of a complete fertilizer worked into the soil around each plant will help produce better yields.

Some flower gardeners don't get the urge to plant roses until they see them in bloom. It's still not too late. Potted roses can be planted during June. Nurseries offer wide selections of them.

As soon as strawberry harvest is complete, it's time to renovate the planting. Plants should be thinned, fertilized and sprayed. Renovation is described in Iowa State College Pam. 224, available at your extension office.

You can increase next year's yields of black and purple raspberries by pinching the tips from new shoots and suckers as they reach a height of about 36 inches.

Raspberries will need the equivalent of 1" of rain each week in order to give best yields. If you don't get enough rain, irrigate the plants if you can.

Keep the lawn mowed to a height of 1½". Ond if you have a grass-catcher, use the clippings to mulch the garden. Now's the time, too, to keep after crabgrass.

OFFICIAL COUNTY PAPER | KLEMME, IOWA. JUNE 25, 1958 | VOLUME 63 | NUMBER 32

My Neighbors

"I'm warning you, Wilbur Treeker, whatever you're about to say... DON'T!!"

After this issue of The Times is put to bed, we are going to be minus our printer, Sam Swartz. Sam has been a familiar figure up and down Main Street during the year that he has been here. and has been very nearly in charge of operations here at The Times office. We will miss him, but we wish him luck in his venture into editing and publishing his own paper. He has leased the paper at Radcliffe and takes over on July 1st.

Rain we have received in plentiful amounts. but warm weather has just not put in an appearance for any length of time. As good as the crops look now. think what they would have been like if we had been vsiited by the warm weather that is normal for the season. Oh, well, it makes for comfortable living.

S T O P — Evidently considered by most drivers as an abbreviation of SLOWDOWN!

Mrs Ruth Klemme Bovard and Mrs Jessie Klemme Stanbery, Mason City, and their cousin of Decorah, were is Klemme, Saturday afternoon and expressed an interest in the activities at the Town Park.

Mayor W C Keraus, who happened to be on hand at the site of the new shelter house now under construction. explained the project to the ladies, and then took them on a tour of the new school, our churches. the cemetery. and the town in general. He also took them to visit with Mrs Martha Bredbenner, who lives in the house which was originally the home of the H J Klemme family, one of the first built in Klemme.

Mrs Stanbery and Mrs Bovard are daughters of H J Klemme. for whom our town is named, and who was the donor of our park site. They were very pleased to find Klemme such a progressive and clean town.

We like it. too!

Yes, we like Klemme! We are lucky here! We have fine churches. one of the better small town schools in the state, residents who take pride in the appearance of their property, progressive merchants. a beautiful Town Park that is being improved and made more useful as time goes by, and we are located in some of the finest agricultural land in the world—farmed by some of the world's best farmers. Yep! We like it here!

And they were all amazed at the mighty power of God... —(St. Luke 9, 43.)

Almighty God's power to heal us, physically, mentally, spiritually, has to be experienced to be believed—and it is available to all who love and obey Him. Truly, God is "the Great Physician, Who has never lost a case." His prescription is Faith; He expects no payment other than our love.

Fred Arnold and Ray Houdek Form Partnership; Will be Known as Klemme Implement Company

The partnership went into effect June 1st, and the men are calling their concern the Klemme Implement Co. Fred J Arnold began the business back in 1937, selling and servicing Oliver farm machinery and they will continue in that line. At the present time they have about 100 Oliver tractors in this territory that they service. The territory includes a circle about 15 miles in either direction from Klemme.

Mr Houdek began work for Mr Arnold in January of 1954 and is now a partner in the firm that has been selling Oliver machinery in this territory for more years than any other dealer.

Four Klemme Girls Take Active Part in State 4-H Convention; Find Entertainment as well as Education

"Living in a Changing World" was the theme of the 1958 State 4-H Girls Convention at Iowa State College in Ames. There were 1700 4-H girlh attending the 29th annual convention from Wednesday through Saturday morning.

The four girls from Klemme were Jane Renner, JoAnn Helps, Rita Hanson and Carolyn Jass.

Jane Renner had the honor of giving the campaign speech for one of the eight state officer candidates. Judith Dean of Corwith, who was elected State Secretary. Four of the eight candidates were elected after very active campaigning throughout Wednesday and Thursday. Rita Hanson was one of the campaign managers for Judith. JoAnn Helps and Carolyn Jass were active campaigners. These campaigns are carried out with posters and signs over the campus telling about the candidates, also by handing out literature at sessions and at meal time. Thursday night it is climaxed with the campaigners storming the campus to the huge gym, where the election is held, with posters, banners, balloons, streamers, drums, bugles and anything to bring the attention of all the girls to their particular candidate. The evening session began at 7:30 and soon the election was over. In Saturday morning the new officers were installed.

Jane Renner tried out for the Country Girls Creed contest and was one of tne 11 blue ribbon winners. JoAnn Helps tried out for the vocal solo contest. Jane and JoAnn also sang in the State Chorus which was an inspiration just to be a part of.

The 1958 State 4-H Convention theme was carried out through the sessions with speakers, skits and discussion groups, all helping to show them how to live in this changing world and how they must try to be leaders and help others to live with each other in peace. Tours of the campus and suggestions from every direction that they must get all the education possible to prepare them to live in this changing world in a way that they not only have a place to live and plenty to eat but enjoy their jobs and in doing them they will be helping others also to make this world a better place in which to live.

From the 4-H officers candidates who won the election the girls learned how to carry out the part of their slogan "To win without bragging"—and from the ones who lost they learned to carry out the other part—"To lose without squealing." And, as Judy Dean put it in her answer to Jane Renner's campaign speech for her, "It's not whether we win or lose tha counts—but how we played the game."

There were ten other girls from Hancock County that attended the convention. Mrs Chet Renner, Mrs Ed Thiemann and Mrs Donald Dean were the chaperones.

Quality Egg Meeting Held at R E C

Monday evening, June 16 a Quality Egg Meeting was held at the REC Basement in Garner at which time a report was given by Wayne Lawhorn, Chairman of the Farm Bureau Egg Study committee.

It was pointed out both by Mr Lawhorn and Jerry Micheals, President of the Mitchell County Quality Egg Association that the "quality egg" is a must for Iowa if Iowa wants to remain in the egg business. It was also pointed out that the Farm Bureau Board of Directors were not endorsing any egg program or setting up an egg program at this time. It is their feeling that a lot of interest has now been created and there are now many and varied quality egg programs in Hancock County and they encourage every egg producer to pick the one most suited to their needs.

Hancock County is 100 Years Old Saturday, June 28th

A hundred years ago, Hancock County was organized. The exact date, June 28, 1858.

There were vey few white people living in Hancock County at that time, in fact there were just two settlements; one at 'Upper Grove,' five miles south of Klemme, on the Iowa River, headed by Anson Avery, who with his family, were the first white settlers in Hancock County (1854).

The other settlement was at 'Ellington' north of Garner on Lime Creek, and was headed by Jacob Ward and John Maben (1856). Each settlement numbered about a dozen families.

These early settlers were mostly young people, energetic and progressive, and wanting to establish law and order on this wildnerness of prairie, petitioned a nearby Judge, namely Judge Clark of Winnebago County, to assist them. Judge Clark ordered an election.

The election was held June 28. 1858.

Twenty-two votes were cast, and the following were chosen as our first County Officers:

M P Rosecrans, County Judge; George Louppee. Clerk; Reuben Church, Treasurer and Recorder: Benoni Haskins, Sheriff; Charles R Wright, Surveyor; Grove R Maben, Superintendent; James C Bonar, Drainage Commissioner.

Before the location of the county seat at Concord, the public business was transacted at Ellington, Amsterdam. or wherever the County Official happened to reside.

At the next election in the fall of 1860, a Board of Supervisors was elected, they took over many of the duties, formerly administered by the County Judge.

AMSTERDAM

The people at 'Upper Grove' platted a nice village. a mile east of Goodell and called it Amsterdam, laid out in 29 blocks plus a 'Mill Lot' next to the river, and a 'Court Square' on the hill. This Amsterdam platt was recorded in 1859.

Court was held in the School House at Amsterdam for two sessions, namely May 1860, and May, 1861. However, the Ellington Settlement was not pleased with having the County Seat so far away, and the Supervisors appointed a Committee to select a more centrally located site, on which to build a court house.

In making their report to the Supervisors, it was pointed out that settlers chose farms, and preferred to live near a river. where they would have water for their livestock. and trees to construct buildings, and wood for fuel. And they further explained, that the west half of Hancock County would probably never be settled, but used as grazing land by cattlemen, and maybe it would be best to let the Indians have it, they had quite a camp at 'Sioux Island,' and needed room to operate.

(How wrong can you get.)

COURTHOUSE

Acting on the committee's report: the Supervisors designated Concord as the County Seat. This was a 40-acre village about halfway between Amsterdam and Ellington. Temporary buildings were put up and used for two or more years, and then a suitable brick structure was erected in 1869, for $10,000 which served as our courthouse for 30 years.

In 1899, the present brick courthouse was built in Garner, for $30,000. On June 8, 1899 the cornerstone was laid, this writer climbed a maple tree, with his camera, and took a picture of the important folk on the platform, which included Anson Avery, 76, and wife, 68.

I might just add that the Avery's often traded in Klemme, as shown by old store records.

OXEN — HORSES — TRACTORS

In the 100 years since Hancock County was organized, we have seen many changes, these changes are especially noticeable in our modes of transportation. There were plenty of horses in the eastern states of Michigan, Illinois and Ohio, but the first white family to settle in Hancock County came with oxen.

Six yoke of oxen pulling two heavily loaded wagons, with 3 milk cows trailing along behind, brought the Anson Avery family from Cass County, Michigan to Avery Township in 1854, a distance of 600 miles. (This was four years before Hancock County was organized.

Mrs Avery and their infant son rode in one of the wagons, Mr Avery, with two young men as helpers, walked all the way, driving the lazy oxen. You didn't drive oxen with reins, as you do horses, you just herded them along, yelled at them and prodded them with a stick, they always wanted to stop and eat grass.

After about 4 or 5 hours of travel the oxen would get so hungry that you couldn't get them to go a step farther. Then the drivers would turn them loose, so that they could eat grass for an hour or two.

When they camped for the night, the animals were turned loose, but they were careful to strap a 'cow bell' on each of the three 'ring leaders,' so that they could find them again in the morning.

One day, toward evening, they set up camp about 25 miles west of the Mississippi River. The next morning, about 4 a.m , Mr Avery woke up and he couldn't hear the tinkling of the cowbells. He rushed out, barefooted, clad only in his night shirt, he circled the camp, no cattle in sight, then he ran down their back trail and found the cattle three miles from camp on, their way back to Michigan, the red bull in the lead. After this six mile round trip, Mr Avery had worked up a good appetite for breakfast.

Yes, the Averys made the trip with oxen, and during the next few years, a dozen more families joined them at the "Upper Grove" settlement, all of these settlers made the trip to Iowa with ox drawn covered wagons.

WHY OXEN?

Let's just remember, there were no roads, just faint wagon trails which kept mostly to the higher ground, there were swampy places and rivers to cross and no bridges.

The horse has a solid hoof, and when he steps down into the mud, he has trouble getting his foot up again. But the ox has a cloven hoof, when he steps down into the mud his hoof spreads out, and when he want to pull it up again, the two halves of hoof sort of fold together and it comes out easy.

Oxen are cheap to buy, easy to break, easy to get rid of, you just fatten them up a bit and sell them to the butcher. Oxen seen to be stronger than horses on a short, hard pull, but they are slow, and on the heavy wagons averaged only ten miles per day.

Our first settlers used oxen for field work, for about 15 years, or up until 1870.

After the Civil War, horses became plentiful, some of our dirt roads were graded, we also had a few bridges. After this, the slow oxen gradually disappeared.

But for 20 years more or until about 1890, oxen were used to pull the large drainage plow making Bull Ditches. Nearly every farm in Hancock County had a bull ditch put through for surface drainage. Later we used drain tile and used Dredging machines for the main outlet ditches.

At some time prior to the year 1900, some smart fellow invented the gasoline engine and we began using those one cylinder power plants for odd jobs.

In 1911, Henry Ford surprised us with his famous Model "T" automobile (for $365 cash) and about 3 years later his clumsy Fordson Tractor appeared.

By 1932 those good Oliver tractors appeared, together with "Row-Crop" power machinery and on the exact spot where the old livery barn stood, Fred J Arnold established an ever expanding implement business, housed in a new building, supplying the farmer with everything needed to plant and cultivate his field crops.

And, sad to relate, by 1940, the horses disappeared forever from our farms.

Just a LAST WORD about Horses: The little colts born on the farm became pets, they followed you around wanting to be petted. They enjoyed taking a nibble of human food, maybe an apple or a piece of cake, and if you broke an egg in their pan of feed, they really lapped it up. Of all the young animals born on the farm, the colt was the family favorite. The children on the farm would have him halter broke before he was weaned, and he was taught to wear a bridle and saddle while he was very young. You didn't "break' a farm-born colt, you trained him.

Every teenager wanted a horse he could ride and with the first money he earned. he acquired a horse and a saddle and a fancy bridle. His horse would be well-fed. carefully groomed, mane, tail and hoofs trimmed and often he trained his horse to do fancy steps or gaits. Like the old saying, "A man well mounted is always proud."

Thus it was a sorry day for us when the tractor and automobile took over and the horse disappeared.

To sum it up - in the last 100 years—

We used oxen 15 years;
Horses about 70 years;
Tractors about 20 years;
Automobiles about 30 years.

RAILROADS

It was in 1870 that the Milwaukee Railroad extended its tracks from Clear Lake westward through the state of Iowa. As soon as the rails were laid as far west as Algona they started running trains. The first passenger train to stop at Garner and Britt was in the fall of 1870. Both Garner and Britt were platted in 1870.

And then beginning in the spring of 1871, the little freight trains started bringing in emigrant cars moving families seeking new homes on the fertile prairie lands of Hancock County.

When the Civil War was over, and the soldier boys came marching home, it was hard to find jobs in the cities. but there was plenty room and work for them in Iowa. Thus for ten or more years there was a steady movement of young families to Hancock County. By 1875 the population of Hancock County had reached 1482.

There were several nationalities of peoples moving among us:

The little Englishman, thin and wiry, but he knew the language, and we needed him to hold office and teach school.

Then we were blessed with some jolly Irish families, they were always happy and kept the rest of us from getting bored.

The sturdy, good looking Bohemian people selected farms near Duncan, where they built a Catholic Church and used their native language.

The honest, stoic Norwegian People settled around Forest City where they built a Lutheran Church using their native tongue.

And the home loving German people, wanting to live near other German speaking people. filled up Liberty Township with their humble homes. where they later built a German Methodist Church.

The merchants in Forest City talked Norwegian; the Duncan merchants spoke Bohemian and at Klemme, we spoke the German language at least half the time, until World War I broke it up.

THE SLIPPERY ELM

In 1875, five years after the Milwaukee Railroad went thru Garner, they started building a grade for the so called "Slippery Elm" railroad, which was to run from Dows to Forest City, which also would have served Amsterdam, Klemme, Concord, Garner and Miller.

This grade was being built with horses and slip scrapers and a crew of shovel men were also employed. The contractor boarded the men, fed their teams but they were told that their wages would be paid them in a lump sum when it froze up and the season was over. But shortly after the first 'killing frost' the contractor absconded with all the money, thus cheating the teamsters out of their seasons pay, and bankrupting the RR co.

Nine years later, 1884, the B CR & N built and completed a railroad running parallel to the old slippery elm grade. This road by-passed both Amsterdam and Concord. Thus these two villages became ghost towns.

Not long after this, the M & St L came through our county serving Forest City, Hayfield, Britt, Stilson, Corwith Kanawha and on through Belmond.

The next and last railroad to be built in Hancock County was the "Klondike," in 1899, it connected Garner with Hayfield, Crystal Lake, Woden and Titonka.

It took about 20 years for the different railroads to criss-cross Hancock County, and 11 little towns were started, each with its depot, its station agent, and its section crew to take care of the track.

How thankful we were for the railroad, the little trains, pulled by coal burning steam locomotives, hauled the products from our farms to distant markets, and everything we used from far away places was brought to us by rail. A nice arrangement, mutually profitable to all.

The B CR & N sold out to the Rock Island System in 1889. This was the year Klemme was platted.

The Klemme depot was enlarged, more side tracks were put in, a large stock yard with cattle sheds was added and in 1937, heavier rails were laid to accommodate the increased traffic. In that early day, Klemme shipped more livestock by rail than any other station on this branch of the Rock Island Road.

102 YEARS AGO

It was in 1856 that the first railroad train crossed the Mississippi River at Davenport, Iowa over a new bridge, and these tracks continued on to Iowa City which was the first state capital of Iowa.

The U S Government was most anxious to get railroads extended throughout the west and as a special inducement gave them certain lands along their right of way. Land was cheap, so they gave them every alternate section on each side of the tracks, which could be sold to help pay for construction.

But there was some "fine print" in this land contract which required the RR to do government hauling for a lesser rate. I believe it was at half the regular rate.

Then came the World War, and the government so much merchandise to haul and so many troops to move, all of which was to be done at half the regular rate and this was below cost for the RR companies. The railways were out of money and nearly bankrupt. Then some smart official of the RR pointed out that the free service given to the government amounted to twice as much as the value of all the lands given to the railroads.

So our government made them a "New Deal." For the duration of the war, the government would "pick up the tab" for the loss in running the railroads and guarantee them a profit of six percent.

The railroads then with nothing to lose, rebuilt some track, repaired and improved their equipment, painted all the depots, etc., and with the cooperation of the labor unions, wages were doubled and hours shortened.

At last the war ended, and the railroads were again on their own, but they had built up such a high overhead, that they were again in a jam. The union wouldn't lower wages and the government was mad at the railroads.

COMPETITION

The truck lines, the piplines and the airlines were making a strong bid for the transportation business.

The main lines of the railroad systems were not affected quite so much, but the branch lines, like those serving Hancock County, felt this competition keenly. With too much interference by government regulations, and by too much "bossing" from the labor unions, the Hancock County railroads were forced to discontinue some of their services:

1st They discontinued passenger trains; 2nd they lost their mail carrying contracts; 3rd most of their Express business went to Parcel Post; 4th they practically quit handling "local freight"; 5th the hauling of cattle and hogs went to truck lines.

However, there is still a lot of rail traffic in and out of Klemme. Our Northern Lumber Company ships in many carloads of lumber, cement, building blocks, steel, etc.

And think of the hundreds of carloads shipped in and out by our Klemme Coop Grain Company. Their large capacity rolled oats mill runs day and night. It is only shut down on Sunday. This oatmeal is put up in 50 pound sacks and shipped out by rail, then the oat hulls are ground up into a "mill feed" which is shipped out in bulk by rail. Then think of the government corn, many thousands of bushels pass through our grain company. Some goes out by truck and some by rail. Two and a half million dollars worth of grain and feed pass through this grain company annually.

WAR

During the past 100 years, Hancock County has been mixed up in five wars. The Civil War, The Spanish American War, the Two World Wars and the Korean Affair, not to mention the "Cold War," which still hangs over us like a wet blanket.

The last Civil War Veteran in Hancock County was Lew Lewis, who died in 1941, age 95 years.

There are many veterans of these later wars. Over a hundred of them live in the Klemme area Many of them are members of the Klemme American Legion Post.

Wars are very expensive in lives and in money. There have always been wars. There is never a time when the whole World is at peace. The best we can hope for is that the United States keeps the peace for the next hundred years.

POST SCRIPTS

The population of Hancock County was 15,000 in 1950.

We quote from the "World Almanac" of 1958: "Iowa is the heartland of American Agriculture, possessing some of the finest soil in the World, 25 percent of all grade 'A' soil in the U S and 95 percent of the total land is in farms."

Hancock County is located in North Central Iowa. The south half of our state is rough with hills, at least in places and there are hills to the east of us along the Mississippi river, but right here on the prairie lands of Hancock County, we have Iowa's most productive soil-Nice black loam. We are lucky to live in this garden spot.

To tell the whole story of Hancock County's 100 years of progress would fill a book, and with these few columns I have merely scratched the surface.

Highway Story

By Bob Hullihan

Since the state safety department's driver exam got tougher —one in three fail—some people are beginning to complain that such a test has no influence on whether a man is a safe driver or not.

What they are saying is that correct knowledge has no relation to safe driving. If you tend to agree with this argument, consider what the department has found in a survey of some 9,000 license exams taken since April 1.

It turns out that 35 percent of those who have taken the test think it is acceptable driving practice to make a left turn from the right lane. (If you're a veteran driver, this information may come as no news at all.)

But the point is that an obvious accident situation is set up by the driver who doesn't know enough not to turn left from a right lane. And 35 percent of the total is a lot of drivers.

Another 25 percent of those who have taken the test apparently think a flashing red light simply means slow down. It means stop! The driver who doesn't know this is the type who hits or gets hit broadside in intersections. And, again, 25 percent of a total is a lot of drivers.

The new license test was designed to spot and correct these dangerous gaps in what drivers know. That is why the test may be resented by people who have failed it. It isn't a snap for the driver who doesn't care enough to learn the rules of safe driving.

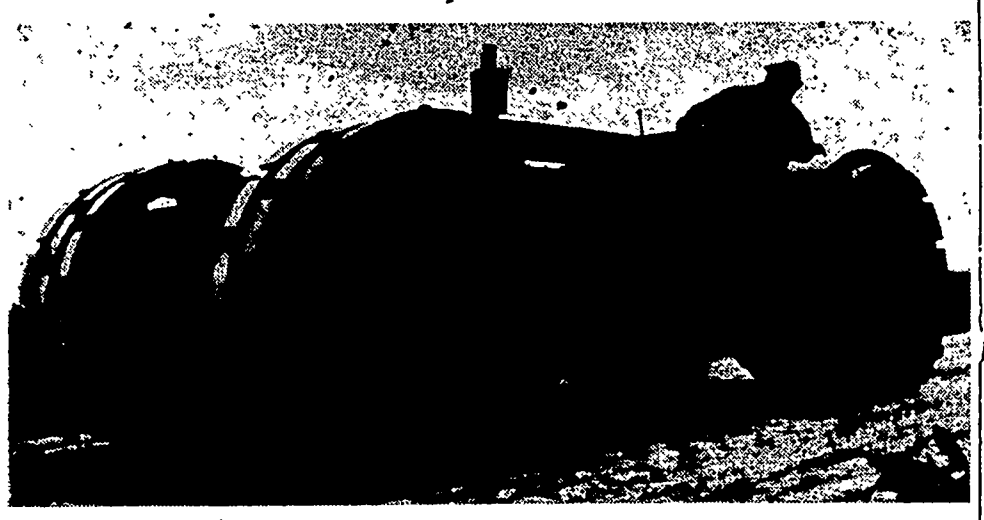
Flat as a Pancake! Nope More Like a Waffle!



Work has been under way for the past couple of weeks getting the road east of town ready for blacktop. At the present time all the rock has been hauled for the base, most of it is rolled and packed, and some of it has been coated with a thin, sticky mixture.

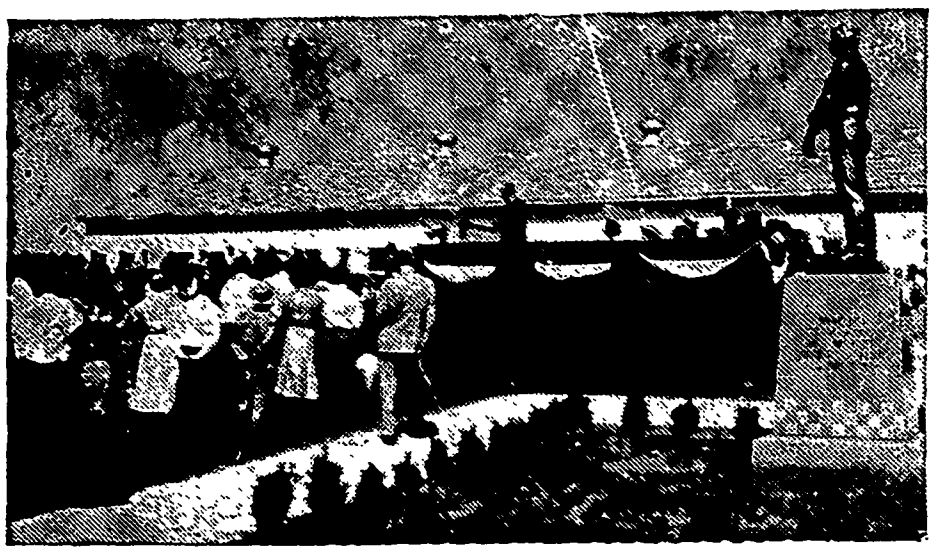
Of the various machines working on the project, the one above most caught our eye. It's a heavy brute of a machine and its name, "Kompactor", just fits it. After it has been over the road, the surface is really packed and flat—but not like a pancake. More like a waffle due to the way in which the wheels are made.

To Open Machine Shop in Klemme this Fall

Pictured above is a building now being constructed by W H Rosendahl on the property just north of the house occupied by Louis Perkins. When completed, the building will house a machine shop and general repair shop which Mr Rosendahl hopes to open this fall.

The property, including the Perkins house, has been purchased by Mr Rosedahl and he has sold the house in which he now lives to Walter Lauden of near Goodell. Present plans call for moving dates shortly after the first of the year.

Farm Youth Center Dedicated; Benson Speaks



Approximately 800 persons interested in rural youth of America witnessed ceremonies at the Purina Research Farm near Gray Summit, Missouri, recently, dedicating the new Danforth Farm Youth Center. Among the visitors were some 300 deans and faculty members of agricultural colleges throughout the United States.

Principal speaker at the dedication ceremonies was Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson. Of the Danforth Farm Youth Center, he said, "This Center is dedicated to those who are trustees of the future: Youth. Here farm youth groups will have facilities for such projects as club meetings, judging contests, field days, and instruction sessions. Research in this Center will contribute to the success of club projects of young men and women on farms throughout the country. It will help bring about a better animal agriculture for tomorrow.

"We congratulate the Ralston Purina Company and all who have had a part in the building of this Center. To this institution we hope — and we expect — will come youth who dare — youth who aspire to emulate in their own fields and even surpass the achievements of other young people who have dared to pioneer."

Bins Bulging: Many Hancock Co. Farms May Need New Corn Storage Buildings

Many Hancock County farmers will be building new corn storage structures this year, says County Extension Director Paul Henderson, Garner.

Several hundred farms in the county may have more corn than they can store properly unless they do, he said. There is an estimated 4,850,000 bushels of corn in storage now in Hancock County.

ASC Office Manager Alfred Josten, Garner, says about 50,000 bushels of that is in government purchase agreement, warehoused for CCC 600,000 bushels in local elevators.

He adds that Richard Phillips, extension grain marketing specialist at Iowa State college, says this may be a good year for any farmer who needs additional storage to add it. The federal government will pay 16 cents a bushel for storage of resealed corn. That is the same it pays the commercial elevators. You get the money even though you redeem the corn and sell or feed it yourself. This resealing offer, Phillips says, may be interesting to corn producers who want to be sure of getting 1957 corn out of their cribs in time to get the 1958 crops in.

The federal government plans to add more storage bins to take delivery of corn. However, the planned additional government bins do not appear to be enough to handle all the hold-over corn plus 1957 corn that would have to be moved to make room for a narmal 1958 crop.

Besides, you can get a government-guaranteed loan at only four per cent interest to pay up to 80 per cent of the building cost of your new grain storage facilities. For the reseal payment and loan, simply file an application at the county ASC office in Garner before you start to build.

Of course, it would not pay everybody to build just because it can be done at "bargain" rates. Phillips, however, advises all Iowa grain producers to think carefully now about their long-time needs for storage. Decide whether your present storage is adequate.

Phillips points out that the government storage payment and loan may offer a special opportunity if you are thinking of modernizing your grain program for bulk feed handling, picker-sheller harvesting, grain drying, labor saving in connection with multiple pig farrowing or other stepped up livestock feeding programs. This might be the time to build to get ready for such developments you plan for the future.

Investment in grain storage, Phillips adds, will be sound if, over the life span of the structure, the expected benefits compare favorably with the cost — and if the structure fits in as part of your total farm business.

When you buy at a cooperative you get your change back in the same way. The amount of change is the same, too . . . on a similar item . . . since cooperatives sell at the general market price.

But here's the big difference. The cooperative exists to serve its owner-patrons at cost. Included in that cost are expenses which any business has . . . heat, lights, taxes, salaries, insurance, and many others.

At the end of the year when all costs are known, the final price of the items you purchased during the year is figured. Then you get more change back . . . depending on how much you bought and how efficiently the cooperative operated.

But whenever and wherever you buy through a cooperative, the transaction is not completed until the books are closed at the year's end.

Farm Bureau to Open European Trade Center

Plans for establishing a U S agricultural trade center in Rotterdam, Netherlands, by the American Farm Bureau Federation has been announced by Charles B Shuman. Purpose of this trade center is to promote and develop markets in Western Europe for U S farm commodities.

Target date of opening this Farm Bureau trade center is in October and it will work closely with the federation's development department which will maintain contacts with private traders, private producers, co-op's and other agriculture groups having an export interest. The main function of the Farm Bureau trade center will be to facilitate sales of agriculture products abroad by providing an European listening post for the gathering of trade intelligence and trade opportunities.

The American farmer should be vitally concerned with world markets as about 10% of U. S. products are exported. Every farmer gains when we expand our export market.

There are many reasons why the United States has found it difficult to sell abroad. One is the lack of oganized selling effort. Then too, there has been lack of knowledge of what the export market wants. Western Europe is, by far, the largest commercial market for U S agriculture exports. It is one that can bring 200 million customers within the reach of United States selling promotion programs.

Commission O.K.'s Ia. Road Projects

Low bids on more than $10,500,000 worth of projects were approved by the Iowa highway Commission, June 18.

The projects included major interstate work near Council Bluffs and Sioux City.

Chief Engineer John Butter said the lettings included $4,280,212 worth of primary work, using emergency funds only recently provided in the 1958 federal road act, plus more than $866,157 worth of farm-to-market projects also using emergency federal funds.

Biggest single project was for 5½ miles of grading on Interstate 29 from the Floyd river bridge in Sioux City, southward to Sergeant Bluff. Low bidder was E. M. Duesenberg, Mason City, at $1,197,796.

Companion culvert and sanitary sewer work on this project went to F. A. Moser, Farmersburg, at $116,744 and low bidder on one 207-foot concrete beam bridge and three sets of twin concrete beam bridges on the stretch was Christensen Brothers, Cherokee, at $421,979.

On the Mormon Trail interchange on Interstate 29 north of Council Bluffs on the Pottawattamie-Harrison line, Booth and Olson, Sioux City, was low at $527,004 for grading and paving

Schmitt Construction Co., Winfield, was low at $112,978 on bridge work and Council Bluffs Construction Co., low at $40,398 on culvert work.

Five million dollars worth of concrete paving jobs were let, subject to federal concurrence. These include major jobs on Highway 20 east of Sioux City, on the Highway 6 relocation at Iowa City and on relocation of 30 in Greene county.

Low bids included:

Buena Vista County — On 3, westward 8 miles from its junction with 71, cement paving, E. M. Duesenberg, Mason City, $369,545.

Dallas-Polk — On relocation of 141 from 64 north and northwest to near Granger, 7 miles of cement paving, Western Contracting Corp., Sioux City, $508,312.

Fayette — On 150 from West Union north to Wineshiek line, 8½ miles cement paving, Fred Carlson Co., Decorah, $446,072.

Greene — On relocation of 30 from Jefferson west to present 30, 9 miles cement paving, Fred Carlson Co., $578,111.

Hancock — On 18 from Britt eastward 9 miles, E. M. Duesenberg, $942,634. Companion bridge and culvert work, F. A. Moser, $110,930.

Ida-Woodbury — On relocation of 20 from Correctionville eastward 9½ miles, cement paving, Booth & Olson, Sioux City, $633,831. Also 2½ miles cement paving on 20 from Moville east, Booth & Olson, $312,658.

Johnson — On 6 relocation in and near Iowa City on bypass route, 3 miles cement paving. Fred Carlson Co., Decorah, $701,392.

Winneshiek — On 150 from Calmar south, 7½ miles cement paving, Fred Carlson Co., $369,111.

The proposed starting date on the east 5½ miles on highway 18 from Britt is July 7, with completion date of November 1, 1958. The fall date was designated so that the gravel detour route would not have to be used through the winter.

The completion date for the relocation of No. 18 west from Hunsley Oil Co., is June 27, 1959. Work can progress on much of this section without necessitating a detour. Two of the bridges are in this section of the project.

On the section of No. 18 west from Britt, the purchase of right-of-way was started about three weeks ago.

Supplemental Pasture Can Pay Big Dividends

Supplemental pasture crops, with a little planning, can return big dividends in Hancock County, says County Extension Director, Paul Henderson of Garner.

Plans include evaluation of present pasture, he points out. What are the periods of good grazing? When will you have weaknesses in grazing during the season? Plan to have supplemental pasture crops coming on during poor-grazing times, he advises.

Farmers who plan ahead from season to season rely on fall-seeded rye to furnish early grazing. According to Agronomist Ralph Krenzin of Iowa State college, fall-seeded rye will provide good spring pasture two weeks ahead of other pasture crops, on the average.

The extension director suggests checking with neighbors who use rye pasture. Many farmers could benefit by seeding a small acreage to rye next fall, he says.

A crop that everyone has time to use for pasture this spring is oats, Henderson continues. If an early season shortage of pasture is anticipated, plan to get the most from oat forage. Use a seeding rate of three bushels per acre. Consider nitrogen fertilizer for the oats, if you need maximum forage yield.

If you take the oat forage off as pasture, you'll also be helping establish the legume-grass stand. You'll remove the oats before they offer serious competition to the seeding.

The grazing season for oats is short — from about May 1, to mid-June. But the crop is productive. To be utilized most effectively, it should be grazed heavily.

One of the most common pasture shortages occurs during the hot weeks of midsummer. But more and more farmers are turning to a crop that comes into heavy production during that season — Sudangrass.

Sudangrass isn't planted until around June 1, but Henderson says it's not too early to consider putting in several acres for hot-weather pasture. It could provide cheap "pasture improvement" this year, he stresses.

"The average man's biggest problem is reconciling his gross habits with his net income."—Dan Bennett.

Hancock County Hash
by Elsie Mae Van Wert

An Iowa State College release which came to my desk this week brought some interesting facts on cherries. It said the quality of sweet and sour cherries is good this year and the prices are reasonable.

A price comparison of fresh cherries and canned and frozen cherries was of special interest to me and perhaps it will to you.

When one pound of fresh sweet cherries costs the same as a No. 303 cans (one pound) the cost per serving is equal. When one pound of fresh sour cherries costs the same as a No. 2 can, the cost is equal. When one pound of fresh cherries costs twice as much as one pound of frozen cherries the cost is equal.

One cup of canned red sour cherries provides more than one-third of our daily requirement of Vitamin A.

Last week Sharon and I helped 23 4-H demonstration teams. This year the project is Foods and Nutrition so you will see many interesting foods demonstrations. Making salads seems to be a very popular one and since the women in the county are always looking for good salad recipes and new salad ideas, I'm sure that you will want to see them at local 4-H Achievement Shows and at the County Fair.

This week I have been getting training in Home Furnishing project for next year's 4-H work in the county.

Next week I am to be at a Communications Workshop at Iowa State College. I am looking forward to getting much information which will help me with my work in the county.

Use insect repellents on your clothes for extra protection. But, check the fabric before applying an overdose. Repellents won't harm cotton or wool, but they may damage synthetic fabrics or fabrics of synthetic blends. Watch out, too, for damage to fingernail polish, painted or varnished articles and plastics, including plastic watch crystals and eye glass frames.

Earle Rau, extension entomologist at Iowa State College, adds an extra note of precaution: don't apply repellents near your eyes or mouth. After taking these precautions, smear the liquid on your hand, then rub it lightly on clothing wherever bugs may crawl or bite through. Or spray on clothes from a pressurized container.

Fresh fruit, tea and coffee are number one problem stains at this time of year. The reducing sugars in fresh fruits and the tannin in tea and coffee are the "trouble-makers" leaving hard-to-remove brown stains, says Opal Roberson, extension textiles and clothing specialist at Iowa State College.

To remove stains caused by fruit juice or beverages, immediately sponge the area with water before you forget the location of the spot. Then if the fabric permits, pour boiling water through the stain from a height of two or three feet. The force of the water may remove the stain.

Another method is to rub mild detergent or soapless shampoo containing a few drops of vinegar into the spot and let it soak for a half hour. Then work and rinse it in clear water. If stains remain, bleaching will be necessary.

Highway Story
By Bob Hullihan

Harry hustled out of the house early on the first morning of the vacation and packed the suitcases in the trunk of the car with a precision that made him feel proud. When he finished, the lid and lock worked perfectly as he closed the trunk.

Later, with the whole family in the car, Harry's wife stowed a few last small items in the glove compartment. It was working well, also. Then Harry touched the starter, the things that happen under the hood happened without a hitch, and they were off

As they moved down the highway, things continued to work as they should. Harry turned on the radio and they had music, radio worked fine. As the day warmed, the kids rolled down the windows with no trouble at all, windows were in good working order.

Just before they stopped for lunch, Mrs Harry turned the rear vision mirror so she could get a look at her lipstick. The mirror swiveled on its ball joint as well as it ever had.

So it went through most of the afternoon. All parts of the car worked smoothly except, perhaps, the tie rods. They were coming loose.

But Harry, driving the car every day, had failed to notice that more and more play was coming into the steering wheel. He hadn't bothered to have his car checked for safety before the trip.

He was traveling 65 when he gave the steering wheel a slight turn that should have brought the car away from the edge of the highway slab. It didn't. He didn't have that kind of precision control. A wheel hit the shoulder.

No doubt all the minor and convenient parts of the car worked perfectly until the very last moment.

Some Random Thoughts

BY L. E. "PETE" K.

The following article appeared recently in the Mason City Globe Gazette and we thought it might be of interest to you.

THE GRIM FACTS

Jake Douglas called our attention to the following article from the Lakeville (Conn.) Journal, which was reproduced in The Mutual Agent, an insurance magazine, with the notation that it should be required reading for every junior and senior in high school and every college student.

The facts are in, boys, and you just don't make the grade. As a group between the ages of 16 and 25, you think y o u a r e the world's best drivers. But the low down is this—you're the coun try's worst. The facts are in and your insurance rate has gone up anywhere from 20 to 50 percent. (Actually 300 to 400 percent.)

Think it over, lads — and dads. The insurance people are no dopes. They do not care whether you are handsome and have the females in a dither. They do not care whether you have a piece of junk lovingly tuned to a raceway song. All they care about is poor performance on the road.

Frankly, sons, your performance as a group is a menace to society — and to yourselves. Who says so? Not us. The insurance companies say so and they know. They do not know your name and address. They do not know if you own a Ferrari or a Ford. All they care about is facts. The fact are you have the worst road record of any age group in the country. And getting worse.

STILL BOYS

You are still boys, boys. You aren't men unless you can handle cars, among other things, and you aren't handling them properly, though you have plenty of know-how to do so. It isn't only you who gets killed or hurt. It's the girl with you, it's the guy down the street or the lady in the next county who trusted you to act like a man.

You wouldn't let a guy hit you over the head with a hammer; why let him drive you into a post? You wouldn't let him steal 50 bucks out of your pocket. Yet he's already done that this year. Boosting your own cost of driving a car. And you, the worst offender — you spoiled brats thinking you can handle 200 horse-power when you can't handle one boy-power, what are you going to do about it?

Brother, get the low down — the girls in your age group have it all over you. Not only in looks, but in intelligence, in self-control, in fair play and in their ability to handle that horsepower you can't handle. That's not our opinion; it's the considered opinion of the insurance companies. The rates for girls in your own age group have gone down, not up. They are getting to be better drivers, not worse.

You haven't yet learned that champs are not chumps. And if you don't believe the insurance companies about what lousy drivers you are, ask a champ some day — if you can face it.

Evashevski to Head Appeal for Camp For Crippled Children

Forest Evashevski, Head Football Coach at the State Univercity of Iowa, will head a special appeal to the cities and towns in Iowa to provide the balance of funds to build a summer camp for the crippled children of this state. The announcement was made today by E L Peterson of Boone, president of the Iowa Society for Crippled Children and Adults, Inc. The drive will be started this month.

Earlier it was announced that Herb Plambeck, Farm Director, WHO-TV, would head a similar appeal to rural areas.

With Evy's appointment, planning is now completed for the drive. Special envelopes will be delivered to almost every home in Iowa, containing a message outlining the serious need for a residential summer camp f o r crippled youngsters.

In accepting the position, Evy stated, "It is important that we reach the major portion of the $275,000 as quickly as possible so that a site can be selected and construction started. I, for one, believe that we should not keep the crippled children of Iowa waiting any longer."

Iowa Land Reserve Gets New attention

The Iowa ASC committee has been requested by the United States Department of Agriculture to recommend rates necessary to get more Iowa land into the Conservation Reserve of the Soil Bank.

The state ASC committee is also recommending a goal of Iowa acreage that they feel should logically be under the conservation reserve. It is not known what the rates or goals for Iowa will be but the main objective is to get land out of production which during the past two years has been used to produce grain, oil seed and row crops.

The USDA has set a national goal of retiring an additional 12,500,000 acres next year. About 10,600,000 acres have been placed under the conservation reserve.

A tentative rate considered for Iowa by the USDA would be about $19 per acre but this could change depending on recommendations of the Iowa ASC committee. According to reports from Washington, D. C., a ten per cent premium would be offered farmers for putting their whole farm into the conservation reserve.

Iowa Farm Bureau voting delegates at the annual meeting in November adopted a resolution calling for a "follow-through program of strengthening the Conservation reserve program with high payment rates to encourage participation." The IFBF resolution was aimed at getting a four to six per cent over-all reduction in farm production in order to bring production in line with demand.

The American Farm Bureau in testimony before both Houses of Congress has also urged higher payment rates for the conservation reserve to encourage farmers to idle producing land and bring supplies in line with demand.

Hog marketings from now to October should run well ahead of a year ago, but late fall marketings are likely to be smaller than in the last two years, says Rom Rackham, Iowa State College farm economist. After initial decline, prices will probably level off, he says. December prices should be about the same as this fall's.

Rackham says the June 1 pig report shows Iowa producers are planning to boost output by 20 percent during coming months. The 10 Corn Belt states which produce about ¾ of U S hogs plan to farrow 16 percent more sows from now until Christmas. A 13 percent hike in number of sows farrowed is in the offing for the entire U S. This means a healthy jump in the winter hog supply, Rackham points out.

There were 17 percent more hogs between three and six months old in nine Corn Belt states than there were 12 months earlier. These pigs will account for the increased marketings from now to October. But sows and pigs under three months old were scarcer than in 1956 or 1957. This means lighter marketings during late fall.

Rackham believes the summer price slump won't drop to the low $15 level of 1957. However, hog prices could take something of a beating as beef, poultry and pork supplies increase during the warm months, he says.

A further look at the June 1 hog report indicates that restraint in hog production is breaking down, Rackham says. Consequently, he sees a possibility of extra heavy hog marketing during 1959. On the other hand, he notes that producers are distributing farrowings more evenly throughout the year. This fall's farrowing hike could be offset by a smaller pig crop next spring. In this case, the total annual crop would increase only a little over the preceding year.

But Rackham expects the spring crop won't be cut back enough to balance this fall's increase So the hog business may run into considerable price difficulty in the fall of 1959, he says.

While the Paran Pederson's of Grinnell were away recently a dog got in their chicken house and killed more than 200 young chicks. Only a few escaped.

Advice For When You Buy Small Appliances

When you go into an appliance store to buy a small piece of electric equipment — for example, an automatic fry pan, you may have an easier time choosing one from all similar models available, if you follow these five suggestions from Elsie Mae Van Wert, Hancock county extension home economist.

1. Construction. Check to see that the appliance has good weight and balance so that it will rest firmly on table, counter or shelf; avoid "tippy" equipment. The utensil should be securely put together. The appliance should be assembled so well that youngsters cannot take it apart.

2. Operation. See that controls are easy to read, understand and operate. Can you use the appliance comfortably — do your hands seem to "fit" the handles and controls?

3. Care. Choose appliances with simple design and smooth surfaces, rather than those that have hard-to-clean crevices, corners and deep grooves. Avoid utensils made of too porous materials. Check the manufacturer's suggestions for care, and ask yourself if you will be able to keep up with this piece of equipment.

4. Wattage and voltage. Look at the manufacturer's nameplate to see how much wattage your new appliance will use. Most of today's heating appliances take 1000 watts or more, and most use alternating current. You can connect such small electric equipment to wall convenience outlets, but Elsie Mae Van Wert recommends special appliance circuits with number 10 or 12 wire.

5. Safety. Look for the letters "UL" on a circular seal. This is the seal of Underwriter's Laboratories, and it assures you the piece of equipment has met the Laboratory's standards of safety, fire and shock. The seal should be stamped diretly on the nameplate or fastened securely. Look for this label on the appliance cord, too. Read the manufacturer's warranty and guarantee. After you have purchased a small piece of electric equipment, date and fill out the warranty blank. File it with family business records. If the manufacturer includes registration card, fill it out and return it to the manufacturer immediately.

Lake, in Winnebago County. Bolmond, Ventura, Forest City, Titonka, Boone Valley and Meservey are joint districts taking some areas from Hancock County.

The number of school districts started with two, increased to 26 and since reorganization the number has been reduced to seven. Last year, July 7, 1957, to June 30, 1958, the seven school districts were the fewest number of school districts of any County in the state of Iowa. The latest reorganization is the Corwith-Wesley Community School Disirict effective July 1, 1958, having area in Wright, Hancock and Kossuth Counties, with the greater area and population in Hancock County.

Reorganized school districts needing housing were not to be denied Hancock County has about $2,250,000 in new construction in their respective districts. Corwith and Goodell were close behind the Britt and Garner. Most of the other independent schools were formed about the turn of the century. The building of railroads and the present Courthouse had its effect on the location of towns coming into being about 1900.

The County had twenty-six (26) school districts from about 1915 to 1954 when reorganization of school districts started to reduce that number.

The map effective July 1, 1958 shows there are seven (7) school districts in Hancock County, six (6) of which are reorganized community school districts. Three districts are joint districts, that is they have area in surrounding Counties, namely: Kanawha in Wright County, Corwith in Kossuth Counties, and Woden-Crystal Lake Community School District will vote very soon on a proposition, whether or not to build needed classrooms and a gymnasium at Woden. Crystal Lake and Hayfield each have a comparatively new gymnasium built by the respective Consolidated School Districts.

The last school year for which we have total figures, shows there were 3,684 enrolled in the public schools of Hancock County with 985 of this number enrolled in the several high schools, and 2,709 in the elementary grades. More elementary children are being taught by fewer and better trained teachers than ten years ago. The record shows that 2101 pupils or 56.8% of the total enrollment of the County ride in one of the 46 public school buses serving the families of the several school districts in the Hancock County school system.

We can look for further reorganization of school districts as the demands for expanded high school programs continue. We must remember that reorganization of school districts and the construction of new buildings are only a means to an end—better education for the children in the County. Unless we have better programs, especially at the high school level, the first two steps have gone for naught.

Expanded intermediate services at the county and multiple county level are an attempt by the Hancock County Board of Education to strengthen the educational program in areas in which the single school small or otherwise district County unit more desirable. Speech and hearing therapists are available to all public schools in the county during the past year and for the coming school year. In addition to these services, an Elementary Consultant has been added to the County staff and will be housed in the County Superintendent's office at Garner.

We can review the past with a sense of pride in public education and look to the next century for greater achievements.

On June 28, 1858, Hancock County will reach the century mark. It was 100 years ago a vote was cast and Hancock County was set off from Winnebago County, having its present boundaries. The electors also created Two townships, namely: Madison in the north part of the County and Avery in the south part of the County. Two school districts were also formed at the same time, but the record of Madison township shows there were no subdistricts or subdirectors, but rather a president, vice president and secretary in each township who went about arranging an election to select subdirectors at the proper time

All school districts in the County were township districts until about 1886 when the Britt and Garner Independent School Districts were formed, making high school classes available to the

'Progress Report' Is Now Available

AMES: — The Iowa State Highway Commission announced today that the 1956-57 "Progress Report" is available for distribution.

Tneme of the informative and pictorial twenty page report is "Highways to Happier, Safer Living." In developing this theme, the report emphasizes that "The need of an effective road program is measured in human life — lives lost due to the menace of road hazards — and happiness gained from the personal pleasure, and industrial expansion that comes from modern highways."

Introductory comments by the five highway commissioners illustrate that "Orderly progress has been accomplished on each phase of the Iowa Highway program during the past year." During this year, "459 miles of 18-foot primary pavement was widened to 24 feet and 52 bridges were widened. Resurfacing of the widened highway is proceeding as a part of this three-step modernization program. New locations, relief routes and highway maintenance are also vital phases of a well-rounded program."

"Sound progress in the development and maintenance of a modern highway network for the citizens of Iowa is of vital importance to everyone. It is essential to the life-saving job of increasing highway safety and it is a major factor in the state's industrial development program."

A "Review of 1956-57 and a Look to the Future" depicts in graphic form primary highway construction completed during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1957. During this year, the Highway Commission let 1,206 primary and farm-to-market contracts, totaling over 70 million dollars. "This stepped-up highway program, demanded by the public and facilitated by revenue legislation, charges the Iowa State Highway Commission with the responsibility of advancing Iowa to a position of highway leadership. In every section of the state, drivers are enjoying the benefits of highway improvement. Among the advantages of a modern highway network is industrial expansion in Iowa. Raw materials and finished products roll with increasing ease as each additional highway is modernized."

Three Stage Improvement Plan

One of the basic steps in this modernization program is a Three Stage Improvement Plan. Included in this plan is the widening of narrow highways to 24-foot standards, resurfacing to achieve 'new road' appearance and quality, and finally shoulder improvement. The adoption of this program made possible the rapid elimination of many highway hazards. The completion of the programs will provide modern highways as economically as possible, utilizing existing road and bridges wherever they coincide with sound long-range planning."

The report depicts the Interstate System in its various phases of planning and construction, and predicts that by "fall of 1958 — segments of it (will be) ready for traffic. This will usher in an era of new highway concept — four-lane divided throughways without a stop light, a left turn or the hazards of cross traffic."

Letting Programs and Funds

A five color map pictures the 1956 and 1957 primary road construction and letting program. Also included is an overlay two color map showing the 58 program.

An income statement for 1956-57 presents in tabular form and pie diagram primary and farm-to-market road fund receipts and disbursements totaling $245,-010,371. "A total of 32,410 miles of secondary roads have been designated as part of the farm-to-market road system making it the most extensive in the nation."

Safety Controlled Access

Access control is probably the most important feature incorporated into Iowa's primary and Interstate road program. Access regulations help safeguard highway investments as well as protect motorists from the dangers and inconvenience of traffic interruptions. Thus the basic intent of modern highways is preserved — to permit the easy flow of traffic.

Sufficiency Report

Sufficiency guides are one of the tools employed to develop a highway program. Intended primarily as a help in determining highways with the greatest need for improvement, these guides are based on three main qualities: Structural Adequacy, Safety and Service. For convenience, 100 points are used for the sufficiency guide, with main classifications being divided into subclassifications and weights assigned. They have proven to be a great assistance in determining where construction priority should be applied.

Right of Way Negotiation

Right of way negotiation is one of the most interesting phases of highway operations. During the fiscal year 1956-57, 2742 parcels of land were acquired, of which 2634 (96.06 percent) were negotiated. It is often a difficult task for right of way buyers and land owners to agree on equitable terms for the acquisition of land. The understanding and dedicating attitude of these trained men is a prime factor for making Iowa's record of land purchases possible.

Relief Routes

"Essential to the achievement of a long-range modern highway system is the construction of relief route highways to bypass community business districts. Considerable progress has been made in Iowa in the task of providing community relief routes for cities and towns. The greater part of the task still lies ahead."

The report explains in graphic form the effect on business in communities enjoying relief routes as compared to communities of similar population with "main street highways." These charts factually prove that business is not injured by removing highway traffic from the center of town. Increased business is available when relief routes provide safer and easier parking and shopping facilities.

The Progress Report concludes by saying, "Thousands of miles of improved highways invite travel in Iowa. The task before us is gigantic and never ending. However, the work already done provides you and your fellow citizens with smoother, straighter, wider roads than ever before in Iowa history, and the blueprints of the highway engineers hold the promise of ever finer roadways in the future."

Low priced compound For Yellow Soybeans

Soybeans are turning yellow on many of the high-lime soils in Hancock county this summer, Extension Director Paul Henderson of Garner said.

Iron deficiency is causing the trouble. It can be corrected by prompt spraying with ferrous sulphate. This compound can be bought inexpensively at drug stores. It can be applied with any spray equipment that delivers enough solution to thoroughly wet all the leaves of affected soybean plants.

Joe Stritzel, extension agronomist at Iowa State college, reports five pounds of ferrous sulphate dissolved in 50 gallons of water and applied at the rate of 50 gallons of the solution per acre will do the job. Repeat the spray at intervals of a week to ten days until the deficiency symptoms disappear.

This condition usually occurs where excess lime in the soil "ties up" iron so plants cannot get it. The yellowing appears in a slight degree almost every year on these soils, but some years it is worse. The difference from year to year seems to have something to do with moisture conditions. The spray provides the plants with the small amount of iron they need. Adding iron-containing fertilizer to the soil doesn't help because the excess lime would "tie up" this iron, too.

In experiments by Iowa State college researchers, spray treatment with ferrous sulphate increased yields as much as 16 bushels per acre. On one affected area all untreated soybean plants died, while the treated plants were saved, and yielded 23.9 bushels per acre.

You can avoid yield reductions by treating affected soybeans now. The sooner you apply it, the more effective the treatment will be.

Stritzel says you can recognize iron deficiency in soybeans by the fact that veins of the soybean leaves stay green while the leaf areas between the veins turn yellow.

This trouble hardly ever affects entire fields. It will occur in spots where there is excess lime. There is no need to treat any but these obviously affected spots. Stritzel says a knapsack can often do the job.

BACK

Sam Johnson of Monterey recently suffered a broken back while he was repairing a hay fork in the roof of his barn. He was on a ladder when one round broke and he fell ten feet to the barn floor.

Check Your Lightning Rods To Get Full Protection, Paul Henderson Cautions

Hancock County farmers can have almost 100 per cent protection from lightning damage—if their protection systems are properly installed, says County Extension Director Paul Henderson of Garner.

A lot of damage results each year, he says, to buildings that have lightning rods but not all the other essentials for full lightning protection.

Hendersons says that Extension Agricultural Engineer Fred Roth, Iowa State college, reports many people neglect to interconnect all metal parts of building to the main lightning protection cable.

This means ventilators, eave troughs, door tracks, hay fork tracks, water pipes, stanchions and electric grounds should all be connected to the main lightning protection cable, Roth says.

This eliminates the possibility of damage either from a direct strike or an arc between such metal conductors, he explains.

Besides the regular lightning protection on a building, Roth says you should install a satisfactory lightning arrester at the electric service entrance and an approved capacitor at the fuse box. The capacitor is most vital, he says. It eliminates any possibility of damage by secondary or induced lightning surges to all electrical equipment and appliances.

When you use the capacitor in conjunction with the exterior arrester, you also keep lightning from following the service wires into a building, Roth says, thus providing a lightning safe building.

Roth recommends that you space lightning rods along the ridge of the roof, not more than 20 feet apart. Ground rods should be driven not less than 10 feet into the ground, and cables should be connected to the ground rods with approved cable clamps. Buildings 100 feet long or less should have two grounds, located at corners diagonally opposite.

When you're interested in purchasing lightning protection, Roth suggests you contact a reputable installer or check with your insurance company for the name of one who's reliable. Professional salesmen frequently travel the country selling farmers inadequate and sub-standard lightning protection systems at very low cost, he says. These provide almost no protection.

Also, Roth says, you should insist on having an Underwriters' Laboratories Master Label after your system has been installed. This requires filling out a report form after the job is done. The owner must witness that ground rods have been correctly installed and must sign the paper.

This report is then mailed to the manufacturer of the equipment, who in turn signs the report and applies to the Underwriters for a Master Label. After it's issued, the Master Label is mailed to the manufacturer who in turn mails it directly to the property owner.

Peaches And Ice Cream Head Ample Foods List

Fresh peaches and ice cream are the headliners on the United States Department of Agriculture's ample foods list, according to Elsie Mae Van Wert, Hancock county extension home economist.

The early-peach states in the south are having the largest peach crop since 1947, estimated at 15 million bushels. The fruit promises to be of good size and quality. California peaches will arrive in Iowa fruit markets in July — with the heaviest supplies coming in after the middle of the month.

Ice cream supplies will be large, too. July traditionally is the month for ice cream festivals and frozen desserts.

Watermelons and lemons — fresh and processed — will be plentiful for the Fourth of July and picnics all month long. Watermelons will come from the southern growing belt East and West of the Mississippi.

Look for a variety and a quantity in vegetables. There will be a lot of potatoes, as well as such summer vegetables as sweetcorn, cabbage, snap beans, lettuce, cucumbers, peppers and onions.

If you will notice in your casual visits to other towns, the size of ours and larger, the condition of city parks and the way they are kept, you will find that our park compares favorably with the best. Recently, our park has been made even better by the addition of a new, modern shelter house. If you will inspect this building you will likely agree that it is built to last a good many years.

To build a shelter house of this size and solid construction takes money. For a small town, it takes what we consider "important money".

Possibly there were some mistakes made in planning the finances for a project of this size. It is only natural that this would happen, because it is not usual for a group of people to undertake such a venture. That may explain, in part, why, when the final accounting was made, the Shelter House Fund was found to be $806.85 short of covering the bill.

The Commercial Club could pay this bill out of their general fund, but it would leave them "flat", and we who have been in that condition at one time or another, know what inconvenience that condition can cause. It would mean that a lot of other necessary things could not be done in the future. For instance; our Christmas Santa Claus and such little celebrations are largely paid for by Commercial Club funds.

So far, there have been only 80 individuals and business places in this community who have contributed in cash and time to this project. Some of these contributions have been quite large. In looking over the list, a person could get the impression that the largest contributions have come from those who would be the least benefited.

This article is published as an explanation to tell what the situation is at present and as an appeal to you, if you have not already done so, to dig into the old sock, near the bottom of it, and come up with a little folding money.

Eighty contributions can not carry the load that two hundred can walk off with.

Henry Wessels, "Pete" Larsen and Edmund Josten are members of the Shelter House Committee, but any business place in town will take your contribution and give you a receipt for it.

Ed's note. The foregoing was written in the hope that many who were not fully acquainted with this situation would see the light and help boost the candlepower. The article is the handiwork of a member of the Commercial Club.

And which of you by being anxious can add one cubit unto the measure of his life?—(St. Matthew 6, 24.)

Long before psychiatrists linked physical ills to mental anxiety and tension, St. Matthew knew the futility of worry. His remedy—perfect trust in God's loving mercy and providence—is still the best prescription for adding to the fullness of human life.

Among the leading speakers were Dr John W Johannaber, professor of Bible at the National College for Christian Workers in Kansas City; Miss Lillian Johnson, Secretary of the Wesleyan Service Guild from New York; Miss Alice Cheney, retired missionary from Japan; Miss Mary Eide, retired missionary from China and India and Mrs Kathryn Beiri Sears, a former missionary to India.

Following the School of Missions, about 150 Wesleyan Service Guild members met on the Simpson College campus for their annual Guild weekend. As Wesleyan Service Guild chairman of Christian Social Relations for the South Iowa Conference, Miss Bredbenner assisted with the weekend program.

POT LUCK SUPPER HONORS REV. AND MRS. MILLER

Rev and Mrs Melvin Miller and family were entertained to a pot luck supper. The supper was in honor of the sixth wedding anniversary of Rev and Mrs Miller and was also a "welcome" for Rev Miller who has been reappointed minister for the Klemme and Liberty Methodist Churches. A large number of parishioners and their families were present.

Mr Asa Arnold gave the Welcome and was master of ceremonies for the evening. After a response by Rev Miller, there were two readings, one by Joan Jacobs and one by Mrs Robert Schulz. Arthur Carlson sang a solo, "Eyes of God" and Mrs Marvin Lemke "Always" to Rev and Mrs Miller in honor of their anniversary. The congregation sang a few songs and the evening's entertainment ended with a prayer by Mr John Schwichtenberg.

Two more of this year's many changes and improvements in our town. The upper picture shows the new educational wing at the Evangelical and Reformed Church and a good portion of the church building.

The lower picture shows the new parsonage erected on the southwest corner of the church lot — just about where the old school building stood.

Both the educational wing and the parsonage are fine additions to our town and are achievements of which the congregation can be justly proud.

TB Case Finding Program To Begin In County Soon

A search for possible — but as yet unknown—cases of tuberculosis begins soon in Hancock County according to Mr Herman Bode, president of the County Tuberculosis and Health Association.

The program will be directed by Miss Marcia Mitchell, R N, public health nurse.

Supported by Christmas Seal Funds, the nurse will work with the family physician in an effort to locate those who have been in contact with persons known to have active tuberculosis.

The nurse visits the physicians in the community, who advise her of any persons they know who have been in contact with an active case of tuberculosis. These individuals, plus any other the family physician recommends, are visited by the public health nurse.

Information gathered by the nurse in the interviews in the homes is strictly confidential. Each contact is urged to have a tuberculin skin test made by the physician. Those who react to the test are then urged to have a chest x-ray.

The "Contact Program," which has the approval of the Hancock County Medical Society, has been credited by public health officials as finding the greatest number of unknown cases of tuberculosis of any case-finding plan in the state.

"Help Save 100 Lives" Is Plea of Safety Officials

Acting State Safety Commissioner Russell Brown today issued a direct appeal to every Iowa driver to "Help save 100 lives" in Iowa traffic this year.

"The important thing," Brown said, "is that every man or woman who drives a car in Iowa realize that they must make an individual effort to reach this goal."

Brown said 100 lives can be saved in Iowa this year because of the sharp reduction in traffic since April 1, the date the point system and radar speed enforcement went into effect.

"But these controls can achieve only so much," Brown said. "Beyond them we must have the active support of drivers who will actually make a contribution to saving 100 lives."

The safety department has asked all Iowa mayors to head up local save 100 lives campaigns. The drive got underway this month with a state-wide license and safety inspection in which the highway patrol checked 59,000 cars and trucks in one weekend.

"I can't emphasize enough this need for an individual response from each driver," Brown said. "That response should be in the form of reduced speeds, obedience of all traffic laws, courtesy and attention on the streets and highways."

Park is Popular Place For Family Gatherings

(by Arthur Wellemeyer)

The new shelter house and the Klemme park were taxed to capacity Sunday as four different family groups arrived for reunions.

The largest group was the Meinders family, who numbered over a hundred people. They hold a family reunion every year, alternating between Buffalo Center and Klemme.

The families of Chris Hansen made up another group. They arranged tables around the fire place. This gathering of some thirty people, was in honor of Marlyn Carlson of Clear Lake, who is home on furlough from his armed services duty station in Texas.

Some forty or more members of the Bredlow family had a picnic dinner on the lawn at the Roger Johnson residence near the park. This gathering was in honor of several birthdays.

The Clarence Kluckhohns entertained the Martin Jensen family of Mitchell, Iowa in our shady park. This was a small but lively group of some 15 or 20 people.

Martin Jensen is well known to our older citizens. He came from Denmark in about 1902 at the age of 19, and lived in Klemme for about 25 years. During those years he was our local "drainage boss", and with his gang of men, dug tile ditches through many of the farms of this area. Ditches were dug with tiling spades in that day. Machine digging came later.

Another thing we remember about Martin Jensen—he was our champion wrestler. Many a time the young men of Klemme would put up a well padded, canvas covered platform on Main Street. Gasoline torches were used for light, and the Saturday night crowd enjoyed seeing a free open-air wrestling match. Martin would take on all comers, and would usually win. One notable match was Martin Jensen vs. Hans Willard.

In 1936, the Jensen family moved to Mitchell, Iowa, northwest of Osage, where Martin now holds title to 600 acres of good farm land. His two sons, Elmer and Melvin do the farming, but even at age 73, the shadow of the "Great Martin" is a valuable part of the operation.

The fifth family gathering in Klemme was at the Marie Blank residence. This home was built by her father, Taalkeus Blank, 63 years ago. Of the 10 children born and welcomed into this home, five survive. These, with their children and grandchildren, are a large group.

Dinner was served on small tables arranged under the tall ash trees to 75 or more relatives. It was a sort of farewell dinner for Mr and Mrs Conrad Quandt who are leaving for Two Harbors, Minn., where they have a home and live during the hay fever season. This home in west Klemme, with its trees and spacious lawn, has sheltered five generations of the Blank family.

Sunday was an ideal picnic day in the Klemme park, even though there were more gatherings than there were accomodations. It was cool, no wind, bright sunshine, and comfort. Combined with the shade of the giant elm trees, the convenience of the shelter house, the smell of wood smoke, the smoothly clipped grass, and the happy chatter of visiting friends, it makes a day to remember.

Yes, the Klemme park with its shelter house is a grand place for summer gatherings, and all are welcome to use it.

CAPITOL LETTER

(Weekly news release of the Iowa Press Association. The material contained herein does not necessarily conform to the editorial policy of this newspaper.)

Budget Time

This is busting out all over with budgets, at this time of the year.

Under Iowa's famous "budget law" it's the time when all governing bodies notify the taxpayers of their intentions with respect to expenditures for the next fiscal or calendar year.

Public hearings all over the state during the next few weeks a few taxpayers will appear to voice their objections. Residents of Iowa's capital city were served notice recently that it will cost more than a million dollars to run the state government during the next year From the present 108 mills, a hike to 113 mills is anticipated as the result of increases in the cost of school district government.

School Committee

The Iowa school committee held its first meeting in Des Moines recently.

The group represents both professional and non-professional educational interests. Its mission will be to recommend standards of education to the state board of public instruction.

Earlier this year, a plan to upgrade the requirement in state approved schools was announced by J C Wright, state superintendent of public instruction.

Membership on the committee is made up of persons recommended by the Iowa Association of School Boards, the Iowa Congress of Parents and Teachers, and the Iowa State Education Association. Members of the state department of public instruction also serve on the committee.

Safety Drive

Flushed with the success of the point system, the state department of public safety appears to be striking while the iron is hot in its quest to save another 100 lives.

In a single week-end, more than 50,000 Iowa automobiles were stopped by the highway patrol, to check drivers licenses and auto equipment.

Drivers who pass the checkpoints were issued slips to get them through other checkpoints that might be encountered. The slips bore the printed plea.

"Help save 100 lives. The Iowa traffic death record has improved so rapidly that there is a possibility 100 lives could be saved in the state this year. But we need your help.

"Make your contribution by obeying all traffic laws, by holding your speed to a sensible rate, by courteous, attentive driving. Let's work together to save 100 lives. Thank you for your patience and cooperation at this safety inspection."

Sputnik

A number of Iowans report sighting Sputnik III during the week-end of July 12, when it was visible in the pre-dawn hours.

At 130 miles above the earth, the one-ton satellite can be seen with the naked eye if it catches the sun's rays just right.

Bi-Partisan

Democrat and Republican parties came up with an excellent solution to the question of establishing a "bi-partisan" judical slate in Polk County.

Each party recommended a 5-2 split as being an equitable distribution.

The Republicans wanted 5 Republican judges and 2 Democratic judges on the slate.

The Democrats offered a slate of 5 Democrats and 2 Republicans.

The idea of a bi-partisan slate has been abandoned.

Tax Cut

Iowa railroads, most of them, will pay about 2 percent less in property taxes during the next year.

Decision of the Iowa tax commission to grant the decrease was based on a "general decline in railroad income," according to commission chairman Leon Miller.

Other states have reduced taxes from 2 to 5 percent, in line with recent concessions to railroads granted by the federal government.

The tax value of all railroads in Iowa totals about 123 million dollars and the property taxes paid by them is around 6½ million dollars.

Building

Contracts in Iowa for commercial and public building in June reached $25 million, a 51 percent increase over the year before.

To Russia

Iowa and Russia are once more swapping notes at first hand.

The largest-yet group of Iowans, 28 in all, are now deep in the heart of Soviet Russia, after a plane trip from New York. Heading the delegation is R C "Cap" Bentley, of Iowa State College.

Mostly farmers, plus co-op leaders and managers, are included in the delegation. The men are taking with them a movie depicting scenes on typical Iowa farms.

Appraisers

There will be some changes, hereafter, in the manner of choosing appraisers for property which the Iowa highway commission is securing by condemnation.

Iowa law requires that the chief justice of the supreme court choose a commission of 6 disinterested appraisers whenever the commission wants to condemn privately-owned land.

In the past, appraisers nominated by the highway commission have largely been named by the justices.

Chief Justice Theodore Garfield announced recently that the court has now acquired a list of over 1300 appraisers and will hereafter depend on this list, rather than on the list submitted by the commission.

The change in procedure has been recommended by many property owners, the chief justice says.

Entries Arriving Daily For County Junior Fair

Entries for the Hancock County Junior Fair scheduled for August 12, 13, 14 and 15 are arriving in the county extension office daily. The numbers point to a record in Livestock and Home Economics projects from 4-H and FFA members.

Three new livestock barns on the fair grounds will provide cooler surroundings for the cattle and allow the commercial exhibits to be in a building instead of a tent. The girls demonstrations will be held in the building originally occupied by the girls.

An added drive or entrance will help solve one of the big problems of getting people into the grounds more rapidly and should eliminate most of the waiting in line on the highway.

The same 25c parking charge will be in effect this year, according to the Junior Fair Board.

Farm Machinery exhibitors will be back on the grounds again this year, with their new machinery exhibits.

An attempt is being made to increase the number of rides, etc., for people attending.

The County 4-H officers are purchasing a building from the Farmer's Co-op. Co. at Britt, Ia., for a permanent food stand according to Nancy Sheets and Allan Formanek, County 4-H presidents.

keep that [illegible] look longer

By Paul Henderson
County Extension Director

Soybean meal is still the cheapest source of protein for livestock feeding, reports Tom Rackham, Iowa State College farm economist. Soybean meal at Ames is currently 11 dollars cheaper per 1000 pounds of useable protein than its nearest competitor, tankage. Protein prices at Ames are up over a year ago by margins ranging from 8 percent for soybean meal to 27 percent for meat scraps.

Animal protein stays high-priced because livestock slaughter has dropped since last year, thus cutting the supply of such protein, Rackham says. Little change in price can be expected unless hog or cattle prices drop sharply, he says.

The record use of protein concentrates has resulted from high livestock product prices, Rackham notes. Since cottonseed and linseed meal production has been lower than last year, increased meal demand has had to be filled from soybean crushings. Consequently, soybean meal prices have climbed.

Heavy livestock feeding has been responsible for maintaining the record level of soybean crushings, since exports of oil and meal have been less than last year, Rackham points out. Soybean prices have maintained stable levels in contrast with meal prices.

Savings Bonds Selling Well In This County

Sales of United States savings bonds in Hancock County during June amounted to $11,884.00, boosting the January-June total to $584,023.00 for 61 percent of the 1958 quota.

The county's record leads the Iowa average of 60 percent and the national average of 53 percent.

Herbert L. Ollenburg, Garner, Iowa, volunteer chairman of savings bonds activities in the county, made the report and said that sales throughout Iowa during June reached $11,403.00, pushing the six-month total to $84,133,458.00, a 13 percent increase over the like period of 1957.

Old-time Farm Machines To Be Featured At Fair

Des Moines, Iowa — An old-time farm machinery show, including threshing machines, steam engines and other items used on Iowa farms at the turn of the century, will be a special feature of the Iowa State Fair's 100th anniversary celebration August 22-31, officials announced today.

Some of the equipment will be in actual operation, fair secretary L B Cunningham said, and attendants will be on duty to explain its use.

Included in the exhibit will be a 1900 Reeves threshing machine, a 1926 Case thresher, an old-time shingle mill, an Avery tractor, a 1914 Frick steam engine, an old style steam engine, a 1917 Case separator, 1926 Baker fan, an antique corn shredder, and a model steam engine, thresher, water tank combination.

One hundredth anniversary features from early-day Iowa will also highlight many other departments of the fair, including an antique show, a series of model rooms from pioneer days, old-time table settings, centennial horse show events and other special features.

The old-fashioned machinery will be exhibited as part of the 50-acre exposition of present-day machinery.

NEW YORK — A program that will permit a scientific assault on major health problems of the nation, with arthritis and birth defects as initial new targets, was announced this week by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

While carrying on the winning fight against polio, the National Foundation, as it now will be known, will continue its history-making virus research program and investigation of disorders of the central nervous system, and will add research and patient aid in arthritis and birth defects (congenital malformations), Mr O'Connor said.

The expanded program will be financed through the traditional March of Dimes conducted each January by volunteers in 3,100 county chapters across the country.

HOW MANY SPEAKERS?

We service all kinds of electronics at GARNER T V & APPLIANCE besides television. In the past two years or so, Hi-fi has been very noticeably on the increase in sales, and naturally, this would increase hi-fi servicing.

Many questions about hi-fi come to us and one of the most numerous is that old one about 'how many loud-speakers do I need'.

Actually, one good one is better than six or eight poor speakers. Multiple speakers are desirable mainly where they perform definite functions . . . one for bass, one for middle range and one for high frequencies.

Phone 371 at Garner for hi-fi or any other sound equipment services. We have the electronic tools to do the most satisfactory job.

Help "Save 100 Lives"; Cut Corn at Intersections

The state safety department's drive to "Save 100 Lives" in Iowa traffic this year may depend on the cooperation of farmers in cutting back corn at rural intersections.

Safety Education Director Frank Ulish warned today that corn throughout Iowa is reaching a height where it obscures vision of drivers entering cross roads.

"The point system and radar speed enforcement have cut deaths on the open highways," Ulish said, "but these controls can't be expected to protect a driver in a blind intersection."

"What drivers need in this situation is visibility and only the farmer can provide that by topping his crop in the corners of the fields where roads intersect," Ulish said.

He said traffic deaths caused by tall corn at road crossings may make the difference between success or failure of the "Save 100 Lives" campaign this year.

"We've never been as close to an outstanding safety record in this state before," Ulish said, "and just a little extra effort by individuals can get the job done."

He urged farmers and groups to take immediate action to cut corn at blind intersections "before a friend and neighbor gets killed."

He said the typical death caused by tall corn at intersections is that of a person who lives near the scene of the accident.

CAPITOL LETTER

(Weekly news release of the Iowa Press Association. The material contained herein does not necessarily conform to the editorial policy of this newspaper.)

INTERSTATE WORK

Chris Larsen, retiring chairman of the highway commis sion, reporting on construction progress on the Interstate network in Iowa, said that the first section of Interstate road has been completed and is in use.

"This," he said, "is a very short stretch of the Iowa approach to the Combination Bridge interchange over the Missouri River at Sioux City.

"It is expected," Larsen added, "that present contracts for completion this year for pavement on the Interstate system will increase this mileage some 60 miles."

Out of the 198 miles of concrete pavement under contract, 19 miles are finished; 55 miles are mostly finished, and slightly over 123 miles are in lesser stages of construction. The wet summer has slowed construction the commission reported.

The Interstate system is a four-lane divided highway project in which 90 per cent of construction costs will be paid by the federal government and 10 per cent by the state. All maintenance costs are to be paid by the state.

SAVING 100

Iowa highway safety officials have set a life saving goal for the year. Save 100 lives--is the new campaign of highway enforcement officers.

The goal might well be attained too, with the help of all motorists.

The first six months of this year the state's traffic death toll was down by 63 lives saved. In the first half-year of 1957 the death toll was 319, by the end of June this year the toll was 256.

State safety records for the half-year period show that the death rate on the highways has been under the 1957 record in five of the six months. Only January showed an increase -- up by 19 deaths over January of 1957. In May and June of this year there were 29 less persons killed in each of those 2 months.

The point system with increased attention given to improved driving habits, officials believe, has brought about the better Iowa highway record.

UPKEEP COSTS SOAR

The Iowa Taxpayers Association has figured out that the county care costs of Iowa people in state institutions has increased 238.3 per cent in 12 years.

The ITA reports that the 99 counties have provided in their budgets for the year 1958 the sum of $12,584,136 to be paid the state for the care of county people in state institutions.

This total exceeds by $8,864,486 the amount of $3,719,650 actually paid by the counties in 1946.

Each county is required to pay to the state an amount that will cover the cost of care and admitted to the institutions from that county. Funds to meet these costs are obtained from a county-wide local property tax levy and collections from patients or parties responsible for their care.

A BONUS IF ——

A Korean bonus will be paid by the state of Iowa, officials report, to those who . . .

Are eligible and have not received a Korean bonus from any other state.

If they served in the military or naval forces between June 27, 1950 and July 27, 1953, for 120 days or more; but you must have entered service on or before July 12, 1953.

An application for such a bonus must be made under oath before a court officer, justice of the peace, or a notary public.

Swear in the application that they were a legel resident of Iowa for at least 6 months before entering service.

Iowa bonus payments are $10 a month for in the U. S. and $12.50 a month for overseas duty to a maximum of $500.

Applications became available this week for the first time.

CHAIRMAN AGAIN

Russell F. Lundy, Des Moines, has been named chairman of the Iowa highway commision. This is Lundy's second tour of duty as head of the five-man appointive commission.

Lundy succeeded Chris Larsen of Sioux City. New vice-chairman is Robert Brice, Waterloo, who suceeded Cecil Malone, Atlantic.

Lundy and Larsen are Republicans, Brice and Malone, Democrats.

FIRST TO GRADUATE

The first class has been graduated from the Iowa Military Academy of the Iowa National Guard at Camp Dodge.

A total of 44 guardsmen received diplomas after 272 hours of basic infantry training, including two encampments and eight weekends of accelerated training during the year.

Some of the graduates will be commissioned second lieutenants in the Guard, others must await for vacancies to get their commissions.

Donald W. Mueller, Boone, was cadet of the year. Leslie L. Ohl, Oelwein, was named tops in leadership, and Richard Adams, Waterloo, led the class in academic work.

ASK $68,000,000

In an unusuel report, Iowa's three college presidents, participating in a Des Moines TV program, appealed for $68,000,000 for capital improvement funds in the next 12 years.

Participants in the program were Presidents Virgil Hancher, University of Iowa; James Hilton, Iowa State College, and James Maucker, Iowa State Teachers College.

The educators said appropriations have not been adequate, more space is needed for research, and the cost of building is increasing.

Highway Story

By Bob Hullihan

Probably you've heard several appeals lately to "Help Save 100 Lives" in Iowa traffic this year. Fine, you say, but just exactly how do I help? Fair question. We'll try to answer it.

Let's take the case of Joe Brown. He looks and acts enough like you to be your brother. He lives in a town about like the one you live in, and he drives a car about like yours.

We see Joe driving along an Iowa highway. He comes up behind a slower moving car. Joe tags along for a minute or two then gets itchy. He edges out a little to look ahead. No traffic coming but he does glimpse a yellow line on a curve ahead.

Joe thinks he could probably make it around. He starts to put the gas to it then changes his mind. He doesn't pass. He follows the car a little further then passes on a safe stretch of highway.

Pretty dull scene, eh? But wait a minute. Joe has just helped save 100 lives. A simple little decision on the side of safety did it. How? Let's re-run that scene.

There's Joe again, tagging that slower car. He comes to the same spot in the road but, this time, he pulls out and starts to pass.

He's hanging out there on the left side of the road, approaching the curve and the yellow line, when another car comes straight down that higway.

There isn't room to do much but hit head-on. That's what happens. Joe is dead and so is the other driver. Iowa is two more lives short of saving 100 people this year.

How can you help save 100 lives? Make those little driving decisions on the side of safety. It's dull, but it's better than death.

Obituary of Jay T. Griggs

(by Arthur Wellemeyer)

Jay Thomas Griggs was born Sept. 6, 1876, on a farm near Ackley, Iowa, the second of five children born to John and Emily (Sharp) Griggs, both American born.

When Jay was seven years old the family purchased and moved onto a section of land in Avery Township, Hancock County, Iowa. Here he attended Avery Center School, which was located on their land; became a member of the E.U.B. Church at Goodell, and as a youth, sang in the choir.

On October 3, 1900, Jay T. Griggs and Margaret Grosz were married by the Rev. Albertson at Garner, Iowa. They took over a quarter section of virgin prairie land from his father's holdings, and little by little built it into a neat and comfortable homestead.

It was a family farm where the children helped with the work. While nothing was neglected on the farm, still these folks found time to do considerable hunting and fishing— a sort of family hobby.

In 1942, after the family of five children were grown and in homes of their own, and after having spent 41 happy years on this farm, Jay and Margaret Griggs retired and moved to Ventura, Iowa, where they have lived next to the lake for 16 years.

Mr. Griggs enjoyed these leisure years very much until a few months ago his health began to fail. The end came Monday afternoon, July 28, 1958, at the age of 81 years, 10 months and 22 days.

He leaves besides his wife, Margaret, four children, Fernon F. Griigs, Miller, Iowa; May (Mrs. Rapheal Kernon), Great Falls, Montana; Nellie (Mrs. Gerald Burk), Goodell, Iowa; and Kenneth Grosz Griggs, Des Moines, Iowa; one brother, George Griggs of Klemme, Iowa; and three sisters, Margaret (Mrs. W. L. Sherwood), Maude (Mrs. A. C. Carpenter), and Nellie (Mrs. J. J. Cook), all of Goodell, Iowa. Also 11 grandchildren.

One Daughter, Lela (Mrs Daniel Boon) of Belmond, Iowa, preceded him in death.

Nurse and Physician Team In Locating TB

"Tuberculosis is a 'catching' disease—no matter what kind of drugs they may find to cure it, or no matter how old or how young you are: TB is 'caught' just like a head cold or chicken pox."

And to discover who may have 'caught' tuberculosis in this community, the Hancock County Tuberculosis and Health Association is supporting a case-finding program now in progress, according to Mrs Herman Bode, association president, who made the above statement about TB.

"The case-finding program now in progress is called a 'Contact program'," Mrs Bode said, "be cause Miss Marcia Mitchell R N, public health nurse in Hancock County is making an effort to find those who have 'caught' TB from a patient who has active tuberculosis."

Recent statistics show that in Iowa—and in much of the rest of the nation—the greatest number of new cases of tuberculosis are found among men between the ages of 55 and 59, and among women about 10 years younger. And each new case of tuberculosis originated from someone who had the disease in active forn..

Unlike pneumonia or heart disease, tuberculosis does not suddenly make a person ill. The germs have been breathed in and lodge in the lungs. A person may never know the time he first had the illness in is body, for TB is a silent disease.

A special skin test, called the tuberculin test, will show the TB germs, tubercle bacilli, are in the body. The family physician and the public health nurse make a team in working the 'Contact' Program and the tuberculin testing phase of it. The doctor advises the nurse of persons he knows who may have been in contact with an active case of tuberculosis. The nurse interviews these persons and members of the family, urging them to have the tuberculin skin test done at the doctor's office.

If there is a positive reaction to the skin test, the family physician recommends the individual to have a chest X-ray at the time the mobile X-ray unit comes to the community.

Farm Bureau Resolutions Committee Attends District Meeting

The Hancock County Farm Bureau Resolutions Committee attended a district meeting at the Mason City airport on Wednesday evening, July 23. At this meeting suggested procedures for getting county opinionaires filled out and returned were discussed and it was pointed out that Farm Bureau probably has a greater percent of its members participating in formulation of group policy than does any other organization, but that the goal is to have every member voicing his opinion in regard to Farm Bureau policy.

Also, at this meeting issues were discussed which should be taken before the membership this year. Most important of these issues seemed to be state taxes and means of relief for farmers and small businessmen from the burden of high property tax.

This committee will meet on Friday evening, August 1, at which time they will draw up the questions to be asked in Hancock County this year. If you have any suggestions to make to this committee, or any questions you would like to put to the membership this year, you are invited to contact any of the members of this committee.

They are: Norman Madson, Britt, chairman; Aaron Wille, Garfield; Mrs Harlan Nuehring, Twin Lake; James Gatchel, Concord; Mrs Ralph Johnson, Madison; Mrs Orris Lundy, Ell; Herbert Missal, Orthel; Herman Bode, Boone; and Laurence Radloff, Ell.

THE FARM OUTLOOK

By Paul Henderson
County Extension Director

Cattle feeders with pasture to spare would do well to buy replacements now, since feeder cattle prices probably won't drop much in the next year, says Tom Rackham, Iowa State College farm economist.

Rackham believes it's a good idea to take advantage of the current lull in the stocker and feeder market. He says waiting for feeder prices to be forced down by further drops in slaughter cattle prices may be risky. The reason is that a nation-wide feeder cattle shortage is in the offing for the next twelve months, Rackham says. A panic in the fed cattle market would be about the only thing that could push down feeder cattle prices, he says.

He believes heavier feeder cattle may be a pretty good buy in the long run, even though they may seem hihg-priced now. He points out that high feeder cattle prices cause increased buying of light feeder animals. This could mean fewer short-fed and intermediate-fed cattle reaching the market in the period before the light feeder cattle are ready for sale. Thus, the feeder might be smart to buy heavier animals that would be ready for market earlier.

Several factors combine to make it likely that feeder cattle prices will stay high in the coming months. In the first place, Rackham points out that a large feed carry-over from last year, plus this year's probable good feed crop will cause lots of feeding. Relatively high slaughter cattle prices and low feeder supplies point toward strong bidding for feeder cattle this fall, Rackham says. Widespread early contracting for fall delivery of range cattle has built a price floor below which feeder cattle aren't likely to drop unless a drought or other distress situation forces feeders to sell, Rackham notes. Parts of Montana and North Dakota are the only areas in any danger of distress, he says.

Imported Canadian cattle hold feeder cattle prices down some, Rackham believes. But he expects fewer Canadian animals to enter the states this year than last.

The July 1 USDA cattle report showed about 16 percent more cattle on feed July 1 than 12 months earlier. This means almost a half million more cattle going to market during the coming months than a year ago. But Rackham expects fewer grass-fed and short-fed cattle to be competing.

LIGHTNING

We would know at GARNER TV & APPLIANCE if a lightning storm was going on even if we didn't hear it. There are always several phone calls asking about what will happen if lightning strikes the television antenna.

Even if the set is turned off, a lightning strike will do a lot of damage to the television unless the antenna is disconnected and the plug pulled out. Having lightning arrestors of some kind could reduce the shock and damage under some conditions. And if you're watching TV during a storm, sit several feet away, just in case.

And if lightning does strike, you should have two phone numbers handy. First, the fire departments. And if the trouble isn't too bad, probably our phone number (371 at Garner) for replacement of the various burned out elements in the set.

County Budget Estimate Calls for Slight Decrease In Tax Levy for 1959

Hancock County Supervisors will hold a hearing on the county budget at the courthouse in Garner at 10:00 a.m. on Monday, August 18th. The proposed budget for 1959 lists total proposed expenditures in the sum of $1,164,158.00 and calls for a tax levy in the sum of $642,550.00, which is $3,455 less than was levied last year.

Of the total to be levied $309,000 is to be levied in the road funds as compared with $310,000 levied last year. Proposed expenditures in all road funds in 1959 are listed at $729,000 and of this total $81,000 is listed as estimated unencumbered balance.

While levies in some administrative funds are slightly higher, the largest increase is noted in the Poor and State Institution accounts and the increases in these and administrative funds are more than offset by a substantial decrease in the T B and Bang's Eradication funds.

Cool Weather Makes July Unusual Month

July, 1958, was a continuation of the weather pattern set in June and the month was the coolest July since 1950 with an average temperature of 69.70 as compared with 77.53 for the same month a year earlier. The maximum average for the month was 80.23 and the minimum average was a cool 59.16. Only once during the month did the mercury reach the 90 degree mark and that was July 1st, the warmest day of the month when the mercury hit 92 degrees. In 1957 the high mark was 98 degrees and the mercury climbed above 90 degrees on thirteen days of the month. The low temperature recorded during the month was 49 degrees on the morning of July 16th. In 1950, the average July temperature was 68.48 degrees.

Precipitation also was below normal for the month with a total of 2.92 inches reported. July of 1957, however, was drier than the month just ended with only 2.36 inches reported. The heaviest amount of precipitation in a twenty-four hour period fell in the twenty-four hour period ending at 7:00 a.m. on July 15 when .76 of an inch was reported. While total rainfall was comparatively light, precipitation in measureable amounts was recorded on fourteen of the 31 days with a trace recorded on four additional days.

There was considerable cloudiness during the month with 19 days listed as cloudy or partly cloudy and 12days listed as fair. The prevailing winds were westerly and northerly.

The comparatively cool weather slowed the development of corn and soybeans and only about 40 percent of the corn was tasseling at the end of the month, about ten days late for the crop. Beans also were somewhat behind the seasonal normal at the end of the month.

The mess shown in these three pictures is the result of an accident which occured at the first bridge south of town on Highway 69 last Friday morning.

The truck, belonging to Gene Holter's Animal Show, was on the way to a fair in Wisconsin and was driven by Lawrence Rucker of Annaheim, California.

When the truck was coming down the Priebe Hill, the trailer being pulled behind it began to sway and it collided with the southbound car driven by Darwin Austin of Forest City, relief station agent at Goodell.

As the pictures show, all the vehicles involved were pretty well smashed, and although neither driver was seriously hurt, there were two fatalities, a kangaroo and a pony in the truck. Other animals, including some bear cubs riding in the truck, were not hurt.

Directing traffic in the picture of the car is Marshal Richard Ulrich. The happy bystander is Craig Larson.

Anyone who watched the 10:00 p.m. newscast on WHO-TV Friday evening probably saw these same three pictures on the screen. They were taken by C C Kilgore and printed and rushed to Des Moines at the request of the WHO news department.

CAPITOL LETTER

(Weekly news release of the Iowa Press Association. The material contained herein does not necessarily conform to the editorial policy of this newspaper.)

On The Job

Donald (Duke) Norberg has just completed his first week at the helm of the state Democratic organization. He is Iowa's first new Democratic chairman since 1941. It was that year that Jake More, a Harlan attorney, took over the chairmanship of the party. He was unseated the other day after 17 years as head of the party in Iowa.

Norberg, an outspoken Albia editor, is also a talented speaker of some reknown not only in Iowa but in neighboring states. He is expected to bring new life and new ideas into the party organization and it is most certain that his presence on the campaign scene will add considerable ginger to the fall general election campaign.

Norberg is 47 years old, More was 10 years older. Salary of the new state chairman will be $10,000 a year.

Wants More Patrolmen

Russell Brown, Iowa safety commissioner, wants 150 more patrolmen added to the 275-member state highway patrol. The 1957 state legislature authorized an increase of 50-men to bring the patrol to its present strength.

Brown said he will ask the 1959 legislature for an additional increase. He also said he will seek a 50-mile an hour speed limit on country secondary roads throughout the state.

Vehicle Sales Down

Auto, truck and trailer sales in Iowa were 7½ per cent below sales of a year ago.

The period under comparison was the first six months of the year when sales this year totaled slightly more than $145-million. Nearly 57,000 units were sold by Iowa dealers, about 90 per cent of these are cars.

While the first six months sales are under 1957 totals, they are about even with 1956 vehicle sales in the same period.

GOP Reelects

The same day Iowa Democrats were ousting their veteran state party chairman, Iowa Republicans, meeting just a few blocks away on Walnut Street in Des Moines, reelected theirs.

The GOP state central committee reeleected L. L. Jurgemeyer, Clinton attorney, as state chairman for another year.

Also reelected by the Republican group was the party's state vice-chairman, Bess Cowden of Sidney.

6,800 In Camp

Some 6,800 members of the Iowa-Nebraska national guard are now at the guard's annual summer field training encampment at Camp Ripley,Minn.

The Iowa guardsmen, from 53 cities and towns, will be in training through August 10.

The Iowa-Nebraska national guard is the 34th Infantry Division. In addition to the Iowans, there are about 2,500 men from units in Nebraska.

Auto Rates

The state commissioner says the outlook is good for a cut in Iowa car insurance rates next year.

O. P. Bennett, commissioner, says such a cut would be the result of a substantial reduction in Iowa traffic accidents. He said many insurance companies have reported fewer claims paid on car accidents since Iowa's "point system" went into effect last April 1.

The point system is being credited with a current reduction of 93 auto deaths below the total for this same period of time a year ago.

GOP Judges Named

Republicans, at their judicial convention, nominated District Judge J. E. Heiserman of Anamosa to succeed the late Justice William A. Smith of Dubuque who died in June.

In addition to Heiserman, a newcomer to the state supreme court campaign scene, the GOP also renominated Justices Theodore G. Garfield of Ames, Ralph A. Oliver of Sioux City, and Charles F. Wennerstrum of Chariton for six year terms. All will be opposed by Democrat candidates in the November election.

Justice Smith's term, for which Heiserman was nominated, expires Dec. 31, 1960. The vacancy is being filled, until the Nov. 4 elections, by Justice Luke Linnan, Algona, who was named to the vacancy by Governor Loveless. Linnan is not a candidate for the Democratic nomination.

Wider Roads

Russell Lundy, new chairman of the state highway commission, said he will press for a program to eliminate all 18-foot pavement, curbing, narrow bridges and gravel primary roads in the Iowa highway system by the end of 1962.

Lundy said he also advocates the expansion of the urban division of the design department to improve liaison between the commission and cities and towns.

The Platforms

While both the Democrat and Republican state platforms for the fall election recommend immediate legislative action for reaportionment of the state legislature, there are wide differences in at least two other planks of the two parties.

On taxes, the GOP says that if more money is needed for state government, it should be gained from increased sales tax, not increased state income tax. The Democrats, on the other hand, came out definitely against a hike in the sales tax and suggest that if increased funds are needed a tax be based on "ability to pay" methods, usually meaning income tax.

The Republicans promise to retain the state's present right-to-work law, while the Democrats are pledged to modify the so-called state law. They call it the "anti-union law." The Democrats also call for increased unemployment compensation benefits.

Named By Legion

Mrs Edwin H. Curtis, Chariton, is the new president of the Iowa department of the American Legion. She was named at the recent state convention in Des Moines. Mrs Jack Bouma, Pocahontas, is vice-chairman. Mrs Curtis had been vice - president the last year.

Interstate Letting

Added interstate highway work is planned in the letting scheduled by the highway commission for August 19 in Ames.

Included in the project is grading and bridging work on interstate 80 in Adair county, other similar work in the Des Moines and Davenport areas, including about 4.5 miles of portland cement paving in Polk county from Ride- to Merle Hay road.

Venita Rich Talent Contest to Highlight Fair Entertainment

Contestants who will appear on the Venita Rich Talent Contest Revue at the Hancock County Fair at Britt on Tuesday evening, August 12, are busy rehearsing for the Show.

These numbers were selected several weeks ago at the audition held in Britt. The talent represents some very outstanding talent from all sections of Hancock County and surrounding territory.

The winning number of the Contest will have transportation paid to and from New York to audition for the Ted Mack Original Amateur Hour TV Show and other shows.

Opportunities are unlimited for the winning number and it is hoped that this contest may be a stepping stone for all who take part.

Guest numbers will appear on the show but will not compete. Gayllen Hassman, a young boy with both quality and style who made a fine impression on New York critics this summer will be one of the guest entertainers.

Also the charming and lovely "Candy" western number who appeals to every audience with numbers that will be especially suitable for County Fair audiences.

Gary Kahler, tall, dark and handsome, will emcee the show into a finished production. This young man also entertains with vocal and trumpet numbers and is a fine entertainer in every sense of the word.

Guest numbers will appear throughout the contest to add spice and variety to the occasion.

Because of the variety and quality of the talent, this is predicted to be one of the best of the Venia Rich Contests for this season. It will be a colorful and fast moving show that the whole family will enjoy.

Come out and help select the number which you would like to see win, as twenty percent of the judging is audience appeal.

Chloris Anderson, a teacher in the Britt High School, is a former winner of this contest. She won the trip to New York as a part of the Country Cousins Quartet, at Webster City.

This show will be held rain or shine as it will be under cover.

INTERFERENCE

Many folks ask us at GARNER TV & APPLIANCE about the interferences on their TV screen.

There are numerous types possible; diathermy machines in nearby clinics or offices, radio transmitters (both amateur and commercial), airplanes, automobiles and atmospheric conditions. Even home appliances, particularly if they're sparking, in your own home or nearby neighbors.

Interference is a most frequent service problem. Phone 371 at Garner for this kind of problem; we can track it down in the greater number of cases and possibly correct it. You'll like our electronic services.

County Auditor Receives Notice on Ag Land Credit

Hancock County Auditor Arthur Ross was notified Saturday by the State Comptroller that Agricultural Land credit for the 1958 tax payable in 1959 would be prorated at 63.5610318% of the total claimed. The credit is paid from a fund appropriated by the Iowa Legislature to reimburse for the General school levy over and above 15 mills and the amount appropriated is insufficient to pay claims due to increased school costs reflected in higher General levies.

The amount paid on Agricultural land credit claims has steadily decreased since 1955 when the amount claimed was paid at 92.8524449%, in 1956 the payment was reduced to 82.7750563% and in 1957 the amount paid was reduced to 73.7089217%.

Indications Point to Extra Large State Fair

Des Moines Ia—With the 100th anniversary Iowa State Fair opening here in just two weeks, officials reported indications today that it would be one of the largest on record.

Preliminary entries in the national livestock show will total over 10,000 animals, it was stated. This includes over 3,000 cattle, more than 4,500 swine, 1,500 sheep and nearly 1,000 horses. Final number of animals actually shown will probably total over 8,000, officials said.

A record entry in the statewide corn and grain show was also forecast, with the probability of nearly 600 farmers taking part.

The over-all exposition will also be the largest in the fair's history, in celebration of the event's 100th anniversary, Secretary L B Cunningham said. Historic features will include an old-time farm machinery show, an antique show, and other exhibits of early Iowa. A spaceage exhibit, including latest rockets, satellites, cosmic ray research, atomic research and other science wonders will be another major highlight.

In addition, major exhibit events will include a fish and game show, farm machinery show, flower show, women's exposition, a omes show, culinary show, fancy work show, farm boys and girls' fair, farm gadget show, art and photo salons, and livestock carcass contests.

"This should be one of the finest celebrations the midwest has seen in many years," Cunningham said today.

OFFICIAL COUNTY PAPER | KLEMME, IOWA, AUGUST 13, 1958 | VOLUME 63 | NUMBER 39

ALBINO POSSUM—About a month ago, Quentin Stille was driving along the road west of Klemme near the Herman Meints farm, when he spotted a possum.

Knowing that possums are quite often docile and easily handled, he stopped to see if he would be able to take this particular specimen home to show to his wife since to his knowledge she had never seen one.

Much to his surprise, he found that the possum was a female carrying two young in her pouch (similar to that of a kangaroo), and one of the young ones was an albino.

In fact, as can be seen in the picture, it is all white but its ears. They are black. Its brother —or sister—as the case may be, shown perched on Quentin's hand, is the same color as the mother possum, dangling by her tail from Quentin's hand.

None of the three has offered to bite, and the youngsters will hang by their tails from Quentin's finger. They no longer seek the protection of their mother's pouch, and are even beyond the stage where they want to ride on her back. They now prefer to do their own traveling.

Quentin says that he has been hunting and trapping since he was 10 years old and never before has seen a white possum. In a talk with conservation officer "Bill" Ayres, he learned that in all probability the albino possum is quite a rarity. "Bill" says he has never seen one, and doesn't recall ever having heard of one before.

Quentin has permission to keep the animals for pets as long as he so desires, but since they were taken out of season, if he decides to get rid of them, they are the property of the state.

Chances are that the young white fellow will be seen sometime in the future in the State Conservation Commission's game exhibit.

Expect 65 to be X-rayed As Result of TB Program

Friday, August 15, 1958, has been set for the climax of the annual "Contact" X-ray program when the mobile X-ray units will be brought to Garner by the Hancock County Tuberculosis and Health Association.

Miss Marcia Mitchell, R N, public health nurse, has spent the past six weeks interviewing persons who may have been in close contact with an active case of tuberculosis and who may have become infected, but not yet be aware of it. If these persons have had positive tuberculin skin tests, they will have a chest X-ray in the mobile unit.

The "Contact" Case-finding program has been sponsored by the Hancock County Tuberculosis and Health Association. A portion of the cost is borne by the sale of Christmas Seals each year.

This program has the approval of the Hancock County Medical Society, and is conducted by the division of tuberculosis, State Department of Health and the Iowa Tuberculosis and Health Assn.

"Practically everyone I visited has been willing to participate in this program," said Miss Mitchell. "We anticipate about 65 persons to be X-rayed when the mobile unit parks at the courthouse in Garner, Iowa.

"Only those persons who have been previously advised of the X-ray clinic can be accepted at the mobile unit Friday, August 15th," the public health nurse said. "This survey is not for the general public."

"It's this kind of cooperation which will lead to the ultimate eradication of Tuberculosis," said Mrs Herman Bode, president of the local tuberculosis association, adding her appreciation to all persons who have helped carry out the project.

The X-ray films will be interpreted by physicians of the State Department of Health and the confidential findings reported to the family physician. It is from him that the individual may receive his X-ray report.

Follow-up work will be done in the community by Miss Mitchell, R N, public health nurse. This follow-up work will be done in co-operation with the doctors of the community.

Hancock County Health Nurse Marcia Mitchell wishes to remind all Hancock County school bus drivers to contact their respective school superintendents for further instructions relative to chest X-rays Bus drivers are required by law to have chest X-rays.

Christmas Toys for Worthy Children

Christmas may seem a long way off but Hancock County Welfare authorities are beginning to think in terms of the Yuletide season and are beginning to make preparations for it. Director Elwin L Hodges is appealing to Hancock County citizens for new, used and repairable toys to distribute to worthy children at Christmas time.

"It takes considerable time to repair and redecorate used toys so that they may be useful and have a neat appearance and our office would like to begin this task as soon as possible," said Hodges. Mr Hodges spends many hours in his shop evenings working on toys, repairing them and making them serviceable.

Persons wishing to contribute to this worthy cause are requested to bring their toys to the Welfare Office or notify the office where they may be picked up in time so that they may be ready for distribution by Christmas.

Bonus Payments

First payments for the state Korean bonus will be made in October.

That's the report of the state bonus board which is now processing applications for the payments to Korean veterans from Iowa.

Since the bonus forms became available July 28, more than 20,000 applications have been filed. Officials believe about 100,000 are eligible for the bonus payments which will average about $250 per veteran.

New Legion Chief

New department commadner of the Iowa American Legion is Roy L. Pell of Marshalltown. He was elected at the recent state convention to succeed V. J. Maxheim of Clinton. Pell will serve one year in the post.

Convention delegates reelected R. J. Laird, Des Moines, as adjutant, a post he has held since 1924. Laird is 70.

Newly elected vice-commanders are Cecil Zollars, Keosauqua; Urban Hanrahan, DeWitt; Clayton C. Schlick,Osage; Ed Delaney Stuart, and Patrict I. Houston, Denison.

Tax Take Falters

Delinquent state income tax collections have been slowed to a walk in recent days.

The state tax commission reports that collections from delinquent taxpayers has dropped to about $9,000 a week from a high average of about $20,000 each week.

Reason for the decline: The halting of criminal prosecutions for such violations, by the state attorney general's office, pending decisions on several test cases now in the courts.

Failed To File

Fifteen candidates for state political offices failed to file campaign expense accounts required by law. Under the law this is a misdemeanor.

The secretary of state has asked the Iowa attorney general whether candidates are required to file if they had no expenses.

There have been few, if any, prosecutions in state history against candidates who failed to report their expense accounts. Likewise, there have been few, if any, action taken against candidates who spent more than the law permits.

Safety Official Dies

Funeral services have been held for Bert Woodcock, 52, head of the safety education department at Iowa State Teachers College. He had been director of the safety education division of the Iowa department of public safety and was a member of the National Safety Council. He served in the state department from 1942 to 1946 when he joined the ISTC faculty.

Miss Iowa

A Florida lass, a coed at Iowa State College, is the new Miss Iowa. She is Joanne MacDonald, 20, of Shalimar, Florida. She succeeds Carol Lynn Fleck of Oskaloosa, a coed at Grinnell College. Miss MacDonald will represent Iowa at the Miss America pageant at Atlantic City, New Jersey.

Looking Ahead

Politicians, Republicans as well as Democrats, endeavored to assess the importance of Jake More's presence at the recent Governor's Days at Clear Lake. Just the week before More had been deposed as state Democratic chairman and the action apparently had the blessing of Democratic Governor Herschel Loveless. The Clear Lake festivities were to honor the governor.

More showed up at the stag party, first event in the annual 3-day program, which attracts more legislators and other politicians each year. Donald "Duke" Norberg, newly elected party chairman, was not present.

Most folks decided More intends to "keep his hand in politics," but some predicted he'll wage a fight to regain the chairmanship.

Non-partisan

At the same Governor's Days, observers noted that the top elective Republican official, on several occasions, squired around the state's top Democratic elected officer.

Lt. Gov. W. H. Nicholas and his wife, on more than one occasion, acted as official hosts for Governor and Mrs. Loveless. The Nicholases have a cottage on Clear Lake, are building a new $85,000 year-around home on the lake.

Nicholas lost his bid for the GOP nomination for governor last June. His conqueror, William Murray of Ames, was doing his share of hand-shaking at Clear Lake.

One Headquarters

Governor Loveless, who had earlier announced he would maintain his own campaign headquarters apart from the state Democratic campaign offices, has had a change of heart.

He now plans to release the space he was using in the Garver building in Des Moines and will join forces with the new staff headed by new state chairman "Duke" Norberg.

In The Blood

It's hard for politicians to retire from politics.

Don Pierson, Humbolt, state GOP chairman for the last two years, and until recently a member of the central committee, just can't get away from it all.

With no state party duties to occupy him, Pierson has taken over as a top campaign advisor for Robert Waggoner, Fort Dodge, the GOP candidate for congress in the sixth district.

Murray "Grounded"

Dr. William Murray, Republican candidate for governor, may be temporarily grounded for awhile.

In his successful campaign for the GOP nomination last spring, Murray was frequently flown from meeting to meeting by co-campaign manager, Jack Milroy of Vinton.

Milroy, an attorney and state representative, is also a pilot But shortly after the June elections, Milroy's pilot license was due for renewal. He forgot about it, let the license lapse. Now Milroy must pass an exmination before getting his pilot's license reinstated.

Meantime, candidate Murray must either drive his own car or hire a pilot and plane.

Fund For Iowans

The Omaha World-Herold started a fund to aid flood sufferers in Southwest Iowa as a result of early July's costly floods in that area. At last report the fund had almost reached the $18,000 mark.

In Waterloo, thieves recently took ninteen articles of women's underclothing and a pair of pajamas from a clothesline. Police said a number of outer garments also on the line were not touched.

Avery Sunbeams Met

The regular meeting of the Avery Sunbeams was held at the home of Kathleen James, August 2. The meeting was opened by repeating the 4-H flag pledge and six members answered roll call.

We made a motion to pay up our bills and to give $5.00 to the Flooded Area.

Dorothy Ostendorf gave her report on attending the 4-H camp at Clear Lake.

JoAnn Helps gave her report on the 4-H state convention held at Ames, said she sang with the state 4-H chorus. She also will sing with this chorus at the state fair.

The club worked on their Activity Poster and completed their record books.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Nancy Reinhart.

Here is something that might very well be in the future.

You're sitting at home before a closed circuit TV set; you pick up an attached telephone to the side of the set and dial a particular store. Maybe you want a new evening dress. So, you watch your screen as a score of models display evening dresses. You order your choice by the same attached phone.

The time for this inovation isn't so far in the future that the GARNER TV & APPLIANCE wouldn't be around anymore. We'll have our phone number, 371 at Garner, listed on this TV Shopper, too, and you'll get a direct hook-up to our shop. Meanwhile, use your old fashioned phone to reach us as your neighbor does.

Highway Story

By Bob Hullihan

The worst moment came at the end of a long, hot Sunday afternoon when the father went down to the barn and wept. The relatives and neighbors had all gone home, after sitting around the farm house in hushed or murmuring groups.

And after he had walked the last visitor out to his car, the fater couldn't go back to the house. He stood in the barn feeling his first tears in 30 years run through his fingers. When the mother came looking in the barn door to fetch him, the man shouted, "He is ruined! Just all spoiled! He'll never be any good to anybody."

Later they walked back into the house and into the downstairs bedroom where their son lay in the semi-consciousness that had held him for more than three months now. He was 20. The doctors said he would never again be fully awake.

The boy had been brought home from the hospital that day. It was this that had broken the father's nerve. While the boy lay in the hospital, surrounded by the symbols of medical care, there had seemed to be hope. But now—

That evening the man and woman tried to watch television, they encountered a program that had been their son's favorite and turned off the set. For a while, then, they talked, to encourage one another, then fell silent.

And the father sat again, looking down the gravel road, feeling his son beside him, remembering what they had been talking about as they drove into the intersection, blinded by tall corn on either side. Again he felt that incredible, jarring crash that had thrown his son from the car into this lifetime of silence. Again he wondered that an instant can become an eternity.

THE FARM OUTLOOK

By Paul Henderson
County Extension Director

Fed cattle prices the rest of this year should run lower than during the first part of the year. However, a deep price drop is not in sight, says Tom Rackham, Iowa State College farm economist. Rackham looks for a steady, heavy flow of fed cattle to market during the remainder of 1958, although fewer grass feds may be marketed because of restocking.

Prices should start a long-run upward swing once the current fed cattle surplus is marketed, Rackham says. This upswing probably won't begin before the end of the year, he believes.

Slaughter cattle prices should actually average higher than the last few years, Rackam says. And this year's lower feeding costs and earlier relatively low-priced feeder cattle will further widen the profit margin on slaughters, he says.

The 13 major cattle feeding states were feeding 4.3 million head on July 1. This was a drop of 600 thousand from the record number on feed April 1, but was still almost 600 thousand more than were feeding July 1, 1957. This 600-thousand-animal surplus will "hang heavy" on the market the rest of this year, Rackham says. He notes that about 250 thousand more cattle are scheduled to reach market during July, August and September than during the same months in 1957. Consequently, he expects fed cattle marketings for 1958 to top 1957 by an average 20 thousand head per week. During the last three months of this year, marketings may run as much as 25 thousand head per week above the last quarter of 1957.

As far as weight is concerned, Rackham points out that 350 thousand more cattle topping 900 pounds were on feed July 1 than 12 months earlier. Looking at this another way, the number of cattle on feed more than 6 months was up 175 thousand over a year ago. Thus, some marketing "urgency" may develop, Rackham says.

POTATO

Mr and Mrs Gerald McNulty of Newhall recently dug a 4½ pound potato from their garden.

Fifteen year old Lloyd Freking of Marion township had over 100 stitches taken in his left forearm recently after a mishap with a windrower. He was removing a canvas from the machine in preparation to begin swathing oats when the sickle belt caught and the reels began to revolve, catching his arm in the sickles.

County Chorus Takes Part in French Movie

The Hancock County Farm Bureau Chorus had a wonderful surprise last Monday evening, the evening before Hobo Day. They met in the Allison Hotel in Britt for their usual rehearsal and a short time later a young, good-looking gentleman came down to the practice room. Looking a bit shy and embarassed, he asked if it would bother us if he listened, and in the same breath, asked if he could take our picture. Of course, we were pleased and said "That would be nice." But the chorus didn't know what he really meant. In a few minutes, three more young, good-looking gentlemen came into the room with lights, movie camera and a tape recorder and the next thing we knew, we were on a movie set! The first young gentleman told us to keep on singing, which we did, with no time for combs, powder puffs, lipstick or "what have you". The next hour the members of the chorus enjoyed what was the "making of a movie".

Three of the young men were from Paris and spoke only French. The other young man was from New York and acted as interpreter for the group. They were working for a French Motion Picture Company, taking pictures of scenes of life in the U. S. A. Before coming to Britt, to take pictures of the preparation of the famous stew for Hobo Day, they were in Akron; Ohio, filming scenes of the Soap Box Derby. After they finish taktheir pictures in Britt, they plan to go to Hannabel, Missouri, to film scenes of "Tom Sawyer Day", white washing of the board fence, etc. From there they plan to go on to California.

These men spoke French all during the filming and were very courteous and polite. After they went back upstairs, the chorus enjoyed a delicious lunch. While eating, the young gentleman from New York returned with the tape recorder and played back our song, and we did sound real good. We sang "This is my Country" at least a dozen or more times. He explained why he had requested the same song be sung all the time. They have to fit the sound to the film, that is the motion of the lips must fit the words on the film. When we asked about seeing te film, he said, "Come to Paris and see the preview."

All in all, the Hancock County Farm Bureau Chorus will be on the movie screen, and what fun we had Monday evening at rehearsal! Don't you wish you had been to practice?

Embargo Placed On County Raods North And South of Highway 18

Hancock County Supervisors Monday adopted a resolution placing an embargo on all roads three miles north and three miles south of Highway No. 18 now under construction excluding the official detour indicated as official highway detour No. 18. The embargo limits to five ton any load hauled by truck over rural roads from highway 69 west to highway 111.

Highway 18 is closed for construction and heavy trucks are using locol roads other than the detour and Highway officials estimate that damage to these roads and local bridges could total as much as $50,000 if the present heavy traffic continues. County Engineer Charles K. Paulson advises that the terms of the embargo will be enforced. Several bridges have already shown the strain of heavy loads thus prompting the action taken by the Board Monday.

Hancock County Supervisors Monday approved the appointment of Bertha Brown as Deputy County Auditor to succeed Myrtle Halverson who resigned her position recently. Mrs Brown has been serving as Honcock County Drainage clerk in the office of County Auditor Arthur Ross.

Hancock County Supervisors Monday approved a petition for a new road between section one of Garfield township and section six of Concord township. The improvement of the road hinges on acquisition of the necessary right-of-way. The petition which was tentatively approved requests that the highway be improved at the earliest convenience practicable.

The Board deferred action on the vacation of a highway petitioned for in Section 34 in Madison township to August 18th.

He has been busy making sauerkraut out of his big cabbage crop.

Farm Bureau Directors Approve Office Building

At the regular meeting of the Hancock County Farm Bureau Board held August 5th at the Hotel Allison in Britt, a unanimous vote was cast to go ahead with plans to erect office quarters for the Hancock County Farm Bureau Office on the lot purchased some years ago for that purpose, located across the street (south) from the post office and west of Goodnature's Store.

The Farm Bureau Board has been giving consideration to a building program in Hancock County for the last five years in which time a lot was purchased, blue prints drawn, and a building fund started. It is now the thinking of the board that rather than sign another lease and pay rent on the present inadequate office quarters, they complete the building as soon as possible in such a way that it can be used for office quarters with a meeting room in the basement and leave room for expansion at a later date.

Eighty-Three Patients X-rayed by Mobile Uuit

Eighty - three patients visited the Mobile X-Ray unit at the courthouse here Friday. These patients had previously been advised by their doctors to have X-Rays. In addition fifty - four school bus drivers from all Hancock County schools cooperated in having X-Rays as required by law.

This climaxed the Hancock County Tuberculosis Contact program sponsored by the Hancock County Tuberculosis and Health Association conducted under the direction of Hancock County Public Health Nurse Marcia Mitchell.

Much ground work was necessary in crder to have such a successful program. A total of seventy-eight skin tests were given by physicians. These skin tests do not reveal the presence of active tuberculosis, but rather give the physician some basis for diagnosis.

Marcia Mitchell, R. N., Public Health Nurse for Hancock County made a total of one hundred and five home visits, thirty visits to doctors and many visits in behalf of tuberculosis control in planning this special program. The sale of Christmas Seals has helped to finance this program.

Highway Story

By Bob Hullihan

It's difficult and, possibly, unprofitoble to try to find a bright side to traffic fatality stastistics. Perhaps the only value in doing so is to remind ourselves that progress is being made, and that this year's goal - Save 100 Lives - is not beyond reach.

This look at the bright side comes from Clifford Swanson, head of the department's research bureau. His happy news is that 8,238 lives have been saved in Iowa traffic since 1935.

Swanson's figure is based on the state's traffic death rate of 11.5 in 1935. That meant that 11.5 people were being killed in traffic for every 100 million vehicle miles traveled in Iowa.

At that rate, a total of 19,995 persons would have died in Iowa traffic accidents in the 22 years of 1936 through 1957. The yearly death toll would have risen as high as 1,298 in 1956.

But, because the death rate has been consistently reduced through the years, the actual total number of deaths in Iowa since 1935 is 11,757. That is 8,238 fewer deaths than we would have had if the 1935 death rate had continued.

According to Swanson's figures, the best year Iowa has had in traffic safety was in 1952 when the death rate dropped to a low of 5.3.

The actual number of deaths of that year was 531, compared to the 1,152 who would have died if the 1935 death rate had been operating.

As we said, there is little joy in these figures, though they are encouraging. They prove we can Save 100 Lives in Iowa this year if we want to badly enough.

Let's weigh LIVE BETTER ELECTRICALLY the Facts!

air conditioning
is much more than just keeping Cool!

NOW IS THE TIME TO BUY

If you suffer from hay fever, allergies or asthma, give yourself the benefit of air that's cleaned . . . made crisp and cool with an air conditioner.

Air conditioners will filter out of the air much of the pollens and air-borne particles that cause so much discomfort.

Don't go on suffering, when an air conditioner will help you to so much comfort and relief.

Certainly! Keeping cool is very important . . . but air conditioning does much more! It assures you of better sleeping, of better appetite. You're much more fit, work better. Your home is cleaner, too. Windows are closed against summer heat and noise, dust and storms. The little folks are kept cool, comfortable, protected. Baby doesn't suffer with heat rash — he's comfortable.

Wherever you live — air conditioning is much more than just keeping cool! It's a matter of more efficiency . . . and of better health at a surprisingly low cost.

Obituary of Mrs. Frances Ridder

Frances Ridder, a lifetime resident of the Klemme community, died at her home here early Friday morning, August 15, 1958.

She was born September 25, 1880 on the "Walnut Grove" farm in Liberty Township. ¼

Her father was August C. Lau and the maiden name of her mother was Anna Boehm.

She completed her schooling in a rural school nearby and became a member of the Liberty Methodist Church by confirmation.

Frances moved with her family to Klemme in 1896, six years after the town was platted. Her father became our grain dealer and livestock buyer.

On November 22, 1899, Frances Lau, 19, and Fred H. Ridder, 27, were married at the home of the bride's parents.

They built a comfortable home in Klemme near the blacksmith and repair shop which Mr. Ridder owned and operated. They became the parents of three children: Viva, Levi and Neota.

The husband, Fred H. Ridder, died in 1940. Since then Mrs. Ridder continued to live in Klemme. Her last illness was arthritis, and the end came August 15, 1958, at the age of 77 years, 10 months and 21 days.

She leaves to mourn her passing: one son, L. A. Ridder of Klemme; one daughter, Neota (Mrs. Walter Beatty) of Villa Park, Illinois; two sisters, Malinda (Mrs Wes Schuldt) and Miss Minnie Lau both of Klemme; three brothers, Henry C. Lau of Tracy, Minnesota, August G. Lau of Garner, Iowa, and Walter F. Lau of Klemme. Also five grandchildren and ten great grandchildren.

Preceding her in death besides her husband was her daughter, Viva, on May 5, 1958.

TV ADJUSTMENTS

Folks occasionally phone us at GARNER TV & APPLIANCE and ask about how to make adjustments on their TV set. We're glad to give them any information about outside controls, but the inside adjustments are a difficulty to explain. They are simple to make if you understand them, but dangerous for an amateur.

Also, when the back is taken off the set; a special cord is necessary so that the set can continue to operate. These kind of adjustments are definitely for an experienced serviceman.

Keep calling that number (Garner 371); we're happy to be of service to you. If you haven't tried us yet, we're sure that you will be surprisingly pleased when you do. Ask your neighbor about us.

OFFICIAL COUNTY PAPER | KLEMME, IOWA, AUGUST 27, 1958 | VOLUME 63 | NUMBER 41

Some Random Thoughts

BY L. E. "PETE" K.

A few years ago a columnist, about to let go with some pertinent comment on the opening of school, would have been able to say, "Soon school bells will be ringing throughout the land" . . . but those days are gone.

Though school continues as before, the bells are a thing of the past . . . or at least that's the case in this area. It used to be "first bell", "last bell", "tardy bell" and "recess bell", and that happened every morning and every afternoon when school was open.

As nearly as we can tell, students get to school on time just as well or maybe better than they did in the bell era, so other than making a rather pleasant sound and producing some nostalgia each fall for recent graduates, we can't see that the bells served too good a purpose.

Anyway, school gets underway on Tuesday, September 2, and from things we have been hearing over the radio, we would suggest some added caution on the part of motorists. Iowa law requires that you stop when approaching a stopped school bus, regardless of which direction you approach from, and you must remain stopped until the school bus moves on. We understand that a violation of this law provides for a 7-point loss under the Iowa point system.

Of course, the chance for loss of points is only minor to the sense of loss and grief you would feel should you accidentally strike a child and be responsible for serious injury or death. Many of these children will be making their first expeditions from home when school starts and will need to be given the benefit of all the judgement and caution you have acquired over the years.

We note with a great deal of satisfaction that more and more farmers are topping their corn at these blind country intersections. We imagine that it takes them a couple of hours to do the job, but the expenditure of a couple of hours of labor to possibly save a life or two is a good investment.

Monday morning's low temperatures put just a touch of frost on some of the corn in the peat beds and other low places. We hope that now the weather will become a little more seasonal and will stay that way at least until the middle of September. Even that date wouldn't put all the corn in condition to be safe from frost, but it would no doubt assure normal maturity for most of the crop.

Don't forget that Labor Day is the last holiday of the summer season...and a three-day one at that. There will be about umteen jillion cars on the road, and some of them will be driving like they had a hundred miles to go and had just run out of time to get there...that's just what will happen to some of them, too. They'll not only run out of driving time, but time for some of them will stop very abruptly. Mind your driving P's and Q's and don't let one of these heavy-footed, light-headed maniacs stretch time into eternity for you.

If you can drive like everyone else on the road is pretty liable to do the unexpected, chances are you will stay out of trouble.

Margaret Boland and Marlyn Rollefson Wed

Margaret Boland, daughter of Mr and Mrs Henry Boland of Klemme, and Marlyn Rollerson, son of Mr and Mrs Norman Rollefson, were married August 3 at the Peace Reformed Church in Garner. The Rev Chester Ploeger officiated at the double ring ceremony at 7:30 p.m.

Baskets of white and pink gladioli, candelabra with lighted tapers and smilax decorated the chancel of the church.

Music was provided by Norma Boomgarden, organist; who played a prelude of organ music and accompanied Ronald Klipping, soloist.

Phyllis Boland was maid of honor and Lois Boland, bridesmaid. Both are sisters of the bride. Ronald Rollefson, brother of the bridegroom, was best man and Arlyn Rauk, groomsman. Ushers were Melvin Eenhuis, Keith Haagenson, Douglas Lundberg and Archie Lovik.

Victoria Sue Rollefson was flower girl and Brian Rauk was ringbearer. He carried the rings on a taffeta and lace pillow.

The bride, given in marriage by her parents, was escorted to the alter by her father. She wore a floor length gardenia white embroidered schiffili tulle gown over taffeta. The closely fitted bodice buttoned down the back and had short sleeves with matching gauntlets. The portrait neckline was encircled with a band of schiffili embroidered tulle. The bouffant circular skirt had a hemline encircled with schiffili emboidered tulle in a floral motif with a scalloped edge. Her silk illusion, finger tip veil was caught on a cap of Chantilly lace and nylon tulle accented with seed pearls and paillettes. She wore a pearl choker and earrings, gift from the bridegroom. She carried a bouquet of white gladioli centered with pink sweetheart roses.

Maid of honor and bridesmaid wore identical gowns of turquoise chiffon taffeta and white gloves. They carried crescent bouquets of pink gladioli. Their pearl earrings were gifts from the bride. The flower girl wore turquoise chiffon taffeta floor length dress with embroidered organdy overskirt. She wore pearl necklace and bracelet, gift from the bride.

Mrs Boland chose for her daughter's wedding a pink embroidered cotton satin dress with white accessories. The bridegroom's mother wore a coral pink dress. Their corsages were of pink roses and white carnations.

The reception in the church parlors followed the ceremony. Eunice and Rachel Huenemann were dining room hostesses. Mrs Keith Haagenson and Mrs Archie Lovik, cousins of the bridegroom, poured. Myrna Risius served the punch. Mrs Stanley Rusley and Mrs Eldon Jutting cut and served the wedding cake, which was decorated with turquoise and pink bells and hearts. The cake was encircled with smilax and pink gladioli on the table.

Lois Huenemann, assisted by Juda Stahl, Julian Rollefson, Sharon Rollefson, Delores Boland, and Pat Solberg, served the refreshments prepared by the WMS of the church.

Mrs Ronald Rollefson, sister-in-law of the bridegroom, registered the guests. Rosella Suby, Mrs Donald Smith, Mrs Donald Olson and Mrs DeWayne Johnson arranged the gifts.

The couple left from the reception for a trip to West Virginia and will be at home on their farm near Forest City upon their return.

The bride was graduated from Klemme high school, attended Waldorf College and has taught the last three years in the Forest City - Leland Community schools. She will continue teachnig this year.

The bridegroom was graduated from the Forest City high school, served two years with the U. S. Army and is presently engaged in farming.

Board of Education Restricts Student Driving

The Board of Education of the Klemme Community School has passed three resolutions which will restrict student driving. At a special meeting on August 25, the following resolutions were adopted:

Resolution No. 1: The period of time from 12:00 noon to 12:45 p. m. is hereby made a part of the regular school day.

Resolution No. 2: Students are prohibited from driving motor vehicles between the hours of 12:00 noon and 12:45 p. m. Exceptions will be made for students driving directly to or from their own residence for the noon meal or with permission of the superintendent of schools.

Resolution No. 3: Students are prohibited from sitting in or riding in motor vehicles between the hours of 12:00 noon and 12:45 p. m. unless such vehicle is occupied or driven by their parents.

These resolutions were passed under the provisions of Chapter 279, Section 279.8, Iowa Code of 1954 and the Acts of the 56th General Assembly.

Superintendent Harlan G Shafer was directed by the board to notify the parents of every high school student regarding these measures. The following excerpt is from the letter mailed to the parents:

"The board feels that in the best interest of the school and community these resolutions are necessary. They do not feel that they are unreasonable or unjust and sincerely hope that you will agree. Your cooperation and support in this matter will be greatly appreciated."

CAPITOL LETTER

(Weekly news release of the Iowa Press Association. The material contained herein does not necessarily conform to the editorial policy of this newspaper.)

Start From Scratch

The new Democratic state chairman, it now develops, is starting from scratch.

Donald A. Norberg, who assumed the chairmanship upon the ouster of Jake More by the Democrats, finds he has an office without records and without money. In fact the state organization is some $6,000 in debt.

Norberg has charged that the party's financial operation has been mismanaged.

While the battle rages between the More forces and the anti-More forces Governor Loveless is waging his campaign for reelection. There is known concern in his camp over this intra-party fracas and its possible effect on the November election.

Veteran Democrats point out to him, however; that Democrats don't turn out at the polls unless there's a good fight within the party to stir them up.

There's one obvious fact about the Democrat's financial plight: There will be a fund-raising event coming up in the near future.

Air Encampment

Nearly 800 Iowa airmen, of the 132nd Air Defense Wing and 132nd Fighter Group, of the Air National Guard wind up two weeks' summer training this week at Camp Dodge in Des Moines.

While the quarters were at Camp Dodge the men bussed to the Air Guard hanger at municipal airport for practical exercises.

Air For Children

The state hopes to expand its pilot program for treatment of children's mental illness. At present the only treatment center for children is at the Independence Mental Health Institute.

Dr. James O. Cromwell, state mental health director, has instructed superintendents of three other mental hospitals to include funds for such treatment in their legislative askings for next year.

Hospitals at Cherokee, Mount Pleasant and Clarinda would be included in the program if funds are provided.

Dr. Cromell said it "is not a good policy to mix youngsters with adults." He said a state of Iowa's size can be expected to have 300 psychotic children.

Select Slate

The last in a series of four major state political conventions this summer is now history.

Iowa Democrats, at their state judicial convention, nominted four candidates to run for state supreme court posts in the November election. Nominated T. Eugene Thornton of Waterloo, Frank F. Messer of Iowa City, P. J. Siegers of Newton and Harry Garrett of Corydon.

Gorrett was nominated for the court's short term which would expire Jan. 1, 1961.

The four political conventions held this summer include the regular and judicial parleys of the Democrats and Republcans.

Rain Cuts Business

Rainy weather in June and July cut attendence in Iowa's state parks below the record-breaking pace of last year. Supt. Ray Mitchell, state conservation commissioner said good weather in August should swell the number of park visitors, however.

While the number of visitors has been reduced the number of campers this year is about the same as accomodated in state parks last season.

Expensive Look?

In 1953 the Iowa legislature passed a law opening welfare rolls to public scrutiny under certain conditions.

The department of social welfare now figures nearly $187 a look, or a total of about $50,000 since the law was passed.

It costs the state about $10,000 a year to publish the lists. Over the 5-year period there have been 268 requests to see them. There were 81 such requests in the first year, 77 the second, 50 in the third and about 30 per year since.

AEC At ISC

Two new buildings, two cost about $6,000,000,will be built next year for the Atomic Energy Commission at Iowa State College.

The construction -- a metal processing building and a research reactor -- has been approved by congress and President Eisenhower.

Federal funds will finance construction.

Iowa Flood Costs

Governor Loveless reports that $3,825,000 is expected to be spent to repair public properties and roads in eight western Iowa counties as a result of the sudden Jluy floods.

About $1,425,000 will repair property owned by cities, counties and school districts. The federal government will be asked to pay about $440,000 of this amount and the local areas the rest.

Damage to primary and secondary roads will total about $2,400,000.

Reform Steps

Governor Loveless has proposed four steps to improve what he calls Iowa's "antiquated penal system."

They are: (1) Expansion and improvement of parole methods, (2) proper treatment for mentally disturbed prisoners, (3) provision for group therapy, and (4) integration of government and private agency efforts, plus promotion of community action in controlling and preventing juvenile delinquency.

Illegitimate Births

The state health department reports that illegitimate births showed an increase of 21 per cent last year over 1956. Total such births in 1957 was 1,182. Records show that 44 percent of the births were to women under 20 years of age.

Stress Tax Liens

The state's tax lien department is being reorganized. A "get tough" policy is now in force in the matter of income tax liens in Iowa.

Objective is the collection of unpaid taxes as far back as 20 years, the tax commission reports.

Chairman Leon Miller said county officers offices now hold a total of 12,795 liens against property for $1,500,000 in unpaid state income taxes.

The commission has determined to check each and every lien and collect the same within the next year, Miller told newsmen.

The nation's lamb crop is 4 percent larger than last year's small crop and tops the 1947-56 average crop size by 7 percent, according to the July 1 U. S. Department of Agriculture report.

That represents the first "positive result" in the sheep-cycle upturn, says Tom Rackham, Iowa State College farm economist. But even so, the Iowa feeder lamb outlook isn't much better than last year, he says.

The 13 western states increased production 5 percent. Most of this boost was in Texas, Colorado and Wyoming. But Rackham notes that Montana, one of Iowa's major suppliers of feederlambs, produced only 13,000 head more lambs this year than last. Since many Wyoming and Colorado feeder lambs are fed in Colorado, Iowa feeder supplies are uncertain and probably won't be much better than in 1957, Rackham says.

He points out that lamb contracting has been active, starting before the lambs were dropped, and that more lambs are being fattened near areas of production in Colorado, Idaho and Montana. California, for instance, is becoming a bigger market for lambs, which means more lambs will be fattened in nearby western states. Iowa's position for obtaining feeders weakened, since it is not near a concentrated consumption areas, such as the New England states, Rackham points out.

The Iowa State College economist expects feeder lamb prices to climb from now on, reaching their peak in late August or in September. Late fall price declines will be because feeder lambs are heavier then, leaving a smaller margin for feeding to handy weights, he says.

By January 1, 1958, 16 percent more of the 1957 crop of ewe lambs had been held back for breeding stock than was the case with the 1956 crop on the first day of 1957. This left the number of feeder lambs 8 percent smaller on January 1 this year than 12 months earlier.

If withdrawal of breeder stock proceeds at a more normal rate this year, Rackham believes the western states could send most of their increased lamb crop to feeders. This would mean about 500 thousand more western lambs marketed then last year. However, since most of the lamb production boost is on farms, many lambs may reach market already grass-fattened, or they may be held back for feeding where raised, Rackham says.

The Jan. 1 USDA report showed the number of stock sheep on farms and ranches to be up 1 percent over last year. Ninety-seven lambs were dropped per 100 ewes 1 year old or older on Jan. 1, Rackham notes. This tops the old record of 95 lambs per 100 ewes and accounts for the 20,779,000 lambs born this year.

Rackham says this reversal in the downward trend in sheep and lamb production is due mainly to increased interest on the part of farmers. The wool incentive program helps make sheep raising as secure and stable as any alternative livestock enterprise, Rackham says.

Sheep ranching, however, stays about the same, since its expansion is limited by the availabilty of herders, Rackham notes. Then, too, cattle ranching is a less exacting and more attractive family ranching activity, he says.

TV CAMERA SECRET

You might see your favorite TV star walking through an exotic castle garden; or viewers watching 'Green Pastures' saw an actor pass through Heaven's pearly gates. Actually, these scenes might be only six inches high in front of the TV camera.

It all is done by superimposing one camera scene into another camera scene. While the action is taken with one camera of the real actors, the second camera with its tiny scenic slot is imposing the background into the picture that you see on your TV screen. There is no limit to the possibilities of these pictures, say engineers.

TV shooting has come a long way since its beginning. And so has the science of TV maintenance. From my front porch

By CARL HELM

To see grass growing in cracks of sidewalks probably pains tidier souls. But I walked so many miles on so many hard, unyielding pavements of so many great cities! A sidewalk with a scraggle of grass in an occasional crack, then, delights my heart: it is Nature, triumphant. . . .

Once, in New York, my window in a skyscraper looked out on a lone little tree, bravely battling for existence in the stony, gaseous heart of Manhattan. It withered and died in a year. So now, in the deeply shaded streets of my hometown, I like it somehow when a determined old elm or maple pushes up the sidewalk with its roots. Nature ain't licked yet, I say to myself, by man's "civilized" contrivances! . . .

A friend sent me this verse:

"The happiest heart that ever beat,
"Was in some tranquil breast,
"That found the common daylight sweet,
"And left to God the rest!"

Then he PS'd: "Have you read the 103rd Psalm lately?"

I hadn't, but I did — and I recommend it to you! . . .

Warning to Popeye

Dear Popeye: Before the word gets around to your enemies, we want to warn you that spinach is not the best source of iron to make you strong. Next time you are in a tight spot, try potatoes, squash or carrots.

One of our earliest memories is the sound of Mother's voice saying, "Eat your spinach, dear. It is full of iron." It tasted like iron, too—gritty iron fillings. We resisted valiantly, until we saw our first Popeye cartoon. The miracles performed by our hero convinced us. We ate our spinach.

And now, science tells us that spinach is no better a source of iron than many other foods. The disillusion is almost more than we can bear. By now we've learned to like the stuff. When properly cleaned, cooked and dressed up with cheese sauce, it's a very tasty dish.

If that horrid Bluto had only known! While Popeye was consuming a can of spinach, he could have eaten a bunch of carrots, a helping of squash or a pile of mashed potatoes. He would have been able to out-point Popeye—at least in iron. As a matter of fact, if Popeye switches to carrots, the bloated Bluto might well take up spinach. Even if it isn't a miracle food, it is a fine dish for dieters. It's a filling food with a low calorie content.

Nutrition experts may have changed their minds about spinach, but the lesson all children learn from Popeye still holds good. The importance of what we eat can't be over-estimated. Good nutrition helps protect us from tuberculosis and other diseases. Young or old, we need a balanced diet for a long and healthy life.

Some Random Thoughts

BY L. E. "PETE" K.

Signs of fall are with us. Blackbirds are gathering together for their annual trek to the southland . . . Martins are no longer with us, having already departed for their winter homes . . . squirrels are becoming increasingly industrious with each passing day . . . young rooster pheasants are beginning to change their drab feathers for the more brilliant garb they will wear for the rest of their days . . . nights are becoming more chilly . . . political candidates are tramping the streets of our town plying the populace with "Vote for Me" literature and wearing their best smiles for all to observe . . . football news is encroaching more and more on the sports pages and on radio and TV sports programs . . . baseball talk is beginning to be of the World Series .... and our feet itch.

Yes, our feet itch. They itch to be off for some distant place. This is the season of the year that we like best of all and it is the season when we customarily take our vacation jaunt for the year. However, various elements have combined this year to make it necessary that we postpone our respite from the work-a-day world, so we guess there will be no immediate ease for the condition in which we now find our restless feet.

Speaking of politicians, if you have a favorite party, one which dispenses the type of government that you partcularly like, why not help that party to the tune of a buck or so . . . or more if you feel you can afford it. Sure, you can say you help them with your vote, but by contributing to the party you make it possible for them to better publicize their candidates bringing them more votes and in turn putting the type of government you want in charge of the affairs of the country.

There is another angle, too. It each of us contributes our bit toward the party of our choice then the chances are better that candidates will not have to make any promises to big contributors in order to finance their campaigns. In other words, many small contributions will serve the same purpose campaign-wise as will a few big contributions, and will leave those elected free to exercise their own judgement on important decisions. They won't be tied to any particular segment of the country . . .and we haven't a doubt but what big contributions exact some big promises.

So don't be satisfied with just voting for the man of your choice. When the party worker comes around to see you for a contribution, kick in a little and help our country to have officials who are free to act.

And even more signs of fall. Soybeans turning to gold in the fields . . . corn stalk stubs left by the forage harvesters as a part of the crop goes into silos . . . and a beginning spattering of leaves from the trees, heralding the approach of the cascade to come . . . and the only thing to mar the picture is the fact that right behind this lovely golden season comes winter's icey blasts.

And according to a sign in the Klemme Implement Company, attributed to Calvin Coolidge, "You don't need to explain something you haven't said."

Cozette Lau to Head Order of Rainbow

Installation of officers of the Order of Rainbow for Girls was held on Sunday, Sept. 14, at the Masonic Hall in Garner.

Cozette Lau was installed Worthy Advisor for the ensuing term. As she knelt at the altar, after taking her vows, Arthur Carlson sang, "I'll Walk with God". Cozette was then escorted to the East by her father, through an archway formed by her classmates and friends. Each of the girls in the arch carried a white flower trimmed with blue, which David Miller collected and presented to Cozette.

The newly installed Worthy Advisor announced that Fidelity and Purity would be her theme and blue and white her colors. The Rainbow motto for this term will be "Give to the world all the best that you have, and the best will come back to you."

Cozette was given a beautiful gavel carved by Mr Jesse Blazier of Britt in honor of her office.

Rev Miller closed the ceremony with a benediction.

Other officers from Klemme were Candace Carlson, Worthy Associate Advisor; Joyce Lassahn, Drill Leader; and Dorothy Kroehnke, Installing Recorder.

Social Security Raise Effective in February

Twelve million Americans are receiving monthly old-age, survivors, or disability payments from social security. If you are one of these, there will be more money in your pocket soon. Under recent amendments to the social security law, an automatic increase will be made in the benefit check the postman will deliver to you early in February. The increase to retired and disabled workers will range from $3.00 to $7.50. Family groups will get a minimum increase of $3.00 and some of the families who were receiving the maximum rate of $200, may find total payments increased to $254.00. But remember, if you are already getting monthly social security checks, you don't need to ask about your increase. It's already being taken care of - and the social security people expect to put your bigger check in the mail very early in February.

Beginning January 1, 1959, the social security tax rate for employees and employers will be 2½ per cent each. The rate for self-employed people will be 3¾ per cent. These rates are scheduled to increase every 3 years until they reach 4½ per cent for employees and employers and 6¾ per cent for self-employed people in 1969.

Starting with 1959 the first $4800 of earnings in a year will be taxed for social security and will count toward social security benefits.

The Mason City social security district office is at 124 W. State Street. It is open from Monday through Friday, from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

E L Iske, manager, emphasized that it is not necessary for people already receiving monthly payments to apply for the automatic increase.

Increased Aid

Iowa will get nearly $6-million in additional funds for old age assistance, aid to the blind, and aid to dependent children, the state board of social welfare reports.

The increased funds come about as the result of provisions of the federal social security act.

Present plans call for temporary increases to be given in November to old age assistance and aid-to-blind cases.

Sales Tax Dips

Retail sales and use tax collections dipped about $3,000,000 in the quarter ended June 30.

The Iowa tax commission collected $14,100,673 from retail sales taxes and $2,629,649 in use taxes.

The 1957 sales taxes for the same period were $16,775,995 and the use taxes $3,036,775.

The number of retail sales tax returns filed this year were about 10,000 less than in the same period a year ago.

County Medical Care

An Iowa county board cannot delegate to a committee of doctors the authority for providing medical care for needy patients.

This opinion was delivered by the state attorney general.

In one county physicians had proposed setting up a committee to handle indigent cases.

Split On Transfer

Governor Loveless and his challenger, Dr William Murray, in a debate on campaign issues before Iowa editors, had differing views on state road programs.

In answer to a question, the governor said he favors transfer of 10 percent (about $6.5 millions) of the road use tax fund to the state general fund with the money to be earmarked for education.

Murray, an Iowa State College professor, disagreed. He said his campaign travels have proven to him that the state needs all the road money it is now getting to modernize and maintain its highway network. Murray declared the state "should keep the road funds just as they are." Education, he believes, needs more money but it should come from appropriation rather than be transferred from the road fund.

The Iowa Good Roads association successfully fought such a transfer plan when it was proposed during the last session of the legislature.

School Costs Soar

The Iowa Taxpayer, publication of the Taxpayers Association, reports that in 1956 Iowa's 99 county boards of education spent $2-million, and they estimate expenditures for next year to be $3.2-million. This means program costs will have risen 60 per cent during a three-year period.

Watching The Men

An Iowa mother of 4 children has won herself a job as field auditor for the income tax division of the state tax commission

The new auditor, first in the division is Mrs Fern Burke, 47, of Keokuk In an examination she scored 96 of a possible 100 points.

Mrs Burke will work in Lee and Des Moines counties. Salary will be $3,480 per year.

Beauty Queens

Within a 24-hour period Iowa lost one beauty queen and gained another.

Movie Actress Jean Seberg, 19, who as a teenager suddenly found herself a star in two foreign movies, married her Frenchman sweetheart in hometown Marshalltown, and then left Iowa for New York and Hollywood.

But the next night, in Atlantic City, the national spotlight swung to another Iowan, Miss Joanne MacDonald, an Iowa State College student who, as Miss Iowa, won second place beauty honors at the Miss American beauty pageant.

That was the highest an Iowa girl had ever placed in the Miss America contest, although Carol Morris of Ottumwa two years ago won the Miss Universe crown.

Daily Editors Elect

Howard Wilson, Carroll Times-Herald, has been reelected president of the Iowa Daily Press association. John Notham, Clinton Herold co-publisher, was reelected vice president.

Paul G Norris, Jr., Marshalltown; Walter Sotherland, Sioux City; David Gottlieb, Davenport; and W T Hageboeck, Iowa City; were elected to the board of directors.

Get National Awards

National awards have been received by three Iowa extension directors for distinguished service in their fields.

Award winners are Stan L Dunne, Red Oak; Robert E Hall, Manchester, and Milton M Henderson, Mt Ayr.

The distinguished service awards were presented by the National Association of County Agriculture agents.

Another Tax Drive

State employees are in the midst of another drive to collect unpaid taxes from delinquent taxpayers.

Where other drives have sought to recover income, sales and gas tax payments, this latest effort involves diesel fuel sold to truck drivers.

State Gas Tax Director George Marchi said the state has lost thousands of dollars through evasion of the 7-cents-a-gallon tax on diesel oil used in truck transportation.

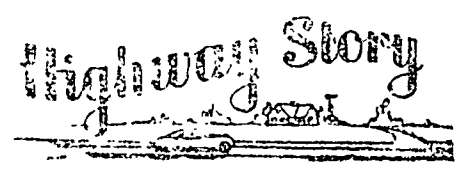
Marchi describes the evasion as "widespread" throughout the state. His agents are at work now to correct this practice.

Aid Payments Rise

Monthly aid to dependent children payments (ADC) are continuing their upward trend. The department of social welfare for Iowa paid out $1,042,919 to 8,162 families during August.

Department officials said payments went to 81 more families than in the preceding month, and the dollar increase was $8,601.

Comparing the 1958 figures with those of August, 1957, there was an increase of 785 families and $192,225 over the figures for the same month of a year ago.



By Bob Hullihan

Always, the dead man is a stranger. He waits in the crushed car while the patrol and the sheriff arrive, while the ambulance comes up wailing over the cargo it will carry away, while the crowd gathers to watch silently over folded arms.

Not until a patrolman reaches through jagged glass to take the registration off the steering post does the man have a name and an address. And not until the body is pried out of the wreck and a worn wallet falls on the grass does the man have any meaning.

Then there is the picture that tells the dead man had a wife and children who went one day to a photographer. The smiles seem almost blinding to the patrolman standing beside the body, checking through the wallet.

Then the snapshot that proves the man once caught a large fish at a northern lake, and the sales slip form the time the man bought three pair of socks, and the cards that show the man was a member, a contributor, a good credit risk.

Finally the patrolman finds what he was looking for in the wallet - the evidence of religious affiliation. The officer will want to have the Minister, or Priest or Rabbi along when he calls to tell the women she is a widow.

Thus, the meaning of the crumpled, dead stranger begins to fill in, piece by piece. As the ambulance carries him away, the officers know that the man's loss now will begin to spread rapidly to touch a family, a church, clubs, merchants, service groups and on and on through all the thousand associations of a man alive.

But in the beginning, at the moment of discovery, the dead man on the highway is a stranger. He could be anyone. He could be you.

Highway Story

We won't be much surprised if a curious kind of paradox wanders in on the Iowa traffic safety scene one day soon.

This particular paradox, if it shows up, will have a silly, self-satisfied grin on its face, and will be especially noticeable because of its aimless, indifferent manner. In all probability, it will be run down by a speeding car.

Because the paradox we are thinking of is the one that may be born of our satisfaction with the state's remarkable traffic safety record.

The beast will grow fat and serene with the thought that we have done all we need to do, that the point system will see us through indefinitely, that the safety record will stay on the bright side.

For the paradox will be that we may come to believe that the day of safety has dawned, that there is no need to do any more than be proud of ourselves and point to the great things we have accomplished.

This won't be the attitude of the state safety department. Commissioner Russel Brown, better than anyone else, knows that we've just won one round in the safety battle, that we need a fresh attack soon to keep winning.

He'll be asking for 150 more Iowa highway patrolmen, for chemical testing for drinking drivers, for a driver education law and several other things needed to keep traffic death at bay.

When these things are asked for, will the paradox be so fat and satisfied that it will wag it's head contentedly no? If it does, take cover. The traffic deluge will be on us again.

First Issue Statement By Editorial Staff

As we seniors begin our final school year, we realize we have much to appreciate in our school system. We are very proud of the new grade building and we are happy that we can use the band room, shop, and hot-lunch room for a year. Many new, up-to-date textbooks will also help make our studying more fun. Our teachers, too, are recharged with a summer's rest, and in some cases, more education. They are both willing and able to give us the leadership and guidance we need. Everything promises to make an interesting, educational year!

One of our most important class projects this year will be the Shamrock. We are going to try our best to write the news as accurately and as well as we possibly can. It is our purpose to produce a paper which everyone will want to read. For that reason we will print only news that is of interest to the majority of the people. We will support the regulations made by Mr Shafer and by the student council. We will back all school activities through thick and thin. If the participants in each school activity have done their best, then each organization deserves the praise and backing of the student body.

We hope you will enjoy reading our news as much as we will enjoy editing it.

A Suggested School Attitude

In my opinion a student should be proud of his school. He should respect the school and the property within it. A student should have respect for a teacher even though he may not have a liking for him. A student should feel as though the school is there to help him become a better person in adult life. If a student doesn't care for school he often doesn't even try to get anything out of school. School becomes a bore to him and in turn he becomes a problem for teachers.

We have a nice school in Klemme and I'm sure that almost every student here is pleased to know that it's his school. I'm glad I'm one of its students. I feel as many others here do, that for a small town and community, Klemme High School is an example of a good one!

School Days

Hurrah! School's here at last!
Gee! the summer sure went fast!
Teachers, classrooms, and everything new,
Even a grade school joined the crew.
Teachers busily learning names,
While little kindergarteners are playing games.
Different subjects we have to take--
You'd think they'd give US the coffee break!
But all in all I think I can wait
You see, after next year I'll graduate.

Schedule of Musical Activities for the Year

As of yet we have not had a band rehersal, but we are eagerly waiting for it to start.

To get some material for this artical we had to go down to our new band room. Upon entering the practice room we saw Mr Whitford practicing his trombone in his office. Adjacent to his office are three practice rooms which all lead out to the main practice room. Across from the practice room is the uniform room. The music room is all lighted by the many windows which are in the outside wall.

Mr Whitford informed us that we were to have a test this morning (Friday). This test was one of a series he plans to give so that he may secure data for his Masters Degree. He also gave us a schedule for the coming year. It is as follows:

A schedule of music activities for one year in the Klemme Community School.

1. October—Exchange concert. The conference has set up a series of exchange concerts whereby each year every school plays at two conference schools.
2. October—NCIBA band. Last year the North Central Iowa Bandmasers Association had, at its fall meeting, a band composed of selected players from the area. This band was used to perform new music.

VARIED COLUMN

After the mix-up in changes of classes and in the hot lunch room, we are gradually settling down to the routine of school. The first day of the hot lunch program was a slow process because the cooks who had expected to feed 250 people fed approximately 300. The cooks apparently didn't mind because several days later they served home-made apple pie.

In the first week of school all high school students were required to take state tests. The weather at the time the tests were taken was very hot and humid and a great majority of the students felt frustrated.

Of the 96 students in high school, there is one new student, Virgil Goodrich, who transferred from Kanawha.

Friday night, September 12, the Freshmen officially became high school students. The Seniors held an initiation party for them. Anytime before Friday, just by looking around you could see Seniors plotting new stunts for the Freshmen to preform Friday night.

A new playground, consisting of a merry-go-round, a row of swings, and a jungle jim has been erected on the east side of the new school building. Mr Shafer and the school board did the work and completed it in two days.

We have four new teachers at Klemme High School this year. Mrs Lewis, our English teacher, has lived in Klemme for a number of years but is still new in the Klemme school. Mrs Hanson, the math teacher, is living in Kanawha. The commercial teacher, Mr Loomis, and Mr Barricks, the shop teacher, live at the George Lawhorn home.

Lowell Griemann has a broken foot but several of his classmates carry his books for him. Outside of tripping over his crutches and sliding on the waxed floors, he doesn't have too much trouble.

Our vocal music teacher, Mrs Whitney, has had several sayings on the blackboard in her music room. Among them are: "The world is full of willing people; some willing to work and the rest willing to let them," and "I'm a great believer in luck; the harder I work, the more I seem to have."

"O.K. everyone be seated and start studying." These words are frequently spoken by Mr Donald James Loomis who has the last period study hall in Room I. Although this is Mr Loomis's first year of teaching, he enjoys it very much. Mr Loomis, the business education instructor, received his high school education at North High School of Des Moines, Iowa and his college education at Iowa State Teachers College, Cedar Falls, Iowa,

HANCOCK COUNTY HASH

This week I would like to introduce our new Youth Assistant to you readers. Roy Hougen who comes to us from Decorah, Iowa, started working in the Extension Office on Monday, Sept. 8. He will be working with the 4-H boys and girls in our county and will help with the Junior Leadership group.

Roy comes to Hancock County highly recommended. He is an Iowa State College graduate, was extension Youth Assistant in Sioux County for seven months before going into the army. We hope he will enjoy his work in Hancock County.

4-H girls record books have been judged and the boys have almost been completed. We had some very good record books this year in the Home Economics section.

The Ellington Experts 4-H club that had 24 members last year held a meeting this week and decided to have two units in their township this year instead of one. They will meet separately at the meeting to be held on Saturday, September 27, and elect their new officers. With new member prospects that each of these clubs have we are expecting them to have about 15 members each.

Dividing large clubs give more 4-H'ers a chance to be officers and thus develop leadership. 4-H'ers learn by "doing" and the more new experiences they have the better fitted they are to become good community workers now and later.

Are you in the market for a new kitchen knife? One of the first things to look for is the carbon content. High carbon content stands for a sharp blade. Stainless blades rarely have the cutting qualities of high-carbon steal because steel with high carbon content is harder than stainless steels or alloys. Carbon is measured in points. Ordinary knives have 60-70 points, with better grades up to 110 points. Ask a few questions when you go to look for knives and check on what the blade is made of so you will know what to expect of the knife.

I will plan to be back in the county October 6 following my vacation to Canada and the New England States.

ESTHER CIRCLE MET

The Esther Circle of the Methodist WSCS met September 11th at the home of Mrs Dwight Helps.

It was decided to have a supper to consist of chili, vegetable soup, chicken sandwiches, maidrites, pie and coffee in the church dining room on Wednesday evening, September 24th. Everyone is welcome to eat lunch with us that evening and all invited to attend.

After the business meeting was adjourned, the hostess served lunch to the fourteen members and two visitors present. Mrs Gail Becker and Mrs Denny Ridder were the welcome guests.

The October meeting will be at the home of Mrs Mildred Day with Mrs Dorence Day as co-hostess.

Farm Tips

from your

Extension Director

By Henderson

Thousands of Iowa dairymen are cutting themselves out of additional income by denying their cows a "dry period," says Extension Dairyman Floyd Arnold, Iowa State College. Without a dry period, milk production usually drops 15-25 per cent during the next lactation. The length of dry period needed depends upon the productivity of the cow and her condition at the end of the lactation. Good cows need 6-8 weeks to restore the mineral content of their bodies, to lay some flesh on their backs and allow time for rebuilding the milk-making tissues.

The kind of corn drying equipment you get should be the kind that will do your job most economically. Extension Agricultural Engineer Larry Van Fossen of Iowa State College says the cost of corn drying equipment can be quite high and must be justified. If you have from a few hundred bushels of corn up to 2-3 thousand bushels, he recommends using natural air drying equipment. If you have from 2 to 8 or 10 thousand bushels, he says you can economically use either natural air equipment or low-cost batch dryers or wagon-type batch dryers—though quite expensive—can be easily justified, he says for amounts of corn from 8-10 thousand bushels on up.

The time red clover or alfalfa be plowed under is in the fall.

Crops specialist Ralph Krenzin of Iowa State College says that where moisture is critical, plowing should be done fairly early to stop plant growth and conserve moisture. Under normal moisture conditions, it would be better to delay plowing until soil temperatures are lower. This would avoid the quicker breakdown of plant nitrogen that occurs at warmer temperatures.

Plans for buildings for multiple farrowing system for hogs.

Agricultural Engineer Fred Roths of Iowa State College says the engineers have a new plan available for a combination hog-farrowing and nursery building. The plan, No. 5068, costs $1.25. Notes on construction, information on heating and ventilation and hog management suggestions are included. This and other plans for farm buildings and equipment may be ordered from Agricultural Engineering Extension, Iowa State College, Ames, Iowa. The usual cost is 25 cents per sheet.

Latest date that lawns can be seeded in the fall. Mid-September is usualy the cut-off time for seeding lawns, says Horticulturist Ed Cott of Iowa State College. The grass needs several weeks to get established before the end of the growing season. Cott adds that the seedbed should be kept moist while the grass is getting started.

Start mowing operations on your newly seeded lawn as soon as grass is from 2-2½ inches tall, says Horticulturist Ed Cott, Iowa State College. Cut the grass to a height of 1½ inches. Continue mowing operations until winter sets in.

STEENBLOCK NEW PRESIDENT OF INDIANS

The Twin Lake Indians 4-H club elected their officers for the 1958 club year on September 8 at the home of Gary Steenblock. The new officers are as follows: President, Gary Steenblock; Vice-President, David Kudej; Secretary-Treasurer, David Eliason; Reporter, Leland Halfpop; Historian, Roger Hanson; Recreation chairman, Larry Schuver; Music Chairman, Raymond Eliason; Public Relations Director, Eldon Thompson.

New leaders are: Ole G Eliason and Billy Schuver.

Larry Schuver, the recreation chairman, started his first 4-H club year at this meeting also.

Gary Steenblock, Hancock County's delegate to Health Camp at Madrid, gave an interesting report on his activities there. Roger Hanson and David Eliason reported on their demonstration at the Iowa State Fair.

A club photographer was also discussed. If we should decide to elect a club photographer, the Indians club would pay for the film and flash bulbs, it was decided.

THE FARM OUTLOOK

By Paul Henderson
County Extension Director

There's a good chance that suppliers of slaughter cattle will continue decreasing and that prices have touched bottom, according to Tom Rackham, Iowa State College farm economist.

The price spread between top and bottom cattle grades is currently small, until grass-feds start moving to market, any price gains probably will be only in the upper grades, Rackham says. Prices in the lower grades will be held down by competition from increasing supplies of poultry and pork, he believes.

There isn't much chance that grass-fed cattle will glut the market this fall, Rackham says. Pasture feed is so plentiful that if prices weaken, producers will hang on to their cattle, he says.

One reason for the drop in slaughter is that many cattle that would normally have gone to market during the second quarter of this year were still on feed July 1. The number on feed July 1 was considerably larger than in 1958 because of this holding back, but the cattle slaughter during July and August was much smaller than the year before.

Reasons for the cattle hold-back lie in last season's peculiarities, Rackham says. Cattle were moved late into feedlots and were fed soft corn which brought slow gains. Also, favorable price and feed conditions prompted producers to feed cattle longer.

Lower slaughter rates have also been brought on by the shortage of grass-fed cattle reaching market, Rackham points out. Pasture and range are so good throughout the country that most beef cattle are still grazing, he says.

In spite of the current slaughter lag, the number of feeder calves shipped from the 10 major markets so far this year has run about even with 1957, Rackham notes. Weekly shipments during July and August dropped off, but this drop-off was balanced by the larger shipments in previous months, he points out.

A few more cattle weighing 500-800 pounds have moved from the 10 markets than last year, but the number is much smaller than in 1956, Rackham observes. About twice as many cattle weighing over 800 pounds have moved from the markets as in 1956 or 1957.

Morningside to Offer $3,200 in Scholarships

SIOUX CITY—Six Morningside college scholarships totaling $3,200 will be awarded to participants in the annual high school Band day event here September 27 under sponsorship of the college.

Some 60 bands—3,000 school musicians—from northwest Iowa, southeast South Dakota and northeast Nebraska will be treated to a day in Sioux City to include an afternoon parade and a massed band concert in the evening between halves of the football game between Morningside and South Dakota university.

The bands, their conductors and chaperons will be guests of the college at the game.

Scholarships for $800 tuition will be awarded to each of two student bandsmen who are chosen Miss and Mr Band day. Each band will nominate two persons for the honor and the choices will be made by a board of judges on the basis of musical skill and school academic record. Four runnersup each will receive scholarships worth $400 in tuition.

Lions Club Sees Movie "Iowa's Road Challenge"

A movie "Iowa's Road Challenge" will be featured on the program of the Klemme Lions Club on Wednesday, September 17th.

The film, sponsored by the Iowa Good Roads Association is an Iowa-made film developed by the association to promote the cause of better and safer highways and tells a factual story of Iowa's highways, their history, condition and needs of the future.

The 15-minute full color sound film explains the recent needs study conducted by the state highway commission to determine the dollar needs of Iowa's various highway systems to provide an adequate highway network to serve the state's expected vehicle traffic in 1971. It is followed by a 10-minute "film talk" by Gerald Bogan, executive secretary of the Iowa Good Roads Association, which presents the association's proposals to meet the challenge.

The film contains scenes of Iowa road building, movies of the new interstate highway system in Iowa and graphic illustrations of the benefits of community bypasses and the saving of lives, property and time by modern highways.

Talking TV with Ed Brozik
PHONING THE TV MAN
Phoning the TV man for services is not a cheerful event considering that most of us are on budgets, and the chances are TV cost isn't included in the expenses at the moment. This causes the question to be raised, "How often does this set need to be serviced?"
Accurate statistics show that the average set needs some type of servicing about five times a year. However, this includes servicing of the most minor defects which are cheerfully tolerated in other mechanisms, but are immediately corrected in a television set.
Local folks have found out that by phoning 371 at Garner, the GARNER TV & APPLIANCE will give them fast and reasonably priced services, done in their living room 90% of the time. Ask your friends about us.

Building a Greater Iowa

Leader in Home Ownership
Iowans can be truly proud of their record in home ownership. According to the last U. S. census, 63.4 per cent of all Iowa families owned their own homes, placing us among the top ten states . . against a national ownership average of 55 per cent.
For a family to own its own home requires a steady job, good pay. Here again, the brewing industry is helping to build a greater Iowa . . with its annual Iowa payrolls of over $30,000,000.00. And the taxes the industry pays help keep down taxes on these homes, too. Last year's state and federal taxes on beer sold in Iowa totaled over $25,000,000.00. Truly, in this and so many other ways . . .

Some Random Thoughts

BY L. E. "PETE" K.

Early varieties of soybeans are falling before the combine. . . many acres of farm land are being turned to black as the plow turns under the vegetation . . .rain seems to fall in goodly amounts everywhere but here. . . Iowa State won it's first football game under new head coach Clay Stapleton. . .Hope Iowa can win their opener Saturday against nationally rated TCU. . .How many games will the series go, and who will win. . .and golf clubs will soon be put away until the arrival of spring.

Today (Wednesday) is a warm, sultry day with temperature in the 80's. Quite a contrast to 1942. Mrs Roy Schaefer brought us the information the other day that on September 25, 1942, rain during the day changed to snow in the evening and a blizzard developed out of the northwest. The morning of the 26th, the ground was covered with snow and the thermometer stood at 24 degrees.

That's a far cry from what we are experiencing today, and personnally, we like it this way much better.

Most of you recall that Dr and Mrs William Zabilka of Oskaloosa were here weekend before last. Well, the day following their return to their home in Oskaloosa, Dr Zabilka was the victim of a misfortune that put him to bed. He was picking peaches and fell from a ladder landing on his back. The card we received from Mrs Zabilka was dated September 20, and as of that date he was still in bed and the extent of his injuries were as yet unknown.

Another Iowan who suffered injury this week. . .at least to his pride. . .was State Safety Commissioner Russel Brown. He was apprehended by the city police in Des Moines and charged with driving 11 miles an hour over the speed limit. He paid his fine and was assessed five points under the system that he inaugurated in the state. However, he can still point with pride to the year's traffic fatality record in Iowa. It is looking more and more like maybe his "Save 100 Lives" campaign is going to be successful.

And don't forget to look over the pictures of the children that will be published in The Times each week for several weeks. They are a fine looking group of which the entire community can be proud.

Our Younger Generation

The above pictures are the first to be published of children of this community whose parents took them to the Wellemeyer Building last spring to be photographed by a photographer from United Studios of Elkhart, Indiana.

The Times will publish the pictures of groups of these children each week for several weeks.

Those in this week's release are: top row left-to-right, Michael, 6, Susan, 3, and Jon, 9 months, all children of Mr and Mrs Marvin Lemke of Klemme.

Bottom row left-to-right, Tami Dee, 4-month-old daughter of Mr and Mrs Virgil Pringnitz of Kanawha, and Jody Lynn, 18 months, and Ricky, 6, children of Mr and Mrs Robert Hartzell of Klemme.

Ages given for the children are as of May 28, the day the pictures were taken.

83 Persons X-rayed in TB Contact Program

The 16th annual Contact X-ray Program in Hancock County has been concluded according to Mrs Herman Bode, president of the Hancock County Tuberculosis and Health Association.

Eighty-three persons had chest x-rays taken while the mobile x-ray unit was in the county and interpretation of films indicated 10 of these showed findings suspicious of tuberculosis. In addition 15 persons were found to have other chest abnormalities indicating possible tumors, heart conditions, cancer, etc., which may need further medical attention. Fifty-eight persons were notified they had healthy chests.

The Contact X-ray Program is an effort to find unknown tuberculosis among persons who have been in close contact with someone with tuberculosis in a contagious stage. Funds from the Hancock County sale of Christmas Seals help defray the expense of the program.

Marcia Mitchell R. N., public health nurse, directed the program and interviewed those who have been in contact with an active case of tuberculosis. She made 105 calls to homes, taking case histories of 102 persons. These visits followed conferences with 30 physicians.

The Contact Program is sponsored jointly by the Hancock County Association, the Iowa Tuberculosis and Health Association, and the State Department of Health. It has the approval of the Hancock County Medical Society.

About 80 counties in Iowa have been searching for tuberculosis in this manner since 1937 when the program was started.

International Letter Writing Week Oct. 5-11

International Letter Writing Week will be celebrated in Klemme, Iowa, during the week of October 5 to 11, Postmaster Franklin Kluckhohn announced today.

Twenty-one years ago, realizing the importance of written communication, the Post Office Department joined in the observance of an annual letter writing week — an event celebrated to emphasize the meaning and value of letter writing as a link between people throughout the world.

Postmaster Kluckhohn explained that by participating in both International Letter Writing Week and National Letter Writing Week this worthwhile objective is promoted between all peoples everywhere.

"As we all know so well," Mr Kluckhohn said, "a personal letter is next to an actual visit, the most intimate means we have to communicate with our fellow human beings. Letters between our citizens and between peoples of different nations are a sure method of establishing friendly relationships and understandings.

"I urge all citizens of Klemme to join in this celebration of International Letter Writing Week. And at the same time, don't overlook your friends and relatives in America. Write them a letter too!"

FIRE

During an electrical storm recently, lightning struck a large corn crib on the William Polansky farm near Spillville. It was Spillville's first fire in almost 13 years.

Boy Scouts to Pick Up Clothing for Goodwill

On Saturday, September 27th and October 4th the Winnebago Council Cub and Boy Scouts in 54 towns throughout Butler, Franklyn, Cerro Gordo, Wright, Hancock, Winnebago, Mitchell, Floyd and Worth Counties will conduct their third annual "Good Turn Day" clothing drive for the handicapped at Goodwill Industries.

Cubmaster Eldon Hagen and the Cub Scouts will deliver a Scout Goodwill clothing bag to every home in Klemme on Saturday, September 27th.

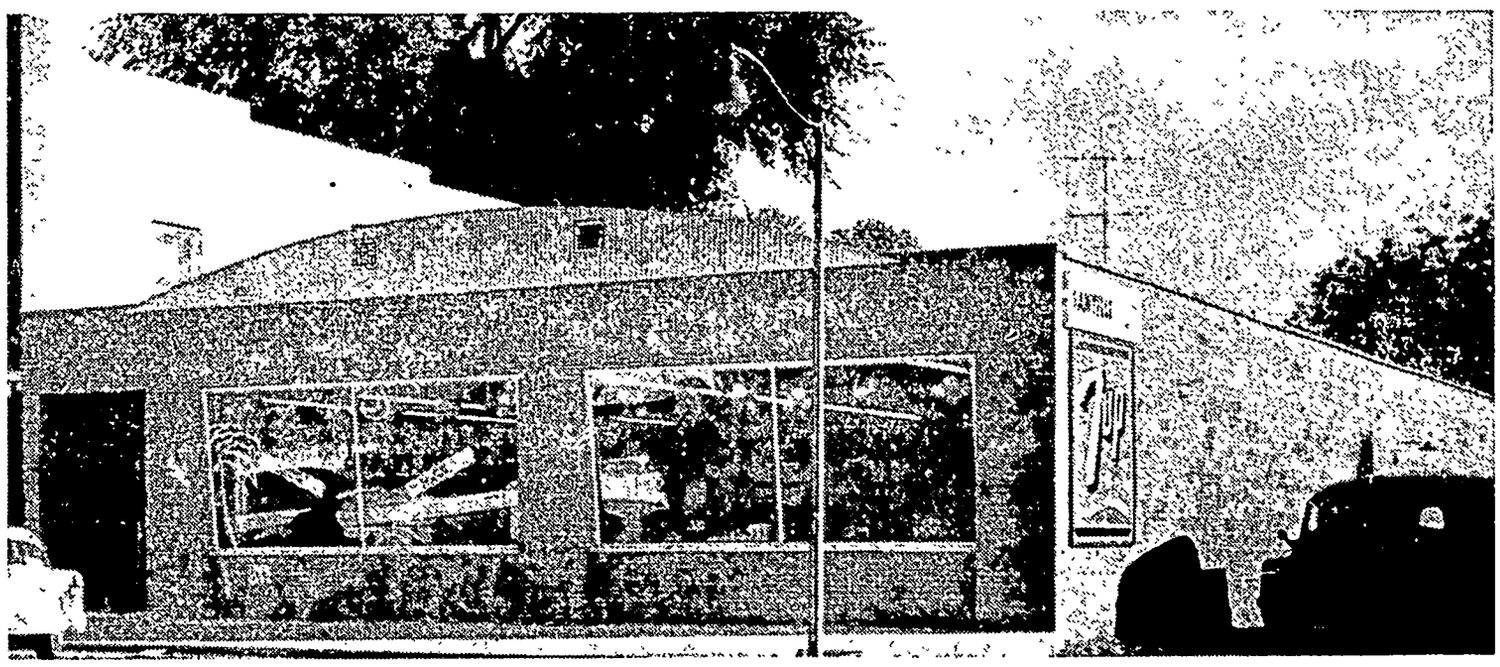
One week later on "Good Turn Day", Saturday, October 4th, Scoutmaster LaVerne Schroeder and the Boy Scouts will return to the homes to collect the filled bags and boxes of clothing and take them to a central collection station. Goodwill Industries' trucks will pick up the filled bags at the collection station during the followng week.

The need this year particularly is great for such articles as the following: Discarded clothing for men, women and children; unwanted garments which are usable or can be repaired; pieces of cloth regardless of size, fabric of age; curtains; drapes, linens, bedding and all kinds of shoes with pairs tied together. Also needed are small toys, electrical appliances and all other household articles and utensils.

Newspapers and magazines will not be included in this drive and will not be picked up!

Last year's clothing drives conducted by over a half million Cub and Boy Scouts in many cities of the nation played a vital part in the Goodwill Industries' program. These Scout clothing drives enable many of the 122 non-profit Goodwill Industries Plants in the nation to furnish full time training and employment for over 30,000 physical and mental handicapped men and women, whose only income is derived from work they do in processing clothing and other household articles donated by thousands of generous contributors.

Chairman of the Good Turn Day clothing drive, Mr Robert I Webb of Clear Lake, Iowa, Winnebago Council Camping and Activities Chairman, asks that everyone fill the bag and an extra box or two with clothing. Mr Webb states that this is a wonderful opportunity for those of us who are more fortunate to be a Good Scout and help the local Cub and Boy Scouts in their Good Turn Day project of providing work for the less fortunate handicapped men and women at Goodwill Industries.



Pictured above is the new store building erected by Mr and Mrs Gordon Sawtelle. The building houses Sawtelle Superette and has an apartment in the rear. It is located between the Klemme Co-op. Creamery and Fred's Place and is a fine addition to our town.

CAPITOL LETTER

(Weekly news release of the Iowa Press Association. The material contained herein does not necessarily conform to the editorial policy of this newspaper.)

State Income Tax

The Iowa Tax Commission has served notice that the Iowa non-resident withholding tax law will be rigidly enforced.

Leon Miller, commission chairman, says Iowa has been losing more than half a million dollars annually since 1937 because this state law has not been enforced. Under this law, employers are requised to withhold a portion of the non-resident's income for state income tax purposes. It's estimated that in Scott county alone some $100,000 can be added to the state's payroll.

Butler In Des Moines

Democratic national chairman Paul Butler breezed into Des Moines following the 13-state Midwest Democratic Conference at Omaha and charged that President Dwight D Eisenhower and Agriculture Secretary Ezra Taft Benson are concerned with the "General Motors Farmers" and not the small farmer with the family sized farm.

Butler also told newsmen during an interview at the municipal airport that the National Democratic Committee will deal with Democratic State Chairman Donald (Duke) Norberg and not Jake More, former Iowa chairman of the Democratic party who was re-elected chairman of the Midwest Conference Butler pointed out that the state chairman is the proper person to deal with and that the midwest group is a voluntary organization.

The colorful national chairman also predicted that Governor Herschel C Loveless and Representative Merwin Coad, Boone, would be re-elected "plus 2 or 3 other Democratic congressional candidates." Across the nation, Butler predicted a Democratic gain of 40 to 60 in the U. S. House and 8 to 14 in the Senate. He said most of these 40 to 60 seats in the House will be picked up in the midwest.

Code Of Ethics

Both gubernatorial candidates have signed a code of conduct designed to bar "dirty campaigning". Governor Herschel C Loveless signed the pledge before newsmen at one of his daily press conferences and GOP hopeful William G Murray signed it at Republican State headquarters with secretaries and campaign workers looking on as witnesses.

This code is a pledge against slander, personal vilification, wispering campaigns, misrepresentation, and appeals based on race, nationality or creed.

Highway Progress

From July 1, 1957 to June 30, 1958 a total of 271 miles of 18 foot primary roads in Iowa were widened to 24 feet This leaves 2,468 miles of 18-foot paved highways. This is only one of several thousand statistics included in the annual report of the Iowa Highway Commission to Governor Loveless.

Expenditures from the farm to market road fund for construction work was $25,714,300. Construction expenditure the previous fiscal year was $18,072,265 and in 1956 was $14,853,811.

Bonus Check

History was made last Friday with the presentation of the first Korean bonus checks. Mrs Jennie Reynolds, Muscatine, received the first bonus check to a veteran's beneficiary. Her son, Edward, was killed during the Korean conflict. Dale Wedgewood, Marshalltown, was the first living veteran to receive a bonus check.

Some 4,00 bonus checks to Iowa veterans of the Korean war were mailed Friday. The next round of bonus checks will be mailed the first week in October.

Vet Bonus Tax

There will be a sharp drop next year in the state levy to pay Korean veterans' bonus bonds. The state tax commission has announced the state property tax levy for the Korean bonds will be only one cent for each $1,000 of taxable property valuation as compared to 25 cents for each $1,000 this year.

Chief reason for this sharp drop is that a portion of monies and credits tax has been set aside for the Korean funds and these funds are now being used.

Labor President

Ray Mills, former mayor of Des Moines, has been re-elected president of the Iowa Federation of Labor, A.F.L. -C.I.O. The 56-year-old Mills defeated Vernon Dale, Muscatine, in a hotly contested battle. Final vote was 528 to 404.

In many respects it was a battle between the old A.F.L. and the old C.I.O. Prior to the merger of the two unions several years ago, Mills served as president of the A.F.L. and Dale headed up the old state C.I.O.

Convention delegates also voted Mills a $1,000 a year pay increase bringing his salary to $9,000.

Point System

Commenting on Iowa's traffic point system, acting safety commissioner Russell I. Brown, said, "the impact of the point system has held on longer than I anticipated." The point system was put into effect last April 1.

Brown said the impact of the point system on safety in Iowa is due to one thing — "the point system is a threat to the driver's license."

Commissioner Brown also said, in response to a letter by the Fort Dodge Messenger, that the point will eventually find a level of effectiveness somewhat below the present level. "That means that we must be thinking right now in terms of additional activity if we are to hold the progress we have been able to make."

Highway Story

By Bob Hullihan

A lot of letters cross the desk of the Commissioner of public safety. Some make the measure of humanity look pretty shallow. Others are from people with axes to grind. Some are friendly, helpful, unselfish.

But last week there arrived two rare letters. One was from an elderly man. The other from a young man. Perhaps the Iowa safety department has never received letters quite like these before.

One of the letters was from Mr Lewis A Wood of Moulton, Iowa. In a few lines, written in a firm hand, Mr Wood said that after 49 years of safe driving he felt it was time for him to turn in his drivers license.

And that's exactly what he did, quietly, gracefully, he returned his license to the state, enclosed with the letter, and ended a driving career that began in 1909.

Mr Wood showed a rare kind of understanding and courage in voluntarily surrendering his license. And, certainly, he deserves the respect of every other driver, both because of his record and his decision.

The other letter came from a considerably younger man who had just had his license returned to him after 30 days suspension. The young man had been convicted of three speeding offenses.

The letter, believe it or not, was to thank the safety department for suspending his license. The said the trouble in getting it back had changed his whole attitude toward driving — and perhaps saved his own or another life. Letters like these come too seldom.

4-H Junior Leadership Meeting Will Be Sept. 29

The 1959 organizational meeting of the Hancock County 4-H Junior Leadership group is scheduled for 8:00 p.m. on Monday, September 29 in the study hall of the Britt High School. Roy E Hougen says that at this meeting the group will decide just what they would like to do for the coming year in the service, educational and social fields.

Presiding at the meeting will be president Donald Kopacek. The other newly elected officers are: Mary Lou Smidt, Vice president; Roger Pringnitz, Secretary-Treasurer; and Daniel Arndarfer, Reporter.

Hougen says that the 4-H Junior Leadership group is composed of 4-H members 15 years of age or older. Starting its second year in the county, its purpose is to give older 4-H members a chance to assist the adult club leaders, perform community services and hold educational meetings as well as to become better acquainted with other 4-H members of the county.

Hougen stresses that anyone who has not been a member of the group before and is a 4-H member 15 years or older is welcome to attend the meeting.

Waggoner Charges Coad With Neglect of Duties

Bob Waggoner, Republican candidate for Congress, yesterday charged his Democrat opponent with being absent on eight occasions when a total of almost $40 billion was appropriated by the House of Representatives. "This is a sad neglect of his duties and responsibilities", Waggoner said.

Speaking to a Republican rally in Rolfe Wednesday night, Waggoner charged, "On eight occasions when large sums of money were being spent, my opponent wasn't even there to vote. A total of $39,352,751,285 was spent in these votes and my opponent was so unmindful of his responsibilities he wasn't even there to vote. The very least a Representative can do is to be present when important voting is taking place. My opponent failed to meet even that minimum requirement."

Waggoner closed his remarks with a direct question to his Democratic opponent: "On behalf of the voters of this district I ask you this question — Where were you when this $40 billion was being spent? You should have been in the House of Representatives and you were not. Where were you? We deserve an answer.

EDITORIAL

With the co-operation of each one of us, we will have one of the best papers edited.

Co-operation — working together. The working together of the student, faculty, and public will make for a superior school.

We students must first abide by laws that have been set up for us which are to our advantage. Probably we won't agree with them at first but we will as we graduate and grow older. Our study habits which are of utmost importance to us will help us get the most from our school work.

Co-operating with our instructors, appreciating what they are doing for us, and trying in every way to gain the knowledge they are trying to give us, these are all a part of good study habits.

Many of us need wise consuling too, for we do not know what is best for us now, and what will help us most in the future.

Our teachers are always trying to pursuade us to study, they never think we do enough of it. Study habits are rather hard to develop, because there are many distractions, but once good study habits are developed, they will be useful throughout our entire school life.

If we are busy studying we get into less trouble — usually — thus providing for a better conduct grade.

By studying we grow more interested in our subjects and carry on more and more without the push of the teachers.

We the editorial staff hope that each member of the student body will analize their study habits and see if they can be improved.

GRADE SCHOOL NEWS

This week the kindergarten and first grade have no news to report.

Second Grade News

We think our new, large room is very nice. We like the shelves for our books and other things.

Our work is fun but some of it is hard. We are trying to do it well.

We have a new arithmetic book. It is different from what we had. We are glad the playground equipment is ready for use. Many thanks to the ones who helped to get it ready for us.

Third Grade News

Hi! We sure do like our new room. It's such fun to work in it. We've already made September sunflowers for our bulletin board.

In Social Studies we are studying about food, fruits and milk. We brought pictures of the many fruits that are good for us.

Last week we had 17 people get 100 in spelling. We hope we keep up this record.

Melvin Schlichting was our king last Tuesday. It was his birthday. His mother brought ice cream and birthday cake to school for the class. Lynette Veldhouse was queen on Wednesday since it was her birthday too. She brought candybars for everyone in the class.

Third Grade News

We are proud of our new room. It is fun to work in it.

We are studying about food in our Social Studies. We have finished "fruits". One day some of the boys and girls brought apples. We tasted them to find out which were sweet and which were tart. Then we planted some of the seeds. We hope they will grow.

Our dental dog is beginning to grow. He grows longer by having our dental cards added to him.

Our Blinky the Bookworm Charts show how many books we have read. We color another circle on to Blinky each time we read another library book.

In Health we made posters about a good breakfast.

Beverly Trampel was absent on Tuesday because of illness.

Miss Johnson

Fourth Grade News

During the first week of school we chose names for our three reading groups. They are Texas Rangers, Blackhawks, and Red Riders.

We have two baby turtles in our room. Their names are Cindy and Dorothy. All of us take turns cleaning their bowl.

In Social Studies we learned how to use the glossary. It's fun to look up words that we don't know while reading about our South American jungle friend, Pimsvee.

Fifth Grade News

After finding our way around our new building, we have found a new room which wasn't in the other school. This new room is the library where we have spent many happy minutes finding and reading good books.

We have been getting acquainted with our new arithmetic books which are called "Arithmetic We Need". The first weeks of school were spent reviewing the value of numbers and adding numbers.

Our social studies lessons have kept us busy finding information about the early explorers of our continent.

Sixth Grade News

In Health we have been studying about foods. We drew pictures showing the tree as a green plant factory, and also pictures of food used by animals.

We have had several interesting articles on display this week. These include hedge balls brought from Missouri, knives made with antler horn handles and a fawn hoof handle. Lynn Katter brought a deerskin to show us.

Shamrocks Win Two Then Lose In Sectional Tourney

This is the first of a series of three games played by the Klemme Baseball team in the Sectional Tournament. These games all took place at Corwith, Iowa.

Saturday, September 12, Klemme defeated LuVerne in the first round of the Sectional Tournament by the score of 7-4. The winning pitcher was Langlitz who gave up 4 runs on 5 hits, with 6 errors. The losing pitcher was Denio who gave up 7 runs on 3 hits with 6 errors.

On Monday, September 14, the baseball team again journeyed to Corwith. This time they played Hayfield in the second round of the tournament. The Shamrocks defeated the Hayfield team by the score of 11-1. The winning pitcher was Langlitz who gave up 1 run on 9 hits with 0 errors. The losing pitcher was Lewerky who gave up 11 runs on 3 hits with 8 errors.

On Wednesday, September 16, the Shamrocks again journeyed to Corwith for a game with Corwith. The Corwith team defeated the Shamrocks 9-4. The winning pitcher was Stroup who gave up 4 runs on 4 hits with 4 errors. The losing pitcher was Langlitz who gave up 9 runs on 12 hits with 5 errors.

Our milers are looking forward to the mile run to be held at Iowa City on October 4 at 10 A.M. While they are there they can see a free football game between Iowa University and Air Force Academy.

TEACHER INTERVIEW

the ambition of our mathematics teacher, Mrs Karen Hanson. Mrs Hanson is originally from Santa Barbara, California where she attended both grade and high school. She mastered her teaching knowledge at Luther College at Decorah.

This past summer she was married to Mr Bill Hanson and they are making their home in Kanawha where Mr Hanson is coach.

After a minutes thought on who her favorite ochestra was she decided it was Glen Miller and her favorite vocal group is the Four Freshmen — although any male group was to her liking.

When asked about her favorite food, "Oh, steak definitely!" was her reply, it might help if it were medium rare.

We students have noticed that Mrs Hanson is partial to the "sac" dress and they are becoming!

If Mrs Hanson ever achieves her ambition of traveling around the world, we students will be looking forward to her postal cards.

Be Nonchalant

Be nonchalant when:

1. You discover you've made two dates for the same night.
2. The teacher takes the homework for a test and you find your kid brother carefully erased all your answers.
3. You discover you've locked your keys in the car, and your date is due home in 10 minutes.
4. You're reciting memory work for English and your mind suddenly goes BLANK.
5. You break a date with Ignatz (you have a headache.) and go out with True Love. Who should sit next to you in the show but Ignatz!
6. You are typing madly along when you discover the shift key is pushed down.
7. You go to meet your one and only after class, find someone else waiting for her, too.
8. You are talking about someone and discover them standing near enough to hear.
9. You buy your lunch and eat it, find you have no money.
10. Your blind date turns out to be your steady.

STAMPEDE, Madisonville, Texas, High

KHS Among Contenders For SUI Class B Award

Klemme High School was among the leading contenders for the Phi Beta Kappa High School Scholarship Class B award from the State University of Iowa this year.

This award is made each fall to the high school whose students have made the best record as freshmen at the State University.

Mr Shafer received a letter from the Phi Beta Kappa Society regarding the information of the award.

It is the purpose of this award to encourage scholastic endeavors. "It is our hope that the Phi Beta Kappa Scholarship awards will be a spur to the ambitions of students on the campus and to future generations of students coming from our Iowa High Schools."

We express our heartiest congratulations to Darlene Eichorn and Arthur Carlson who were on the campus as freshmen last year.

29 Freshmen Initiated At Annual Ceremony

Twenty-nine nervous freshmen were among those present at the annual initiation ceremony on the night of September 12th (honored by the seniors).

The freshmen were all dressed in very unusual attire. Some came in bedclothes, others in bathing suits, some in their father's or mother's clothing, and we even saw an originial dress made from a gunny sack. The boys had tousled hair, and the girls had ten pig tails in their's. There was also a green-faced character there.

To start the evening's events, the freshmen were divided into two lines and an orange was passed down each line by passing the orange from neck to neck. Neither side won because the orange always fell before it reached the end.

Next each freshman or perhaps two were required to do a stunt. Many of the stunts required a blind-fold, and were such stunts as eating worms in dirt when it was actually noodles in coffee grounds; walking on a board with tacks when all it was was a rubber mat with rubber prongs; jumping from a plank thought to be higher than it was; or having two boys roll two nuts across the floor with their nose when actually there was only one nut! Well, so it goes!

Then there was the stunt where the freshmen's shoes were taken and piled in one heap. While the shoes piled up, three of the freshmen had to polish the big toenail of each of his classmates. Three other freshmen put the shoes back on the feet of the right person.

And, of course, we had a girl propose to a boy; another girl fed a baby bottle full of milk to a boy; and still another girl assisted a boy to wiggle and squeeze into a ??????!

Some stunts required co-operation, such as, getting a hat from one person to another without using hands; or moving at the right time to keep your partner from dropping an egg in your face. A very co-operative job was done when a boy and girl put make-up on each other. You should have seen them when they finished!

We also tested a boy's sense of balance. He had to walk with a book on his head and a yardstick balanced on one finger. It's possible because he was very successful.

Since we also wanted to initiate the new teachers, they were asked to use the hoola hoop. Only one new teacher was there and he made a good attempt. Before we knew it, though, we had had every teacher that was there try to make the hoop go around. We wonder who enjoyed this more, the teachers or the students.

After the initiation we concluded the night's events with a dance and lunch. We enjoyed the initiation very much and the freshmen proved to be very good sports. We accept and welcome them whole-heartedly into the high school.

VARIED COLUMN

Our janitor of the new school building, Merlin Brinkman, got his exercise this past week by spreading 450 pounds of grass seed for the lawn around the new school building. Clifford Anderson drug the seed in after it was spread.

Thursday afternoon we had two practice fire drills within a period of five minutes. The first drill took one minute. The second time we improved and we evacuated the building in forty-five seconds, which complied with the State requirement.

The eighth grade has elected their class officers. They are: President, Bobby Anderson; Vice-President, Earl Lemke; Secretary, James Eenhuis; and Treasurer, Harlan Langlitz.

Last week the grade school youngsters took hearing tests. The Freshmen class and several other high school students took individual hearing tests.

LeRoy Josten, Belmond Girl Speak Wedding Vows

The Fundamental Baptist Church of Belmond was the scene of the wedding of Miss Georgia Hannah Eekhoff of Belmond, and LeRoy Henry Josten of Corwith. The Rev Harry A McKinney performed the double ring ceremony before an altar decorated with baskets of fall flowers.

Miss Eekhoff is the daughter of Mr and Mrs George Eekhoff of Belmond and Mr Josten is the son of Mr and Mrs August Josten of Klemme.

Elaine Jurgemeyer, pianist, played nuptial music and also accompanied LaVerne Josten, who sang "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer".

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a ballerina gown of white lace over taffeta. Her short veil of nylon tulle was held in place by a small hat. She wore a string of pearls, a gift of the bridegroom, and carried a corsage of red roses centered on a white Bible, with white ribbon streamers.

LaVohn Josten, sister of the bridegroom, was maid of honor. Her gown was a saphire blue taffeta, with a silver net overskirt. She carried white carnations.

Hemmo Eekhoff, brother of the bride, served as best man. Ushers were Marvin Josten and George Eekhoff.

A reception for about 180 guests was held in the church parlors, which were decorated in the brides chosen colors of blue and white, with silver bells. The wedding cake was baked and cut by Mrs Laurice Lemke and was served by Mrs Calvin Josten. Mrs George Eekhoff served the punch and Mrs Robert Nelson presided at the coffee service. Waitresses were Cindy Eekhoff, Janice Abbas, and Marcella Nuehring.

Mrs H A McKinney registered the guests, while the gifts were opened and displayed by Mrs Jake Eekhoff and Linda Meinders.

The bride attended school at Belmond and has been working in Belmond. Mr Josten attended school in Klemme and is at present employed at Corwith.

Test Will Instill Safety In High School Students

Des Moines — A new idea in traffic safety education is being tried in Iowa for the first time as a joint program of the state safety department and the American Institute of Business here.

Russell Brown, state safety commissioner, said the department is supplying material for a series of traffic safety typing tests for use in commercial classes in Iowa high schools.

The material, while serving as a test of typing skill, will also give students information on traffic laws, advice on safe driving, and help develop proper attitudes, Brown said.

The American Institute of Business will print and mail a minimum of 10,000 of the tests to high schools throughout Iowa each month, according to Keith Fenton, president.

He said the tests will be supplied to any commercial teachers making a request, without cost to the schools or the state.

A.I.B. has supplied typing tests to high schools for a number of years. "It's our hope this material will be a contribution to safety among young drivers," Fenton said.

Brown said the safety typing test idea "is an opportunity to give students some additional safety education while they are performing a regular class activity." He urged commercial teachers to request and use the tests.

THUMB

Congressman Henry O Talle, suffered a fractured thumb when an arm rest he was using as a support, gave way and in the ensuing fall his thumb was broken. He is recovering from a broken foot which happened in a fall on slippery steps last February.

BOLSON'S POULTRY CONCENTRATE

If you make your rations with your own grain, the Quality and Potency of your ration will depend on the Quality of the Concentrate you use. Compare Bolson's 37% Poultry Concentrate with any consentrate on the market. Be sure to check the Fat Content of the concentrate you are now using and if it is lower than Bolson's it might be a good time to switch to Bolson's next time you make your poultry ration.

You can get more eggs using Bolson's and at the same time keep up the health of your flock.

Make a Flower Basket Pie!

Fabulous for a party is this delicate dessert, but easy as can be to make! To decorate: with decorating tube and tinted whipped cream, make pastel roses and leaves. For the handle, wind pastel pipe cleaners around a strip of cardboard and stick ends of handle into pie at inner edge of crust.

VANILLA DESSERT PIE

1 envelope (1 tablespoon) unflavored gelatine
⅔ cup sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
¾ cup undiluted evaporated milk
¾ cup water
3 egg yolks, slightly beaten
3 egg whites, unbeaten
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 Chocolate Coconut Crust (Over hot water melt 1 cup semi-sweet chocolate chips with 2 tablespoons butter. Add ¾ cup flaked coconut and spread in pie plate. Chill.)

Mix thoroughly gelatine, ⅓ cup of the sugar, and the salt in a saucepan. Add evaporated milk and water. Cook and stir over medium heat until gelatine is thoroughly dissolved. (Do not boil.) Blend with egg beater. Pour slowly over egg yolks, stirring constantly. Return mixture to saucepan and cook until thickened (about 3 minutes), stirring constantly. Cool 15 minutes.

Beat egg whites until foamy throughout. Add remaining ⅓ cup sugar gradually and continue beating until mixture will stand in stiff peaks. Fold in flavoring and gelatine mixture. Spoon into pie shell. Chill until firm.

THE FARM OUTLOOK

Livestock Feeding

There won't be much profit in feeding cattle next year, says Francis Kutish, Iowa State College farm economist. But, compared to a year ago, feeder lamb prices currently are more favorable than feeder cattle prices. So lamb feeding might be a good alternative enterprise for the farmer with lamb-feeding experience, Kutish says.

He notes that the quoted price for 500-800 pound choice feeder steers the last of August was $5.50 more than a year ago. Calves at Omaha were up $8.25 from a year ago. But at the same time, 900 to 1100 pound choice slaughter steers were bringing an average of only 01.18 more, Kutish points out. Thus, if next summer and fall fat cattle prices are the same as this year, the feeding profit on a 400 pound calf bought now will be down $33.

At Omaha, the quoted price for 500-750 pound choice feeder heifers was $5 higher than the last of August, 1957. But 600 to 800 pound slaughter heifers were bringing only $225 more than a year ago, Kutish observes.

Good and choice feeder lambs, on the other hand, were quoted at only 37 cents more than a year ago at Kansas City the last of August. Slaughter lambs sold for an average $1.79 mare than a year ago at Omaha, however.

Kutish says that, considering current feed prices, most feeder cattle prices have been bid to the point where choice cattle will have to bring 25-26 cents a pound at the farm next year to break even.

Hogs

Raising hogs in 1959 still looks like a good enterprise for the experienced hog producer to stay with — at least better than selling his corn for cash, Kutish believes. Hog prices have been relatively high the last two years, and the hog-corn price ratio has been good, he points out. This has caused hog production to climb. The 1958 fall pig crop is estimated at 10-15 per cent larger than a year ago, Kutish says. This means a price drop the first half of 1959.

An even sharper drop — from 5-7 dollars — may be in store for fall, 1959, Kutish says. This drop will occur if current expectations of an 8-10 per cent increase in the 1959 spring pig crop prove accurate.

But even though hog raising will be less profitable for the Midwest farmer next year, the hog-corn ratio probably will still be favorable enough to make hog production pay, Kutish says. However, this is not the time for the inexperienced producer to jump in and expect to make a killing on hogs, he warns.

HANCOCK COUNTY HASH

As Elsie Mae Van Wert, our home economist, mentioned last week, she is on vacation traveling through parts of Canada and the New England states. So, while she is gone, I, Roy Hougen, the new youth assistant in Hancock county, will be writing this news column for her. So, if it looks somewhat different than what you are used to seeing, you'll know the reason why.

Since I have been in this county less than three weeks I have a lot of "getting acquainted" to do, but with the extension staff and extension council that I have to work with, I am sure it will be interesting work. I am looking forward to meeting many of you in the near future and working with you in the coming year's 4-H program.

Stacks of 4-H record books in our office show the result of a lot of work on the part of the 4-H members in the county. They have now been judged and the results are being made available to the 4-H'ers. By the time the 4-H Committee members and leaders have gone over some 600 books I think they feel that they have put almost as much work into the books as the boys and girls themselves! But for the most part, the results are good and this is encouraging. Before long Award Night will be rolling around and then those who have done outstanding work in their 4-H work this year will be duly recognized.

Most of the 4-H clubs in the county have selected their officers and leaders for the new 4-H year or will be doing so in the near future. I think a word of thanks is due to those who have helped with the completion of a successful club program this past year. Without the endless hours and work that our adult leaders contribute the 4-H program could never be what it is. I hope that many of you will be with us this coming year and we welcome all our new leaders, also.

Dig in the earth this fall if you want buds and flowers next spring, recommends Charles Sherwood, extension horticulturist at Iowa State College. You'll dig up some bulbs; plant other things. It's a good idea to plant daffodils, tulips, lilies and hyacinths this fall, Sherwood says. Iowa's September is ideal to plant grass seed, too. And you'll want to dig up tender perennials that don't like our winter weather, he continues. Gladiolus, tuberous begonias, cannas and dahlias should be stored at above-freezing temperatures. Clean them and "cure" them at 70-80 degrees in a shady spot to drop out the excess moisture. Sunlight may "burn" them. Then tuck them in alumium foil or a plastic bag, add an all-purpose pesticide, and they're ready to hibernate. The plants do best just above freezing, except for just above freezing, eycept for tuberous begonias, which rot if the temperature goes below 50 degrees. Sherwood recommends potting begonias in soil during the winter months.

If your refrigerator balks at keeping commercial ice cream as solid as you want it, see if you can get better results by taking the ice cream out of the carton. Jewel Graham, extension nutritionist at Iowa State College, says the cardboard containers may be the reason some refrigerators won't "keep" ice cream. Cardboard insulates against the cold. Miss Graham suggests putting ice cream in ice cube trays which conduct the cold if you want to keep it several hours or overnight. You might also cover the ice cream with cold-conducting aluminum foil.

Don't use 2,4-D weed killing compounds on newly seeded lawn this fall, says Horticulturist A E Cott, Iowa State College. Wait until next fall. However, 2,4-D may be used next spring on this fall's seedings.

You should be able to save at least 5 per cent of normal field losses if you artificially dry your ear corn with natural air, says Extension Agricultural Engineer, Larry Van Fossen, Iowa State College. The reason: You can harvest your corn as much as three weeks earlier than usual. The corn is wetter, and less falls onto the ground. This saving alone will usually pay for the drying cost in a single season, says Van Fossen. Corn that's to be artificially dried can be harvested at between 30-32 per cent moisture. Other benefits of harvesting early: (1) Field Losses that do occur at 30 per cent moisture are mostly whole ears rather than shelled corn, (2) lower field losses mean less volunteer corn if beans are to be planted on the field the next year, and (3) livestock have more time to clean the fields in the fall before winter sets in.

The annual field day of the Clarion-Webster experimental farm south of Kanawha will begin at 1:00 p.m. Effects of row fertilizer of corn and sorghum and results of soil moisture will be discussed. The Field Day will be held September 26.

The age old question — "How Much Should I Pay for a Club Calf?"

W G Zmolek, animal husbandmen at Iowa State College says: 4-H clubwork is a learning experience. Paying prices far above market value is inconsistent with what is being taught. Club members can buy at market value for a realistic experience; but a 3-4-cent premium above market value is justified for selection from a herd. With cattle prices extremely high this year — 35 cents for choice calves — the profit will be in the feeding and not in the purchase of sale price. With plenty of feed available, a club member can expect to pay for calf and feed on 26 cents a pound for the finished steer.

Engstrom Reelected Head Of County Farm Bureau

Ed Engstrom, of Kanawha, Amsterdam township, was re-elected to head the Hancock County Farm Bureau for 1959, at the annual meeting held Wednesday evening, at the new high school in Britt. This will be Ed's second term as president.

Aaron Wille, of Garner township, was elected to serve as voting delegate. This will be for a three year term. Tory Nodland, of Kanawha, Amsterdam township, will serve as alternate delegate for a three year term.

Norman Madson, of Britt, Britt township, was re-elected as vice president. Ronald Bradlow, of Garner, Liberty township, was re-elected as treasurer and Delos Smith of Britt, Erin township, who this year was township director, was elected as secretary.

Mrs Kenneth Schulz, of Britt, Liberty township, will serve as county women's chairman.

Other Officers

Township directors ratified for 1959 are, for a one year term: Robert Hanson, Amsterdam; George P Smidt, Bingham; Charles Puffer, Britt; Roy Hovey, Ellington; Glenn E Johnson, Garfield; Paul Steiff, Madison; and O S Nelson, Orthel, for a two year term: Paul Kramer, Avery; Cletus Stalzer, Boone; Harold Juhl, Concord; Glenn Wille, Ell; Bill Weiss, Erin; George Kern, Liberty; Gene Smidt, Magor; and Lowell Mau, Twin Lake.

Resolutions

The Chairman of the Resolutions Committee, Norman Madson, presented the county resolutions. They were adopted without alternation.

Don Murphy, former head of Iowa Farm Bureau Information Department, whose weekly column is featured in the Spokesman, and now is with the Iowa Dairy Promotion Association, was guest speaker at this meeting. Murphy pointed out that no one simple solution would solve the farmers problems and that Washington cannot be expected to legislate complete prosperity for the farmer, although, we should expect some help from them.

County Farm Bureau Women's Chorus headed by Sue Legge, Director, furnished the entertainment for this meeting.

Farm Bureau Women's Tour Will Be October 3rd

The fall tour will leave Garner, October 3rd. at 5:30 and from Forest City at 5:50 (RIVERSIDE CAFE) SHARP. Please note the time change which was necessary to complete the day's activities. The group will tour the Faribo Blanket Company, Blue Cheese Factory, Ephphatha Mission, School for the Blind, School for the Deaf and the School for the Mentally Retarded. Most of these individual tours will take about an hour and a group of about thirty is the most that can go through at one one time. After all these tours the three busses will go to the "mum" gardens about 4:00 p.m. and will spend about two hours there. It is not compulsory to go on each individual tour if the ladies do not wish so.

Since the day is so full it has been planned that everyone is to bring a sack lunch and eat it at the Mission. The pastor has written that the Mission will make and furnish the coffee at noon for the group. He will explain the work of the Mission as we eat our lunch.

The busses will arrive in Fairbault about 7:45. The committee has arranged for a coffee break at various cafes before we start the tours. Reservations will also be made at various cafes for the evening meal. You are to order whatever you wish to eat as no special lunch or meal has been planned for.

Deadline for cancelling your reservation for this October trip will be Monday, September 29th, at 12:00 noon. No refunds will be made after this time.

2nd Tour Possible

Due to the fact that there is such a great interest in the Oct. 3rd, Women's Tour to Fairbault this fall and that there are a lot who would like to go but cannot get reservations, an identical tour in will be planned for Oct. 14, if the sufficient interest is shown. o of

DARKENED TV TUBES

A 'do-it-yourselfer' wanter to buy a TV picture tube at GARNER TV & APPLIANCE the other day. We asked him if he was sure about this trouble and he remarked: "There is no light on the screen; it must be burned out."

Actually, in the greater number of times that this happens, it isn't the picture tube at all. All picture tubes depend on the set to supply the voltages to operate it. Just one defective tube or component can cause trouble and black out the picture screen.

We serviced this fellow's set finally and he thanked us for the information. He remarked that he'd phone 371 in Garner for TV trouble after this and stick to his line of carpentry.

According to Marvin Lemke, manager of the local grain concern, beans in this area are not a bumper crop. Although some fields are yielding well, others had too much hail, or not enough rain. Moisture content of the beans is down pretty well, but Mr Lemke thinks that 20 bushels to the acre will be about the average yield.

And a commendation to the grain company. They have purchased a quantity of red flags, carrying their advertisement of course, and are putting them out free of charge to farmers so that they can put them on any machinery they might be using on the road: Mighty good safety precaution.

Friends of Dr William Zabilka of Oskaloosa, former minister here, who have been wondering as to his condition following his fall, will be sorry to hear that he broke a vertebra. However, the following quote from a letter from Dr Zabilka shows that he is still in good spirits:

"After 10 days on my back in bed, I was fitted with a brace which I will need to wear for three months. I feel fortunate that it is a brace instead of three months in a cast. With all the straps, buckles, pads and staves I feel like an infantry soldier with his full pack, or a deep sea diver."

Dr Zabilka is now resting and recuperating at his home in Oskaloosa.

Midst all the turmoil about racial integration in southern schools we can't help but think of the colored maid who was employed in a Texas home where we had occasion to visit while we were in the service during World War II. She and her mistress were engaged in a conversation about religion and the colored maid commented, "Wouldn't it be be funny if when all these white folks died and went to Heaven, they found out that God was black."

Obituary

Grace Blank was born December 7, 1883, at Boen, Ostfriesland, Germany. She was the daughter of Luppe and Elske, nee Brink, Blank. The family came to America and settled at Belmond, Iowa, when Grace was seven years of age. The mother passed away when Grace was 15 years of age and as the oldest girl in the family she carried much responsibility.

The family lived on various farms in the Klemme community until 1920 when the farm home one and one half miles southeast of Klemme was purchased. Grace was the homemaker on this place for her father until his death in 1935. She continued to live on the farm as homemaker for two of her brothers until her own illness and death.

Safety Points

Acting safety commissioner Russell I Brown has a new title —the state's most embarrassed driver. Brown was issued a summons in Des Moines for speeding 36 miles in a 25 mile zone. He pleaded guilty and paid an $11 fine.

Under Iowa's point system, put into effect last April 1 by Brown, a drivers license is suspended when 10 points are accumulated in a 12 month period. Commissioner Brown received 5 points for the speeding offense.

More than 100 safety employees met Brown in his office following the incident and presented him with a sign which said not to worry about 5 points when his safety efforts had saved more than 100 lives.

Brown is taking the kidding in good stride including the person who called up on the telephone and said "ha-ha" and then hung up.

Iowa Interstate

A 10 mile stretch of the new interstate highway west of Des Moines has been officially opened. The divided four-lane roadway is the longest piece of the interstate hghway system opened in Iowa.

Labor Laws

A former Iowa labor leader, A A Couch testified before the legislature investigatng committee on election pratices and procedures that approximately $40,000 in union funds was paid to a Des Moines law firm 10 years ago to challenge Iowa labor laws.

Couch told newsmen following his testimony behind closed doors that he was president of Policy Committee. Inc.. which handled political contributions in 1948. The organization represented Iowa unions associated with the American Federation of Labor.

Couch said the committee raised $84.000. "The big bulk of that went to law firms that were supposed to test these anti-labor laws," Couch, former president of the Iowa State Federation of Labor, said. He said $40,000 was paid in retainer fees to a Des Moines law firm. Couch said the attorneys were to find a test case and test "anti-labor" laws "but they never found any."

Don Pierson, who served as state chairman to the Republican party from 1954 to 1957, told the investigating committee in an open session that to the best of his knowledge no out-of-state political contributions were received during that period.

He explained that fund-raising was handled by the finance chairman (George Nagle) and that he (Pierson) had not kept a close check of individual contributors.

Federal Taxes

V Lee Phillips, director of internal revenue in Iowa, says federal tax collections in the Hawkeye state are running about 6 per cent ahead of a year ago.

Collections for the first 8 months of this year totaled $492,000,000 as compared with 463,000,000 for the corresponding period a year ago.

Exclusive Clubs

Bruce Stiles, director of the Iowa Conservation Commission, has lashed out at "exclusive" Iowa sports clubs.

In a speech delivered before delegates attending the state Izaak Walton League convention at Newton, Stiles said Iowa is being forced to purchase agricultural land to create water areas for hunting, fishing and boating because private clubs own many natural water areas.

He cited one club which has 300 acres, charges $1,000 for initiation fees plus $100 a year dues and has a limit of 20 members.

Waltonians

A Spirit Lake farmer, J J Rogers, has been re-elected state president of the Izaak Walton League of America. Other officers named at the group's 35th annual convention at Newton include C M Naser, Fort Dodge, first vice president; Robert Russell, Iowa City, second vice president; and Clark Reed, Guthrie Center, treasurer.

Hard-surfaced Roads

Back in 1954 the Iowa Highway Commission launched a 7 year program to help counties gravel key roads. Now the commission has ordered a study of this program to consider hard-surfaced roads in distributing equalization funds to counties for their farm-to-market systems.

Rep Dewey Goode, Bloomfield Republican, has been bombarding the commission with letters on the subject. Goode wants the commission to reconsider its action denying Davis county (which Goode represents) "need" funds.

Davis county wants to expand its farm-to-market network but the commission has denied it additional need money because the board of supervisors has declared the system complete. The commission will study its present program and take under consideration the need of hard-surfaced and gravel roads in the farm-to-market system.

Iowa First

The U S Department of Agriculture reports Iowa farmers led the nation in cash receipts from farm marketings during the first 7 months of this year. Marketings for this period over the nation totaled approximately 19 and ½ billion dollars, or about 10 per cent more for the same period a year earlier. Iowa marketings totaled $1,400,000,000 or an increase of about $200,000,000.

Final Curtain

Raymond M Hughes who served as president of Iowa State College for 9 years is dead. He died in Illinois at the age of 85 following a long illness. Hughes, who authored several books on education administration, was head of Iowa State from 1927 to 1936.

South of the Border

Three state insurance officials are in Mexico City this week attending a national conference, however, they have to pay any expenses incurred while in Mexico out of their own pocket

The state executive council agreed to pay travel expenses for Insurance Commissioner Oliver P Bennett and 2 other officials to the border town of Brownsville, Tex. But when they crossed the border they were on their own. The council did agree to pay hotel and food bills for them while in Mexico City.

Earlier, the council had held up the travel request after the trip was strongly criticized by Secretary of State Melvin Synhorst who said he was opposed to having the state pay expenses for travel outside of the United States.

Psychiatric Help

The State Board of Control plans to ask the legislature next January for a quarter million dollars annually to set up psychiatric teams to service the board's penal and juvenile institutions. These teams would rotate among institutions treating mental cases.

Highway Story

By Bob Hullihan

As the lights of the patrol car flashed over the scene, the patrolman saw the automobile piled up like a drift of junk against the wall of the underpass. Two men were pulling at the wreckage with their bare hands.

The unbelievable thought hit both patrolmen at the same time: "Someone's still alive in there." Almost before the patrol car stopped, the younger officer was running back up the highway to set out warning flares while the older officer hurried toward the wreck.

One look and he knew it was the kind of accident he sometimes had nightmares about. Two teenage boys in the front seat, their faces incredibly young in the glare from the flashlight.

From the back, the white, drained face of another boy stared at the light. He was apparently so far beyond the treshold of pain and fear that his mind did not comprehend all that had happened.

"Lie quietly, son. We'll get you out of there in a second," the patrolman said. He kept repeating the phrase while the patrolmen worked to pry away the twisted metal. When he stopped talking, one of the patrolmen reached in to feel for a pulse. There was none.

From down the dark highway came the wail of the approaching ambluance. The young patrolman held his light on the face of the dead boy. "I guess there's no hurry now," he said softly.

"Turn off the flash," the older man said. "He almost looks like my own boy in there. I guess they all look something alike when they die that young."

RIVERSIDE CLUB

The Riverside Club met at the home of Esther Bertilson with Christina Bruggeman assisting hostesses on Tuesday afternoon, September 23rd. Two films on the retarded child were shown. The members answered roll call by telling of some vacation they had during the summer. This proved to be very interesting. The year's program, also the Township Organization Tea, were discussed. Eighteen members and 8 children enjoyed the delicious luncheon served by the hostesses.

EDITORIAL

How's your initiative?

Initiative is the power of seeing for oneself what ought to be done and of going ahead and doing it. It involves originality, drive, desire, and conviction.

In our school today, we have a lack of initiative. Instead of being interested in a long-range assignment and immediately thinking of ideas for that assignment, we dully sit in class and wait for the teacher's suggestions.

This inactiveness also pertains to our daily assignments. Usually at the very last minute we do get something written on paper that we feel is presentable. But did we actually give our all to that assignment, perhaps studying it before we ever thought of writing anything down? Most likely not. Why? Simply because we didn't have enough initiative.

One big excuse for not dong our best on assignments is, "We don't have enough time." Time is there and always has been. It's just that it hasn't found you yet!

Lastly, more initiative is needed in class response. We're afraid to answer and afraid to have an answer. But aren't we entitled to wrong answers? Then at least we can say we tried! So let's show more initiative during this school year by our papers, our time, and our actions.

VARIED COLUMN

We Seniors have selected our class motto, colors, and flower. Our motto is: "Life is a Picture —Paint it Well." The colors are Air Force Blue (bright blue) and white. Our flower is a pink rose.

Mr Barricks, the shop teacher, was driving bus number two until a replacement driver could be found for Don Alden, who recently resigned.

The Junior Class Play has been chosen and cast. It is a hillbilly play entitled "Headin' for the Hills." It will be given on either the 17th or the 24th of October.

The Seniors are going to have their class pictures taken on Oct. 4 at 9:00 A.M. They will be taken at Russel's Studio in Mason City.

Lowell Grieman had the cast removed from his foot last Friday. It probably is as much of a relief to his classmates, who have been carrying his books around, as it is to him.

The Junior ordered their class rings on Monday from Spies of Chicago, Illinois. Now they are eagerly awaiting the day that they arrive. The rings are ordered through the local Corner Store.

We have been reprimanded for manners in the hot lunch room. It seems that too many napkins and bits of food have been left on the tables and floor.

The editorial staff wishes to apologize for any little fluffs which may appear in the Shamrock from time to time. We're trying our best!

Annuonce Poster Contest For Elementary Students

Ed Herron, State Fire Marshal, today announced a fire poster-slogan contest, open to all Iowa elementary school children. The contest opens Sunday, October 5th, which is the first day of Fire Prevention Week, and closes December 12, 1958.

Prizes will be awarded to the three best poster-slogans and will be presented at a special program in Des Moines in January, 1959.

Herron announced prizes of $15 for first place, $10 for second and $5 for third. Purpose of the contest, said Herron, is to stimulate the thinking on the part of our younger citizens to the importance of protecting themselves and their property from fire.

Fire safety needs constant emphasis on the part of young and older citizens, Herron said, because we average 100 deaths annually in Iowa due to fires, with a property loss of about $13,000,000.

Entries in the poster-slogan contest should be sent to the State Fire Marshal's Office, Des Moines, Iowa.

JOKES

Archie, the office boy, was fired and charged with the theft of $500 in postage stamps. A crusading young lawyer successfully defended Archie because he was sure of his innocence. So sure that he decided to sue Archie's former employer for false arrest, deflamation of character, mental cruelty, etc.

"It will cost about $500 to file the suit," he told Archie, "and I'm broke. Do you think you could raise $500?"

"Not in cash," explained Archie, "but I can give it to you in postage stamps."

Children are natural mimics. They persist in acting like their parents in spite of every effort to teach them good manners.

Mr. Loomis Attends Yearbook Clinic

Mr Loomis, sponsor for the yearbook, attended a clinic for all yearbook sponsors which was held at Garner, Iowa, on Friday, September 19, 1958.

The program dealt with the process of making a good yearbook.

The sponsors were told about things that are included in a good yearbook, about things that are not included in a good yearbook, and how to get a class interested in a yearbook.

The meeting was attended by approximately 35 people from Hancock County and Minnesota.

The program was an all day program starting at 9:00 in the morning and lasting until 3:00 in the afternoon.

This meeting was sponsored by the Inner Collegate Press which is a group of 8 men. These men act as a team and travel all over the United States giving such talks about the yearbooks.

The real purpose of this meeting was to learn ways of improving the Yearbook, increasing sales, and stimulating class interest in such work.

The third grade teacher frowned and said, "David, you did not wash your face. What would you say if I came to school with egg and jam around my mouth?"

"Nothing at all," replied David, "I'd be too polite."

Music Students Report On All State Music Camp

This past summer two band students, Virginia Kudje and Candace Carlson, went to the All State Music Camp at Iowa City from June 23 to July 4. It was a very worth while experience and one that every student should take advantage of. This camp was for band, orchestra, vocal, and twirling. You could take private lessons for each of these and also piano lessons. Candy and Ginger were in the band, small groups, ensemble, and theory lessons. They also took private lessons. When they first arrived they went to the girls' dorm, Currier Hall. There they unloaded, registered, and set out to explore the campus and Iowa City.

The next day they auditioned for their chairs where Candy was 8th out of 18 in the trombone section and Ginger was 1st chair in the bass clarinets with 10 competing.

They also received the schedule for the coming two weeks It ran as follows:

6:15-6:30, awake; 7:00, breakfast, cafeteria style; 8:00, band rehearsal; 9:00 group rehearsal; 10:00, free, usually solo practice; 11:00, theory; 12:00, lunch; 1:00, band practice; 2:00, lessons; 3:00, lessons or a band of college students, faculty and four or five selected band members which played new music. Ginger was one of the members of this band. From 3:00 or 4:00 to 6:00 was free. During this time they usually read their letters, wrote letters or laid out in the sun. 6:00 was dinner; 7:00 band practice; 8:30-9:45 free; 9:45, signed into the dorms; 10:15, lights out.

It was a lot of work and practicing that they wouldn't have done at home, but by going to the camp they both got a lot of experience and gained many new friends from all over the state and other states.

They gave two concerts which consisted of the band, orchestra, chorus and a twirling exhibit. The first week of camp and the first band concert was under the direction of Paul Behm, Mason City's band director. The second band concert was under the direction of Paul Neilson of Oklahoma City. Leo Kucinski, Mrs Whitney's brother, directed the orchestra, and Don Craig directed the chorus. After the second concert there was a dance for the music students.

They think the best time for a student to go would be the summer of their freshman or sophomore year as most of the students were around this age. The cost is only fifty-five dollars and $5.00 extra for private lessons.

Farm Tips

More and more Iowa farmers are discovering that if they store high-moisture corn or dry shelled corn they can pick their corn and put their harvestors in the shed as much as three weeks earlier than they would if they picked their corn dry and stored it in the ear, says Larry Van Fossen, Iowa State College agricultural engineer. And with both of these methods, once the corn is stored, there's nothing left to do but feed it or sell it. You don't need to take time out for grinding or shelling corn throughout the feeding season. Harvesting our corn isn't entirely out of the picture, but, Van Fossen says, "We do see a probable swing away from it."

More than 15 years of breeding have now given several new strains of orchardgrass which show desired traits, says R R Kalton of Iowa experiment station. Improved forage production, good recovery following summer grazing, vigorous stand, winter hardiness and drouth tolerance are the desirable features in the new strains. Two of the strains were outstanding in forage production and seed yield when compared with commercial types now grown. If performance continues as well in further state and regional tests, an improved orchardgrass, adapted for pasture use in Iowa, should be near at hand.

Is it a paying practice to feed antibiotics to newly arrived feeder cattle? Extenson Veternarian John B Herrick, Iowa State College, says: The use of antibiotics for newly arrived feeder cattle is of questionable value in many cases. In some groups of feeders the animals are too sick to eat or drink, thus do not get the medicated feed. In these cases the dosage or the drug may not be sufficient to aid the ill animals. Animals that have low-level infection may obtan some benefit from the medicated feed. However, in too many cases the drugs are used overcome faulty handling and management. The best advice is to have a veterinarian examine newly shipped cattle to see if medication is necessary. Also there are respiratory diseases on which antibiotics have no effect. Thus a correct diagnosis is necessary before correct medication can be employed.

Spray creeping jenny this fall. E P Sylwester, extension weed controll specialist, Iowa State College, advises: Spray for creeping jenny until light killing frost. Use 1 pound of 2,4-D ester per acre in at least 15 gallons of water per acre. Add a household wetting agent or detergent at the rate of 1 pint per 50 gallons of solution. The deciding factor on plowing should be the contour of the land. If land is flat with no danger of erosion, plow. Allow a waiting period of two weeks after spraying for best plowing results. If land is rolling and there is danger of erosion, fall plowing is not recommended.

Spray Canada thistles this fall. Sylwester says: You should spray Canada thistle if there is 4-6 inches of re-growth. Spray anytime before a heavy killing frost occurs. Use 1 quart of 2,4D ester or brush killer per 25 gallons of water and spray until moist. Use soft water if possible. Add ½ pint of liquid household wetting agent or detergent per 25 gallons gallons of spray solution.

THE FARM OUTLOOK

By Paul Henderson
County Extension Director

Store all the soybeans you can this year, Francis Kutish, Iowa State College farm economist, advises Iowa farmers. Kutish says farmers will probably be money ahead to sell oats, if necessary, to make more room for storing beans.

The way things are shaping up indicates that the market will be glutted with beans atprices well below the government loan level, Kutish says. He expects a lot of beans to go into loan, which would cause the price to come back to about loan level by late winter or early next spring.

He points out that this year's prospective record-smashing bean crop has pushed bean prices down. In Iowa, the current bid price is about 18 cents below the government loan price.

Bean production this year will hit 561 million bushels, according to the September -, USDA estimate. Last season's crop was 480 million bushels, 81 million short of this year's predicted harvest. There are 20 million bushels left from last season, which would give a total bean supply of 581 million bushels, if the September 1 estimate proves correct.

Even though more and more soybeans are being used nowadays, bean usage isn't increasing fast enough to take care of such a production increase, Kutish notes. Rapid growth in soybean usage is caused partly by shortages of high-protein concentrates for livestock and poultry, he says. Another factor in the increased use is the export market.

More soybean meal will be used this year than last, the amount of the increase depending on the price, Kutish says. The wholesale price for a ton of meal this coming year will probably average 3-5 dollars less than last year's 53-dollar bulk price at Decatur, he predicts.

Supplies of bean oil will be up during the coming year, along with lard and cottonseed oil supplies, Kutish says. The net increase in domestic edible oil production looks larger than world requirements. But some increase in US exports is likely, he says.

The government will be the big supplier of soybeans next summer, and will hold a good-size carryover of beans next fall, Kutish believes. If past actions are any indication of the future, the Secretary of Agriculture will probably set a lower loan rate for the 1959 bean crop, he says.

October 10 Deadline for Conservation Reserve

October 10 will be the last day to sign up for the 1959 conservation reserve of the soil bank. County Extension Director Paul Henderson of Garner says he believes it will pay Hancock County farmers to study the reserve program benefits before the deadline.

Henderson says Farm Economist H B Howell of Iowa State College points out that this year's reserve program will be especially beneficial to farms in areas where weather and insect risks are high, on farms needing conservation improvements and inincreased fertility, and on farms where cost payments are high relative to expected yields.

Howell said farmers operating farms inadequate to provide a good living may also be interested. The program offers opportunities for off-farm employment as as a result of reduced farm labor. Farmers having trouble with high variable costs may be able to reduce expenses for labor and machinery by participating in the conservation reserve, Howell added. In addition to the reduction of such expense payments, there may be opportunity for other investment of released capital, he said.

Others who may benefit from the program, according to Howell, are farmers who want to retire and still live on farms with an assured income. Those having limited livestock programs and a high proportion of land eligible for reserve contracts might also benefit, Howell says.

Putting the whole farm under contract should be attractive for many due to the 10 per cent higher payment rate per acre, he said.

The price improvement which may come from reduced crop surpluses is another factor favoring participation, Howell added.

There are also unfavorable aspects of the program, Howell said. These include the restrictions on land use that accompany the payments. High-profit opportunities will be reduced too, he said. The length of the contract sometimes reduces flexibility of operations. Other problem areas pointed out by Howell may be landlord-tenant arrangements and the creation of fixed costs.

Livestock Feed and Management Meeting Will Be Held October 8

The annual livestock feed and management meeting will be staged at the high school gymnasium in Garner at 8:00 p.m., Wednesday evening, October 8.

Tom Wickersham, Extension Animal Husbandman and Lee Kolmer, Extension Economist from Iowa State College will present the latest in management and price outlook for livestock producers. Any or all livestock producers in Hancock County are invited to attend. If you are buying cattle or lambs or are planning your hog farrowing for 1959 you might get some worthwhile suggestions out of this discussion according to Paul Henderson, County Extension Director.

Junior Cattle Feeders End Year With Show

A Junior Feeder show at the Garner Sales barn and a trip to the Hormel Packing Company at Austin, Minnesota, has climaxed the first year of the Hancock County 4-H and FFA Junior Cattle feeders project went along with their families to the Hormel coolers on Saturday, September 20 to see the carcasses of their beef animals which they had seen graded live the preceding Wednesday, at the Garner Sales barn.

Jerry Janssen received top honors in the live grade show while the first place carcass prize went to Bill Renner of Klemme. Duane Howlett, Britt, took second in the carcass contest and Harlan Hanson of Kanawha placed third. Other participants were: Harold Huisinga, Roger Anderson, Ronald Hanson, Freeman Fox, Gene Wetterling, Robert Smidt, and Jerry Janssen.

The boys sold their cattle on a Grade and Yield basis to George A Hormel and Co. Hormel's paid 50¢ per cut above the regular market and also paid the prize money in the carcass contest. Several other boys who had enrolled in the project did not sell their cattle with this group.

Hougen says that one of the objectives of this project is to initiate the type of feeding arrangement that the boy would use when farming for himself. Although recognition was given to the boy whose cattle graded the best, both live and dressed, the program was designed to encourage boys to purchase feeder cattle of the type that would make a profit for him and thus minimize the emphasis on a show winning animal.

Scandal is one thing that never gets shop worn by being continually passed around.

Conservation Reserve Sign-up Ends October 10

Hancock County farmers have only until October 10 to sign up for the 1959 conservation reserve of the soil bank, County Extension director Paul Henderson of Garner said today.

In addition to the partial participation program, Henderson says, there are whole-farm contracts that local farmers may also find profitable.

He reports that Farm Economist H B Howell, Iowa State College, says farmers signing whole-farm contracts will receive a 10 per cent premium for all eligible land on contract for 5 years or longer.

The opportunity to retire on the farm and still receive an assured income is another favorable factor of the contract, says Howell. Closely related to this, he said to keep control of their farms is the change for retiring farmers when there are other family members desiring to take over the farm at a later date.

Other farmers, Howell pointed out, are interested in the opportunity to maintain the farm in a high level of fortility under the reserve contract. A final factor, noted Howell, is the chance to release capital from the farm business and invest in other opportunities.

A major disadvantage of the contract, said Howell, is the $5000 payment limit to any one individual. And too, he said, the whole-farm contract is generally unattractive for tenant - operated farms because the contract length is usually not consistant with normal leasing terms. Another limitation for rented farms, added Howell, is that reserve rentals are land rentals. Because of this the tenant would have very little expense while the landlord's taxes, depreciation, and other expenses would continue.

CAPITOL LETTER

(Weekly news release of the Iowa Press Association. The material contained herein does not necessarily conform to the editorial policy of this newspaper.)

Governorship

Webster defines a politician as one addicted to, or actively engaged in, politics as manager by parties. Lately both gubernatorial candidates have had ample opportunities to display their wares as politicians.

A bombshell appeared on the Iowa political scene when the Murray-for-Governor headquarters released a statement which said there had been a rumor about Greenlease kidnaping money coming into Iowa for Democratic campaign purposes but there was no evidenece to support it.

"Gutter Politics"

"Gutter politics" came the cry from the Democratic state headquarters. The Democrats demanded that the statement be withdrawn by the Republican candidate for governor, Dr William Murray. However, Republicans held tight refusing to withdraw the statement

Donald (Duke) Norberg, the Democratic State Chairman, said the GOP release "charges by insinuation, that Greenlease kidnaping ransom money has been used in the Democratic campaign in this state." Norberg whipped off a telegram to the National Fair Campaign Practices Committee and asked it to investigate Republican tactics.

The Greenlease money was mentioned recently in testimony involving Barney Baker of the teamsters union before the Senate rackets committee in Washington, D C. Bobby Greenlease was kidnaped at Kansas City 5 years ago and his parents paid $600,000 in ransom. The boy was killed by his abductors and half of the money was never recovered.

Wolf Campaign

Republicans counter charged that the campaign tactics of Leonard Wolf, Elkader Democrat, would be called to the attention of the National Fair Campaign Practices committee if it investigate the governorship race. Wolf is running against Republican incumbent Henry Talle, Decorah, in the 2nd district congressional race.

Picture

Governor Herschel C Loveless, first Democrat to occupy the governor's chair in 20 years, was obviously irritated at his opponent's statement. When asked at a radio-television meeting in Cedar Rapids if he would pose for a picture with Murray the governor replied: "definitely not."

Sufficiency Report

The Iowa Highway Commission is expected to devote much of its meeting next week to a new sufficiency study of the state's primary road system.

The sufficiency studies rate all primary roads on a point system which takes a number of factors into consideration including surface condition, width, drainage, and sight distance.

A road rating 0-49 points is critical: 50-70 points poor to fair; 80-89 points, 90-100 points, excellent The report shows Iowa has 1 645 miles of highway in the critical classification, 4,075 miles poor to fair, 1,654 good and 1.215 miles excellent.

$50 College Fee

A plan is being advanced that Iowa private colleges set up a $50 entrance fee in order to eliminate colleges from competing for students.

A resolution was passed to this effect at the annual workshop of the Association of Iowa College Presidents and the presidents said they would recommend to their inividual boards of trustees that all applications for admission make a tuition payment of at least $50 as part of the admission procedure.

They explained that some high school graduates apply at several colleges for admission and then attend the college which offers them the best "deal." The $50 would apply to tuition and it would not be refundable if the student decide to enroll at some other college.

No decision has been made as to whether or not such a practice would be instituted at the 3 state schools of higher learning.

School Aid

Officials of the department of public instruction say the state will have to nearly triple its state aid by 1962 to insure a good educational program for Iowa children.

Department officials say $325 will be needed to educate a pupil in 1962. To guarantee that 325 dollars will be available to educate each child irrespective of the district in which he is located state aid programs will have to be increased to 73 million dollars annually according to department officials.

The board of public instruction is recommending to the next legislature that state aid be increased from $23 to $53 million.

Board of Control

The state board of control has recommended to Governor Herschel C Loveless a substantial increase in the 1959-61 appropriations for Iowa's penal institutions. The board has recommended that the 8 institutions receive a total of $7,977,082 starting next July 1.

The last legislature appropriated $5,127,793 a year to these institutions.

Diesel Fuel

State gasoline tax director George Marchi is continuing his crack-down on dealers who have been selling diesel fuel without a state permit.

Marchi has announced that nearly 100 Iowa dealers in 34 counties have voluntarily admitted selling diesel fuel without a state permit.

The state tax director said it is obvious that a sizable number of these dealers have been selling diesel fuel for use in trucks. He said the state has not been getting the 7 cents a gallon state tax on fuel which applies when fuel is used for trucks.

Pell Dies

Roy Pell, Iowa Department commander of the American Legion, died in a Chicago hospital after suffering a heart attach several weeks earlier while attending the national legion convention.

Pell, 60, was a well-known Marshalltown attorney. He was a veteran of World Wars I and II and was a former vice commander of the Iowa Legion and the former state commander of the 40 & 8.

By Paul Henderson
County Extension Director

Now is the time for livestock feeders to lay in 1958-59 feed supplies if they want to get the best p ssible feeding profits next year, says Francis Kutish, Iowa State College farm economist. Kutish says that with feeder cattle prices soaring above slaughter price levels and with hog prices likely to drop still lower, feeders with adequate storage should buy bulk feeds now.

He also points out that production costs can be partly minimized next year if feeder stock is selected for its ability to make efficient feed gains. Further production-cost cuts can be had if feeder stock is a quality ration balanced with the supplement that gives the most protein for the least money.

A look at the USDA September feed situation report gives an idea how the feeding picture will look next year. The report notes that prices of food grains and high-protein feeds have dropped since the beginning of August. Further feed price declines are expected when this year's corn and sorghum crops reach market in volume and processing of 1958 soybeans gets under way.

Soybean meal prices were down during late July and August, along with prices of other high-protein feeds. This brought prices for high-protein feeds in general down 6 per cent from July levels. But they were still 12 per cent above the year before, the report notes. In mid-August, farmers were getting 3 per cent less for their feed grains a year earlier.

The USDA expects the total supply of feed grains and other concentrates for 1958-59, says the USDA report.

Heavier use of feed grains and other concentrates is also likely next year. This carryover of feed grains into 1959-60 will probably be about 25 per cent larger than the 60-million-ton surplus that is expected to be carried into the 1958-59 season, the USDA states.

PIANO AUDITIONS

The North Iowa District of Student Piano Auditions was held Tuesday, October 7th, at Mason City.

Ginger Kudje played "Sonate Pathetique" in the high school classification. Merit certificates are to be awarded to the top 3 ratings and a state winner will go to Sioux City on October 12th and 13th.

Liberty Busy Bees Enjoy Picnic at Pilot Knob

The members and leaders of the Liberty Busy Bees enjoyed a picnic dinner at Pilot Knob, Saturday afternoon, September 20. After the dinner the regular meeting was called to order by the president, Nancy Farquhar.

New officers elected at this meeting were president, Darlene Hrubes; vice president, Mary Kae Kern; secretary and treasurer, Florence Grieman; historian, Diane Hrubes; reporter, Kathy Upmeyer; and photographer, Donna Stille. Three junior leaders were chosen to help the 4-H members: Carolyn Jass, Nancy Farquhar, and Joyce Hueneman.

Welcomed into the club were five new members: LaDonna Grieman, Janet Erdman, Toni Crowder, Phyllis Barkema, and Meridee Brager.

The members decided to help the Crippled Children Camp campaign by sending out letters for donations.

The meeting was adjourned. Our next meeting will be at the home of Becky Upmeyer on October 18 at 1:15 P.M.

Junior Class to Present "Headin' for the Hills"

The Junior Class Play, planned for October 17, is called "Headin' For The Hills", a hillbilly play. The story concerns Cornelia Wellington Heister and her sister, Dorthea. They're wealthy orphans whose only living relatives are a hillbilly family who run a general store in Lone Mule, Tennessee. Their father's will directs that the girls are to spend their summers in Lone Mule or forfeit their share of the fortune. Being a bit spoiled and accustomed to luxuries, Cornelia, in particular, hates the arrangements. Cyrus Goolus, their uncle in Lone Mule, Tennessee, is a miser who sees a chance to make himself some money. In an avalanche of fun and laughter he shows the girls the worst of hillbilly living. But, when Cornelia finds two can play at this game, hilarious situations develop.

We invite everybody to come who wants to enjoy a great play and laugh! and laugh!

Receiving & Discharging Pupils on the Highway

Have you ever met a school bus and wondered just what you were supposed to do? Well, whether you are the bus driver, the motorist, or the student, there are many things to remember. The school bus driver, of course, has the most responsibility. When making stops he must consider: Is there clear vision for at least 300 feet from both directions? Did I have the stop warning signal lights flashing at least 300 feet before the stopping point? Did I extend the stoparm? After making sure of these safety measures, he may make a safe stop. The rest is up to the motorist and the student leaving or meeting the school bus.

The motorist must realize the necessity of complete caution when meeting or overtaking a school bus. When he meets a school bus which has the stop warning signal lights flashing, he must reduce his speed to not more than twenty miles per hour. When the stop arm of the bus is extended, he must come to a complete stop until the school bus driver has retracted the stop arm —and then the motorist should proceed with due caution. The motorist is not required to stop his vehicle until the stop arm of the bus is extended. The motorist must not pass a bus if the stop warning signal lights are flashing. And when the stop arm is extended he must come to a complete stop not closer than fifteen feet from the stopped school bus and shall remain stopped until the stop arm is retracted and the bus resumes motion or until the driver signals to him to proceed.

Of course, the student cannot depend entirely upon the motorist and the bus driver for his protection. He, too, must be cautious when crossing the street after leaving or to board a school bus. A pupil waiting for the bus should not cross the highway until the bus has stopped, the stop arm is extended, the driver has signalled to him to cross, and he has checked the traffic situation for himself. When leaving the bus, leave only by the right front entrance. The emergency door is for emergency ONLY! If the pupil must cross the street, he must cross in front of the bus, pause in line with the left side of the bus to check the traffic situation for himself and then cross the street at the driver's signal. Also, for safety's sake, never stand up before the bus has come to a complete stop. (And please drivers, wait for the students to be seated before putting the bus into motion!)

(The above information is a resume of pamphlet number 858A-1713 TR as published by the State of Iowa Department of Public Instruction, J C Wright, Superintendent.)

Value of Driver's Training

The United States is truly a nation on wheels, for cars have become a necessary part of our daily lives. The automobile has influenced all phases of city and rural life, and because of the car, the barriers between city and country are disappearing.

Yes, because of the car more and more problems enter in, and we as drivers forget that however much a pleasure and privilege it is to drive, we shall not survive to see what progress is made if we do not practice sportsman like driving.

We in driver education symbolize the basic objectives of sportsman like driving, trying to develop self control, correct information, high quality skills, and good social attitudes, the human element is never deemphasized. Driver education is an applicable and practical subject, and available to every student prior to his coming of age to be licensed to drive. The knowledge and experience gained from driver education can be applied during the high school days as well as in the future.

The driver education program at Klemme divides its efforts into approximately 25 hours of classroom and at least 6 hours behind the wheel.

Driving is a lifetime business and the length of a lifetime is often determined by the attitude of automobile drivers, and we definitely are interested in aiming at producing good habits that the student can use a lifetime.

Dangerous Walking Habit Hit by AAA School Safety Poster

One child in four struck down in traffic stepped into the street from between parked cars, John R Doyle, General Manager of the Motor Club of Iowa, said today in announcing that the AAA School Safety Poster for October would be a warning to all children against this dangerous practice.

The poster, which carries the message "KEEP FROM BETWEEN PARKED CARS," is being distributed to schools in this area as a part of the Motor Club's regular monthly safety education program.

WINNER, FOURTEENTH AAA TRAFFIC SAFETY POSTER CONTEST

Mr Doyle asked parents to discuss the theme of the safety poster with their children, thus giving the lesson a "double impact."

He added that it is equally important for parents of pre-school age children to teach the lesson at home. The percentage of children four years old and under who are killed or injured by running between parked cars is even higher than it is for those five and over.

The original poster design was done by Henry Tapio, a student at L L Wright High School, Ironwood, Michigan. Henry's poster won a first place prize in the senior high school division of the National Traffic Safety Poster Contest sponsored by the American Automobile Association. Later, the contest judges selected the poster over similar designs done by elementary and junior high school students for reproduction and nationwide distribution.

Driver-Pupil Relations

Since emphasis is being placed on driving safely this week, let's consider the form of traffic that our rural students use most frequently during the school year—the school bus.

The first essential to traffic safety is efficient equipment. Transportation facilities represent a large capital investment, and students are expected to cooperate in their maintenance and preservation.

The busdriver has great influence on the students. He should set a good example by good character, attitudes, personal habits, grooming, temperment, and disciplinary methods.

Courtesy should be the prime factor of an orderly conducted bus ride. A student should neither push nor loiter when entering or leaving a bus. Everyone should remain seated when the bus is in motion. Consideration should be shown the driver by keeping the noise to a minimum. Promptness is also very important if the bus is to follow a schedule. Students should be on time both at the bus stop near their home and at the school loading station.

We are fortunate in having good transportation facilities, so let's show our appreciation by being cooperative citizens.

(The above information is a resume of pamphlet 858A-1715 TR as published by the State of Iowa Department of Public Instruction, J C Wright, Superintendent.)

VARIED COLUMN

A new bus driver has been found to drive bus number two. He is Ted Dirks who farms northwest of Klemme. He has replaced Don Alden.

Have you tried twirling a hula hoop? The Phyiscal Training classes of Klemme are now getting their opportunity. Several of the students in the lower grades keep their hula hoops whirlin, during recess.

Wednesday morning the Student Council had a meeting to elect their officers. Myrna Barz was elected president, Randahl Lanlitz, vice - president; Maurine Johnson, secretary; and Roger Meints, treasurer.

The grass around the new school building is now coming up but, it still must be watered for a while.

We have a new student in Klemme High School. She is Joan Brager, Daryl Brager's cousin. She is from Oskaloosa and is in the Junior Class.

Herkimer's back! Herkimer is, of course, the plastic statue of the human body. Herk helps the students become better acquainted with the parts of the body because his lungs, stomach, heart, and other sections of his body come out.

The Junior boys have learned something from going to play practice. They have learned to take the keys out of their cars, to pull out the emergency brak to leave the car in gear, and to lock it when they go into the school for play practice. It seems that the other night after play practice, they had a little difficulty in locating their cars because someone had taken them. They were found a little while later.

Question of the Week

What do you think of the new fad the Hula Hoop?

Joyce H: I think it's fun and the older kids like it as well as the younger kids.

Linda M: It's alright, if you can do it.

Judy S: I like it, it's a lot more fun than exercises.

Clarice A: I like it; especially when it comes to P T and we use it instead of exercises.

Kathy L: I think it is a lot of fun especially when you get to do it in P T.

Janet M: It's fun if you know how to do it.

Inez N: It's fun if you know how to do it.

Candace C: If you think it's fun around your waist, try it around your knees!

JOKES

A denizen of the hills of East Tennessee, who was appearing as a witness in a lawsuit, was being questioned as to his education and qualifications by the plaintiff's lawyer.

"How is that?"

"Wa'al, take these here signs along the road. When I want to go sommers; I kin read how fur, but not whurto."

Rich parent: "There's no sense in teaching my boy to count over 100. He can hire accountants to do his bookkeeping."

Teacher: "Yes, sir, but he won't want to play his own game of golf, won't he?"

"What is a cannibal, Tommy?"

"I don't know."

"Well if you ate your father and your mother, what would you be?"

October Is Enrollment Month for 4-H Clubs

Some new 4-H enrollment cards already in and promises of several more on the way are indications that October is enrollment month for 4-H. Roy E Hougen, County Extension Youth Assistant, reports that although some members are dropped from the rolls every year because of college entrance, marriage, age limits and various reasons. Most of the clubs report that they are enrolling some new members also.

To be eligible for membership in a 4-H club a person must have reached his or her tenth birthday on January 1 of the current 4-H year. A member must file an enrollment card carry a project, attend monthly meetings and keep records. Hougen says that enrollment cards are available from the local club leaders or from the county extension office in Garner.

4-H offers many opportunities for the active club member. They can participate in many local, county and state events. One of the highlights is the annual county fair where 4-H members can exhibit their livestock, crops and home economic projects for the year. Other interesting events include parties, judging workouts, participation on demonstration teams and attendance at state 4-H activities.

BETTER PROGRAMS

One of the big headaches of TV broadcasters today is 'what do the greatest number of people like best at this time'?

The best guess brings in the greatest advertising results and therefore is most profitable But it will not remain a guessing game much longer.

Electronic engineers are working out the problems of having small built-in transmitters included in the chassis of the future TV and radio set. These will give an accurate and total count to the survey takers about 'who and where is listening to what'. This device will also be rigged so that viewers could indicate their likes and dislikes.

If you make a survey of your neighbors about television organizations in this area, you will find that GARNER TV & APPLIANCE is a leading one. Phone 371 at Garner for professional services that cost no more.

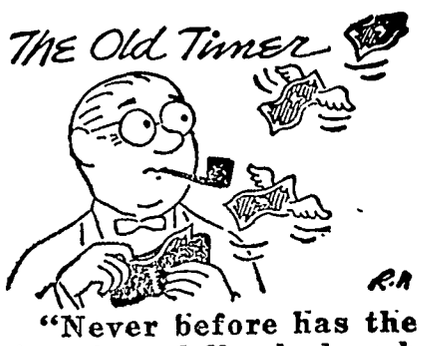
Some Random Thoughts

BY L. E. "PETE" K.



"Never before has the American dollar had such good-byeing power."

Mark the evening of October 31 in your date book. That's the night the Klemme Lions Club will present their Annual Lions Varieties . . . an affair that proves to be a good evening's entertainment each year. We understand that tickets are now on sale and can be had from any member of the club.

Bean combining for this year is completed in this area . . . some grain sorghum (or Milo, whichever you prefer) is now falling before the combine . . . corn picking is beginning to get underway, with some picker-shellers in evidence, but most farmers are still using the conventional pickers . . . a lot of dirt has been turned upside down in the past week as many hurry to get their fall plowing done before they begin the corn harvest in earnest . . . rooster pheasants are beginning to look more and more ready for the coming open season and we believe they are getting more wary each year . . . squirrel season is about half over . . . and the waterfowl season is with us. It's fall and there are a multitude of activities to enjoy outdoors.

Speaking of the waterfowl season, Chuck Bacon and Henry Wessels had a try at hunting ducks at Eagle Lake early the other morning. We imagine that you could hear a good story if you were to ask either of them how it feels to be standing in hip-deep water rather than perched high and dry in a boat. Seems they launched their boat and right away it made like a submarine. Chilly, boys? We don't know whether there is any connection or not, but since Chuck has his shotgun advertised for sale in the classified section this week, we wonder if maybe the dunking made him swear off outdoor sports.

Politics are taking over more and more in the news as election time nears. The democrats have been in town asking for votes, and the republicans are coming Monday with their candidates. Understand they are serving coffee and will be glad to see you.

The unseasonably warm weather we have been enjoying the past week is nice. Makes being outdoors a real pleasure. However, coming this late in the season, we are afraid that when normal fall temperatures come along, we'll suffer for a spell before we get adjusted. Certainly has been ideal, though for drying crops and for getting field work done. Hope it holds for awhile.

The goal for the East Hancock Community Chest has been lessened by $2000.00 this year due to the fact that the American Cancer Society has withdrawn as a Chest affiliate. That means that only $12,000 dollars will need to be raised. The drive began Monday and the "one campaign" plan deserves your generous support.

When the Chest worker calls on you for your contribution, be courteous and give enough for all the organizations that are included. Far better one campaign for funds each year than a constant stream of collectors knocking at your door.

With the corn picking season just barely underway, the news already is carrying accounts of accidents caused by carelessness. A corn picker is a wonderful, time-saving device, but one careless moment in operating the machine can result in a lifetime minus a limb . . . or perhaps even the loss of life.

Shut the machine down when you have to make even the most minor repair or adjustment. After all, it hasn't been so many years ago that corn picking was done by hand and the job lasted well into the winter. Now pickers can handle 20 acres a day, making the completion of harvest only a few short days away from the beginning point . . . so why worry about a couple of minutes. Shut 'er down. Spare parts for hands and arms are hard to come by and never work like the original equipment.

CAPITOL LETTER

(Weekly news release of the Iowa Press Association. The material contained herein does not necessarily conform to the editorial policy of this newspaper.)

President Eisenhower

A crowd of around 75,000 is expected Friday at the national corn picking contest near Cedar Rapids. Chief attraction: President Dwight D Eisenhower.

There will be plenty of dignitaries on hand for the festivities including local and state politicians.

Senator John Kennedy, Democrat from Massachusetts, a possible presidential candidate in 1960, is slated to appear on the program the same day as the president.

The president is scheduled to land at Cedar Rapids in the Columbine, the presidential plane. He will immediately board a helicopter for the contest site which is 10 miles northeast of Cedar Rapids.

$5,000 OFFER

The legislature committee on election practices and procedures has made public a statement in which Dr William G Murray, Republican candidate for governor, detailed the circumstances of an offer of $5,000 for his campaign in exchange for a state appointment.

The committee report quoted Murray as saying the offer was made during state day at the Iowa State Fair. Murray said he did not know the individual who contacted him. The G O P candidate described the man as between the ages of 50-55, 5 feet 10 or 11 inches tall, dark complexion and quite heavy set.

Murray said the man asked him if he would be interested in a $5,000 contribution and made the statement that such a contribution might be available if Murray would give verbal approval to the appointment of an idividual to a state office. Murray said his immediate reaction was to get away from such an individual and he immediately turned from the man and there was no further conversation.

Murray also told the committee that 3 men had offered him $25,000 for his campaign but he rejected it because part of the money would come from outside the state.

Road Formula

Senator Edward J McManus, Keokuk, Democratic candidate for Lieutenant Governor, advocates a "careful reappraisal and revision" of the formula for distributing the road use tax fund.

McManus told the Iowa Municipal Finance Officers Association that the present formula was devised in 1949 and is weighted heavily in favor of the secondary and farm-to-market systems. (It allocates 50% of the road use tax fund to the secondary and farm-to-market systems, 42% to the primary system and 8% to the city or town system.)

"The fact that the primary system is carrying 65% of the traffic and getting only 42% of the money, that the city and town system carries 18% of the traffic and gets only 8% of the money and that the secondary and farm-to-market systems carry 17% of the traffic and get 50% of the money must be given consideration if the formula is to achieve equity," McManus told the finance officers.

Fair Play

The National Fair Campaign Practices Committee has issued a statement saying an incident in the Iowa governorship race has focused attention on the importance of fair play and demonstrates the benefits of an alert and responsible press.

State Democratic Chairman Donald (Duke) Norberg sent a telegram to the committee in New York complaining about a statement released by the headquarters of Dr William G Murray, Republican candidate for governor. Norberg claimed the release insinuated that ransom money from the Greenlease kidnapping case was being used in the Democratic campaign.

School Aid

Requisitions for more than $16 million in general and supplemental school aid for the 1957-58 school year have been forwarded to the state comptroller for payment.

General aid claims total $16,610,000. However, since the annual appropriation is $14,610,000 all claims will be paid on the basis of approximately 90 cents on the dollar. Supplemental aid claims total $10,932,356, but since the annual appropriation is $4 million these will be pro-rated at about 36 cents on the dollar.

Civil Defense

United States Civil and Defense Mobilization director Leo Hoegh beleives fallout shelters offer the best single non-military protective measure from an atomic blast for the greatest number of people.

The former Iowa governor told a Des Moines audience that survival will depend on what the people do with federal aid in their own states and communities. He said the federal government alone can not provide the answer to the problems of protection in the event of an atomic disaster.

Fort Madison Warden

John R Hansen, a member of the state board of control, has attacked suggestions of naming a warden by "political carpet-bagging."

A county central committee had suggested to the board that a deserving Democrat be named warden of the Fort Madison state penitentiary upon the retirement of Percy A Lainson from that position. The Democratic controlled board, has named deputy warden John Bennett, a Republican, to succeed Lainson.

Hansen, a Democrat, declared the practice of political carpetbagging in such appointments is now and will continue to be completely outmoded.

Auto Insurance

The state insurance commissioner, Oliver P Bennett, has announced reductions in automobile insurance rates for many motorists. Bennett annunced a rate reduction of 9% for liability insurance for private passenger autos insured by companies affiliated with the National Bureau of Casualty Underwriters.

The companies involved in the rate reduction were those affiliated with the N B C U and the National Automobile Underwriters Association.

Comprehensive and collision insurance rates for most private passenger car owners insured by companies associated with the N A U A were reduced an average of 8½%.

While the companies which reduced their rates write only a portion of the auto insurance in Iowa, it is the feeling of many insurance experts that these cuts will be followed by reductions by other firms.

Truck Violations

Harold E Hughes, Ida Grove Democratic running for the state commerce commission, has charged that about half of Iowa's commercial truckers are operating illegally.

Hughes, who is manager of the Iowa better trucking bureau, said there are approximately 10,000 trucks which are operating without legal authority. He also charged that 75 to 90% of Iowa truck operators are violating I o w a freight bill regulations.

Tag Equipment

The state of Iowa has embarked on a program of attaching metal of plastic numbered tags to each piece of equipment in each state office. Iowa law requires labeling of state property "when practicable" and requires state departments to file an inventory annually with the executive council. With the exception of the state board of regents, this procedure has never been followed.

At the insistence of Secretary of State Melvin Synhorst the executive council agreed to tag system. "Everything of value should be tagged and accounted for. Any business operation of any size today does this kind of thing," Synhorst asserdted.

Legion Commander

Dale S Baird, 36, of near Marshalltown, has been elected Iowa department commander of the American legion succeeding the late Roy Pell of Marshalltown who died recently in Chicago.

More Interstate

Another stretch of the interstate system is in operation. The highway commission has opened an 8 mile section of Interstate to be opened. Earlier a ten mile section of Interstate 35-80 west of Des Moines was opened.

32 YEARS

Harvey Haltmeyer of McGregor is retiring after serving as Scoutmaster for 32 years years. Approximately 200 boys have received Boy Scout training under his guidance.

FIRST

For the first time in the history of the Franklin county district court, a trial is being heard by an all-women jury. The case the ladies are hearing is a damage suit resulting from an auto accident.

VARIED COLUMN

It seems that the Juniors could hardly wait for play practice to end last Friday night. The minute it was over, most of the kids took off for homecoming at Garner.

I hope that the next time Gary Kothenbeutel buys shoes, he gets them big enough. Lately he has been running around in study hall stocking-footed because his shoes are too tight.

Last Saturday the Seniors had their pictures taken at Mason City. Cozette Lau took a car load of kids over. Her dad's car apparently had some evil spell cast over it. To begin with, after she got in Mason City, right in the main section of it by Montgomery Wards, her car stopped. She tried to get it started but couldn't. About that time Ronnie Beier came over to help her. He came to the conclusion that the car was out of gas. Ronnie pushed the car into a space having a sign ahead of it saying, "No Parking-Order of Police." Gary went to get some gas. After it was poured in, the gauge read full. She just had had the car flooded. After dinner, Cozette returned to the car. About two meters away was a policeman checking meters. He was coming toward her car. If she would have been about five minutes later, the policeman would have been to the meter and found that it read "Expired" because she had forgotten to put money in it. I guess we all have our days, but fortunately none like this.

The Juniors have rapidly learned their parts to their class play and are now setting up the scenery. All they have left to do is get the people to come, but from the looks of their ticket selling they are doing quite well. Remember it's only a few days away so buy your tickets from any Junior.

I bought a wooden whistle,
But it wooden whistle,
So I bought a steel whistle,
But steel it wooden whistle,
So I bought a lead whistle,
They steel wooden lead me whistle,
So I bought a tin whistle,
And now I tin whistle.

There's a bright side to everything, but there's no joy when it's on your blue serge suit.

Columbus Day

We owe an apology to Christopher Columbus. October 12 was Columbus Day and it went by without our giving any credit to him.

Christopher Columbus was born in Italy in 1436. There isn't much known about his early life. Some say he was sent to the University of Pavia, although this is doubtful because he went to sea at the age of 15.

Once Columbus was ship-wrecked while in a sea-fight with pirates and landed on the shores of Portugal.

He was filled with ideas of finding a way to India across the western ocean. He asked for help from Italy. Italy refused him so he asked the King of Portugal for help but he said Columbus was an impractical dreamer and turned him down too. Then he asked help from Spain but Spain turned him down at first.

After many trials and tribulations he gained the confidence of the Queen of Spain, and she supplied the money he needed. The legend is told that the Queen sold her personal jewels to finance his voyages.

On October 12, 1492 he discovered a new land now known as the North American continent of which the United States is a part. All hail to Columbus!

Thoughts About Fires

Have you ever heard the sound of an approaching fire siren? Have you seen the dark smoke pushing skywards? Maybe you are lucky and you haven't had a fire at your home. Maybe you were lucky enough to heard your folks talk about how terrible a fire can be.

Some of the things to do in case you ever have a fire are (1) have your fire department number where you can find it in an emergency; (2) have a fire extinguisher handy so that in case of a small fire you can quickly put it out; (3) have fire insurance on all buildings; (4) keep children away from matches; (5) make sure you have good electrical wiring. (6) never smoke inside your barn or hog houses. If you follow these simple rules you can save a lot of money and grief by reducing the chances of a fire.

TEACHER INTERVIEW

Wapello, Iowa is the home town of Mr Hoit Barrick, our general science, biology, and industrial arts teacher. Mr Barrick received his college education at Iowa Wesleyan College at Mount Pleasant, which he attended for two years, and Iowa State Teachers College at Cedar Falls, which he attended for two years. Mr Barrick's favorite actor and actress are Cary Grant and Elizabeth Taylor. Mr Barrick took a few moments for thought when I asked him what his favorite food was, but he decided it was American fried potatoes. For a pastime Mr Barrick finds golf most pleasant.

Most of this fall's seasonal drop in hog prices will occur during the next 30 days, but the drop won't be drastic. Prices should continue higher than last year's levels on into fall, says Francis Kutish, Iowa State College farm economist.

Following the late-October or early-November price, the late-fall and early-winter hog market should be steady to slightly stronger than last year, Kutish says. Some mid-winter price recovery may occur before the bulk of this fall's large pig crop hits market. The recovery won't be as great as last winter's, Kutish says. And the size of the fall pig crop just about cancels chances that spring, 1959, will see a price advance as sharp as the one this past spring, Kutish beleives.

Some bunching of sales of fall pigs may occur to weaken late-winter prices, Kutish figures. The extent of bunching does take place, prices will recover to their summer highs, Kutish says. But the next summer won't be as high as this year, he predicts. However, the favorable hog-corn price ration should keep hog feeding profitable for the rest of the winter, Kutish observes. The ratio probably won't drop below 15 or 16-to-1 this fall and winter, he says.

On the current hog marketing scene, Kutish notes that many interior packers have stopped paying top prices for hogs weighing more than 220 pounds. Until the discount weight was lowered, hog feeders could get top prices for animals weighing up to 230 pounds.

Marketing weights are currently running higher than a year ago, Kutish points out. Marketings should pick up during the next 30 days, he says.

Cattlemen May Get Pay For Treatment of Grubs

Many Hancock County cattlemen may be able to qualify this fall for packing house "incentive payments" for the use of systemic insecticides to destroy cattle grubs, says County Extension Director Paul Henderson of Garner.

He says at least one major packer in Iowa is offering to pay up to $1 per head for the cost of the systemic grubicide treatment for grub-free cattle delivered to the packing plant between Dec. 1, 1958 and May 1, 1959.

County Extension Director Henderson reports that Entomologist Earle Raun of Iowa State College, says proper treatment with these new systemic insecticides kills 95-100 per cent of the grubs in treated animals. Treated animals have gained one-tenth to ¼ pound more per day than similar untreated animals on the same feed. The treated animals have paid growers $1.23 to $6.42 more per head.

The packer payment will be made to farmers who present a statement that cattle they are delivering to the packing plant have been treated with systemic insecticides, and who attach the dealer's statement of the cost of the insecticide for the job. If the carcasses of these cattle are "clean" — that is, show fewer than 5 grubs per head — the farmer will receive from the packer a repayment of his treatment cost up to a total of $1 per head.

Raun says the use of the new insecticides will enable hundreds of Hancock County cattlemen to qualify for the "incentive payment." Increased gains and feed efficiency are then clear profit.

The grub-killing insecticides are sold as Trolene or Co-Ral. Trolene is administered as a bolus (large pill). Co-Ral is used as a spray. It takes a dose of 1 bolus for each 300 pounds of the animal's body weight. A bolus costs 75 cents. The spray, Co-Ral, comes as a 25 per cent wettable powder in 4 pound cans that mix with 25 gallons of water and ½ lb.of household detergent. Raun says this treats 25-30 cattle. The cost of chemical is about 85 cents per animal. Iowa cattle must receive this treatment before Dec. 15 if it is to be effective.

Extension Director Henderson says anyone wanting help in planning systemic cattle grub eradication may call him at his office in Garner, phone No. 234. An Iowa State College publication, FS768, will also provide further information.

Cancer Society Elects New Officers at Meeting

The annual meeting of the Hancock County Cancer Society was held Monday, October 6th in the hot lunch room of the Britt high school. A 6 o'clock dinner was served to the board members and their wives and husbands. A business meeting followed. The following were elected to serve a three year term on the board: Chairman, Mrs Lawrence Radloff, Garner; Vice Chairman, Mrs E Hunsley, Britt; Secretary, Mrs Rudy Hefti, Britt; Lay Service Secretary, Mrs Dwight Bovenmeyer, Garner; Business Representative, Jim Christ, Kanawha; Hospital Auxiliary Representative, Mrs Herman Bode, Corwith; Publicity Chairman, Mr Elwood W Geary, Corwith.

It was voted to continue special nursing care on a curent cancer case now being helped in the county.

A gift was presented to Marcia Mitchell for her services as Lay Service Secretary. She is leaving the county and will go into full time Cancer Society work in southeast Iowa as district director.

Mrs Helen Wohlwind, Eagle Grove, Director of this District, was introduced and spoke briefly. She encouraged everyone to attend the annual state meeting to be held at the Hotel Savory in Des Moines, October 11th and 12th. She also announced a Public Education Workshop to be held in Algona, November 13th.

At 8 p.m. the meeting was opened to the public. A girl's trio from the Britt school accompanied by Tom Swan sang several numbers. Mr Art Stokes, Ass't. Executive Sec. from the State office at Mason City, then addressed the group. He pointed out that two out of 6 cancer victims are now being cured, three of 6 are incurable as yet until research discovers better methods for treating some types of cancer. The other one can be cured if discovered early enough. Only a physical examination of every individual periodically can insure the saving of this life. This one may be you.

Highway Story

By Bob Hullihan

If you've been resting comfortably in the assurance that every drinking driver arrested in Iowa gets the full penalty he deserves under the law, prepare to be disillusioned. It just isn't so. It is thought a significant number of drinking drivers escape the law, even though they are apprehended by patrolmen or police.

The reason is that no one, not even a medical doctor, can prove a driver is under the influence of intoxicants without a chemical test and, in Iowa, a driver can refuse to take a chemical test. Without test evidence, it is sometimes impossible to prove the offense and the driver escapes with a lesser charge.

This situation exists in Iowa despite the fact that 34 other states have chemical test laws and, even more strangely, despite the face that Iowa actually pioneered in many of the legal and technical aspects of chemical testing.

We would all think it ridiculous today if a criminal suspect could refuse to have his fingerprints taken or to be photographed. Is it any less ridiculous that a drunk driving suspect can refuse to take the one scientific test that can prove guilty—or innocent?

The other side of the coin is that chemical testing is sound protection for the driver innocent of drinking, though he may appear otherwise for some reason.

To help curb drinking, State Safety Commissioner Russel Brown is asking for a chemical test law in Iowa. A driver suspected of drinking would be required to take a simple breath test on request or lose his license.

Nitrogen Applications For Fall Can Soon be Made Henderson Says

Fall nitrogen applications can be made safely by Hancock County farmers as soon as soil temperatures drop to the 50-degree level, Extension Director Paul Henderson reports.

The "safe" date will be about October 18th. Henderson explains that until soil temperatures are at 50 degrees or below, there's a chance of losing some nitrogen through downward movement, or leaching, due to fall and spring rains.

He says that nitrate forms will move down, or leach, until freeze-up. Urea and ammonia forms are converted to nitrates by warm temperatures. They also will be moved downward if they're applied too early.

To cut down on this movement, the nitrogen source used should contain mostly urea and ammonia and be applied after soil temperatures are down to the 50-degree mark.

Sources of urea and ammonia nitrogen are solid urea (45-0-0), liquid anhydrous ammonia (82-0-0), ammonium sulphate (21-0-0), and apua ammonia (24-0-0). Solid ammonium nitrate (33.5-0-0) contains half its nitrogen in ammonia form, and half in nitrate form. Nitrogen solutions, 28-41 per cent nitrogen, contain various proportions of urea, ammnia and nitrates, Paul Henderson says.

The extension director says Agronomist Joe Stritzel of Iowa State College suggests plowing down solid materials and no-pressure liquids. All high- and low-pressure liquids should be injected into the soil.

Stritzel says that if anhydrous ammonia is applied ahead of plowing, it should be injected at a depth of 8 inches. A shallower injection would be distributed by plowing, which isn't desirable. If application is made after plowing, 6 inches is suggested depth for injection. Nitrogen solutions can be injected safely at depths of 3-4 inches.

Nitrogen rates are best determined by an accurate soil test, Extension Director Paul Henderson says. However, if a test report isn't available, more general recommendations for this area can be obtained from Iowa State College publications at the extension office, he reminds Hancock County farmers.

TUBE TESTING FACT

Many folks bring electronic tubes to GARNER TV & APPLIANCE for testing. Sometimes a replacement of a bad tube will solve the customer's TV or radio trouble. But often it doesn't work out like that.

The very best of tube testers cannot simulate the conditions of your TV set. Your tube could be bad on the tester and be good in your TV set; or, it could be the other way around, too. Sometimes, certain tubes will show weak on the tester but will remain that way through years of good TV operation

For this reason, we use special equipment for checking the performance of the tubes as well as the circuits of the TV set as a whole unit. This gives us an accurate answer to what needs service or replacement among the hundreds of complicated TV devices. When you phone 371 at Garner for electronic services, you will notice that we use only the latest electronic instruments for fast and efficient maintenance.

Some Random Thoughts

Support the Community Chest. Give enough for all the various organizations included in the chest and help to meet the goal. Failure of the drive to bring enough funds might result in a return to the old multi-drive practice of the past when solicitors for this fund, or that fund, were seemingly at the door all year long.

Corn fields are being flattened at a terrific rate as whether holds good for field work. Looks as though most of the crop will be harvested by the time the season opens on the wily pheasant. And many rural intersections that have been partially or completely blind for the past several months, are now open. Good deal!

We wonder how many people have been frustrated upon trying to enter the First National Bank Bank since the entrance has been remodeled. The first couple of times we tried to get in, we tried to open the door in the middle of the entrance as had been the case in the past. The new, modern, good-looking entrance just isn't built that way, and we confess to a feeling of foolishness for being so victimized by habit.

Don't forget the Lions Varieties to be presented on the evening of October 31st. Tickets are on sale by any member of the local club . . . and as usual the money realized from the sale of tickets will be split three ways by the Lions. The Legion Auxiliary and the Music Mothers are also selling tickets, and they will come in for their shares of the three-way split.

The show is always a good evening's entertainment, and the proceeds are always used for community betterment. Get your tickets, enjoy an evening of entertainment, and be a community booster.

Voters Will Again Have Chance to Vote on Conservation Board

Voters of Hancock County will have a chance to vote on whether or not they want the county to have a Conservation Board when they go to the polls in the General Election on November 4th. Two years ago the formation of such a board was turned by the voters, and it is hoped by supporters of the plan that this year's election will bring about a reversal of that decision.

If, at the election, a majority of the voters are in favor of such a board for the county, the board of supervisors shall within 60 days after the election appoint 5 residents of the county to the board. These five men shall be chosen for their interest in conservation and shall serve without pay.

Included in the duties of such a board would be the management of all property now owned or acquired in the future for public parks, playgrounds, recreation areas, wildlife areas, and county conservation purposes. They will also develop and maintain such facilities, and accept gifts and contributions of property or money for conservation purposes.

If the voters approve of the formation of a county conservation board then the board of supervisors may levy an annual tax of not less than ¼ mill or more than one mill on the dollar of the assessed valuation of all real and personal property subject to taxation in the county. This money is to be paid into a separate fund for the payment of expenses in carrying out duties of the conservation board in the county.

One-fourth mill on the dollar amounts to 25 cents on each $1,000 of assessed valuation

THE FARM OUTLOOK

By Paul Henderson
County Extension Director

Hog production will start climbing next year, and prices will drop, provided the production cycle runs true to form, says the U. S. Department of Agriculture. In fact, says the USDA, the production increase already has started.

Reports from nine Corn Belt hog states showed that June-through-August farrowings were up 17 per cent from 1957. September-through-November estimates call for a 16 per cent farrowing increase in the nine states. But the USDA points out that states other than the nine Corn Belt states reporting probably won't show as large a production boost.

Next fall's hog prices could be almost as low as prices were in 1955—or they could stay well above this level, the USDA believes. What happens depends on the size of the increase in the 1959 spring pig crop. Present conditions make a large pig crop increase possible, if not probable, says the USDA. It points out that this fall's bumper feed crops add to the likelihood of a further production hike next spring. And beef has been gaining on pork in public favor, which is a further price-depressing factor, the USDA notes.

"In some respects," says a USDA report, "a lower level of prices has been made inevitable by the reduced prices of corn." The report goes on to point out that the hog-corn price ratio climbed to 20.6 last February. This was the first time the ratio has topped 20 since 1909, when records were first kept. The upcoming hog production increase is part of a natural adjustment tending to bring the hog-corn ratio nearer its average, the USDA says.

Besides being affected by the hog-corn price ratio, hog production seems to follow its own cycle, the USDA explains. Favorable prices must last for a year or longer before hog production increases. Now is the time the production upturn is due, the USDA says.

Some increase in hog production did occur this past spring, but the pig crop was still 8.5 per cent smaller than the 1955 spring crop, the USDA notes. And even though production this spring was a little larger than in 1955, the amount per capita is smaller because of population increases. The USDA figures pork output per person for this fall and early this winter will be down to about 18 per cent from 1955-56.

Building a Greater Iowa

Where Employment is Better

It's good to live and work in Iowa. For one thing, Iowa's steady employment record is one of the finest in the nation. Figures published at mid-year show that, while jobs were still hard to find in some parts of the country, we had the THIRD LOWEST unemployment figure of all states in the Union.

One of the solid factors in helping Iowa maintain such a fine record is our brewing industry. Over 23,000 Iowans are regularly employed in the brewing and distribution of beer . . . the light, bright beverage of moderation. In these steady and growing payrolls, as in so many other ways . . .

Confidence

There is nothing that succeds like success.

Webster tells us that confidence means full trust and self reliance, assurance or boldness, even a ground of trust.

By this, you can understand why self-confidence must be a part of everyones personality.

We must have confidence or faith in ourselves to cope with our daily problems.

The amount of confidence we have in ourselves will play a major part in the type of job we will hold and the type of living we can provide for ourselves and for our family.

The difference in the amount of self-confidence that people have determines whether they are introverts or extroverts.

Our school seems to be lacking in self esteem and personal confidence. This fault could be improved by the development of better study habits and by each student working harder to express his beliefs on any of the subjects taught in school. "Follow the Leader" seems to be the trend of the students. If this determent could be improved the interest in school work would rise in each student and would improve, correspondingly, the scholastic standards of our school. We should take a personal inventory of ourselves to find how we stand as far as confidence is concerned.

Capacity Crowd Enjoys Junior Class Play

The play "Headin' for the Hills" presented by the Juniors, Friday evening was ably cast—every member of the class had a part—and directed by Mrs Gladys Lewis. It was well accepted and enjoyed by a capacity crowd.

The play opened with Randall Langlitz as Cyrus, the store keeper of an old country store, and his "demon daughter", Sherryl Clagaugh as Skeets discussing the loss of various amounts of candy. Jane Renner, as Betty Belle, another daughter who did a very fine job of keeping in character with her fathers "right hand" in doing the work around the homestead. Last but not least of the daughters was Barbara Clayton as "Happy", who was just that most of the time.

Another good character was Jo Ann Jacobs, as Widow Squiggins and all of her children who finally outwitted Sharon Blau as Aunt Sukey and Maurine Johnson as Miss Oggie—and succeeded in "landing" Cyrus.

Candace Carlson and Roxanne Back who were the wealthy orphans who came to live with their only relation, the hillbilly family, played their part well and finally decided that the best way to get along was to "turn the tables" and be a hillbilly ,too.

Donald Anderson as Slim Hawkenshaw did well as the hillbilly bashful romantic boy and succeeded with the help of Daryl Brager as Hank Goolus in asking Cornelia, Candace Carlson, to accompany him to the "Hoedown". Then there was Eugene Zwald as Horseface Dilly, the tough guy, who accepted the fact that grass and trees were lavender.

The end came when James Beier, Jake Slasser, who had been asleep during the entire production awoke and exclaimed, "Well, I guess I must have overslept!"

Between the first and second acts the girls trio ably presented "Three Little Maids" conducted by Mrs Whitney.

Mr Whitford presented a woodwind quartet between Act II and Act III which was appreciated by everyone.

The Junior Class thanked Mrs Lewis for her patience in helping them to produce a successful play and as a token of appreciation presented her with a blanket. She graciously responded.

VARIED COLUMN

Since the weather is so nice, Physical Training classes are being held outdoors. The girls even play touch football, even though at times, it might well be called tackle football.

Mrs Hanson, our math teacher, was ill Monday through Wednesday of last week. Mr Shafer substituted for her the first two days and on Wednesday, Mrs Mike Lemke took over several of her classes.

Tuesday night after the class play practice, Mrs Lewis treated the cast to apples. Wednesday night after dress rehearsel, Mrs Lewis, Miss Whitmire and the cast had a party to celebrate the number of people that would soon be headin' for "Headin' for the Hills."

We had two practice fire drills this past week. The first one was Monday morning and the second was Tuesday. If there ever is a real fire, most of the kids will be burned with the school unless they get out of the building faster than they do on practice drills.

Thursday morning the individual pictures of the grade and high school students were taken for the annual by Russell's Studio of Mason City.

MUSIC NEWS

Have you heard a lot of practicing going on somewhere near your home? Well, you probably have heard one of the 5 band members or the mixed quartet practicing for All State Auditions for band and chorus this coming Saturday, October 25th, at Spencer. These 2 groups are made up of the better singers and players of the state.

The five band members trying out are Ginger Kudje on the bass clarinet, Cozette Lau and Maurine Johnson on the B-flat clarinet, Jerry La Favre on the tenor saxophone, Candace Carlson on the trombone and JoAnn Jacobs on the French horn. These students are under the direction of Charles Whitford.

The students in Mixed Quartet are Randall Langlitz, bass; Eugene Zwald, tenor; Joyce Thiemann, soprano; and Myrna Barz, alto. This group is under the direction of Mrs Whitney.

When the band members try out, we have to play a solo, scales, and sight read some material, each one separately, and in different locations in the building. The Quartet tries out as one group and sings one or two numbers.

This is the first year that we have sent a vocal group to All State Chorus. Ginger Kudje has been in the All State Band for the past three years and we hope that she and all of the rest can make it this year.

We hope that you will wish the best of luck to these 9 kids. And also help us to express our appreciation to our two music teachers, Mrs Whitney and Mr Whitford for the fine work that they have done with the instrumental and vocal division of the school.

Teacher: "If you have ten potatoes and you must divide them equally among three persons, how would you do it?"
Pupil: I'd mash them."

Parents Take Notice!

The 1958 Hancock County Booster Immunization Program will be held in the Klemme School on October 27. This program includes only fourth and ninth graders. The two booster shots available will be Diptheria-Tetanus and Smallpox. A charge of 50¢ will be made for each shot.

This annual booster program has been approved by the Hancock County Medical Society and the Hancock County Schoolmaster's Club. The shots will be administered by Dr Dulmes at the schoolhouse.

All parents of fourth and ninth grade students are encouraged to take advantage of this immunization program.

FIRE! FIRE!

In the past several weeks the students of both the grade and high schools have practiced fire drills.

The purpose of the drills are to get the students acquainted with the procedure of filing out of the school in record time.

Do YOU STUDENTS take these drills seriously?

Too many students, especially those in high school, regard these drills indifferently. During the filing-out period laughing and shouting can be heard, also many students proceed down the steps by pushing those in front of them.

The state requires a time limit of approximately 30 seconds. We have yet to make the record! Our best timing was 38 seconds and that was the second try within five minutes. Some of you are going to get singed!

So come on kids, let's strive for the record and don't let our school down!

RETIRES

E D Wittmer, who has operated a store at Germanville for the past 44 years will retire late this month.

Highway Story

By Bob Hullihan

Not knowing where it may lead, we herewith set out to bring a shade more understanding and good-will between two groups that are almost sure to lose some members on the highways this harvest season. We refer to the city driver in his high-powered automobile and the farmer on his tractor meeting unexpectedly on the highway.

To the city driver we say, consider the plight of the farmer: He's out there on the highway with his slow-moving tractor and because that's the only way he can get to his fields. He isn't out there in that blazing traffic by choice.

Consider how you would feel, sitting up there unprotected on a tractor, listening to a car coming up behind you at 70, wondering if he'll slow down in time. He has no chance to maneuver with his slow-moving machine. He has no protection if hit. All he can do is sit there and hope he meets more than his share of intelligent drivers that day. Give him a chance. Slow down. Watch for him.

And, to the farmer we say, consider the plight of the city driver. He's out moving along the highway without a thought that he'll be right on top of your tractor over that next little hill. You could save his life, perhaps, if you raise a red flag on a pole and attach it to your tractor. It might give that driver just enough warning.

And when you're coming in from the fields late, be sure you have proper tail-lights on your last vehicle in line. That could save a couple of lives — one of them yours.

Let's watch for one another this harvest season; let's give way for safety.

BEANS

A truck loaded with beans went out of control recently when it went off on the shoulder and upset in a ditch near Dinsdale. The accident occured when the driver looked in the rear view mirror to see if any of the beans were blowing off the truck.

Don't believe the world owes you a living—The world owes you nothing, having been here first.

IN AT BOTH EARS

A lot of people ask us about Hi-Fi at GARNER TV & APPLIANCE, wanting to know what it means. Actually, hi-fi means high fidelity, a reproduction of sound in a way that will precisely reproduce the original source.

To come close to understanding what this sound is like place a radio on the opposite side of the room facing your television set. Of course, you must have a program that is broadcasting on both radio and TV. Tune them to the same pitch and you will be surprised at the tone improvement.

Better yet, come into our store at Garner and hear some of the latest hi-fi equipment. You'll be amazed at the enjoyment you can receive from hearing your favorite singers and orchestras by way of high fidelity.

Nearly Half of State's Fatal Accidents Now On Secondary Roads

A high tide of traffic deaths and injuries is running across the state's farm and county roads, threatening to undermine the best traffic safety record Iowa has ever had, the state safety department warned today.

The traffic death rate on the state's secondary roads is running upward to 100 per cent ahead of this same month last year, according to the department.

Nearly half of all traffic deaths in the state are happening now on the secondary roads, though these roads normally carry only about 25 per cent of Iowa's total traffic volume.

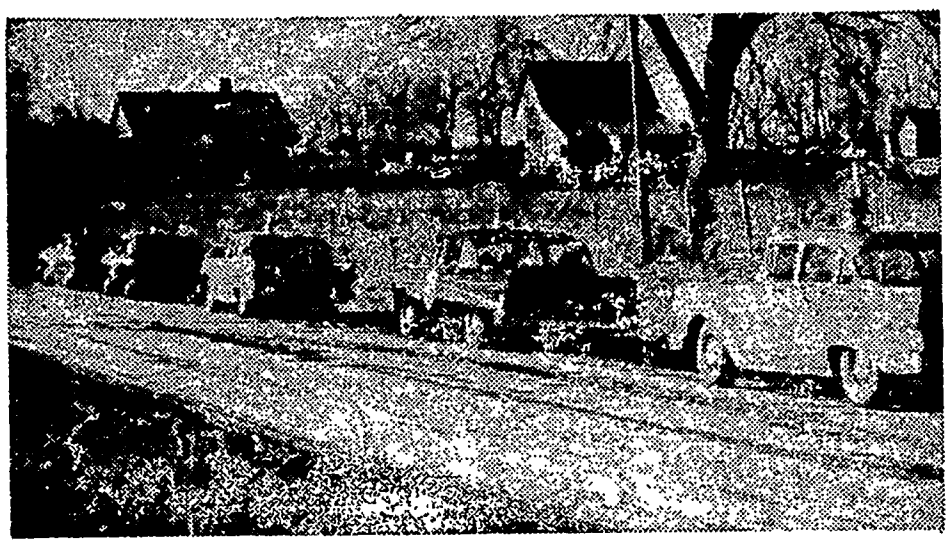
"Time and again we see the cause for these farm road accidents described as loss of control," Frank Ulish, state safety education director, said.

"That just means one thing—speeds too fast for road conditions. I think the current death rate on these secondary roads is a tragically plain argument for a 50 mile per hour speed limit," he commented.

Ulish urged all drivers to reduce speeds on farm and county roads and "to never exceed 50 miles per hour, even under the best conditions."

"Keep in mind," he said, "that the secondary roads today are more dangerous than the busiest highway."

Patrol, Sheriffs Hit Farm Roads



The Iowa highway patrol and county sheriffs are moving into the farm and county roads of the state in an enforcement drive to cut traffic deaths. Traffic fatalities on secondary roads are running well ahead of last year, though the over-all safety record is the best in Iowa in many years. Highway patrol and sheriff cars are shown here moving out to patrol secondary roads. The enforcement effort is part of the drive to save 100 lives in Iowa this year.

Wayne Buseman's Car Demolished In Three-Car Accident On 69

Mr and Mrs Wayne Buseman were on their way to Belmond Saturday afternoon to visit with Wayne's father, George Buseman, who was in the hospital following a stroke. At the intersection of 69 and the new blacktop one mile north of Belmond, a car driven by John Greenlander, 71, of Belmond, drove off the blacktop into the path of the Buseman car.

In trying to miss the Greenlander vehicle, Wayne swerved, lost control of his car and struck nearly headon into an auto approaching from the south driven by H Milton Dusenberg of Clear Lake. Wayne's car then bounced into the Greenlander car.

The Greenlander car received only minor damage, but the other two cars were wrecked beyond repair. Occupants of the cars were taken to the Belmond Hospital, but none of them were injured to any extent.

Charges of failing to yield the right of way have been filed against Greenlander as a result of the accident.

Fire Causes $25,000 Damage at Co-op. Oil Warehouse In Garner

Fire of unknown origin caused considerable damage Saturday night to the Hancock County Co-op. Oil Ass'n warehouse on the east side of Garner's main street. Damage at the warehouse, which was partically gutted and had the roof ruined, was estimated by manager Roy Railsback at approximately $25,000.

Considerable smoke and water damage also took place at Sawtelle Ford. The Sawtelle building adjoins the warehouse on the south, and although much of the building's contents was removed, still there was smoke damage to one brand new 1959 Ford, to the driver training car of the Hayfield school, another car which was in for repair, and one truck which was being overhauled.

If the fire had gotten into the stock of tires and oil stored in the warehouse of the Co-op. Oil Ass'n, damage could have been much greater, but the combined efforts of the Garner and Klemme fire departments, who fought the blaze for over two hours, kept the flames pretty well under control.

The alarm was turned in on the fire after it had a considerable start, with the Garner department, appearing on the scene at about 9:15. They immediately called for the Klemme department, and although hampered by strong winds and a double roof on the building, which made location of flames difficult, the two departments were successful in their efforts to control the blaze.

CAPITOL LETTER

(Weekly news release of the Iowa Press Association. The material contained herein does not necessarily conform to the editorial policy of this newspaper.)

General Election

With the general election less than a week away, the governornorship and other state and congressional races are picking up mementum. Most polls show Governor Hehschel C Loveless, Democrat, leading William S Murray, Republican, in the race for governor. However, Murray is gaining on Loveless.

President Eisenhower's appearance at the National Corn Picking Contest near Marion is said to have helped the Murray campaign. The Republicans are going all out in the Iowa campaign. Vice President Richard M Nixon is scheduled to appear at Fort Dodge on October 30.

Sales Tax

One of the key issues in governorship race is the sales tax. Murray advocates boosting the sales tax from 2 to 3 per cent with the additional money to be ear-marked for property tax relief in the form of more school aid to the counties. Loveless contends it is not necessary to hike the sales tax to meet the needs of state government, including higher education.

"With a treasury balance of nearly 41 million dollars and with general fund revenue running higher than current appropriations—and rising rapidly—the Republican candidate recommendation for a 50 per cent increase in sales taxes is completely out of line with the needs of state government and the welfare of the vast majority of our people," Loveless declared.

Professor Murray retaliated by accusing Loveless of financial irresponsibility. "The governor's financial irresponsibility during his term of office has made the problem worse. By using the Republican-built surplus as a backlog and by refusing hospital building, buildings for the Soldiers Home, laboratories and needed lakes, he has been able to talk of low taxes," Murray asserted.

ISEA Campaign

Governor Loveless has criticized the Iowa State Education Association for sponsoring advertising which the governor interpreted as political support for his opponent, Dr Murray. Loveless had reference to billboards and television commercials sponsored by the I S E A which support increased school aid, which Murray strongly advocates.

Loveless said he thinks the ISEA has a "right to try to influence legislation but I question whether they should attempt to influence an election."

Murray said he was "appalled at Loveless' statement in which the Governor attacked the ISEA. "He attacked them (ISEA) because their program happens to be parallel with mine," Murray said.

Liquor Sales

The 1958 fiscal year was the second most profitable year in the history of the state liquor commission.

The liquor commission reported profits for the year ending June 30 totaled $9,236,474 on liquor sales of $38,869,236. The commission's most profitable year was 1951 when net income was $9,625,-124 on sales of $40,607,868.

In its annual report the liquor comission noted it was able to handle the increased sales volume despite a 15 per cent deduction in the number of employees from the previous year.

Mental Health Director

Dr J O Cromwell, director of state mental health institutions, plans to move to Des Moines from Independence sometime this week. The state board of control has raised Cromwell's salary to $25,-000 a year, $5,000 more than he has been drawing.

At Independence he was provided with full family maintenence. In Des Moines he will be given no maintenence.

Cromwell's $25,000 salary makes him number one on the state's payroll. Presidents Virgil Hancher of the University of Iowa and James Hilton of Iowa State College receive $22,000 annually plus maintenence.

Liquor By The Drink

An attempt to place the Iowa League of Municipalities on record as favoring legalizing sale of liquor by the drink has failed. A resolution to that effect was offered at the league's convention in Des Moines.

The resolutions committee of the league tabled the resolution which would have urged the Iowa legislature to enact such legislation. Several city officials attending the convention said they did not oppose legalizing liquor by the drink but did feel it was not the business of the league to promote passage of such legislation.

Drivers Licenses

Dr Donald Boles of Iowa State College, chairman of the governor's commission on human relations, has announced the commission will ask the state safety department to remove the race designation from Iowa drivers licenses.

"We feel this designation serves no useful purpose and is degrading," Boles said. He pointed out that a number of states have stopped using it.

Cancer Group

Mrs J A Liercke, Clarence, is the new president of the Iowa division of the American Cancer Society. Mrs Liercke is believed to be the first woman to ever head a state cancer society group.

Beer Ruling

The state supreme court, in a unanimous decision, has ruled that beer is excluded from the dram shop law which provides a person injured as a result of intoxication can sue the person who provided the intoxicating liquors.

School Board

The Iowa attorney general's office has ruled membership on a county school board is not a lucrative job. The question was raised as to whether a person could be a member of the legislature and a county school board at the same time. The state constitution forbids legislators to hold any lucrative office in government.

THE FARM OUTLOOK

By Paul Henderson
County Extension Director

Record smashing grain production, which each year keeps piling up ever increasing surpluses, has become "agricultural enemy No. 1" says Tom Rackham, Iowa State College farm economist. And with more record crops of corn, barley, oats, sorghum, wheat and soybeans due this year, the effects of the "enemy" are being felt in areas of the national economy outside agriculture,Rackham says.

No relief is in sight for next year, he adds. Regardless of agricultural policies designed to cut surplusses, there is little chance that rich American farm land will lie idle, Rackham believes.

Estimates of the size of this year's grain crops have been boosted regularly as harvest has drawn closer. Each month since July, 100 million bushels or more have been added to corn crop estimates, Rackham notes. Combined oats, sorghum, and barley estimates have been similarly increased as harvest approached.

Now it appears that the corn crop will top the 1948 record, Rackham says. An average 50.4 bushels per acre is expected. This more than makes up for the corn not being grown on the 11.6 million acres taken out of corn production since 1948. Rackham points out.

When the record oats, barley, and sorghum crops are added to the record-breaking corn harvest, feed grain production should top last year by 8 per cent, Rackham figures. Besides the prospective huge feed grain supplies, a record wheat crop has been harvested. Wheat production outdid last year's by 53 per cent, and last year's crop was fully adequate, Rackham points out. Soybean producers have done some record-smashing this year, too, as they marked up the biggest bean crop ever—19 per cent larger than the 1957 crop, which was a record breaker itself. Rackham notes that wheat and soybeans, both being feed grain supplements, threaten to cut the available market demand for feed grains.

Mr and Mrs Myron B Starkey of Oakland, California, recently had their trip interrupted when the combination of a strong south wind, plus the suction from a passing semi-truck, pulled their sports car across the highway and into the opposite grader ditch. The accident occurred 2½ miles west of Winterset on highway 92.

The first annual Poultry and Egg Conference will be held at Iowa State College, November 6, in the Memorial Union. College poultrymen will discuss changes and challenges of the poultry industry in the morning session. In the afternoon college researchers will explain what they're doing to help meet these new developments. Anyone interested may attend says Robert E Phillips, poultry department head at the college.

7 - 14 days earlier next spring if you plow the garden this fall, says Extension Horticulturist Ben Extension Horticulturist Ben Vance at Iowa State College. Besides garden soil will be in better condition for spring planting. This means fresh vegetables will be available sooner than if you waited to plow in the spring. If your garden soil hasn't been tested to determine fertilizer requirements, apply a complete fertilizer to be sure of supplying plant needs. A 5-20-10, 10-10-10 or similar analysis, applied at 15-20 pounds per 1000 square feet will boost production.

Plan to take soil samples from corn fields as soon as corn has been harvested, George Hawkins of the Iowa State College soil testing laboratory suggests. It's easier to take soil samples now than it will be after the ground is frozen below plow depth.

The amount of capital needed to operate a typical 20-cow dairy farm has increased about 30 per cent during the last 6 years, says A W Rudnick, extension dairyman at Iowa State College. Milk production per cow has increased nearly 25 per cent since 1947. Total milk production has established a new record in each of the last 5 years.

Is it safe to take off another cutting of alfalfa now? Will it survive the winter? Agronomist Harvey Thompson, Iowa State College, says: You can safely take off a crop of hay or pasture alfalfa after the middle of October. Since the growing season is over by then, little, if any, harm will be done to next year's stand or production.

How much fertilizer carry-over will I have following this dry year (Northwest Iowa)? Agronomist Joe Stritzel, Iowa State College, says: Generally, fertilizer carryover will be greater after a dry yean than after a normal year. This is due to lower crop response and lower total nutrient removal because of lower yields. Regardless of the year, however, don't consider carryover unless the first application of each nutrient was 40 pounds or more per acre. Where yields were low and where rates of each nutrient will range from 35-50 per cent of nitrogen, 40-60 per cent for phosphorus and 30-60 per cent for potassium.

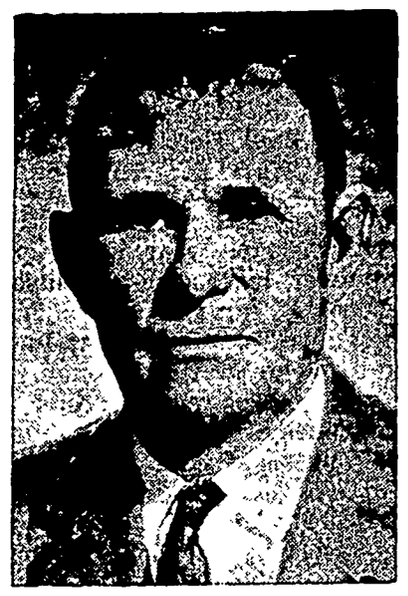
FIRE

The tires on a truck owned by the Western Transfer Co. of Chicago caused considerable fire damage when they caught fire near Batavia recently. The fire ignited the floor of the truck and the contents had to be transferred to another truck.

TRACTOR

Truman Yoder of near Kalona experienced a close call with serious injury recently when he was pinned under an overturned tractor. Fortunately the ground was moist enough to allow him to dig and scratch so he could release himself from under the burning tractor.

To the voters of Hancock County



In August of this year a Centennial celebration was held at Garner and here I wish to congratulate the Garner people on that observance.

I particularly enjoyed the pageant depicting the first forty years of that 100 years as I saw the last 60 years. As a boy, I helped haul gravel with dump planks to make a one-lane highway on No. 18, between Britt and Hutchins.

I also had teams helping grade for the pavement that is now nearly worn out and hope to see a wider, better and straight pavement there soon.

I have also seen the county drainage systems remove the sloughs and make wonderful farming land and have seen and had some part in the improvement of our school systems.

I do not have much hope of seeing the last 60 years of the county's next 100 years, but if the electors of the county are willing, I would like to have a part in serving during the last few years of the century.

I feel the people are proud of the progress in roads, drainage, and schools and want that progress continued and improved, but at the least cost possible.

This I will do my best to accomplish and feel that having farmed all my life and been through prosperous and recession periods, I am qualified to do this.

Wishing to thank you for past and any future favors.

I'd like to ask you all to be sure and use your privilege and spend 30 minutes or so to help pick your future "hired hands." Vote Tuesday, November 4th.

Respectfully,

VARIED COLUMN

Last Friday we had an assembly program for grades 3 through 12. It was entitled "Deep Sea Adventure" and was put on by Captain Paul W Dry.

The advanced home-making class is starting to cook and the freshman class is practicing good grooming habits.

The Junior boys are hardly recognizable around school since they got their hair cuts. They had to let their hair grow for about three weeks before the class play for their parts in the class play.

The Junior class play appeared to go off quite well to the audience. Mrs Lewis had some trouble with her makeup before the play, however. She had all of the makeup open, except for some liquid makeup, and setting on a table. All of a sudden the table collapsed and all of the makeup tipped over on the floor. All she could do was scoop up the powder and other things. Mrs Lewis says that she now has one box of powder containing a mixture of all the powder makeup she has.

The seventh and eighth grades had a skating party Friday night, October 24.

Mr Loomis, the commercial teacher, was gone last Friday to attend a Business Conference.

A lot of the recently graduated kids from Klemme were at the Junior Class Play Friday night and at the Sophomore Dance on Saturday night.

The mixed quartet, which is trying out for State Chorus, has been practicing every night of this past week at the homes of the kids.

We had a fire drill last Wednesday. The alarm went off but apparently no one was able to shut it off again because it rang for about three minutes. We later found out that one of the men working in the other building had turned a fuse causing the alarm to ring.

We would like to make an apology to Sharon Blau for not putting her name in the band news as trying out for All State Band tryouts at Spencer. She is trying out for the All State band on her drum. It was an oversight on our part and we did not know that she was trying out until after the news was turned in. We're sorry Sharon!

GRADE SCHOOL NEWS

Changing Policy

We have decided to reorganize the way we have been writing up the grade school news. The teachers will alternate in shifts during the rest of the year, in turning in their news every three weeks.

First Grade News

For art on Friday we made a Halloween Bulletin Board. We made bats, witches, ghosts, black cats, haunted houses, jack-o-lanterns, cornstalks and a big white fence. We think it looks real nice.

We have ten real jack-o-lanterns in our room.

Most of us have finished our second reading book and are starting on the third one.

Four more children have returned their dental cards. They are Joel Doble, Ricky Hartzell, Lonnie Veldhouse and Vickie Christians. The boys are ahead of the girls so far in our race.

Second Grade News

We have 19 dental cards. These are the ones that have their's in; Mary Ellen, Larry, Edward, Marian, Mary Ann, Carolyn, William, Duane, Sue, VaDonna, Verlyn, Barbara, Carol, Paige, Becky, Marlene, Julie, Lara, and Cheryl.

The ones who received a 100 in Spelling the last two weeks were; Verlyn, Aimee, Patty, Diana, Becky, VaDonna, Paige, Carolyn, Marian, Julie, Barbara, Edward, Karen, Marlene, Mark, Mary Ellen, David, William, Larry, Dennis, Harlan, Vickie, Duane, Sue and Bruce.

October 14th we went out to the Mitchell Bock's Dairy. Mr Bock was kind enough to milk a cow for us, answer our questions and before we left Mrs Bock treated us to Dixie cups and butter cookies. Many thanks for a nice time. Mrs Graydon Back went along.

We are going to write riddles and letters in language.

We had all the addition and subtraction combinations of 10 the last 3 weeks, as well as same time telling and Roman Numerals.

Every one was here on Thursday for picture taking.

Halloween seems to be every where in the rooms. Ghosts, witches, pumpkins, and masks are everywhere. The climax will come in a couple of days.

Third Grade News

We made Halloween pictures last week. We made them just as funny as we could, then painted them with black paint to make them spooky. It was lots of fun.

In health we are studying about our eyes, ears, nose, and teeth. We're learning many new and interesting things.

In Social Studies, we finished our unit about the different kinds of homes, next we're looking forward to the story of how a house is built.

Sandra Lau was our birthday queen last Friday. Her mother and little brother brought treats to school for Sandra to give the class.

Mrs Herbert Pearson was absent from school Tuesday of the past week attending the funeral of her uncle Rev A M Manners at Sioux Falls, South Dakota.

A reading of the will is a form of heir-conditioning.

Sophomores Have Party

On Saturday the 18th of October the Sophomore class held a party in the High School Gym. There were door prizes, lunch, and plenty of dancing at the party. The party was well attended by all high school students, graduates, and some guests.

Freshman Project

The following items in this week's issue of the Shamrock were written by the Freshman. The entire class wrote different selections concerning Halloween as an English assignment. The items that appear in this issue were selected from this assignment.

This policy will be followed by different classes during the school year.

One Windy Night

It was 10:00 p.m. when Dad looked out the window to see if a storm was coming because it was really windy out. As he looked out he noticed that the light in the hayloft had been left on.

Then he asked me if I would run out and shut it off. I agreed, put on my jacket, and started out to the barn. I was just to the door of the barn when I saw a shadow come up behind me. I had an urge to look but couldn't. Then I felt something rub against my leg! This time I looked down, only to see my pet cat, Spooky. I can't tell you how relieved I was.

When I got inside the barn door, I walked to the other end of the barn and turned off the light. Now it was really dark. It was hard finding my way back to the door. I stumbled over a few things but finally made it.

Suddenly some loose straw fell from the hayloft. I looked up, and there was a dark figure starting down the ladder! I didn't know what to do so I ducked down behind a bail of straw. There it was now standing at the foot of the ladder. I could feel the rays of his glaring eyes.

My throat became dry. I could hardly swallow as I lay there wondering who and what it was. Maybe it was a maniac out to kill anything that got in his path!

Many thoughts came into my mind. I tried to scream but nothing came out except a squeak. It must have heard me because it turned around and looked in my direction. It came closer and closer. This time I managed to scream so loud that anyone would have been frightened. Then all was dark.

When I came to, I saw Dad standing over me and in back of him was Hobo Joe. I knew then that Hobo Joe had planned to spend the night in our hayloft, as he had done many times before.

Dad told me I had better go to bed. I couldn't sleep that night though because I couldn't forget what had happened all in one windy night.

FRANKLYN NEUBERGER

Halloween

Halloween is the time of year
When everyone should have some fear,
Of witches and cats
And big furry bats.
It is Halloween when ghosts and goblins make a scene.

When a hooting owl sounds like a banshere howl.
But never fear,
It comes but once a year.

TOM BURGESS

Chased

As I was walking home from a Halloween party, I had to walk past the cemetary. There was no moon and it was darker than pitch. I couldn't see three steps ahead of me. To prevent walking past the cemetary and save time too, I decided to go through an old pasture.

As I climbed the fence I found myself shaking. Just then I slipped and hit an electric wire, greatly increasing my speed as I crossed the fence!

I started to walk and then ran and walked again. As I walked it seemed to get darker and darker. Five minutes passed, which seemed like hours. At last I reached the half-way point. I walked for about a minute and came to a group of about 35 to 50 trees.

As I walked through the trees I tripped often and fell most of the time. Three-fourths of the way through, I stepped on something. It made an unhuman sound! It got up and started towards me. I didn't wait to see what it was. I was off like a shot!

To go the rest of the way across the field should have taken me at least 3 minutes, but as frightened as I was I made it in about a minute and a half. I jumped the 5 foot fence at the end of the pasture and didn't touch it!

As I ran across an old wooden foot bridge, I counted my steps. "One, two, three, four, and five." hit the bridge, but it didn't even I listened for whatever it was to touch it. I didn't take time to look back all the way home.

Later I found out that the thing that was chasing me didn't even follow me to the fence, it had been a newly born calf.

The owner named the calf Spooks!

COLLYN G BRIDGES

Sights

I saw a cat
in front of my path.
His back was arched
because a dog had barked.
The witches were flying on their brooms,
In fact I saw one by the light of the moon.

Customs of Halloween

Halloween is a festival celebrated on the eve of October 31. It's name, Halloween, means "Holly Eve" and is so called because it is the night before All Saints' Day.

Students of folklore believe that the popular customs of Halloween show traces of the Roman Harvest Festival of Pomona and of Druidism. These influences are celebrated by the use of nuts and apples as traditional Halloween foods and with the figures of witches, black cats, and skeletons which are commonly associated with the occasion.

The Druids, an order of priests in ancient Gaul and Britain, had an autumn festival called Samhain which was celebrated with both religious and harvest rites. Samhain was both the "end of summer" and a Festival of the Dead. The spirits of the departed were believed to visit their kinsmen in search of warmth and good cheer as winter approached. Samhain was also the period for threshing and for preparing food for the winter season. It is from the Druids that we get the idea of decorating for Halloween with pumpkins, leaves, and cornstalks.

Foretelling of future events was also practiced at Samhain. These magical practices included such topics as, who would die during the next year; the identity of future marriage partners; and the chances of good fortune. Samhain was also an occasion when fairies, witches, and goblins terrified the people. They were thought to steal infants, destroy crops, and kill farm animals. Bonfires were lit on hills either to scare off these witches and goblins or to lead the spirits of the dead to the homes of their kinsmen. This fire ceremony persisted, mostly in Scotland, as late as the 19th century when the people lit bonfires on hilltops to play such games as "bobbing for apples". Some divination still took place, mostly on church porches which the people believed to be an especially reliable place to learn of future events.

In early Europe people had a festival which somewhat resembled the Druid holiday. In the sixth century the Church named November 1 as All Saints Day at which time the old customs and the Christian festival were combined into the holiday people now celebrate as Halloween.

JUDY SWANSON

A Cricket's View

I'm a cricket with the name of George, no middle or last name, just plain George. I live under a loose brick in a drug store that's on First and Main. My ancestors told me about an odd holiday called Halloween which comes about every sixteen generations of a cricket. I think it's only fair to tell you what I know about this odd holiday.

The first sign of it is when you start seeing those gigantic creatures, called people, dressed up in odd clothing such as long dresses, white sheets, and almost anything.

These people go from house to house collecting candy as though it was for good will or something. If these people don't receive a treat, these so-called people will wash their windows with soap!

Every once-in-a-while someone will clobber the trash can in front of my home. This about scared my fifty-nine grandfathers to death.

This is just the beginning! The fun starts when you see a couple of old tires roll by from the gas station across the street. Next you'll probably see a man-hole cover roll down main street where a speed limit sign was. Later my fifty-nine grandfathers found out that the speed limit sign that used to be down the street was changed around with a stop sign.

Since my fifty-nine grandfathers went to sleep at this point, I can't tell you anymore.

Yours truly,
George XX

Highway Story

By Bob Hullihan

The way things have been going this month it will soon be incorrect to refer to a "highway death toll" in Iowa. To be accurate we'll have to start calling it a "street and county road death toll."

During the first three weeks of this month, only 15 persons were killed in traffic accidents on the state's main highways. But while this comparative calm was holding sway on the big roads, 25 persons were being killed in accidents on the farm and county roads of the state. Nine more were killed in the streets of cities and towns.

That adds up to 34 traffic deaths in 21 days with not a one of those deaths happening on the much-feared, much-talked-about main highways.

In other words, we are more than holding our own on the big highways during this period, but we are bleeding to death on the back roads.

How do you begin to attack a problem like this is anybody's guess, because there are 90,000 miles of farm and county roads in Iowa. A road system that size could absorb every highway patrolman and sherriff we've got and still not have much enforcement.

The tragic increase in traffic deaths on these farm and county roads is becoming a bloody argument for the 300 more highway patrolmen the safety department wants, for a 50 mile per hour speed limit, for more highway patrol observation planes, and, immediately, for considerably more personal responsibility on the part of drivers using these roads.

Many Farmers Request Soil Bank Contracts

A total of 47 Hancock County farmers filed application to place 4814.5 acres of land in the soil bank conservation reserve program under contracts starting in 1959, it as reported this week by the Hancock County ASC Committee.

After a review of the applications and a physical check of the offered land, each applicant will be notified as to whether or not a contract will be offered to him. Each successful applicant will have 15 days from the mailing date of his notice to sign his contract at the county ASC office.

The contract will obligate the farmer to keep designated land on his farm out of production and under conservation practices for a period of three, five or ten years, beginning in 1959. In return, the farmer will receive an annual rental payment for the period of years covered by his contract and if his contract is for five or ten years he will also receive a share of the cost of establishing certain conservation practices on the reserve land.

County Committee said that preliminary reports from some areas of the country indicate heavy participation in the 1959 conservation reserve program. In both Missouri and Utah, he stated, farmers offered three times as much cropland as could be accepted under limitations fixed for these states. They also stated that Wisconsin, with a goal of 439,000 acres, received offers covering nearly 580,000 acres.

Statewide totals on application in Iowa are not yet available, County Committe reported.

Farm Bureau Plans Farmer-Merchant Dinner

At the last Farm Bureau Board Meeting the Hancock County Board of Directors started making plans for another Farmer-Merchant Dinner to be held on December 1, at the First Lutheran Church at Britt.

This has been a custom of the Hancock County Farm Bureau for several years to hold one of these at a different town in Hancock County each year and it proves a wonderful opportunity for farmers to invite business friends of theirs to be their guests for a night out and become a little better acquainted with each others problems.

Through the course of the year members of local Lions clubs, Rotary clubs, Chamber of Commerce, and Commercial clubs often invite farmer friends in to attend one of their programs and this is another reason why the Farm Bureau sponsors these Farmer-Merchant Dinners as it gives farmers an opportunity to repay this fine gesture.

Tickets will be on sale at the Farm Bureau Office at Garner, or from your township director the first of November. Cost has not been set yet but it will be approximately $1.75 per ticket. A short program and a speaker will be planned in conjunction with this dinner.

4-H Award Night Set For November 8 at Britt

Saturday night, November 8, has been set as the date for the annual 4-H Award Night in Hancock County. Roy E Hougen, County Extension Youth Assistant, announces that the event will take place at the Hayfield High School auditorium at 8:00 p.m. He says that county awards and other special awards will be given these 4-H members who were outstanding in their club work this past year. Certain 4-H leaders and committee members as well as some former 4-H members will also be recognized.

One of the highlights of the evening's program, Hougen says, will be the announcement of the KGLO Chicago Trip winners. Because of their outstanding 4-H work this past year several 4-H members will be awarded the chance to make this trip. This trip is made possible by the contributions of many of the firms, businesses and individuals in Hancock County.

Hougen says that all 4-H members, parents, leaders and committee members will want to attend this event and anybody interested in the 4-H work in the county is invited to attend.

Don't Burn Leaves, Says Henderson, Use Them to Improve Garden

Hancock County lawn-rakers are destroying valuable organis matter this fall by burning their leaves, says Extension Director Paul Henderson of Garner.

He ponts out that Extension Horticulturist Ben Vance of Iowa State College says leaves can supply needed organic matter and nutrients to vegetables or flower garden soil—if you take time to use them. They can either be turned under when the garden is spaded or plowed, or left in a pile to decompose, says Vance. If left to decompose, the residue can be spread on gardens next season to aid vegetables and flower growth.

However, Vance warns, NEVER allow leaves to remain on the LAWN. The grass does not need the mulch, he says. There's a good chance grass will be smothered unless the leaves are removed.

MERWIN COAD

COAD IS DELEGATE TO PEACE STUDY MEETING

Rep. Merwin Coad (D) of Boone has been appointed a delegate to the Fifth World Peace Study Conference to be held in Cleveland, Ohio, Nov. 18-21. The conference, held under sponsorship of the National Council of Churches, is considered one of the most important church conferences in the promotion of world peace.

Dr Gaines M Cook, executional convention of the Christtice secretary of the internaian churches, made the appointment in a letter in which he noted Coad's "interest in world order and peace." The Cleveland conference, Cook said, "will attempt to give expression to Christian hopes for peace."

Rep. Coad said he is "delighted by this invitation" and plans to attend.

FROM FORT DODGE MESSENGER, OCTOBER 20, 1958

FOOD FOR PEACE

"I am certain that we all agree that we have need for adequate defense. But, adequate defense is not measured only in guns and in bombs. Guns and bombs are important, and we must, in the United States, be second to none in a military way. But an armaments race is not an end in itself. An armaments race can lead only to total destruction in these days of thermo nuclear warheads. The real race, the race that we have in foreign policy, is the race for peace. And I desire, and I am positive that all of the people of the Sixth District desire, to have a foreign policy that is more than a "brink to brink" experience But, it is to be a foreign policy that will put an end to the beginnings of war Now, three out of every five people in the world are hungry. We must, if we are to put an end to the beginnings of war, put an end to hunger. . . put an end to ignorance and poverty. These are the conditions that start war in the beginning. We must use our abundance of food as a weapon for peace, and I am sure that it would be by far better, instead of mothballing the battleships of the Navy, to paint them white, to launch a fleet of mercy ships . . . a mercy fleet to dispense food, medicine, doctors and teachers. We ought to feed people because they are hungry; we ought to clothe them because they are naked and cold; we ought to heal people because they are sick; we ought to teach people because they are ignorant.

"This is a really effective policy. This should be whether it is domestic or foreign, the policy for helping people; the policy for establshing peace; the policy of right; the policy of Democracy; the policy of decency; and the policy of Christianity."

THE KLEMME TIMES

OFFICIAL COUNTY PAPER · KLEMME, IOWA, NOVEMBER 5, 1958 · VOLUME 63 · NUMBER 46

Democrats Win Many Offices In Election

Results of Tuesday's General Election show that pretty much all over the country Democrats are not only holding their own but are taking over offices that have long been held by Republicans. Governor Herschel Loveless had practically no trouble in whipping his Republican challenger, Prof William Murray of Ames, and representatives from four of Iowa's eight congressional districts are now Democrats, where formerly there was only one.

That one, Merwin Coad of Boone, had a rough time two years ago in nosing out James Dolliver of Fort Dodge, but won by a sizeable margin this year over Republican Robert Waggoner of Fort Dodge.

On the county scene all the Republican courthouse officials went back into office, but Richard Ulrich, local Democrat seeking the Sheriff's office, gave Republican incumbent L M "Dutch" Brower quite a tussle, with Brower's victory margin being only some few over 200 votes.

Mrs Charlotte Hanson, Republican won out over Charles Carothers of Garner in her bid for the office of County Recorder, and Glenn Osman, local Republican, who was unopposed after whipping Kenneth Boughton of Britt in the June primary, won the office of County Coroner.

One of the closest races for county office was at the Supervisor level, where Ed Malek, Democrat of Garner, nosed out Edgar Mayhew, Republican of Goodell, by 63 votes. In the other supervisor contest, Everett Sheets of Britt, bested Democrat Glenn Rinehart by about 250 votes.

Hancock County now has a Democratic State Representative. He is Oren Johnson of Kanawha, who defeated his Republican opponent John Pritchard of Britt.

Walter Edelen, Democrat of Garner, is the new State Senator from the 43rd District. He defeated Republican James Conroy of Mason City by approximately 1,100 votes.

Employed in Chicago

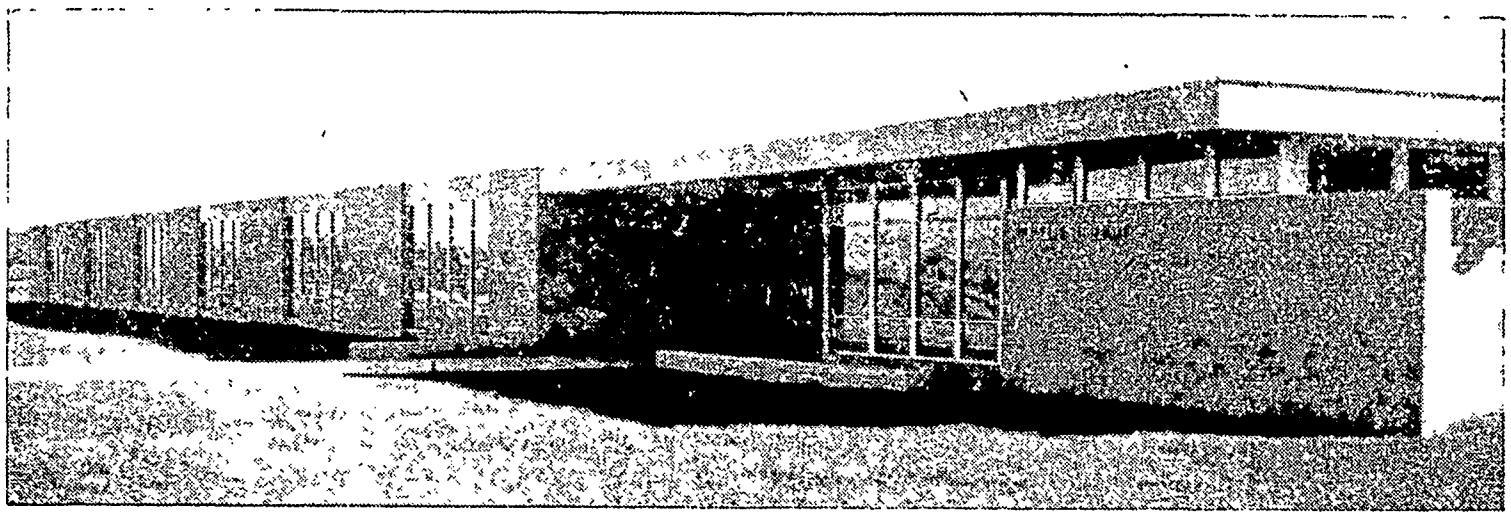
Melvin A. Neuberger, son of Mr and Mrs M L Neuberger has been assigned to the position of Reservation Agent for Eastern Air Lines, Inc. He will be stationed at Chicago, Illinois.

Mr Neuberger attended Klemme Public School and is a recent graduate of Weaver Airlines Personnel School in Kansas City, Missouri.

STORES WILL CLOSE FOR VETERANS DAY TUESDAY

In order that Veterans Day may be properly observed by business people in Klemme, stores and other business places will be closed all day on Tuesday, Nov. 11. The postoffice lobby will be open the usual hours and mail will be dispatched, but service windows will not be open. All the county offices at Garner will also be closed for the day.

New Elementary Building to be Dedicated Sunday



Pictured above is the new elementary wing of the Klemme Community School. Between this building and the high school are a shop, band room, and All Purpose room where hot lunches are served.

Building at left is the old school building which served all twelve grades until about 1940 when it was replaced by the present high school building. It stood on the site of the E & R parsonage and was a far cry from the fine facilities available in the new building.

W. Henry Galbreth To Give Address

Klemme's new elementary school will be dedicated Sunday. Open house will be held from 2 o'clock in the afternoon until 5 o'clock with coffee and doughnuts being served in the All Purpose room. Then, in the evening, the day will be climaxed with a dedication program beginning at 7:30 with W Henry Galbreth giving the dedicatory address.

The program will be held in the All Purpose room and will be as follows:

Invocation, Rev Melvin Miller; introduction of guests, Harlan G Shafer, Supt of Schools; presentation of building, Waldo Dean, Karl Keffer Associates, Des Moines; vocal music, "This Is My Country", High School Mixed Chorus; dedicatory address, W Henry Galbreth, editor Midland Schools, Des Moines; "God Bless America", audience; and Benediction, Rev E H Lauer.

W. HENRY GALBRETH

Mr Galbreth needs little introduction to people in the Klemme community, since he was Supt. of Schools here from 1936 to 1941. Since leaving here he has been associated with Midland Schools and has been editor of that publication for the past 14 years. In addition, he has been active on a world-wide basis in organizations dealing with the betterment of education.

The new elementary building is constructed of masonry walls (reinforced concrete below grade); insulated gypsum roof, and concrete on grade sub-floor. Cost of the building and remodeling of the old school building was $375,000. The elementary wing is completely modern and reflects the changing emphasis in elementary education to meet the needs and interests of today's boys and girls.

Architects are Karl Keffer Associates of Des Moines, engineer is Paul A Walters of Des Moines, general contractor is Andersen Construction Co. of Clear Lake, mechanical contractor is Hanig Bros. Plumbing & Heating of Fort Dodge, and the electrical contractor is Wecco of Iowa Falls.

Faculty of the Klemme Community School District now numbers 22. Board of education members are Clifford Anderson, president; Herman Schmidt, Roy Arnold, Kenneth Zwald, and C J Larsen. Clarence Lenz was a director until March of this year. Mrs Betty Westberg is secretary and Mrs Stella Lemke is treasurer.

Funeral Services for George Buseman Held

Funeral services for George Buseman, 70, were held Saturday afternoon, Nov. 1, from the Immanuel United Church of Christ (E and R) with the Rev E H Lauer officiating. Mr Buseman died last Wednesday following a stroke.

Music at the services was by a quartet composed of Mr and Mrs Milvern Barz, Mrs A H Dulmes and Edwin Thieman, accompanied at the organ by Roxanne Back.

Casket bearers were Harvey Barz, Glen Terhufen, Harold Kothenbeutel, Herman Gast, Walter Rosendahl, and Richard Ulrich. Interment was in the Ell Township Cemetery.

Osman Funeral Service was in charge of the arrangements.

Obituary

George Herman, son of Henry and Hempke Buseman, was born in Ostfriesland, Germany, July 5, 1888. He came with his parents to America when only three years of age. The family settled in the Klemme neighborhood and George lived the remainder of his life in this community. He died in the Belmond Hospital October 29, 1958.

Coming out of the church in Germany, the family soon sought and made connections with the church in Klemme after arriving in this community. George became a communicant member of Immanuel United Church of Christ (Evangelical and Reformed) in Klemme by rite of confirmation, March 27, 1904. He remained a member until his death.

On April 10, 1912, in Mason City, he was united in marriage with Anna Roths. Six children were born to their union. One, Marie Maxine, preceded him in death. On January 1, 1957, his wife also departed this life.

Five children, Erwin, Goodell; Lester and Melvin, Belmond; Wayne and Arlene (Mrs. Leonard Hrubes), Klemme, survive. Eleven grandchildren, four great-grandchildren, one brother, Henry, Klemme; two sisters, Mrs. Henry Glave, Britt, and Mrs. Tom Needham, Mason City, and other more distant relatives also survive.

The fire got away from him and endangered a machine shed and a garage. However, the fire department was on hand to get things under control before any serious damage was done.

Farm Tips

from your

Extension Director

Stalk ejectors and husker rolls both rank higher than snapper rolls as places where corn picker accidents are most likely to occur, says Farm Specialist Norval Wardle, Iowa State College. He attributes this to at least two factors: First, most people think the snappers are the most dangerous and the husker and stalk ejector rolls are relatively safe; second, the stalk ejector rolls and the husker rolls actually grab objects such as gloves and loose sleeves quicker and more vigorously than the snapper rolls.

In a survey of four Iowa counties, Farm Economist Earl O Heady of Iowa State College found diversified farming was considered nearly as safe as government bonds by 66 per cent of the farm operators interviewed. Cattle feeding and other specific livestock enterprises, however, were generally considered quite risky. Most of those interviewed expressed a preference for a steady income flow over income possibilities which might result in more total income over the years but vary from year to year.

A local contractor is equipped to lay asphalt—how would an asphalt feeding floor compare in cost, life and general desirability with a concrete floor? Extension Agricultural Engineer Fred Roth, Iowa State College, says: Generally we expect concrete reinforced with wire mesh to be superior and longer lasting than asphalt. If asphalt has a good rock or gravel base as recommended, there is not too much difference in original costs. Unless there is a great difference in the first costs, it seems wise to use concrete, because of frost heaving in winter and the effect of heat on asphalt surfaces in summer. Asphalt will not stand equipment traffic or concentrated livestock traffic as well as concrete

Would you store or sell soybeans? Economist, Francis Kutish Iowa State College, says: Since current market prices are below loan level, the difference will make it profitable to store. There is a chance to get an added low moisture premium in delivering field beans under the loan that can't be obtained in selling on the open market

Will sorghum at 15 per cent keep with this dry and warm weather? Extension Agricultural Engineer Larry Van Fossen, Iowa State College, says: fifteen per cent moisture sorghum generally should keep at this time of the year. But sorghum won't dry in storage, so it should be fed by Mid- March or by April 1 If kept into the summer, sorghum should be from 12-13 per cent moisture for safe storage. Artificial drying would be needed in 15 per cent moisture sorghum for safe storage over a longer storing time.

FORT DODGE, IOWA

THE FARM OUTLOOK

By Paul Henderson
County Extension Director

More fed cattle should reach market the rest of this year than during the last two months of 1957, but prices will probably stay steady to strong, says Francis Kutish, Iowa State College farm economist.

Kutish bases his outlook on the fact that more cattle topping 900 pounds are currently on feed than a year ago And the number on feed 6 months or longer also is up considerably from a year ago, he points out. Besides these factors, Kutish notes that on October 1, feeders were planning to sell 10 per cent more fed cattle the rest of this year than were sold during the last three months of 1957.

As for prices, Kutish says bunched marketings could knock down fed cattle prices. But he doesn't expect gaps like those of last year to develop in the stream of fed steers reaching market Slaughter of fed cattle during the next 6 months should top the levels of 12 months earlier, Kutish believes.

However, it doesn't look like a good idea to hold back well finished heavy cattle right now, he says. He notes that prime cattle supplies probably won't fall off enough to boost prices sharply for top-grade cattle during the coming months.

Twelve per cent more cattle were on feed October 1 in the 13 main feeding states than on October 1, 1957. This boost in numbers was caused largely by the heavy movement of cattle into the lots early this year, Kutish says. Fed cattle now being sold are averaging 20-30 pounds heavier than a year ago. Two things are causing this, Kutish says. One is the favorable ratio between feed prices and fat cattle prices; the other is the high cost of feeder cattle replacements.

Mr and Mrs Harry B Johnson of LeMars recently celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary. They were married on a farm near Ireton and have spent the entire fifty years in LeMars.

Highway Story

By Bob Hullihan

You'd have to call George a "soft" driver—a driver used to being cuddled in deep upholstery, pampered by power steering and push-buttons, glorified by a 240 horsepower engine, folded in foam rubber and afloat in conditioned air.

None of these things, of course, is evil in itself. They are simply the facts of mechanics and comfort in the modern automobile. But these things have tended to make George a "spoiled" driver. They have led George to believe that driving must always be comfortable, convenient and free from effort.

When it isn't—when traffic slows him down or when the road becomes excessively rough—George becomes angry. He reacts according to his spoiled, softened nature. At such a time, the differences between George and an undisciplined brat are slight.

When he's faced with such a situation, he calls forth the power of his engine and seeks to "punish" traffic or the road surface with speed. He sulks deeper in the softneess of the foam rubber seat and waits for the automobile to sooth his hurts.

The comforts and convenience of the car have led George to give up his driver-hood. He's become a passenger with an occasional responsibility for pushing a button or adjusting the wheel.

It's going to be a severe emotional experience for George when, in a fit of speed, his mothering automobile slips beyond his control and betrays him into a traffic accident.

Accounting for the Nine Weeks of School

It doesn't seem possible but nine weeks of school are behind us. It might be wise to ask ourselves how well we have used our time. Have we acquired the knowledge we should have or have we merely slid by?

The progress we have made in our subjects so far will greatly determine what we will accomplish this year.

Do we really appreciate the privilage we have for attending school? Remember, some places young people aren't getting the chance to get an education.

Let's try to apply ourselves and use all of our abilities to accomplish the goals we should have set for ourselves, as the nine weeks draws to a close.

May we strive harder in the coming weeks.

Losing May Be Winning

Have you ever given up hope after working hard for something and then not succeeding in what you were striving for? Losing should not make you give up but should make you work harder the next time you get the chance.

Just by attempting some particular thing you have gained experience, practice, more knowledge of the subject, and maybe even new friends or acquaintanceship. This attitude should apply to anything you attempt—music, athletics and even our studies in school.

The next time you are striving for something, work for the top but if you don't succeed, think of all you have gained just by participating. Remember, there have to be many people who do not win in order that there may be a few who do!

TALL HILL TALE

Two men were riding a bicycle built for two, up a hill, when the first one said, "That sure was a steep hill!"

The other replied, "Yes it was, and if I hadn't been holding the brakes we'd rolled backwards for sure!"

TEACHER INTERVIEW

The teacher interviewed this week was Mrs Gladys Lewis who teaches English and speech and is our Shamrock advisor.

Mrs Lewis attended Iowa State Teacher's College, Drake University and Northwestern University. In her career of teaching she has taught in Blue Island, Illinois, in Garwin, Rowan and Goodell, Iowa and now in her home town, Klemme. Mrs Lewis perfers high school students because, "I can use larger words when I talk to them." She believes that "if you can find a child's interest you can always find a common grounds for contact."

When asked about her favorites she replied that Italian and Mexican foods rate first especially if they are good and "hot" also, that Rock and Roll music was O.K Mrs Lewis perfers classical music when she can attend a concert in person.

Collecting receipts and cooking are her hobbies—although she dislikes doing the dishes! Traveling is also a pleasure she enjoys.

GRADE SCHOOL NEWS

LIBRARY

Librarians for this week are as follows:

Morning: Vicki Bridges and Christ Nannenga

Noon: Janelle Lau and Marilyn Arnold

Afternoon: Anita Gerardi, Terry Kaduce, and Arland Nuehring.

Library duties include charging out books, putting cards in returned books, and returning books to shelves. Librarians also check shelves for errors in returning books. They sort each days cards alphabetically by author and record the number of books out for the day. Ninety-four is the record for one day's books charged out.

First Grade

Halloween is over! What fun we had at our Halloween party when we dressed up in our costumes and paraded into the other rooms to show the other boys and girls how we looked. Our room looked like Halloween too with the bulletin boards decorated and with the many jack-o-lanterns among the corn stalks on our counter space.

Patty Nuehring had a birthday party for her classmates after school at her farm home on October 28. We had a nice time at her party.

Ann Meyers and Duane Schlei have returned their dental cards. Four girls and seven boys have returned their cards so far this year.

We are working on a Unit in social studies called "Living at Home" Some of the things we are planning to do while studying our home unit are: making a booklet showing our family; bringing snapshots of our family; bringing our baby pictures; and constructing a play house in our room.

Third Grade

During the past two weeks we have celebrated two birthdays. We made birthday cards for Peggy and Kathy. They treated us to candy bars.

We have made Halloween pictures. We colored the pictures and then painted over them.

Marilyn Brager won the flashlight for having the best story about fire prevention.

In Health we have learned about our teeth, how to take care of them, and why proper foods are needed for the teeth.

In language we are working on giving and writing reports.

In social studies we are learning about different kinds of houses and why people in different parts of the world build houses from certain materials.

Fifth Grade

In arithmetic we have been dividing and learning fractions. We are using the flannel board to learn fractions.

Language we have had a test. We have just finished unit two and now started unit three on reports.

In social studies we had a test. We just finished studying the Southeastern states and now are studying the New England States.

For art we made Halloween pictures by coloring pictures and painting over them with water paints.

We had our Halloween party Friday. We played pin the broom on the witch, Lost Pumpkin, and others.

Scholarship and Placement Tests

On Saturday, November 1st, tests were given throughout the state to all those students planning to attend a college in Iowa next year. The scores on these tests will be used by the participating colleges for one or more of the following purposes: as a basis for admission, for the placement of students in appropriate classes, and for determining the eligibilty of students for schorlarships and awards.

The Klemme students reported at Mason City Junior College at 8:30 in the morning and took the tests until 2:00 in the afternoon. Those students from Klemme who took the test were Myrna Barz, Virginia Kudje, Jerry LaFavre, Cozette Lau, Dorothy Roul, and Joyce Thiemann.

Breaks Leg Second Time

Lowell Grieman has had a lot of luck this year, all bad. Last summer while working on his fathers farm, he fractured his leg just above the ankle when a tractor ran over it. He was on cruches for about two and a half months.

On Monday, October 27, Lowell was down at basketball practice. He tripped and fractured his leg again. Lowell will be on cruches for about one month Then he will have a walking heel put on the cast so he can walk without the cruches. He will probably have the cast on for at least two months.

Good luck in the future, Lowell!

EFFORT

I tried and tried with all my might
For a poem our teacher said to write,
I thought and thought and racked my brain,
But no two words would sound the same,
A well known author I'll never be,
I feel like a ship lost at sea.
I know I'll never reach the hall of fame
So I think I'll just give up and sign my name.

DOCTOR: They're not for him—they're for you.

Cheerleaders Elected For Basketball Season

Assemblies are a welcome relief from the monotony of standard classroom procedures! Such a relief came last Friday when the student body elected the cheerleaders for the basketball season. Those who were elected are Myrna Barz, Cozzette Lau; Roxanne Bock and Judy Swanson. They will take charge of the pep meetings and do their best to lead the student body in backing the basketball team through a successful season.

The following girls also tried out: Margarite Keeper, Sheryl Clabaugh, Clarice Arnold, Darlene Brekke, Janet Murray and Joyce Hummel.

VARIED COLUMN

Murmurs have been going around school about an intercom system being put in the school.

The floor in the shop has been finished Some kind of stuff had to be put on the floor as a finishing touch. It smelled something like ether so for several days all of the windows had to be open to let out the smell.

The school received a letter from Mr and Mrs Arthur Peterson of Clarion announcing an open house for their daughter, Rachel who taught Home Ec. and Girls P T in Klemme during 1954 and 1955. Miss Peterson was recently married to John McMurray. He works for the Wilson Company and they are sending him to Sao Paulo, Brazil to manage their farms and packing interests in Southern Brazil. They will live there for the next twelve years. The open house is to be held Sunday, November 9 at the Arthur Peterson home 5¼ miles west of Clarion.

Would you and a friend like to find out which of you has the biggest understanding, or in more simple words, feet? If so, put your toes together and try to knock each other off balance with your hands. The one with biggest understanding (feet) will not be knocked off balance. Mr Whitney and Don Anderson have been trying this in Physics class. So far Don has the biggest understanding.

Now that the nine weeks tests are over, we can settle down to the old routine of not studying until about three days before the semester tests.

Last Friday Mrs Lewis was walking around school with bags under her eyes. Thursday night she took a friend to Perry to catch a train and didn't get to bed until 3 A.M. Friday morning.

Everybody get off the roads and stay off of them until we notify you because Barbara Clayton got her driver's license last Friday!

In observance of National Library Week, which is November 2 through 7, we had planned to devote this issue to information about the new books in our library and library procedure. Due to an over-supply of material we will publish that information, next week.

Two Local Students to Be In All State Band

Congratulations are in store for Ginger Kudje and JoAnne Jacobs. They were selected on October 25 to play in the All State Band at Des Moines on November 28 and 29 Ginger was selected one of three out of 10 Bass Clarinets. Jo was selected one of five out of 15 French Horns. Jerry LaFavre was called back for recalls. There were 6 tenor saxophones. Only one gets to go on and there were only 2 sax's recalled, so he deserves some credit too.

JoAnne and Ginger will leave for Des Moines early the 28th. There they will audition for the seating arrangement.

They will practice from 1:30 to 4:30 in the afternoon and from 6:30 to 8:00 in the evening at the Hotel Fort Des Moines Saturday morning, from 9:30 to 11 30, and Saturday afternoon, from 1:15 to 2:45, they will practice at the KRNT Theatre. There will be a concert Saturday evening at the KRNT Theatre. It will be presented by the All State Band, Orchestra and Chorus.

Hearing this concert really proves that Iowa has musical talent. It is really tremendous and is very much worth the drive to Des Moines to hear it. It will also be broadcast over the radio at a later date. We will put the time and date in the paper, when we find out when it is.

The chaperones for these two girls are Mr Charles Whitford and Mrs A J Kudje.

POLYSYLLABIC PROFUNDITY

In promulgating your esoteric cogitations and in articulating your superficial, amicable and philosophical observations, beware of platitudionous ponderosity. Let your extemperaneous decantations and unpremeditated expiations have intelligibility and veracious vivacity, without rodomotade or bombast.

Avoid sedulously polysyllabic profundity, psittaceous verbosity. Shun double entendres, prurient jocosity, pestiferous profundity, pestiferous profundity and asanine affectations.

In short, don't use big words.

OFFICIAL COUNTY PAPER | KLEMME, IOWA, NOVEMBER 12, 1958 | VOLUME 63 | NUMBER 47

Corn Referendum Will Be Held November 25

Corn producers will vote in a special referendum on Tuesday, November 25, to determine whether the national farm program for corn should be changed, it was reported this week by the Hancock county ASC committee.

The referendum is provided for in the newly enacted farm law, the Agricultural Act of 1958. Voting will be conducted in the commercial corn area, which consists of 932 counties in 26 states, including all of Iowa.

Voters will express a choice between the following alternatives:

1. A new program, under which there would be no corn acreage allotments and no designation of a commercial corn area. Under this program, all corn producers would be eligible for price support without any restrictions on acreage. The level of price supports would be 90 per cent of the average corn price received by farmers during the 3 preceding years, but not less than 65 per cent of parity.

2. Continuation of the present corn program, under which farmers who plant within acreage allotments are eligible for price support at 75 to 90 per cent of parity. The current corn situation would indicate a reduction of approximately 15 per cent in the national corn allotment for 1959 and price supports at or near the minimum.

A majority vote of the corn producers who cast ballots will decide the referendum.

The county Committee stated that details as to voting eligibility and polling places will be announced later.

Legion Auxiliary Takes Six New Members

The American Legion Auxiliary held its regular meeting at the home of Mrs E J Arnold with Mrs Roy Arnold as co-hostess. Twenty-four members were present.

Six new members were initiated. They were Mrs Richard Tiggeman, Mrs Alvin Denny, Mrs Verner Lau, Mrs Henry Wessels, Mrs Elmer Wessels, and Mrs Merle Bruhl.

It was voted to send $5.00 to CARE. Gifts will be purchased for the Veterans Gift shop again this year. Butternut coffee strips will be collected again.

Lunch will be served by the auxiliary at the Legion Feather Party November 17.

A delicious lunch was served after the meeting by the hostesses.

Votes Wasted by Wrong Markings; Carelessness

Carlessness on the part of voters results in many a voter losing his franchise and accounts for many spoiled and disputed ballots on election day according to election officials

In Concord township where 1108 ballots were cast at the recent General Election forty eight ballots were disputed because of improper marking of the ballot.

Iowa law provides for the marking of a ballot in the square or circle or both with a cross within the square of circle. Most of the disputed ballots were marked with check marks, a violation of Iowa Law.

The violation was about evenly distributed between voters of both parties according to election officials.

ROCKS

Russell Kent, a rural mail carrier from Hepburn has a hobby of collecting rocks. He estimates that in his 25 years as a "rock hound" he compiled a collection worth $4,000. One of his most laborious works was an agate sphere. It is only 2-1,000's of an inch off from being a perfect sphere and he formed it during spare time work over a six months period.

CAPITOL LETTER

(Weekly news release of the Iowa Press Association. The material contained herein does not necessarily conform to the editorial policy of this newspaper.)

Democratic Victory

Iowa Democrats made tremendous inroads in the general election winning both the governorship and the rate for lieutenant governor by lop-sided margins, splitting the congressional seats with each party taking four, and walking off with the two seats up for grabs in the state commerce Commission contest.

Main fountain of hope for the Republicans was that the GOP managed to maintain control of state offices.

Democrats won two of three 6-year terms on the Iowa Supreme Court and the Democrats also coped the short term race.

Governor Herschel C Loveless, first Democrat to occupy the governors chair in 20 years, won re-election by a majority of 70,000 or more than double his majority two years ago when he defeated Governor Leo Hoegh.

Republicans were bucking a national Democratic trend and their gubernatorial candidate, Dr William G Murray, also represented an unpopular 3 per cent sales tax program.

Democrats made substancial gains in the house of representatives and also the Iowa senate. Several veteran Republic legislators were knocked off in their bids for election and re-election. They included Dewey E Goode, Bloomfield; Ernest Kosek, Cedar Rapids; Elmer Vermeer, Pella, and J F Walter, McGregor in the house and Arch McFarlane, Waterloo; Jack Wormley, Newton; and Wilbur C Molison, Grinnell in the senate. McFarlane was the legislative dean. He was first elected to the house in 1914 and except for several short periods has served in the legislature ever since. During his career he served both as speaker of the house and also as lieutenant governor.

Going into the election Republicans had a 7-1 edge in congress with Rep. Merwin Coad, the lone Democrat Coad, sixth district, was re-elected by a wide margin and Democrats Len Wolf, second district; Steven Carter, fourth district; and Neal E Smith, fifth district, will join Coad in Washington. Republicans re-elected were Fred Schwengel, first district; H R Gross, third district; Ben Jensen, seventh district, and Charles B Hoeven, eighth district.

New Warden

The end of an era has occurred in Iowa penal history—Percy Lainson has stepped down as warden at the state penitentiary at Fort Madison and John Bennett has been named to succeed him.

Bennett, 57, began his career at the prison 27 years ago when he donned a uniform and joined the guard force. When Warden Glen Haynes died in 1942, Bennett served as acting warden until Lainson's appointment several months later.

Lainson, 72, has retired and now makes his home at Council Bluffs.

Crime Report

The crime rate in Iowa's ten largest cities has risen 40 per cent since 1950 according to a study made for the governor's committee on penal affairs.

Professor Walter Lunden of Iowa State College, who is chairman of the committee and who prepared the report, said there were 1,945 major crimes reported last year for each 100,000 population as compared with a rate of 1,389 in 1950.

Housing Loans

Eleven northeast Iowa real dealers have been indicted by the federal grand jury for alledgedly violating regulations of the federal housing administration. Six of the men were suspended by the FHA last spring following an investigation by Iowa FHA authorities.

English Classes

Educational laders were surprised to learn that more graduate students are taking English at the State University of Iowa than undergraduates. There are some 127 undergraduate students majoring in English this semester as compared to 194 graduate students in English at the university.

Farm Bureau

The Iowa Farm Bureau Federation has set up an organization for collective marketing of hogs. Articles of incorporation have been filed for the Farm Bureau Marketing Association. It is authorized to issue $1,125,000 in capital stock.

The corporation is authorized to purchase, process and sell cattle, poultry, hogs and other farm products. Officials said one of the first and prime objectives of the corporation will be to provide a national market for local hog producers.

Officers of the marketing association are the same as those of the IFB with E. Howard Hill, Minburn, serving as president.

Farm Tips

from your

Extension Director

Don't use the tops of vegetables and flowers for covering garden plants to prevent winter damage, says Extension Horticulturist Ben Vance at Iowa State College. Straw, marsh hay, excelsior, and similar materials are better. The old vegetables and flower tops may harbor diseases and insects that could cause serious damage next season. It's better to burn this material.

Dairymen who didn't want to seal their soybeans this fall under government loan can use them profitably in their cows' rations, says Extension Dairyman Floyd Arnold of Iowa State College. Feeding may also solve a problem where there was so much volunteer corn growth in the field that corn and beans were heavily mixed in the harvest. The open market price per beans now is so low that in many cases the beans are worth about the same per pound of protein as the protein in oil meals on the retail market. The cattle can get their protein from the beans, plus some energy feed. If you're feeding mixed legume and grass hay Arnold says, you'll have a balanced concentrate if you mix 200 pounds of beans, 400 pounds of corn and 400 pounds of oats. If you use grass hay, with no legume, mix 300 pounds of beans with 400 pounds of corn and 300 pounds of oats. There's no indication in feeding research work that beans in a properly balanced ration will harm the cows.

Now is the time to take soil samples on those fields you will plow next spring says George Hawkins of the Iowa State Collage soil testing laboratory. By sampling now you will have your fertilizer recommendations in plenty of time to make plans for next year's crop and beat the spring rush of work.Ask your county Extension director to send you soil sampling information and a supply of soil sample cartons.

You can plow down Aldrin or some other soil insecticides this fall for effective root-worm control. Entomologist Harold Gunderson of Iowa State College says: for root-worm control plow down 1 pound per acre of actual aldrin or heptachlor. Broadcast insecticide and work in immediately. Either plowing or disking is a satisfactory method of working into soil. Evaporation may occur if insecticide is not worked into soil immediately after broadcasing.

John B Herrick veterinarian of of Iowa State College says: Hogs are not forage consumers. So generally there will be no danger in pasturing sorghum after frost.

Margherita Tarr, extension landscape architect of Iowa State College says: Plant the Christine Buisman Elm instead of the American Elm if the desire is for an elm and there is fear of losing American because of disease. The Buisman Elm is resistant to both Dutch Elm disease and phloem necrosis. The Buisman Elm is a slower-growing, finer-textured elm than the American Elm and differs in shape. Dutch Elm disease in Iowa is still confined generally to areas immediately adjacent to the Mississippi River.

Highway Story

By Bob Hullihan

Al waited a few seconds while the freezing mist seemed to seep into his backbone. He leaned on the hood of the car and peered in at the driver through the smeared windshield.

"Worn out," he shouted. "Won't take this stuff off." He pulled the windshield wiper across the glass and the driver's face disappeared behind a gray blur.

The driver rolled down his window and gave Al a "no sale" grin. "Wouldn't want to keep you out on a night like this," he said. "I'm just going home anyway."

"Just take a minute if you want one," Al said and gave up the sale. He wiped off the windshield with a rag, collected two dollars for gas and ducked for the coal stove in the office as the tail lights of his late customer dimmed away in the dripping night.

At almost the same moment, an elderly man named Jacobs placed a newpaper back on the rack in the library reading room, snapped his gold-framed glasses into a worn case and stepped almost blindly into the night. His eyes, he always said, took a long time "coming back" after an evening with the papers.

Al still tells the rest of the story. Most of his customers have heard it more than once. He likes to dramitize it by holding a new windshield wiper in his hand and waving it under the nose of his listener.

"You wouldn't believe what a little strip of fresh rubber is worth, would you." he says. "If that guy had let me hang one of these on, he might have seen the old fellow in the street."

"How about it? Just take a minute."

INJURED

Francis Wise of Avoca suffered injuries to his hand and face when the mortar and pestle he was using in an experiment in chemistry blew up and hit a fluorescent light fixture. Glass from the fixture struck him in the face and both eyes.

Just Fun

Two 6-year-olds were talking in the school hall. "Say, do you think that thermonuclear projectile will pierce the heat barrier?" one asked. "No," the other said, "because once a force enters the field of . . ." Just then the bell sounded. "There goes the bell," the first tot interrupted. "Darn it, now we've got to go to class and string beads."

Consider the hammer. It doesn't lose its head unless it flies off the handle.

The fellow who is pulling the oars has little time to rock the boat.

The moon wouldn't be doing business at the same old stand, if it worried about all the little dogs that bark at it.

Some people grumble that roses have thorns rather than being glad the thorns have roses!

It's tough to make a mistake, but worse to learn you're so unimportant nobody noticed.

Attendance

How many junior and senior high school students will have perfect attendance this year? We had twice as many students with perfect attendance last year as we had the previous year and the way attendance looks this year we are going to do far better than that. Punctuality is one of the things that can and is being taught in school not only in being in school and on time but also in getting assignments turned in when they are due.

The class having the best attendance record for the first nine weeks was the sophomore class. In this class of 21 students there were only four absences and one tardiness for the first nine weeks. The class having the poorest record was the ninth grade with 33 absences and 8 tardinesses.

Quite frequently one or two students are the ones who cause most of these absences. If you are the student who is bringing the record down please try to do better for your own record as well as that of your class. Which is going to have the best attendance record the next nine weeks? Are you going to have perfect attendance for the year?

The following students have perfect attendance for the first nine weeks.

EDITORIAL

One of man's greatest assets is his ability to read. Reading provides us with entertainment and companionship. Through reading we acquire much useful knowledge of past and present history and scientific knowledge which is so vital to us in order that we understand the scientific world in which we live today.

Through reading our knowledge and ability to reason grows. Think of what would happen if no one in the Unite States would know how to read. Our country, which is based upon the idea of democracy, would fall apart. We would lose our ability to reason and a country with ideas completely different from ours could take over the United States. Although for a time we could retain our democratic ideas, we would soon accept their ideas because we would know nothing different.

Just as our ability to read and to comprehend what we read is so vital to our democracy so is it the very foundation of our educational system. Everything we learn is based upon how well we read and comprehend what we read.

If we expect to retain our high educational standard and our country as a whole, we must learn to read more and more and in this way learn to reason and evaluate.

VARIED COLUMN

The school year seems as though it's really going fast this year, as one nine weeks was finished with last Wednesday which probably meant bad news for some of us for we all received our report cards.

The whole High School had something to look forward to last week and that was getting out of school Friday. The school was dismissed because of the teacher's convention at Des Moines.

The Junior Class has been staging a magazine sale which proved to be very succeessful. They ran a sort of contest with prizes for the top salesmen. These were Joan Brager, who sold the most magazines and received a portable radio as first prize, Cheryle Clabaugh, who was the next top salesman and received five dollars for second prize, Margurite Keeper and Eugene Zwald, who were two runners up and for third and fourth prize respectively, each received toy stuffed dogs as prizes.

Klemme High School really added some class to its hot lunch program last week, they had music with their hot lunch. The reason for that was that the electricians put amplifiers in the new multipurpose room, where the hot lunch is served, and were trying them out by adding music to our dinner.

LIBRARY NEWS

Junior and senior high school students have probably been aware of library books moving about and even disappearing from the shelves for a few days. Sometimes new books appear on the shelves. All this is part of the process of accessioning and classifying the library books and also of trying to find the most practical way of arranging them.

This year junior high has about 55 new book and high school 120. We will receive about 20 magazines when all subscriptions go into effect.

Books circulate or are checked out at an average of about 4 to 5 books a day in each section. This does not include reference books, such as encyclopedias, social studies books, or dictionaries.

Elementary Library

The elementary library is new this year. It consists of 1954 books. These are classified according to the Dewey Decimal System as easy books, fiction, biography, and books numbered according to information contained. Among the numbered books are science books, Bible stories, geography and history material, and fairy tales and folklore.

The room itself is furnished with movable book shelves, nicely refinished tables and new chairs.

Books are checked out by individual students for a period of two weeks. Teachers borrow books to use in connection with units of work and these books are kept in the rooms as long as they are needed. Teachers in primary rooms borrow collections of books for use in the rooms rather than having the children borrow directly from the library. Total circulation for the three days of school this week was 201 books loaned to students. On one day 36 books were borrowed by teachers for use in their rooms. Student librarians assume the routine duties connected with circulation. They are also responsible for keeping the books neatly on the shelves in the proper order.

Besides using the books outside the library, each room has at least one regularly scheduled library period a week when students are free to choose what they like to read and to read at the library tables.

The library is proving a popular place with the boys and girls. In using it they are primarily doing much reading, but they are also attaining skills in using and maintaining a library.

Steps in Processing Library Books

Seventh Grade

The first step is to list the books in an accession book. It has all the books that we have or have had. The accession book has the author, the title, publisher, date published, cost and classification number.

If the book is lost, destroyed, or withdrawn, it is noted in the accession book.

Leslie Christians

On a slip of paper we then write the author, the title, the publisher, and year it was published. We also put the accession number down. This is done to all books and will be used later in the making of the cards that go inside. It is also used for putting the classification numbers on the spine (back) of each book and in preparing catalog cards.

Merrie June Reinhart

The "Children's Catalog" is used for looking up the accession number. It lists all books alphabetically by the author and title. We look to see if our book is there, to list the classification number. Most of the books are found there. If they aren't there, we have the teachers help find numbers. Our books are classified by the Dewey Decimal System.

Sheryl Brekke

To fill out the library cards, we put classification numbers on the top right of the card and below it on the pocket. We put the accession number on the left, and also on the pocket. Then we put the authors name, last name first, and the title of the book below it.

Celeste Schaefer

After we have made out the cards we put the accession number on the bottom of the back of the title page. On the top of the same page we put the classification number. We also put the date the book was processed. This is done so that if we lose the card we will know what these numbers are.

Janelle Grieman

After the books are accessioned and classified, an electric stylus is used to put the classification number on the spine (back) of the book. We use transfer paper which transfers the numbers on letters to the book in white or blue letters. This makes the books easier to find on the shelves when they are arranged in order.

Merrie June Reinhart

To begin we need to put the Date Due slip on the page opposite the cover. We put the pocket for the book card on the inside of the inside of the cover.

We stamp the library book in 8 different places, on page 51, on

AVERY SUNBEAMS 4-H CLUB

The Avery Sunbeams Club met at the home of our leader Mrs William Reinhart, Nov.1st. We had nine members present two leaders and three visitors. We answered roll call, what we would like to make or refinish this year. For our next meeting we will answer by telling of a Christmas custom we keep in our own home or in another country.

We were glad to have the help of Mrs Edwin Thiemann with our record books. She brought along some good record books for us to look at. Miss Van Wert was also present and gave us some helpful hints.

A committee consisting of Kathleen James, Elaine Lacey, Merrie June Reinhart, Nancy Reinhart and Margo Wille made up the years program.

Our Christmas party will be held at the home of our leader, Mrs James, December 6th. We are having a grab bag from 75c to $1.00.

At our next meeting we are asked to bring two dozen cookies for the children at Woodward State Hospital. The members of our club who will bring cookies are: Barbara Alhstrom, Elaine Lacey, Sherryl Schluter, Nancy Reinhart, Merrie June Reinhart, Valinda Pearson, Marlene Koehler, Mary Jo Bertilson, Kathleen James, Dorothy Ostendorf and Margo Wille.

The leaders passed out record books and told us about this year's project, Home Furnishing.

Mrs Sylvia Stalcup, retiring National president said in her address, "Grandmother does this sound like you: A grey haired women, with a shawl around her shoulders sits in a rocking chair and rocks, rocks, and rocks. Between rocks she keeps a wary eye on the grandchildren because she is the ever available baby sitter." Well grandmothers if you fit this discription you are way behind the times. Mrs Stalcup stated, "Before the Grandmother's club was started grandmothers to many times were neglected, they were kept rocking and baby sitting. now we're more active We don't have time to rock and we don't let our children push the baby sitting chores off on us all the time. Grandmothers have become an asset to the community. They belong to social clubs and are busy helping in welfare projects."

The white house wire read, "Please give my greetings to the members of the N.F.G.C.A. assembled in their 20th anniversary convention. the front and back covers, on the page opposite the covers, and on the page edges of the books.

When we are done, the spines of the books are sprayed before putting them on the shelves of the library. The librarian arranges them according to the numbers.

Roger Schmidt

The library aides in both junior and senior high school have been working hard to get the books in the libraries accessioned and processed for the shelves. Many of the high school books had been accessioned during the last two years, but most of the junior high books had to be done from beginning.

Which of you realize how many steps go into the processing of a book? The seventh grade students who have almost all taken part of the processing of junior high books know how much work is involved.

With the processing involving classfication we are also working on a card catalog. A card catalog is a card index, author, title and subjects including, averaging 4 to 5 cards for each book, which will enable the student to make better use of the books we have. The card catalog serves the library in the same status as an index serves a book. The card catalog is stored in a series of boxes which are arranged alphabetically.

We have ordered an "Abridged Reader's Guide to Periodical Literature" of an index to magazine materials. It will help the student make use of the current materials found in the magazines we have.

In addition to the seventh grade who have been responsible for processing the books in junior high. Several students from seventh and eighth grades serve as librarians at various times, before school, in study periods, and at noon. Each group will serve for several weeks. The first nine weeks period these persons have been librarians: Celeste Schaefer, Margie Katuin, Linda Waddingham, Bruce Waddingham, Donna Stille, and Leslie Christians.

Mrs Barkema has charge of the library and librarians.

In senior high school five students carry on the work of preparing the books and circulating them. They are Velma Christiansen, Sherryl Clabaugh, Barbara Clayton, Margarite Keeper, Tom Burgess, and James Christians. Some of the other students have helped in the precessing. Miss Whitmire has charge of the senior high library.

The books that are listed below are new books which are recommended for High School reading.

Report of Pros and Cons of Corn Referendum

Hancock County farmers voting in the corn referendum November 25 need to consider pros and cons of both corn support programs in order to intelligently cast their votes, says Extension Director Paul Henderson of Garner.

Iowa will be one of 26 states in the commercial corn area where farmers will choose between a new program with no acreage allotments, no commercial corn area and somewhat lower price supports or a continuation of the present program.

Economists at Iowa State College explain that under the new program all corn producers would be eligible for price supports with no restrictions on acreage. Supports would be based on 90 per cent of the average corn prices received by farmers in the preceding three years, but not less than 65 per cent of parity.

Sixty-five per cent of parity was $1.12 per bushel in August of this year. Ninety per cent of the 3-year average price for next year would be at or near this minimum 65 per cent parity level, say the economists. This means corn would be supported between $1.12 and $1.15 per bushel.

A continuation of the present acreage allotment program acreage allotment program would provide farmers a higher support price, ranging between 75 and 90 per cent of parity, but only farmers planting within acreage allotments would be eligible for the supports. This year only 12-13 per cent of the corn crop is eligible for the 77 per cent parity support of $1.36 per bushel. The economists say there's no way of knowing what the exact parity price would be in 1959 under the present program. However, they figure the price will be near the 75 per cent parity level (approximately $1.30 per bushel) because of this fall's large corn crop. This bumper crop is also expected to reduce acreage allotments for 1959 by about 15 per cent.

Farmers who didn't plant within acreage allotments this year were still eligible for an alternative noncompliance support amounting to $1.06 per bushel. But the Secretary of Agriculture has indicated he will not support the price of noncompliance corn next year, if the present program is continued.

Essentially farmers will have to decide whether they want supports around 01.10 to $1.15 per bushel for everyone, say the economists, or supports near $1.30 per bushel, with only those planting alloted acreages eligible for the higher price level.

Anyone who produced corn or was entitled to share in the 1958 crop will be eligible to vote in the referendum. A simple majority will determine which program will be in effect in 1959 and subsequent years.

RETIRES

R E "Bob" Duffield of Guthrie Center, who has been practicing law in Guthrie Center for the past 56 years, has sold his practice. During this time he also served as a state representative for four terms and as Guthrie Center's mayor for one term.

ESCAPE

The Ray Wallace family of Glenwood recently escaped death by asphyxiation. They were saved by the members of the rescue unit of the fire department. The trouble was caused by birds building nests in the vent pipe from the furnace, causing used gas to escape back into the house.

Want to Live? Change Your Driving Habits for Winter

"Change your driving habits now or your chances of being killed on the highways will increase sharply," the state safety department warned today.

Frank Ulish, safety education director, said changing weather conditions are creating different safety hazards which call for increased caution on the part of drivers.

"The free and relaxed summertime driving habits aren't good enough for fall and winter driving," Ulish said. "We have to change to habits that will give us better protection, just as we change to warmer clothing as it gets colder."

He said drivers should begin being more watchful at railroad crossings "because car windows, closed against the cold, also shut out the sound of approaching trains. Slow down and look both ways."

He warned drivers to watch for early morning frost on highways, especially on curves sheltered by trees and on bridges. "These unexpected patches of frost can send a car crashing out of control before the driver can react," Ulish warned.

He said cold weather also brings back the threat of carbon monoxide fumes leaking into a closed car from a defective exhaust system. He advised drivers to have mufflers and tail pipes checked for safety.

Fed cattle prices during the coming months will be held down by good supplies of poultry, hogs, and fed cattle, says Tom Rackham, Iowa State College farm economist.

A shortage of plain slaughter cattle and the fact that Americans seem to prefer beef to other meats will help offset these price-depressing factors some, Rackham says. The fed cattle market will also get a boost from the absence of recession, which influenced last year's cattle outlook, and from the evergrowing U S population, which constitutes an increasing market for all products, Rackham notes.

In 1957, slaughter of prime and choice cattle started dropping. There weren't enough other red meats available to balance the beef shortage brought on by the slaughter lag; so fed cattle prices climbed. Early in 1958, slaughter began dropping faster, and prices climbed at about the same rate.

This was not caused by a shortage of feeder cattle, but by a delay in marketing of fed animals, Rackham says. Since the withholding didn't end suddenly, prices drifted gradually downward during the past summer and have leveled out this fall. But current reports indicate that more fed cattle will reach market from now till the end of the year.

OFFICIAL COUNTY PAPER | KLEMME, IOWA, NOVEMBER 19, 1958 | VOLUME 63 | NUMBER 48

Farmers to Vote Tuesday On Future Corn Program

Corn producers of Hancock County will go to the polls on Tuesday, November 25, to help make the decision on what the corn program will be for 1959 and later years.

The choice is between the present program of acreage allotments and price supports on corn, and a new program in which there would be no acreage allotments and price supports would be determined on a different basis.

A majority vote of corn producers voting here and in the other 931 commercial corn counties of the nation will decide the outcome of the referendum. Anyone who had an interest in the 1958 corn crop in the commercial area, which includes all of Iowa, is eligible to vote.

Voting hours in Hancock County will be from 8 a.m. until 7 p.m. Voting places in Hancock County will be located as follows:

Amsterdam Township, City Hall, Kanawha; Avery Township, Community Hall Basement, Goodell; Bingham Township, Legion Hall, Woden; Boone Township, Brick School House, Stilson; Britt Township, Memorial Building, Britt.

Concord Township, City Hall, Garner; Crystal Township, Meeting Room, Farmers Bank and Trust Co., Crystal Lake; Ell Township, City Hall, Klemme; Ellington Township, Township Hall, Ellington Township; Erin Township, Center School House, Erin Township.

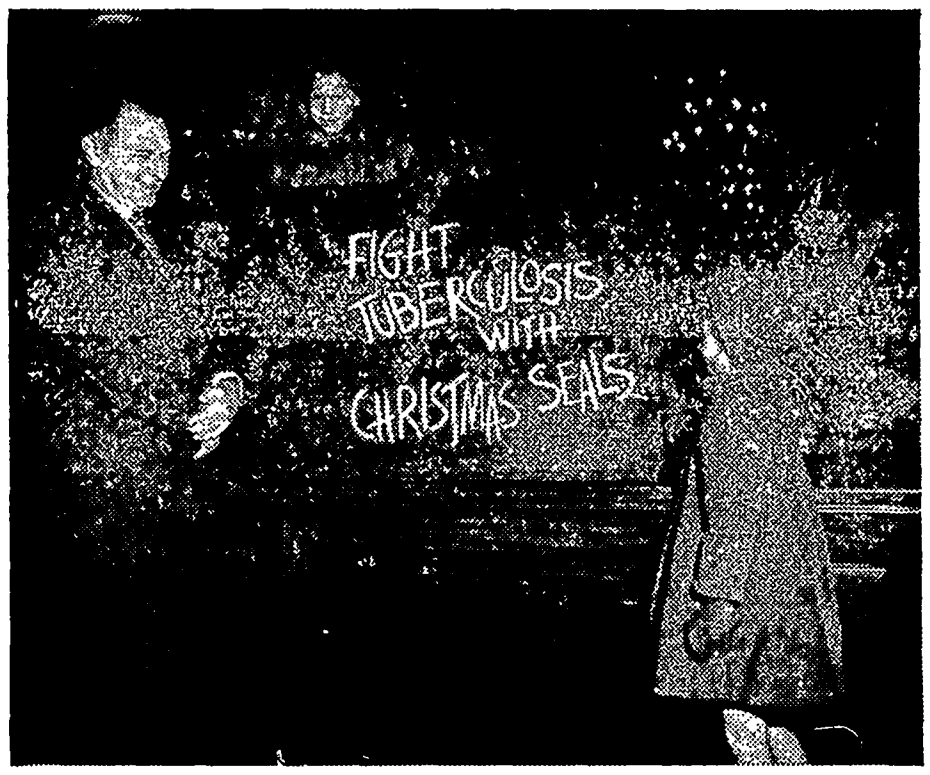
The corn referendum is required under the Agricultural Act of 1958, passed by congress late in the last session. The two programs to be voted on are designated on the ballot as No. 1 and No. 2. Following is an explanation of the two programs:

Program No. 1—This is a new program. There would be no acreage allotments and no designation of a commercial corn area. Price support under this new program would be determined on the basis of 90 per cent of the average price farmers got for corn in the last three years but not less than 65 per cent of parity. It is now estimated that the national support level for 1959 under this program would be about $1.12 to $1.15 per bushel.

If the new program is approved, price supports in proper ballance with corn, would have to be offered each year on the other feed grains (oats, rye, barley, and grain sorghums). Corn compliance would be eliminated as a soil bank, price support, or any other program requirement.

Program No. 2—This is essentially the same program which has been in effect in 1958 and earlier years. Corn acreage allotments would continue in effect for farms in the commercial area. With record corn supplies, allotments would probably drop next year about 15 per cent below 1958 and price support would probably average from $1.24 to $1.27 a bushel—at the bottom of the required 75 to 90 per cent of parity range. Corn acreage allotment compliance would be required for price support and for soil bank eligibility.

County ASC Committee urges all eligible farmers and landlords to vote in Tuesday's referendum. "This is a great opportunity for corn farmers to help make an important decision," they said. "The department of agriculture and the congress are entitled to a real turnout that will result in a representative expression of corn farmers' views."



Pam and Paul Williamson brought Christmas Greetings to Governor Loveless when he signed the proclamation for Christmas Seal Week in Iowa. The youngsters, dressed like the boy and girl on the 1958 Christmas Seal, are the children of Mr. Paul C. Williamson, executive director of the Iowa Tuberculosis and Health Association in Des Moines.

Shamrocks to Open Basketball Season Tuesday at Manly

The Klemme Shamrocks will open their 1958-59 basketball season when they swing into action against Manly in a non-conference game o the Manly floor next Tuesday night, November 25th.

Coach Bill Westberg and his squad have been working hard for some time now and are hoping for a better season than was their's the past year. Bill has not as yet named any starters, but the eleven men on the varsity squad are as follows:

Harlan Meints, the tallest man on the squad, is 6' 5" then there are Roger Meints, 6'; Randall Langlitz and Don Anderson, 5' 11"; Duane Kramer, Gaylon Bridges, and Daryl Brager, 5' 10"; Darrel Schlei and Daryl Kothenbeutel, 5' 7", and Jerry Stokesbary and Bob Thiemann, 5'5".

Although, the team boasts some height, still Coach Westberg thinks that they are probably going to have to depend on speed and shooting ability to score their points.

Following the season opener against Manly, the Shamrocks then go to Garner for a game on Dec. 2. Then they hit their first conference opponent at Rockwell on December 5. First home game will be against Ventura on Dec. 9th.

All home games begin at 7:00 p.m. and admission will be 50 cents for adults and 25 cents for students.

CAPITOL LETTER

(Weekly news release of the Iowa Press Association. The material contained herein does not necessarily conform to the editorial policy of this newspaper.)

Governor's Program

Governor Herschel C Loveless has outlined a program of what he hopes to accomplish during the next two years of his administration. Heading the list is reorganization of state government.

Loveless has announced that he will propose to the next legislature in his "state of the state" message that the solons reorganize state departments along the lines of the "Little Hoover" commission recommendations of 1950. Another objective of Governor Loveless during his next two-year term will be an expanded mental health program with more emphasis on community educational facilities for the mentally retarded.

The governor said he is interested in a change in highway planning, especially on the interstate system. Governor Loveless said he believes the interstate should be completed from one border of the state to the other instead of from "cornfield to cornfield". Loveless said he also favors a change in the road-use-tax formula.

Loveless said he thinks the question of selling liquor-by-the-drink should be put to a vote of the people. The governor also favors placing a long range bonding program to finance buildings and class rooms at the three institutions of higher learning to a vote of the people. The governor said he will work for: expansion of the state parole system, a more rigid school aid program geared to increasing the efficiency of elementary and secondary schools, setting up a student loan or scholarship program in public and private colleges and universities, and greater improvement in the highway safety program.

Reapportionment

Governor Herschel Loveless believes the increase in the number of Democrats in the legislature has improved the chances of reapportionment of the legislature. The new House will be comprised of 58 Republicans as compared with 50 Democrats. Last session Republicans had a 72-36 edge in the lower chamber. On the Senate side the breakdown will be 17 Democrats and 33 Republicans. The 1957 Senate had 10 Democrats and 40 Republicans.

Lovless pointed out that counties with 27 per cent of the state's estimated population presently have more seats in the Iowa house of representatives than do counties with over 70 per cent of the population.

Patrol Meeting

For the first time in more than a decade all members of the Iowa highway patrol were called together for a meeting. The chore of policing Iowa roadways was turned over to county sherriffs as Iowa's 260 man patrol force met at Camp Dodge.

Major topic of discussion at the meeting was the state's campaign to "save 100 lives." The patrol was also briefed on the state's new policy for purchasing gasoline, motor oil, tires and similar items.

Acting Safety Commissioner Russell I Brown told the men that since the people of Iowa apparently don't want to help reach the goal to save 100 lives on the state's highways, we'll have to carry the safety program to them."

Safety Statistics

The department of public safety has reported that more Iowans lost their drivers license in October than in any other month on record. The department suspended or revoked 1,009 licenses during the month. Previous high was 863 in September.

A tabulation by the safety department shows that traffic on Iowa secondary roads is twice as hazardous as on other roads. During the first 10 months of this year over one-third of all motor vehicle deaths were attributed to secondary road accidents. Safety officials pointed out that these county roads carry less than 20 per cent of the Iowa traffic load.

State Salaries

The annual state salary book shows that the governor is 79th on the state's payroll with a salary of $12,500 annually. The last legislature voted to grant $1,000 raises to the governor and other elected officials effective Jan. 1, 1959.

The salary book shows that approximately 2,000 of the estimated 18,000 full time state employees received $6,500 or more each during the fiscal year ending last June 30th. Nearly 400 employees were paid $10,000 or more.

At the top of the salary heap were State University of Iowa president Virgil Hancher and Iowa president James Hilton. Each received $22,000 the past fiscal year. Dr J O Cromwell who became state mental health director last July 1 is now drawing $25,000 a year, highest salary on the state payroll at the present time.

Sports Salaries

The state salary book shows that 20 members of the athletic staffs at the three institutions of higher learning are drawing pay of $8,000 or more annually. At the top of the list is SUI football coach Forest Evashevski with $17,500 followed by athletic director Paul Brechler with $16,500. Some personnel on the athletic departments are paid entirely out of athletic funds while others received state funds or both..

Rose Bowl

Back in 1897 the Iowa legislature designed the Wild Rose as the official state flower. Lawmakers are not the only ones who are partial to roses. The State University of Iowa football team loves the smell of roses—particularly the Rose Bowl variety.

The Hawkeyes downed Minnesota 28-6 at Minneapolis for their fifth straight loop win and the right to represent the Big Ten in the Rose Bowl game on New Year's Day.

Alcoholic Test

Something different has been added to the annual joint session of the county attorneys and sheriffs associations scheduled for Des Moines next week. Several "guinea pigs" will be selected for a demonstration of a method to test a driver for intoxication.

They will be given varying amounts of alcoholic beverages and then presented to the officials at the convention. The officials will be asked to tell how much alcohol each has had. After these evaluations have been made, the "drunks" will be given breath tests by a machine to show the actual alcoholic content in each.

Purpose of the demonstration is to show that what may fool the eye may be detected by machine. The state department of public safety plans to recommend to the next legislature that chemical tests be used to determine intoxication.

ESTHER CIRCLE MEETS

At the November meeting of the Esther Circle it was voted to serve lunch at the farm sale of Mr and Mrs Dorance Day, which is to be held December 8th. We also decided to each give the price of a gift to go into the church building fund rather than to have a Christmas gift exchange.

Our meeting was held the 13th at the home of Miss Leonna Lau. Mrs Frank Schultz was her cohostess. Mrs Lee Ridder was in charge of the lesson. She used "What is Thanksgiving" as her theme.

We had 14 members present. Mrs Verner Lau, Mrs Martha Bredbenner and Wendy Ruter were guests.

The hostesses served lunch after the close of the meeting.

WELL

Greg Jelken, 3 year old from LeMars escaped death recently when he fell down an old well while playing. Fortunately, it was shallow and the boy's mother was able to pull him out without any trouble.

Building a Greater Iowa

Where People Live Longer

Iowa stands second in the nation in percentage of population aged 65 and over . . . a wonderful record, a tribute to our Iowa way of life.

With our agricultural economy we avoid the ups and downs of other areas. Jobs are stable here, hence less worry for people, and a longer, happier life. In both these categories the brewing industry makes a real contribution. It helps stabilize our farm income, buying nationally over $240,000,000.00 worth of farm products every year for brewing purposes. It helps stabilize Iowa's business picture, too, with over $30,000,000.00 a year in Iowa payrolls, and $34,000,000.00 per year in Iowa business expenditures. In this, as in so many other ways we can truly say . . .

. . . the Brewing Industry helps build Iowa

VARIED COLUMN

There was an assembly program last Tuesday entitled "New England Holiday". It was attended by all the grades above second grade.

It seems that Mr Loomis had a little bad luck last Sunday because on the way home from Belmond he ran out of gas. (Better luck next time).

Last Friday, we didn't have any school. Some of the kids went shopping (the Cheerleaders especially), some worked on the farm, and others waited patiently for pheasant season the next day.

The Mixed Chorus sang for the dedication services held last Sunday in the new multi-purpose room.

The Juniors are having a dance, which will be semi-formal, on Friday night, November 21. The admission will be $.35 for singles and $.50 for couples.

Out of the 694 schools in Iowa, Klemme ranks 305th with a high school enrollment of 96 and an Elementary enrollment of 327 making the total enrollment 423. The total enrollment of all the Iowa schools is 518,803.

In Iowa there are 225 consolidated schools, 289 Community schools, 174 Independent schools, and 6 Township schools making the total of 694 schools.

GRADE SCHOOL NEWS

FIRST GRADE

The First Grade have been working hard. They have learned the words house, boy, girl, tree and dog. Besides learning these words they have learned to draw them.

In handwriting we have been writing stories. If they do their best Mrs Johnson puts colored circles on their papers.

Three more dental cards have been returned. They belong to Jackie Kaduce, Randy Helps and Ricky Hartzell. The boys are still ahead of the girls.

THIRD GRADE

In Third Grade they are reading stories about animals. They think it's lots of fun to learn many new things about the different animals.

They're also learning how to add two-place numbers in arithmetic. They like to see how quickly they can add them.

They have been studying and writing reports in Language. Then they read them to the class and enjoyed it very much.

Marcia Kaduce was their birthday queen last week. They all thanked her for the candy bars she brought for them.

F. T. A. Club Formed

A Future Teachers of America Club has been formed in Klemme. There are nine members. They are Cozette Lau, Candace Carlson, Sherryl Clabaugh, Miriam Hartbeck, Linda Jernegan, Linda Waddingham, Vernon Jurgemeyer, Ralph Whitney, and Nancy Guth. Our sponsor is Miss Whitmire.

The first purpose of the F. T. A. is to act as an exploratory program of teaching including the opportunities of the teaching profession and the many areas of teaching.

We have had two meetings on November 3 and 4 during the noon hour. At the first meeting we elected officers. They are President—Cozette Lau, Vice President—Candace Carlson, Secretary—Nancy Guth, Treasurer—Linda Jernigan, and Librarian—Sherryl Claubaugh. It was decided we would have a meeting once a month after school on the first or third Monday.

At the next meeting we will work on a constitution and select standing committees.

A Message from Our Statue of Liberty

"Give me your tired, your poor,
Your buddled masses,
Yearning to breathe free,
The wretched refuse of
Your teeming shore,
Send these, the homeless
Tempest-tossed to me
I lift my lamp beside the golden Door."

What Patriotism Should Mean to the Youth of America—

Patriotism means good citizenship on the part of today's adults and youth. We do not fully understand its meaning for the adults have forgotten the significance of it and the youth were not involved in the two great tragedies of the century. The youth of America were too young to feel the repercussion of the two wars.

Yet, we should try to understand and feel proud of the many soldiers and civilians who gave their lives that we should live in a free world. We have an obligation to them. We would not have the privileges that we now hold dear if those men and women had not given their lives for us.

We can pay tribute to them by honoring the day set aside for them. Because of them we have the priviledges for which this country was founded; the freedom of worship, freedom of press, and the freedom of speech.

This America is a great free country, and if we hold strong the difference between right and wrong the youth of America will have a better place in which to live.

It Can't Be Poured In

Education is not something that is done for a student or to a student. It is no laying on of hands, not putting on of robes, no pouring in of information. Education is what the student does himself in the way of developing his own powers. Teachers can help; so can a curriculum and an atmosphere of devotion to things of the mind. But ultimately the problem is utterly the student's. If he would be an educated man, then he must give his best effort to the arduous, the unpleasing, often discouraging task of discipling his mind to the point where it is an effective mechanism — knowing full well that the trained mind is the most powerful instrument in the whole world.

Charles W. Cole,
President of Amherst College
in SCHOOLS AND SOCIETY,
April 12, 1958.

Steady Hall

Now that we have received our report cards for the first nine-weeks of school many people are wondering, "How does it happen that my son or daughter didn't get on the honor roll or how does it happen that they received such poor grades." The answer to these problems lie in study hall. Many of us abuse study hall as a getting together place to talk, sleep or just stare out the window.

If you really would like better grades for the next nine-weeks try to make study hall a steady hall. If you use your time well, have good study habits and put a little emphasis on studying you should receive better grades in school.

Now that we seniors are in the last year of high school we realize that during the first few years of high school we tried to get grades just high enough to keep us in good standing with the teacher, but now we realize that we should have studied harder and longer than we did. So during our last year of school we are trying to make up for it but if we had studied all through high school we would be better off. In short the reason for this little item is to illustrate that you will be a lot better off in the long run if you study all the way than to just go sort of bouncing around.

Students Selected For Speaking Contest

As a part of its advertising program, the Iowa Tuberculosis and Health Association sponsers a radio speaking contest each year. It consists of a local contest in which one speaker is chosen for each of these divisions: The Christsmas Seal Story; Tuberculosis, A Research Story; and The Inside Story about TB. Scripts were written by James Bock, Virginia Kudje, Cozette Lau, and Jerry LaFavre. The scripts selected from each school are sent in to be approved by the State Tuberculosis Department. The scripts written by Virginia Kudje, Cozette Lau, and Jerry LaFavre were sent in and approved by the department. They will be broadcast on December 6th from Algona.

Highway Story

By Bob Hullihan

Seeing the entire highway patrol gathered at Camp Dodge recently was an impressive sight—and a reminder that Iowa has a group of boys to be proud of besides the University of Iowa football team.

The number of sharp, young officers on the force was encouraging, and the sight of the 270 officers and exeminers all in one group was reassuring.

But the whole picture changed abruptly when we did a little simple arithmetic, and the force of patrolmen began to look like like a boy scout troop lost on a huge prairie.

The arithmetic was to divide the patrol into Iowa, its roads, cars and people. The results should shake up anyone who may have felt the comforting arm of the highway patrol is always close by. Here's how it goes:

First, subtract the 25 patrolmen who are full-time license examiners, the supervisory and administrative officers, and the officers on leave or ill. At the most, this leaves you with 200 men for road patrol. Divide that force into two duty shifts and you come up with a maximum of 100 men on duty at any one time. Actually, the patrol is seldom able to muster a shift that large. Now start dividing.

Based on that 100-man shift, you find that Iowa has one patrolman on duty for each 90 miles of primary highway, each 900 miles of secondary roads, each 12,300 vehicles, and each 20,000 drivers. That's why the safety department is asking for 150 more patrolmen.

Farm Tips

from your

Extension Director

A soil test will tell you if your established grass-legume stands need a fertilizer top-dressing this fall, says George Hawkins of the Iowa State College soil testing laboratory. Grass-legume stands that did not get enough fertilizer at seeding time, or stands on low fertility fields, will give good responses to fertilizer to-dressing, says Hawkins. A soil test will answer the questions, "What Kinds?", and "Hw Much?" fertilizer to apply.

If you have no other water supply available, keep two or three barrels full of water in centrally located area for fire protection purposes, says Farm Safety Specialist Norval Wardle, Iowa State College. To keep the water from freezing, add anti-freeze—2 pounds of calcium chloride per gallon of water.

Will excessive amounts of leaves cause damage as compost? Horticulturist A E Cott of Iowa State College says: For "town" gardeners leaves are an excellent sorce or organis matter and should never be burned. It is hard to turn under too many leaves if the proper amount of nitrogen fertilizer is used with leaves and turned under in the fall. Use 25 to 30 pounds of 10 per cent nitrogen in a complete commercial fertilizer per 1000 square feet. When composting, leaves should decompose for a year to give best results as a source of organic matter for flowers and vegetables.

Leaves that are left on a lawn mey harm the growth of bluegrass next year. Horticulturist Cott says: In many cases a heavy accumulation of leaves may cause smothering in bluegrass and could kill or damage the stand. It is best to rake leaves or to spread them out, using a mulcher. Sometimes heavy accumulations of leaves will damage grass even after using a mulcher if the thick cover of pulverized leaves is not scattered.

Feeder cattle prices: Economist Francis Kutish of Iowa State College says: Not much change is likely in the feeder cattle market in the next 2 months, unless the weather stays dry in the wheat area. In that case, some cattle might move so that prices would weaken.

Early Sunsets of Fall Make for Dangerous Conditions for Drivers

The early sunsets of late fall and winter should be recognized as an additional traffic safety hazard of the season, the state safety department warned today.

"The sun is low in the west these days right at the time thousands of Iowans are driving home from work," said Frank Ulish safety education director.

"With crowds of motorists driving against this blinding glare, the chances of pedestrian accidents, and intersection traffic accidents are greatly increased," Ulish warned.

He warned pedestrians to be especially cautious crossing streets and roads in front of westbound traffic, and advised drivers to be wary in pulling out of parking places into traffic moving west.

"Just don't assume that the approaching driver can see you against the setting sun," Ulish said.

He added a special warning to all drivers to watch for slow moving farm machinery on primary highways and secondary roads.

"Your best protection is reduced speed, especially early evening," he said. "Every time you come over a hill or come around a curve, imagine that a piece of farm equipment may be just ahead.

"Have your car under control at all times," Ulish said. "Be prepared to stop in time."

ATTEST:

By Paul Henderson
County Extension Director

The lowly hamburger has come up fast in the world this year, at least as far as price is concerned, says Francis Kutish, Iowa State College farm economist.

Kutish notes that, contrary to the 1957 price pattern, the price of hamburger has risen faster than choice steak prices in Midwest butcher shops.

The reason for the price trend reverse is that the cattle cycle has switched from its reduction phase to its expansion phase, Kutish says. This means that cattle feeders are holding back their animals instead of liquidating stocks as they were last year. The cattle being held back are cows and calves. This results in high prices on the canner animals which "wind up" as hamburger.

Although cow slaughter is down from last year, fed cattle slaughter is ahead of a year ago, Kutish says. But the holdback of cows is large enough that 1958 will see the addition of 2 or 3 million head to total cattle numbers, Kutish believes. Last year, when the cattle cycle was in its reduction phase, cattle numbers were cut by a half-million head.

LIBERTY BUSY BEES 4-H

There should be less dust in the air since the Liberty Busy Bees have seen a demonstration on two kinds of dusting mitts and treating them. This was given by Kathleen Upmeyer and Mary Kay Kern. An illustrated talk on "The Cleaning Kit", was given by Nancy Hueneman and an illustrated talk was given on "Making a Floor Plan" by Florence Grieman.

It was decided to have the annual Christmas party with the boy's club and families on Saturday evening, December 13. The card committee for this year is Phylis Barkema and LaDonna Grieman. The music committee will be Joyce Hueneman, Marsha Erdman and Kathy Gast.

$45.00 was collected in Liberty Township for the Crippled Children's Fund.

The girls were all in favor of having club rules printed in the program book this year.

We have been invited by the Twin Lake Girls to go by chartered bus to Des Moines to visit several places of interest which would help us with our Home Furnishing work this year.

Each girl was given a personality chart which she is to complete.

Miss Van Wert was a guest at our meeting and she explained about the reading club to us. We have 15 girls interested in reading this year.

The meeting was held at the home of Nancy Farquhar on Saturday, November 15.

Fall Fertilizer Plow-Down Beats Spring Disking, Says Extension Director

Fall Fertilizer Plow-down Beats Spring Disking, says Henderson.

It's better to plow under fertilizer for corn now than to wait until next spring to broadcast and disk it in, says County Extension Director Paul Henderson of Garner.

Henderson reports Joe Stritzel, Iowa State College Agronomist, says recent experiments showed that needed nitrogen, phosphorus and — or potassium plowed under resulted in corn yield increases equal to and in some cases better than spring applications of the same nutrients disked in. The superior results are due primarily to deeper placement of the phosphate fraction of the fertilizers applied, Stritzel says.

In all cases, says Stritzel, remember that the plow-down amounts are not intended to replace the row fertilizer which should be applied at planting time next spring.

The amounts you should plow under depend on the nutrient needs indicated by good soil tests. If soil tests are not available, the agronomist suggests you see your county extension director for the general fertilizer guide for your area.

Brother of Local Teacher Killed In Car Crash Friday

Services were held Tuesday afternoon for Delmar Bredlow, 20, of Swaledale, brother of Mrs Roger Johnson, teacher in the local school.

Delmar, who was born here, was killed in a car crash Friday. He had many relatives in this community and the family is well known here.

Services were held from the Methodist Church in Swaledale with the Rev Paul Hansen officiating. Interment was in the Ell Township Cemetery here.

Osman Funeral Service was in charge of the arrangements.

Obituary

Delmar Gene Bredlow, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Bredlow, was born May 7, 1938, at Klemme, Iowa. At the age of seven months, he moved with his parents to Ingram, Wisconsin. He began his schooling there and continued through the second grade.

In March, 1946, the family moved to a farm near Swaledale, Iowa. He continued his schooling at Swaledale and was graduated with the class of 1957. He played on the basketball team.

Since graduation he has been at home and worked at various jobs in the community.

He was baptized in infancy by his uncle, the Rev. William Suckow. In June, 1952, he became a member of the Methodist Church in Swaledale where he was active in MYF.

He passed away on November 21, 1958.

He leaves to mourn his untimely passing, his father and mother; two brothers, Duane and Dennis; four sisters, Nola (Mrs. Roger Johnson), Letha (Mrs. Keith Markwardt), Myra, and Velma; one grandmother, Mrs. Gustaf Carlson; one niece, Denice; one nephew, David; and a host of aunts, uncles, and other relatives and friends.

An ever improving technology is allowing us better and better harvests each year, and more and more of the material things of the world. We hope that these benevolences will not blind us to the reality that prompted our Pilgrim forefathers to prepare a feast before God and thank him for the gift of life and the opportunity to look forward to better things. And we hope these better things will be not only for ourselves, but for our children, and for all the people of the world . . . regardless of race, color, or creed.

CORRECTION

In last week's issue of The Times there was a story concerning the November meeting of the Klemme Grandmothers Club. It was erroneously stated in the story that Mrs John Etchen had been appointed by the national officers as a state officer. Mrs Albert Etchen is the local member whose name should have been used.

County Band Festival Will Be Dec. 8 at Britt

The 1958 Hancock County Band Festival will be held at the Britt Community High School during the afternoon and evening of December 8.

This annual event brings together all of the instrumental musicians of the high schools of this county under the leadership of guest director, Dr William Latham, professor, Iowa State Teachers College, Cedar Falls.

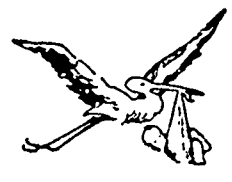
Plans for the festival were started early this summer and have been completed as of early this month. The program of activities includes rehearsals of a massed band of all high school band members under the direction of each of the school band directors and the guest director; and rehearsal of a select band to be under the direction of Dr Latham; and a public concert by both bands in the evening in the high school auditorium.

The purpose of such a festival is to afford each and every band member in the county a chance to hear and try new ideas and methods in performing on musical instruments under the leadership of a foremost teacher, composer, conductor such as Dr Latham.

All music to be used in the festival is purchased by each of the participating schools and rehearsed at home before the festival day so as to allow the guest clinician a maximum amount of time in which to work with the students.

The festival each year is sponsored by the Hancock County Schoolmasters Club. The schools participating this year and their director's are: Crystal Lake-Woden, Lester Bundy; Garner, John Colson; Hayfield, Joseph Westby; Kanawha, John Kassler; Klemme, Charles Whitford; and Britt, Dick G Weed.

Stork Club



Mr and Mrs Byron Stromer are the proud parents of a son born Wednesday, November 19, at the Belmond Community Hospital. He weighed eight pounds, fourteen and one half ounces and has been named Douglas Verner. Grandpa and Grandma Verner Stromer are quite elated over their first grandchild.

Joyce Thiemann Writes Fine Essay on Mentally Retarded Children

Joyce Thiemann, daughter of Mr and Mrs Edwin Thiemann, has written a fine essay on the problems of mental retardation. The essay won for Joyce, first place and a five dollar prize in a competition in Hancock and Winnebago Counties. It was also good enough to earn a tie for first place in a state-wide competition.

National Retarded Children's Week is now with us, and will be until November 27 (Thanksgiving Day). In order to further the cause of the mentally retarded during this special week, Joyce has given her permission for us to reprint her prize-winning essay.

We think that the essay shows a lot of thought and research on Joyce's part, and we feel sure that your time in reading it will be well spent.

THEY ARE PEOPLE

Mental retardation is a condition, not a disease. Many people consider mental retardation and mental illness as the same thing, but it would be better to consider mental deficiency a crippling condition (like the loss of a limb which cannot be cured), whereas mental illness is a disease (like pneumonia which can be cured). The minds of the mentally retarded will never fully develop, whereas those who are mentally ill once had sound minds.

Many times children are thought to be mentally retarded when they really are not. Sometimes, a child has a hearing difficulty and cannot distinguish between similar words therefore, he cannot respond correctly to the parent. If a child cannot speak distinctly his parents may also think he is retarded. Sometimes a child cannot see from both eyes and runs into chairs or tables when he is walking. This will also cause some parents to think their child is retarded.

There are at least seventy known or suspected diseases or accidents, dating back to before birth, during birth or early childhood, which may cause mental retardation. Some of these causes are: Before birth; German measles, certain glandular disorders, or chemical poisons during pregnacy. During birth; long and difficult labor, abnormal position of the baby before birth, or difficult delivery. After birth; Certain children's diseases or a severe blow on the head.

Some people believe that mental retardation is inherited. This is not true in the sense that we understand "inherited". Some scientists do believe, though, that just by chance some combination of the genes of both the mother and the father may cause a defect in that certain child. According to this a retarded child, or an extremely bright child, can be born to almost any parents.

For most of the mentally retarded there is no cure. We know of no way to replace brain cells that have been injured or have not developed, but there are ways to help prevent it. When difficult labor is indicated in childbirth, doctors turn to Caesarian section. Blood transfusions fight against Rh problems. There are also techniques for relieving pressure on the brain from blood clots. These are just some of the measures which have been taken to help prevent mental retardation.

All of the mentally retarded, which includes three per cent of our population, fall into three classes; the "educable retarded", the "trainable", and the "custodial" or "dependent". The "educable retarded" have an IQ rating between 50 and 70. This group can benefit from specially designed classes set up for them. By the time they are sixteen or seventeen, they can have learned up to fifth or sixth grade subject matter. This is the largest group of the three classes of retarded.

The next group, the "trainable" or "semi-dependent", can never learn to read or write, or work any arithmetic, but they can learn self-care, how to get along with others, and, to some extent, their usefulness to others. This group has an IQ rating anywhere between 25 and 50. At maturity these children will reach a mental age of between three and seven.

The "custodial" or "totally-dependent" will always need help in dressing, eating, toilet care, walking, and other simple acts. They cannot benefit from special programs, and quite often have a physical handicap as well as the mental handicap. At maturity, this group will reach the mental age of about a three-year old child.

One group of retarded, are the "Mongoloid", A "Mongoloid" is a retarded person who has slant eyes, a broad, flat face, coarse features, a thick tongue, stubby fingers, and short arms and legs. These are all characteristics of the Mongolians of Asia; therefore, these retarded children get the name "Mongoloid". The Mongoloid is not characteristic of all mentally retarded children as some may be very pretty and attractive.

Regardless of cause and degree of handicap the retarded present one common characteristic—the need for special help during all or part of their lives in the struggle for survival. These children will need love and care, just as the normal child, but will require more affection, protection, and special services throughout all of their lives.

Many parents feel guilty or are ashamed when they have a retarded child, which is unfair to both of them as it is not a fault of either one. Almost all families which have a retarded child have normal, sometimes superior, children as well. The shock of a husband and wife finding out that their child is mentally retarded has sometimes broken up a marriage, but it need not. In some cases it has strengthened the ties of the family. The normal children will have to give up some things because of their brother or sister, and since this will teach unselfishness, it should bring the family closer together.

A small number of children who are retarded in intellectual areas have talents in other fields. They often have a tremendous appreciation for music and some can be great performers. Others can do beautiful work with paints and water colors, clay, or weaving. This not only creates something which others may enjoy, but adds to the child a sense of achievement and satisfaction as a person.

It is often a great problem to parents of a retarded child to decide whether he would be better off at a school especially for the retarded or at home where the parents can care for him. There is no one answer which can apply to all families. When thinking of this problem, there are several things to consider, such as: the type of handicap, the physical and mental health of the family, the family's situation economically, whether there are community facilities to take care of the retarded, and the acceptance or refusal of the community to accept the child.

Since there is no cure or preventative for mental retardation, we must remember that it IS a condition, NOT a disease and that these certain children need just as much, if not more, love, attention, understanding, and protection as normal children. And remember, they are people!

GRADE SCHOOL NEWS

First Grade News

Over half of our class has returned its dental cards. Grant Shafer has returned his card making a total of 12 cards returned so far this school year. There are 4 girls and 7 boys left to return their cards. Several of us plan to visit the dentist soon.

We are enjoying our unit about the home. We are taking turns playing in the playhouse which we have constructed in one corner of our room. Many of us brought things for our playhouse and we like to dress up like mothers and fathers in our dress up clothes.

We feel very proud of ourselves because we have started to read our first hard covered book "Fun With Dick and Jane". We have finished three paper covered books already which were "We Look and See", "We Work and Play", and "We Come and Go". We have new workbooks to go with our new books.

Mrs Wessels

Third Grade News

We have celebrated two more birthdays in our room. Rebecca treated us to frost sticks. David's mother and sister visited our room and brought frost sticks for David's birthday treat.

We painted milkweed pods and sprayed sorghum tops. Peggy brought some wild rice. Now we have two pretty winter bouquets.

In social studies we are learning about different materials. We are collecting different kinds for display on our bulletin board.

In health we have learned that good posture in standing, walking, and sitting is necessary for good health.

We finished our unit on reports in Language. We had some interesting oral and written reports.

In arithmetic we learned the coins in our money system, as well as their values. We learned how to read and write money numbers.

Our dental dog is growing longer. We have 9 dental cards returned.

Fifth Grade News

In social studies we are making a mural for Thanksgiving. We drew pictures of Puritan punishment.

For reading we are telling book reports. Some of them were "The Treasure in the Little Trunk", "Pixie on the Post Road", "Three Without Fear", "Here's a Penny", "Jumping Johnny", "The Four Story Mistake", "The Saturdays" and others.

In language we had a unit test, now we are starting unit 4 on stories.

The boys and girls on the honor roll for the first nine weeks were Nancy Blau, Allyn Boelman, Lynette Buseman, Anita Gerardi, Margaret Johnson, Janelle Lau, Billy Meyers, Cynthia Nuehring, Valinda Pearson, Audrey Schoenwetter and Craig Watne.

VARIED COLUMN

Are you a squeer? Chances are, most of you probably don't know what a squeer is because Jane Renner just invented the word several days ago. A squeer is a person who is a cross between a square and a queer—squeer?

Last Thursday was a day of great sorrowing among the Klemme students. The teachers had to go to a meeting at Britt so school was let out at 1:45 P.M.

The seniors of Hancock County were invited to "court day" last Thursday at Garner. The object was to find out how a court is conducted and to learn the different things that take place.

Mr Neary, what were you doing with your socks on inside out the other day in Government class?

The most popular boy in the freshman class is Bill McCullough when it comes to finding out the right answers for algebra.

If repetition is one of the best ways of learning, we students should begin to try to keep our lunch room and the floors of the school clean of crumbs and paper. It looks very messy and doesn't look as though we appreciate our fine lunch room. Many schools do not have a lunch room as nice as ours, so we should learn to keep it clean.

Klemme School has reached the top in their originality—icicles growing out of the ground. The lawn by the new addition was being sprayed the other day. At night the water was not shut off. The weather got very cold that night and the water froze to the grass making icicles growing up from the ground.

Have you ever run into a fire hydrant? If not, consult Joyce Thiemann to find out how it feels. Garner was quite nice to invite the Seniors to court day, but apparently Joyce didn't think so because she tried to knock over one of their fire hydrants by running into it. The fire hydrant did more damage to her than she did to it.

The students going out for the declamation contest have been trying to decide which declam they want to speak for the contest.

The prospects for our basketball team are looking dimmer all the time. Dwayne Kramer broke his arm Thursday night at practice and Daryl Schlei had an attack of appendicitis.

THANKSGIVING

Relatives come from far and near
To help celebrate Thanksgiving each year.
They gather together and eat their fill.
Poor host, he has to pay the bill.

Thanksgiving is supposed to be a happy day,
Funny Mister Turkey doesn't find of it that way.
I think he would just as soon skip it each year,
Even though the day brings many people cheer.

Now that I am out for sports,
Some days of mine are very short.
To bed at nine is a very strict rule,
Which I can't always keep because of work from school.
But when I take part in a basketball game,
I think it's worth all my time and pain.

THANKSGIVING

Thanksgiving is a day
When children come to play.

The old folks sit around and eat
Because they think its a treat.

The old folks talk with all their might
And finally end up in a fight.

The children want nothing but pie
Because otherwise they'll think they will die.

Grandpa comes with the rest of the clan
And all they do is shake hands.

But when the day has past
Another Thanksgiving is over at last.

Prayer Of Thanksgiving

Dear Lord, We thank Thee for the countless blessings which Thou has so graciously given to us in this year of 1958.

We thank Thee for the freedoms of religion, press, speech, and others which a democracy gives us.

We are grateful also for the plentiful harvest, which Thou hast so lovingly given us.

As we gather around the table at dinnertime on Thanksgiving Day, may we never forget that Thou art the real Maker, Giver, and Taker of all things.

This we ask in our Savior's name. Amen.

Cheryl Eichorn

Our Heritage

Thanksgiving Day is truly a great American heritage. Although harvest festivals have been known since time began, Thanksgiving Day is a pure American custom. Thanksgiving is a day set aside each year for people to give thanks with feasting and prayer for the blessings they have received during the year.

The first Thanksgiving was observed in Plymouth Colony in December, 1621. The pilgrims, with Indians as their guests, set aside a day of prayer and feasting to show their graditude for being alive and in the new land.

The custom of a Thanksgiving Day spread to other colonies, and during the Revolutionary War the Continental Congress appointed December 18, 1777 to be observed as a day of thanksgiving. During the first year of his office in 1789 President George Washington issued a proclamation recommending that November 26 be kept as a day of national thanksgiving. The custom of a Thanksgiving Day gradually spread from the New England states to other states. In 1863 President Lincoln issued a proclamation in which he set aside the last Thursday in November as a day of national thanksgiving.

Until 1939, each succeeding president had followed Lincoln's example, but in that year Franklin D Roosevelt, desiring to lengthen the time between Thanksgiving and Christmas, named the next to last Thursday in November as Thanksgiving.

In December 1941, Congress passed a resolution making the fourth Thursday in November a legal holiday.

This year Thanksgiving falls on November 27. It is my sincere wish that sometime during this day we all take time out to think about and be thankful for the many blessings we have received this year.

Melva Johnson

As a pedestrian stepped off the the curb, a huge St Bernard dog knocked him down. Before he had a chance to get up, a tiny foreign car ran over him. A passer-by rushed to help him up and anxiously asked if he had been hurt.

"I didn't mind being grounded by the dog," the man answered, "but that tin can tied to his tail nearly killed me!"

Television will never replace the newspaper. If you don't believe it, try swatting a fly with a TV set.

The First Thanksgiving

The first American Thanksgiving Day was celebrated during the second year that the colonists of Plymouth were in the New World. The first winter that was spent in Massachusetts was dreadful because of the death of half of the colonists. The summer brought new hope as the corn harvest was plentiful. Governor William Bradford set December 13, 1621, aside for feasting and praying to show the gratitude of the colonists that they were still alive.

The women of the colony spent many days preparing the food which was boiled, baked, and roasted. Even the children were kept busy turning the wild turkeys on spits. The Indians who came to the feast brought wild turkeys and venison as their share.

The tables were set outside where all of the people sat around them like one big family.. Three days were spent in feasting and praying. Prayers and songs of praises were an important part of the feast.

Janet Lange

Thanksgiving Day

Thanksgiving Day is almost here,
When people come from far and near,
To thank God for the food that we share,
And help those with cupboards so bare.

The turkey is out of the oven—so brown,
With cranberries, red and ripe and round.
Pumpkin pie with all its spice
Makes the table look so nice.

The smell of hot buns is in the air.
We know we all will get our share.
Yams, squash, and potatoes baked,
And also a tall frosted cake.

Now it is time for us to part,
Let's all hope our cars will start!

AVERY YOUNG FARMERS

The Avery Young Farmers held their regular meeting at the home of Kenton and Lynn Stille. They had one new member join the 4-H club. He was Jerry Steenblock. The members answered roll call by naming a tractor and they had a perfect attendance of eighteen members. Names were drawn for the Christmas Party and it was decided how much should be spent for presents. Members are to answer roll call for the next meeting by naming a bird. Lynn Stille led a discussion on "Find the Hazards."

The next meeting will be held at the home of Bill Arnold on December 10.

Local Couples Honored for Chick Raising

Mr and Mrs Paul Thiemann and Mr and Mrs Luvern Statdlander have won membership in a national chick-raising honor club sponsored by the Moorman Manufacturing Company, Quincy, Illinios.

They were among members of the feed company's fourth-annual "Beat the Experts" Chick-Raising Club in 18 states announced this week.

Each winner raised chicks to 8 weeks of age with an average of not more than 2½ pounds total feed per pound of body weight.

The national average is 4 pounds of feed. Poultry experts say that 3 pounds is good and that 2½ pounds is outstanding.

Winners' superior care, feeding and management of their chicks enabled them to "beat the experts."

The first snow of the season fell here Sunday afternoon and evening. Although it was very light and was gone by mid-morning Monday, still it served notice of things to come.

BURIED

Fred Hurst of Redfield recently escaped death when he was buried in a sewer ditch cave-in in Omaha. The 11 foot ditch caved in covering him with tons of dirt. He fell in a crouched position with his arms over his head and in that manner made a little air pocket which kept him alive. His head was covered for 25 minutes and it was another hour before his fellow workmen could get him out.

CARROT

Cal Belcher of Storm Lake recently displayed a freak carrot he dug out of his garden. The carrot was all white, instead of the conventional carrot color, and had divided roots.

Weather Favorable For Fall Road Work

Favorable fall weather has enabled contractors to complete road construction and improvement in Hancock county and less work will be carried over than in former years according to County Engineer Charles K Paulson. Only two bridges and a graveling contract are in progress at this time. The Combs Construction Co. of Mason City is building two bridges, one near the Limestone quarry in Liberty township and the second on the west line of section 18 in Madison township. These will be completed according to Paulson. Some gravel surfacing and resurfacing may be carried over if bad weather sets in. All grading projects have been completed.

THE FARM OUTLOOK

By Paul Henderson
County Extension Director

Annual increases in the quantity of government-held corn show vividly how the current feed grain program has failed to prevent accumulation of corn surpluses in USDA hands, says Francis Kutish, Iowa State College farm economist.

Kutish points out that Commodity Credit Corporation (CCC) corn holdings climbed from 602 million bushels in the summer of 1956, to more than 1.1 billion bushels by the end of 1957. And, he says, CCC holdings will be about 1.3 billion bushels by the end of 1958, after old corn has been taken over. By the end of next year, Kutish figures the CCC will own between 1.5 and 1.7 billion bushels of corn. And it will have a hard time getting rid of its corn surpluses,, since more feed grains have been produced this year than livestock can use, Kutish says. This year's corn crop was about 38 million bushels larger than last year, and oats, grain sorghum and barley crops were larger, too.

The current let-up in cattle marketings can be traced to western ranges, Kutish says. Cattle receipts at western auctions are declining, as more than usual numbers of cattle have been sold directly from the ranch this fall or were contracted earlier. In addition, more calves have been held back to use up fall grass and surplus hay in the range area, he notes.

Bad weather could move some of these calves to market. But many won't move until winter, and this means range-calf marketings will be spread out this year. Thus, there is less chance of a break in calf prices this fall, Kutish says.

Highway Story

By Bob Hullihan

It shouldn't be difficult to find things for which to be thankful in this rich land and time but, in case you're having trouble, may we suggest:

Be thankful that you didn't kill a child the last time you forgot yourself and drove much too fast down that residential street.

Be thankful that you didn't hit the aged man who stood bewildered in the dark street while you swerved away just in time. Driving too fast again, weren't you?

Be thankful that you've never met a car or truck in that quiet intersection where you habitually slip through the stop sign. We hope your luck holds out.

Be thankful there wasn't another car approaching that time you had to pull out to avoid crashing when the car ahead slowed suddenly for a turn. You were following much too closely—and driving much too fast.

Be thankful that you finally came to your senses that time you got mad at another driver and passed him just so you could cut in sharply and show your feelings. Silly, wasn't it?

And, be thankful you decided not to pass on that hill when you were following that truck at such a slow speed. You and the car that came flashing down the grade would have crashed head-on.

Be thankful you've been so lucky so many times, but decide now to depend on skill and judgement to bring you through to next Thanksgiving Day.

Mrs Fred Gebken of Burt caught a 14 lb. Northern in a Minnesota lake recently. The fish was 34 inches long.

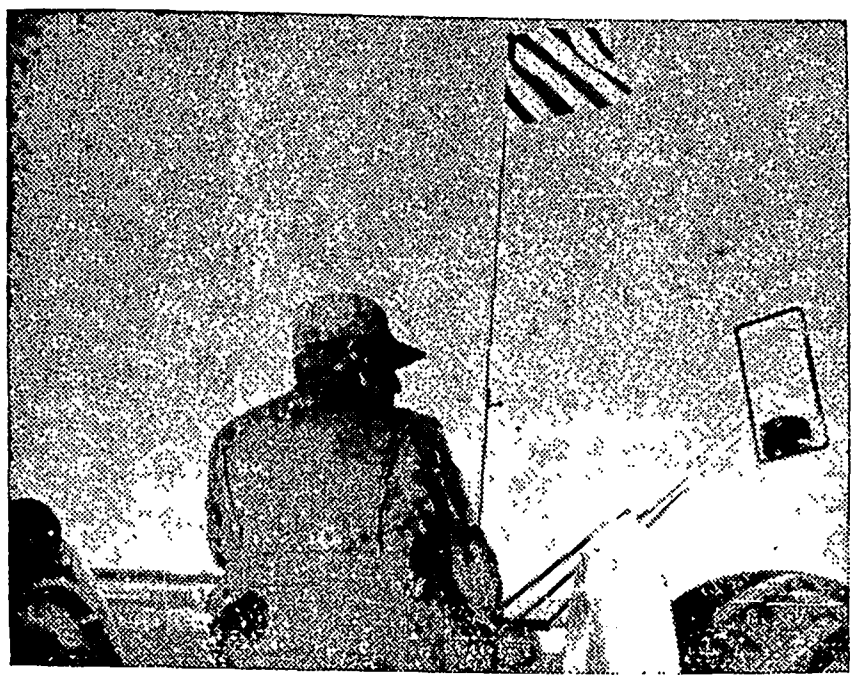
Researchers Find Rear View Mirror Big Factor in Highway Tractor Safety



Note tail light on left-hand tractor fender, adjustable rearview mirror and red-and-white stripped warning flag on tractor.

This is another "first" announcement of Iowa State College research information in your hometown weekly newspaper. The information is provided by County Extension Director Paul Henderson of Garner.

A rear-view mirror mounted on the tactor reduced the hazard of tractor driving on the highway even more than a warning flag in Iowa State College tests last spring and summer.

Agricultural Engineer Norval Wardle, farm safety specialist, announced last month this safety research also showed that the warning flags can be improved by making them with diagonal strips of red and white. This design was easier to see than any other color or combination of colors.

Wardle believes adequate highway safety devices on all tractors can practically eliminate highway tractor accidents. These highway tractor accidents took 23 lives in Iowa last year.

Wardle says the value of safety equipment is demonstrated by the fact that there has never been a highway collision in Iowa involving a tractor flying a warning flag. This is in spite of the fact that flags flown in the past have not been as readily seen under all conditions as the red and white-striped flags.

On the basis of the 1958 tests on several types of Iowa highways and rural roads, Wardle says, safety equipment for the tractor should include;

1. A taillight mounted on the back of a fender. (Notice the taillight on the left fender of the tractor pictured above.)

2. A warning flag with diagonal strips of white and red about 1½ inches wide. The flag should be 9 by 12 inches to 12 by 16 inches in size. It should be of relatively light-weight material and should be mounted so it flies at a height of 8 to 10 feet above the road surface.

3. A rear-view mirror. This should be at least 6 inches by 12 inches in size, the research shows. Wardle said the best mirror is adjustable up and down and from side to side.

Engineering students under Wardle's direction designed the adjustable mirror shown in the picture above. It can be mounted firmly on the tractor, can be adjusted so it is positioned anywhere within a 120 degree arc, raised to a position above the driver's line of forward vision or at the side and below the level of the steering wheel.

Wardle pointed out the mirror is valuable for non-highway use too. It enables the driver to keep an eye on the plow or other tractor-drawn equipment behind him. It also warns him if a child steps behind his machine as he starts to back up.

Wardle said tail lights are installed on tractors at the factory now by most manufacturers. Light steel flag staffs for mounting on tractors have been in commercial production for several years at an Iowa factory.

The adjustable mirror designed by the Iowa agricultural engineers is being tested now at an appliance factory and is being given working trials at the Iowa agricultural engineering research farm south of Ames. These final tests, Wardle said, are to assure greatest possible convenience in typical farm operations.

What's behind the big switch to FORD?

These specific common sense features are the big reasons why Ford is the best seller:

1 Six passengers, not just four, ride in comfort. Yes, even the man in the middle, because Ford's full-depth seats are extra thick all the way across.

2 The doors are wider for easier entry. Compared with Ford's major competitor, they open wider . . . and have convenient two-stage front door checks.

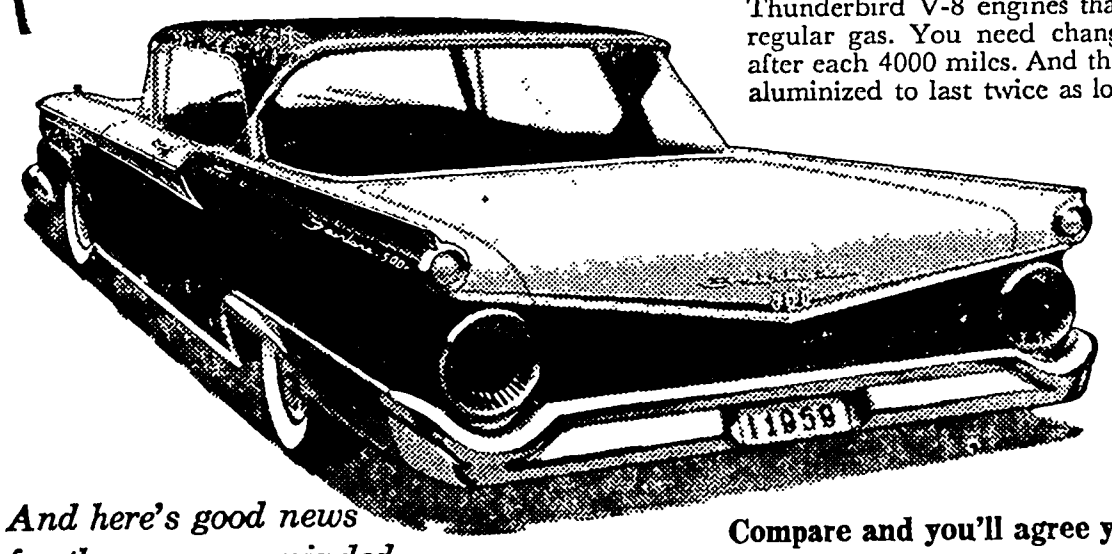
3 Ford's styling is sensible. It's clean and simple like the Thunderbird. No useless frills or wings that are easy to dent.

4 Ford's frame surrounds you with safety. In its field, only Ford has a wide-base frame that seats all passengers within the protection of its husky side rails.

5 Ford's spacious luggage compartment is easier to load and unload. High rear trunk wall on Ford's nearest competitor makes loading and unloading difficult.

6 Ford's got the most sound and weather insulation. The most everywhere. No other low-priced car compares.

7 Ford is economical. You save up to a dollar a tankful with standard Six or Thunderbird V-8 engines that thrive on regular gas. You need change oil only after each 4000 miles. And the muffler is aluminized to last twice as long as ever.



And here's good news for the economy minded . . .
With all these exclusives, and with the usual optional equipment, Ford prices are as much as $100 lower* than the nearest major competitor
Based on comparison of manufacturers' suggested retail delivered prices*
F.D.A.F.

Compare and you'll agree you never had it so beautiful . . . so sensible . . . and yet so Thrifty!
